INFORMATION.

1. The year is divided into three terms; the first from Oct. 1 to Dec. 21; the second from January 7th to April 7th; the third from May 1st to the Fourth Wednesday in July.

2. The Annual Examinations before the Board of Superintendents commence on the third Wednesday in July.

3. No charge is made for Tuition. Board and furnished rooms may be obtained in private families at two or three dollars per week.

4. On Saturday and Wednesday of each week there are delivered, by members of the Senior and Middle Classes, written discourses. Their arrangement, style and delivery subject to the criticism of the Students and a President member of the Faculty.

5. Suitable time for preparation having elapsed, the members of the Junior Class preach weekly in alphabetical order; their sermons subject to criticism from their class-mates and the Professor of Pastoral Theology.

6. A Library of eight to ten thousand volumes, well selected, and valuable in a high degree, offers peculiar advantages to all connected with the Institution.

7. Applicants for admission who have not pursued a regular collegiate course of study, must exhibit satisfactory evidence of attainments which shall be deemed equivalent to a liberal education.

8. Connected with the Seminary are a "Society of Inquiry on the subject of Missions," and "Literary and Theological Associations," severally conducted with much interest and profit. Among the advantages of the former is a regular correspondence with similar Associations in other States, and with some of her own Alumni, now Missionaries in the field. The exercises of the latter are important, varied, and eminently calculated not only to elevate the standard of pulpit eloquence, but to develope and adapt for progressive usefulness the powers of the mind.

9. A large collection of curiosities sent by our Missionaries from heathen lands has laid the foundation of an interesting and instructive Museum. The nucleus of a library of works relating to the subject of Missions has also been formed.
