

WEBER COOPERAGE COMPANY.

in a commercial point of view, the importance of the cooperage interest in Hoboken and the present day, can scarcely be overestimated. The number of kegs alone manufactured is enormous, and the trade grows apace with it.

Notable among the representative concerns contributing to business activity in the vicinity, is the Weber Cooperage Company, located on the West Shore and Ravine Avenue, originally established by Carl and George Weber, West Thirteenth Street, but removed here in 1889. The establishment is the largest of the kind in the plant covering an area of 40,000 square feet. It is a two and a half story structure, 157x36, with a capacity of 1,500 kegs, employing about twenty men. The Weber Cooperage make a specialty of pine work exclusively, and do an exceedingly large business, supplying all parts of the country. The company is located in Hoboken, New Jersey, and is one of the largest and most successful of its kind in the United States. The company was founded in 1889 and has since that time been engaged in the manufacture of kegs and other cooperage products. The company's facilities are extensive, and it is able to handle a large volume of business. The company's products are of high quality and are widely used in various industries. The company's success is a testament to the skill and hard work of its employees.

THE WEBER COOPERAGE CO. WORKS.