Complete Television Program for the Week 11, 12, 13

COVER PICTURE:

Thursday is Hallowe'en. It is a time for fun and frolic for young and old alike. The merriment which attends Hallowe'en is the climax of the Fall season. While youngsters are entitled to a night of mischief, it shouldn't be a signal for the defacing or destroying of property. To our readers we say, "Happy Hallowe'en, have fun but keep it clean".

For the Record

Handsome young vocalist Andy Williams will be the guest of hostess Patti Page on CBS Television's "The Big Record" on Wednesday, October 30. Other performers on the program will be Sarah Vaughan, Stanley Holloway, George Shearing, The Four Coins and special guest Teresa Brewer

Sheriff Walter Brennan

Veteran character actor Walter Brennan stars in the role of a western sheriff, grown old in the job and asked to retire, on "Dick Powell's Zane Grey Theatre." The program will appear on Friday, November 1, over the CBS Television Network.

New Jersey's Governor Race

GOV. ROBERT B. MEYNER

Pollsters, political analysts and street corner smarts are all busily engaged in the usual pastime at this time of year—figuring out who will win the Gubernatorial election. In this case, it is the hot contest between Democratic incumbent Robert B. Meyner versus a strongly backed GOP state senator, Malcolm S. Forbes.

Both men are politically astute, well trained and qualified to hold the most important office in the state of New Jersey. It is generally conceded in political circles, that the incumbent has the edge over the opponent. The reason being that sometime during the tenure the incumbent has done some favors in quarters where he can expect a fairly good return in terms of votes. However, the inverse is all too often equally true—that an incumbent makes a dozen enemies for every friend!

The governor and the state senator have criss-crossed the state a dozen times in the quest for votes. They have spoken to large crowds in the urban sections and to a handful in the suburban areas.

Forbes has conducted an "operation doorbell" in which he has called "cold turkey" on people in their homes to solicit support. The governor has depended largely on his Democratic leaders throughout the state to pave the way for him when his appearance was required.

The Meyner adherents have done a tremendous job. Unquestionably, the affability of the candidate, his personal charm and magnetic ability, are going to make him a hard man to unseat. On the other hand, Forbes, scion of a wealthy publishing family, has had a great deal of "political push" from such prominent leaders as Labor Secretary James Mitchell, Vice President Richard Nixon, Presidential Appointments Secretary Bernard Shanley and

The GOP high command in New Jersey expects President Eisenhower to make a personal appearance in behalf of the Forbes campaign.

This election is an extremely important one for several reasons. National GOP leaders do not want a repetition of what happened in Wisconsin because it will decidedly weaken their position in next year's congressional contests and will certainly dampen their hopes of recapturing the White House in 1960.

The Republicans, therefore, are gambling in "shooting the works" for a Forbes victory.

Governor Meyner is running a campaign based, purely and simply, on state issues. He is not seeking assistance from national leaders and it appears, because of the number of Negro voters in the state, that Governor Meyner is doing the right thing.

Meyner has been beset with a number of setbacks during his term of office. He has had to battle every inch of the way with a Republican controlled legislature. However, he has weathered the storm pretty well.

In certain quarters, rumors of improprieties and irregularities, have caused some concern, but the issues still remain the people's concern because even during Republican administrations there have been "irregularities".

So, despite the analysts, the White House strong men who have visited New Jersey, and all of the political prognosticators, the decision will be given Nov. 5 by the only ones who really count when they make their voices heard through the exercise of the franchise . . . the citizens of New Jersey. We urge all our friends and readers to vote. It doesn't make any difference whatever your persuasion . . . just be sure to cast your ballot.

BOWLING TAKES OVER

They say that baseball is considered the national pastime. Well, for better than 20 million Americans bowling is the big game in their lives. Baseball fans are watchers—bowlers are doers.

Just take a glance around you. New bowling establishments are cropping up faster than red spots on a kid with measles. And these aren't mere fly by night deals. These are million dollar deals and the establishments boast of clean, modern surroundings complete with lounges and a nursery for the mother who wants to park the little ones while she attempts to knock the pins from their moorings.

Bowling is a family sport. Where years ago only Daddy bowled, nowadays you find that Daddy, Mommy, Junior, Sis and even Gramps and Grandma are out on the lanes in ever increasing numbers. As yet no-one has figured how the family dog or cat can get into the game but give them time.

What is the lure of Bowling? Simply that bowling has no barriers as to age, physical strength and equipment needs. All you need to bowl is a will and enough money to pay for the game—and you are a bowler.

Of the 20 million odd bowlers some four million roll regularly in league play under American Bowling Congress and Women's International Bowling Congress Rules and Regulations. They roll weekly, usually starting sometime in September and finishing up in May. With the added time of modern day workers bowling helps fill the recreation and relaxation gap. It helps make and keep many friends.

You fish and hunt alone or with a few people. You bowl with hundreds and get to know all of them over a season. People like to know things without having them thrown back and bowling gives them the opportunity.

Bowling is primarily a participant sport but with TV and the big tournaments growing in popularity it has also become a spectator sport and star bowlers are now known to millions and are beginning to get the same kind of hero worship given to other athletes.

Yes, bowling is everyone's game. And if you haven't yet had the thrill of knocking down ten pins with one toss visit your nearest neighborhood lanes and give it a try. You'll be more than happy. In fact it won't be too long that you'll be saying with so many others, "I'm a bowler."

THE SPORTSCENE

As seen by RON PHILLIPS

JERSEY CITY, N. J.—As Don Kennedy's St. Peter's College Varsity basketball squad prepares for the coming 1957-58 basketball campaign, only two members of last year's crew are absent. Those two key players being Joe Banas, and Bobby Gallagher, co-captains and tallest players on the Peacocks lve. They will be sorely missed for their talents lay largely in the phase of the game which is always a sore point with St. Peter's.

The rebounding department, where Banas was tops, is the key spot that will have to be filled, as Joe was good for an average of 10 points per game for the last two seasons.

However, on the bright side of the scene at the Jersey City campus is the fact that Kennedy welcomes back Hank Morano, last season's leading scorer with 424 points; Bill (Pepper) Dooley, the mighty mite; Jay Olmstead with the quick hands, and Tommy Gaynor, who scored more points per minute than 90 per cent of the game's high scorers in the nation last season.

Though Morano is a strong boy on the boards himself, he can hardly take up the slack left by the three top players lost by graduation. Gaynor is the tallest of the four returning stars but also the slimmest almost counting Dooley.

The search for a player who can turn this team into a great one will not be found among this quartet of returnees.

There are just three boys on the squad that have the necessary height and build to make the Peacocks click and Kennedy has taken in John Henning, Jack Givens, and Bill Prettyman. The first two stand 6.6 and the later 6.5, and the three of them are well constructed.

But Henning played in only nine tilts last season while Givens only saw limited action in eight tussles, and Prettyman is the youngster up from the Frosh team, and whom Kennedy has high regard for. On the rare occasion when height is no problem this winter, Kennedy will be able to floor one of the nation's fastest and speediest crews with his son, Don Jr., moving in with Dooley, Morano, Gaynor and Olmstead.

Also on hand from last season are Joey Becker, Ralphie Calabrese, Eddy Dugan, and Georgie Graughran, while Marty Walsh is the other promising newcomer up from the freshmen team.

Young Don Kennedy, the coach's son, could spell the difference in bringing the Jersey City crew up the ladder this campaign after four fine years at St. Luke's High in Hobb-Kus. The lad should be well accustomed to the tough grind ahead in his sophomore year at the J. C. campus.

After getting a shot at playing in the National Invitation Tournament in Madison Square Garden last year the bowing to a tough Dayton University crew by 79-71, the J. C. lads are ready for another banner season. One particular fella that certainly hopes for the best, by all means, is Coach Don Kennedy. Good luck, Don, hope you go all the way

BASKETBALL HITS—

Don Engelken a 6.3 former basketball standout at Paterson Eastside High School will again display his talent for William and Mary College this season.

A returning letterman, Don figures to be one of the top scorers in leading the Virginia school out of the loss column and into the winners bracket this season.

Engelken led the Indians in scoring last season with 372 points for an average of 13.8 for the 1956-57 campaign, and this was good on Don's part as the W&M cagers had a dismal 9-18 season although they did perform against the best ranked teams in the country.

Things may get better this season as the outlook is bright with a veteran club returning and maybe the appearance of new head coach in Bill Chambers may settle down the situation.

Chambers replaces Boydson Baird at the helm of the Indians, and brings quite a record in from the scholastic ranks as his Newport News, Virginia clubs sported a fine record of 67-8 but the college ranks may prove a little more difficult to him.

EDITORIALS

WITH THIS ISSUE

With this issue, our readers will note a number of changes in the Chronicle. We sincerely hope they will appeal to our readers and perhaps inspire some of you to let us know your reactions to our new policy.

The purpose is to include the type of reading material that will be most enjoyable to all members of the family from Grandfather to Junior.

From time to time, we intend to add more and more new features to meet the needs of our ever growing family of subscribers.

We regret the necessity of requiring an increase in price. However, we are certain our readers will understand the reason behind it without our going into all the details.

To those who have sent in their renewal subscriptions, please accept our sincere thanks for your continued confidence. We appreciate the thoughtfulness and take renewed interest because of your action.

May we please hear from you as to your opinion, critical or otherwise? We will publish all comments received.

CRUEL HOAX

J. Edgar Hoover ranks highway killings with major crimes such as kidnapping and armed robbery, and is convinced there should be an end to listing speeders and careless and reckless drivers as "petty offenders". Is a child killed by a kidnapper deadlier than one lifeless under a speeding car?, he asks. Is a person crippled by an automobile less pitiable than a person permanently maimed by the gun of a robber?

He also finds that much of juvenile disrespect for law can often be traced to the "miserable examples" of adult motorists who "beat the law" on the highways and boast about outwitting traffic officers.

In concluding Mr. Hoover states a plain fact: "There will be no safety on the roads until motorists obey the laws willingly or are made to under sure and certain sentences to jail, if necessary. Fines and suspended sentences are a cruel hoax."

HUMAN VALUES

People like to be treated with courtesy and friendliness.

That is certainly not an earth-shaking announcement. It represents the height of obviousness. Yet the principle is sometimes ignored. And when that happens the consequences can be costly.

A while ago a chain store organization tested the effectiveness of price as against friendliness in seeking business. In one community, it ran hard-hitting ads stressing savings, lower prices and outstanding values. In another community, its ads stressed friendliness. In the first community, sales increased eight per cent. In the second, they jumped 28 per cent—which indicates that people put much more stress on friendliness than on price inducements.

Whether this is generally true no one can say. But there is no doubt that the public expects the best of treatment when it goes shopping. And it gets that kind of treatment or goes elsewhere. Successful retailers are concerned with the quality of their personnel, and with ability of salespeople and others to meet customers, intelligently fill their wants, and send them away happy and satisfied. One grumpy, disinterested clerk can cost a store a huge amount of business.

Never Heard Of It

The Editor Speaks

A nurse told me this story, and since I have the greatest admiration for nurses, I certainly believe her.

This girl is attached to one of our nearby hospitals where, as in most hospitals, they serve meals to their patients on trays.

A very prim and precise gentleman had been brought in that afternoon and was being served his first meal—dinner, or supper as they call it in a hospital.

Well, the tray came. On it was soup, roast beef, a vegetable, a salad, vanilla ice cream and coffee. The cream for the coffee was in one of those cute little paper cups, the same kind they use for tartar sauce in restaurants. Another paper cup contained what our nice gentleman thought was the gravy for the roast beef.

He poured the "gravy" over his roast beef and started to eat. One of the nurses who was passing his room just then saw him making a horribly distorted face.

She rushed in to ask him whether he was in pain. No, he wasn't. Then, with one jump, he rushed out of his bed to the adjoining bathroom.

The nurse looked at his tray. Then she saw what had caused the contortion in the patient's face. The little paper cup had contained chocolate sauce for the ice cream. He had thought it was gravy for the roast beef.

Have you ever eaten roast beef with chocolate gravy?

Does it pay you to be too nice? In this particular case probably the only trouble caused by this man's "niceness" was a very bad case of nausea.

In life outside of hospitals very often the result of being too nice is often much more serious.

Some of the nicest people in the world are the biggest suckers. They are so nice that they are afraid to speak up and tell others what they think of them. They'd rather suffer for the sake of being gentlemen or ladies than remember that life isn't a kid's game but, in many cases, a dog-eat-dog proposition.

On the other hand it doesn't pay you to be too outspoken, either. The best way to make a lot of enemies is to tell everybody the truth about your opinion of them.

I used to try it when I was very young. It got so that I had hardly a friend left in my class in college. That was until I learned in my philosophy course that truth is not necessarily what IS but merely what people SEE it to be.

Then I started to tell folks not what in my opinion they were, but what they seemed to be to themselves.

This is a little deep, isn't it? Well, the story about the roast beef with the chocolate sauce isn't.

THIS WEEK IN American History

By WILLIAM BRODIE

THE UNITED STATES AND THE MACEDONIAN

In the chronicles of the American Navy October 25, 1812 is the date of a brilliant victory.

When the War of 1812 with England broke out not much was expected of our little navy, which was a pygmy compared with the giant navy of England. George Canning, British Secretary of State, expressing the attitude of the British navy, called the armed ships of the United States, "a few fir-built things with bits of striped bunting at their mastheads." That remark was far from the truth, as the events during the months to come were to prove.

True, the American warships were few, but they were new, expertly built, manned by lusty and able seamen, and commanded by some of the finest officers who ever trod a wooden deck. The American crews were highly trained in seamanship and gunnery. They were taught to lay the guns straight on the target and to shoot as fast as possible. As events proved, the American frigates which humbled the haughty British navy, Mistress of the Seas, were superior in speed and hitting power to anything of their class afloat.

One of these stout frigates, of 44 guns, was the United States, commanded by Captain Stephen Decatur. He was ranging far over the Atlantic in search of enemy vessels when a sail was sighted off the Canary Islands on Sunday, October 25, 1812. Had Decatur known at first sight that the ship was the new British frigate Macedonian, commanded by Captain Samuel Carden, he would have sought battle with even keener zest. Carden had been one of the worst offenders in the impressing of American seamen into the British navy, one of the causes of the War of 1812.

Decatur was a mild man who had won the love and confidence of his men. Just before the shooting began his ten-year-old cabin boy pleaded with Decatur to be signed on as a regular seaman. "I want to share in the prize money when we take her," said the boy.

Carden was the opposite, a hard man who kept a tight rein, and a heavy hand on his crew. He was noted for his gunnery, and he drew his ship into battle with great confidence of whipping the American.

For 30 minutes the two ships fired at long range. The batteries of the United States flamed so fast and continuously that she seemed to be on fire. The illusion was heightened by the pall of gunsmoke that shrouded her.

Captain Carden, furious at being beaten at his own game of long range gunnery, tried to come close but Decatur stayed clear. In another 15 minutes his guns had riddled the Macedonian with more than 100 hits, killing and wounding scores of men. Decatur then drove his ship across the Macedonian's stern, in a position to tear her to pieces. Carden then hauled down his flag and surrendered. The United States was almost undamaged, with only was a floating slaughter house.

Captain Decatur brought his prize home safely through the British blockade into the Connecticut port of New London. There the Macedonian was repaired and added to America's heroic little navy.

The Macedonian's battle flag was sent to Washington by messenger, a young lieutenant of the victorious United States. And there, at a grand ball, amid the cheers of President Madison, his Cabinet and distinguished guests, the captured flag was placed at the feet of pretty Dolly Madison, the President's wife.

Life's Darkest Moment

A WEBSTER CLASSIC

THE SHOWCASE

By D. G.

Parents of young Hallowe'en-minded Americans will hear a dramatized appeal on behalf of juvenile victims of war on Wednesday, October 30th, from 11:15 to 11:30 P. M., on WOR Radio.

The special UNICEF documentary, "The Trial of Sergeant Bill," urges that youngsters accept contributions in behalf of UNICEF on their "trick or treat" rounds. The program is advocating understanding of harmless Hallowe'en pranks by the "ghosts" and "goblins" of the juvenile set.

The "trick or treat" campaign is an annual United Nations undertaking .

A peaceful fishing trip turns into a dangerous battle with an escaped convict in the story "Fish Out of Water," latest episode of SKY KING, on Station WPIX on Saturday, Nov. 9, at 6:30 P. M. Cowboy star Kirby Grant again appears as Sky King, with Gloria Winters as Sky's lively teen-age niece Penny. Sam Flint appears as Judge Mason, the object of the revengeful convict's hate. Bayns Barrow portrays Rigo, the felon.

The bright, new MGM musical "LES GIRLS" has piled up critical acclaim wherever it has appeared thus far . . . and audiences are flocking to this gay cinematic romp featuring Gene Kelly, Mitzi Gaynor, Kay Kendall and Taina Elg. It's going to be the biggest musical hit of the year by all looks.

* * * *

Lilo, the great French singing star who made stardom in America through her great appearance in Cole Porter's "Can Can", is a musical personality about whom one might well say "C'EST MAGNIFIQUE".

* * * *

Two great talents—Dick Hyman on organ and Sam (The Man) Taylor on tenor sax—team for a pair of sides with a big, wide, rock-'n-rolling beat! THE PEANUT VENDOR is the old favorite tricked out in new styling; WALK WITH ME is an attractive original by Dick himself!

* * * *

A welcome debut for M-G-M Records as The Charioteers, one of America's favorite vocal groups, joins the label! Both of the songs the boys offer here are mellow ballads, both provide plenty of room for their subtle, yet tricky stylings. Great listening!

* * * *

You can always count on Thelma Blackmon for quality songs of an unusual design and sung delightfully. I WANTA WALTZ is one of the cutest country novelties we've come across in many a moon . . . TWO EMPTY CHAIRS a solid ballad. Don't miss this platter!

LAD WITH FUTURE — Jerry Lewis plays Swami as he forecasts a season of fun and merriment on NBC-TV where he will present a series of comedy-variety shows during the Fall-Winter season. First of his special colorcasts is scheduled Tuesday, Nov. 5.

PAAR-TY TIME — Party-giver Elsa Maxwell chats with Jack Paar, host of NBC-TV's Monday-through-Friday "Tonight," on a recent visit to the show. Miss Maxwell appears on the series every Tuesday and discusses many subjects. Their weekly chit-chat is ad-libbed and has proved to be one of "Tonight's" most popular features.

What the new rate on Savings Bonds means to you!

*Higher interest—faster—makes Savings
Bonds an even better buy!*

If you've always bought U. S. Savings Bonds for their rock-ribbed safety, their guaranteed return, the way they make saving easier—you've got one more reason now!

Every Series E United States Savings Bond you've bought since February 1, 1957 pays you a new, higher interest—3-1/4% when held to maturity! It reaches maturity faster, too—in only 8 years and 11 months. And redemption values are higher, too, especially in the earlier years.

About your older Bonds? Easy. Just hold on to them. As you know, the rate of interest a Savings Bond pays increases with each year you own it, until maturity. Therefore, the best idea is to buy the new—and hold the old!

Maybe you already know about Savings Bonds—as one of the 40 million Americans who own them today.

But if you're new to the game, find out about Savings Bonds and what they can do for your future. Ask your banker, or check with your employer about the Payroll Savings Plan.

Part of every American's savings
belongs in U. S.
Savings Bonds
