"BRAIN MACHINE" USED TO STUDY HUMAN BEHAVIOR — New York — W. Grey Walter, Chief of the Physiological Department of the Burden Neurological Institute, Bristol, England, demonstrates his electronic "animal" which tests conditioned reflex actions. This "Machina Docilis" is one of several models of brain mechanisms which Dr. Walter has invented and built for the study of the brain and nerve functions underlying human behavior.

SIGHTING NEW RECON CAMERA — Wash., D.C. — Specialist 3/Cl John D. Denero of Syracuse, N.Y., sights through the built-in telescope of the Army's 100-inch camera, as he is given cover by Specialist 2/Cl George A. Paybins. Camera is used for long range ground reconnaissance. It operates in infra-red range and will photograph terrain features as far as 30 miles away.

HARD TO BEAR, EVEN WITH A BEARSKIN — New York — Fred Mostert, of the Old Guard, holds his gloved hands over his chilled ears to warm 'em up as he stood on wind-swept Madison Square Park. The big bearskin chapeau did a fine job of keeping the head warm, but it needs the addition of earmuffs.

"HONEST" MISTAKE PUTS BUILDER IN "LOTS" OF TROUBLE — Chicago, Ill. — Frank Troiani, a Chicago builder, scratches his head as he looks over two houses which he constructed on the wrong lots in a subdivision west of Chicago. Now Troiani has asked Superior Court to decide how he can get out of his predicament. The owner of the lots, which are adjacent to the ones Troiani originally purchased, contends the houses are now his. Otherwise, he insists Troiani move the houses and fill the excavations and leave the lots as he found them.

COVER PICTURE.

The season's first snowfall caught many of us unaware and caused a great deal of inconvenience and unpleasantness to a host of people. However, there are those who enjoy the exhilarating snow and the pleasureable moments that follow in its wake (if you are so inclined). On the cover is a threesome taking advantage of the winter season's favorite sport.

JET-AGE TERMINAL - New York - Here is a model of the Trans World Airlines Terminal to be built at Idlewild Airport in New York at a cost of $12,000,000, designed by Eero Saarinen to capture the spirit of flight with the coming of the jet age.

"JACK THE NIPPER" IN CUSTODY AFTER THREE-WEEK SEARCH - Pittsburgh, Pa. - Police who took this pooch into custody, promptly dubbed him "Jack the Nipper". The dog, wanted for nipping at women in the downtown Pittsburgh area, was found after a three-week search.

FOUNDATION FOR SPIRAL-SHAPED BUILDING IN CARACAS - Caracas, Venezuela - This huge earthen "Pyramid" covering 25 acres was carved from a mountainside in Caracas, Venezuela. It is the foundation for a $25,000,000 business center to be completed in 1960. The "Helicoide", a spiral-shaped building that will cover the foundation, is the brain child of Venezuelan Architect Dr. Jorge Romero Gutierrez. Looking like something from outer space, the dazzling white "Helicoide" will rise 365 feet.

Dear Editor: Your political column last week was a masterpiece though I don't agree with all you said. I think the Democrats would have won no matter who the GOP leader was and I admit that Mr. Marsh should retire in favor of a younger man capable of bringing the various factors together. Do you think the Democrats are any better in the apportionment of jobs and patronage? Prior to election, jobs were spread among only a small elite circle. For example, there are many instances of two jobs in one family. Both Robert and John Wegner, brothers, have appointed jobs. The Aquino family, Joseph and Louis, father and son, both have appointments and there are many others who have been feeding at the public trough for years and years until you would think there was no one else available. Yes, the Democrats need to be careful despite the victory.

A First Ward Republican for 30 years.

Dear Editor: It is about time someone told Mr. Lloyd March off the way Ojay has done in your news-magazine. From defeat the Republicans can rebuild a better and stronger organization with more room for younger men.

Dear Editor: I would like to have my daughter's wedding photo run in your magazine. How do I go about making arrangements?

THE SPORTSCENE

By RON PHILLIPS

NEW YORK—Memphis State University last season's runner-up in the NIT tournament at Madison Square Garden will return here Saturday evening, December 21st with a local cage product in the starting lineup.

BRUCE ERB

73. Before entering the Southern campus, Erb had attended Colgate University, and as a freshmen he had broken all frosh marks previously set by Ernie Vandeweghe, and Carl Braun, two great New York Knickerbockers stars.

During the 1956-57 basketball campaign, Erb performed with the Ross Ticket Agency team in his home town and led them to three championships.

In averaging 37.2 points per game for the season he led the Ross five to the City crown, Passaic County Playoff title and the News Round Robin Tournament in which he won the Joe De Gise MVP award.

The Memphis Tigers have a veteran club back with top rebounder Orby Arnold heading the list although their top star, Win Wilfong, has since graduated and is with the St. Louis Hawks of the NBA.

Memphis State in the NIT at the Garden last season topped Utah, 77-75, then scored over St. Bonaventure's 80-78 and beat the Kelly Green to enter the finals.

Bradley University returned to Madison Square Garden after a seven-year layoff and nipped the Tigers 84-83 in the finals. It looks like they may be facing each other again.

Bruce Erb, a 5:11 145-pound former All-State schoolboy flash from Paterson Eastside High School will make his local cage bow in the Garden with the MSU Tigers.

Latest results out of Memphis, Tennessee, are that Head Coach Bob Van Atta states that the former New Jersey athlete has all the qualifications to make the Southern school click and top their outstanding 24-6 mark of last season.

On the 21st, the top ranked five will take on Coach Ken Norton's Manhattan College Kelly and Green Jaspers who they will be meeting for the second time, in the nightcap of a collegiate twin-bill.

In last season's encounter between the two school's, which took place in the National Invitation at the Garden, the game woundup Memphis State 85 and Manhattan-

If Fire Strikes

What would you do if fire destroyed your house?

There is a superficially easy answer to that question. You'd take the insurance money and rebuild. It would be a nuisance, of course, but you wouldn't be out of pocket.

The trouble with this idea is that, in a vast number of cases, it simply isn't true. Legions of homeowners think they are adequately insured against fire and related hazards when they think about the matter at all—but the fact is that their coverage is woefully inadequate.

A simple statistic tells the story. Since the end of the war, government and other tabulations show, average building costs have about doubled. That is generally true of practically everything inside the walls of a house—furnishings, clothing, appliances and so on. Yet, according to insurance studies, a great many people have unwittingly failed to increase their coverage to compensate. If fires strike, in those cases, there simply won't be enough insurance money to begin to pay for rebuilding.

The remedy for the individual homeowner is to consult with his local professional insurance agent or broker. This man knows values and costs, and he knows just how much insurance each of his clients should carry. And he knows how to fit a fire policy into the total insurance picture.

In Passaic County, the Trained Insurance Counsellors' Association does the required job of protecting the interests of clients, large or small. Call any member of the organization for the member nearest you and get his advice soon. Fires have a habit of striking without respect for time or location.

Medicine and Journalism

Newspaper people and doctors have a great deal in common.

The two professions — medicine and journalism — have some notable points of similarity. Both are concerned with important functions of human life. Doctors strive to preserve and restore human health . . . Journalists deal with the health of human minds in a democracy by trying to keep them adequately informed.

Both professions are practiced by men and women who are passionate believers in their calling. Here is perhaps the root of some misunderstanding. A doctor believes that all must recognize the nobility of his profession. A journalist is just as convinced that the satisfaction of the people's right to know is a duty of high moral order. Such pride can lead to arrogance on both sides. The practitioners of both professions sometimes fail to explain their actions fully to each other or to the public, because they forget that any explanation is necessary . . .

Happily, misunderstanding born of such causes are much less common than they used to be. More and more doctors—along with medical societies—now recognize the need for good public relations, within the framework of medicine's high code of ethics. More and more newspaper people, on their side, are showing a keen interest in the problems and achievements of the medical fraternity. The legitimate interests of both groups—and, of far greater importance, the public interest—is thus served.

Building A Better Mouse Trap

The Editor Speaks

VINCENT S. PARRILLO

A housewife gave her son an unusual Christmas present.

It was a hand-written copy of the Bible. She copied it herself. It took her fifteen years.

It contains 1,818 loose-leaf pages, written on both sides. She used eighteen bottles of ink, but completed it with one fountain pen.

* * * *

Frankly, I can't understand why a busy housewife should spend fifteen years to copy something which is available for everyone to enjoy—and to LIVE.

The lady, a deeply religious women, said she would retain the contents if she copied it.

However, all due respect to that lady who copied the Bible. If that is her way to enjoy the good book she is welcome to it.

* * * *

Whenever I am perplexed about something, when something worries me, when I cannot solve my own problem, I turn to the Bible.

In the Bible I find the truest and soundest PHILOSOPHY ever written.

No matter what bothers me, the Bible gives me the ANSWER—and PEACE.

* * * *

But one must not read the Bible mechanically.

One need not be a goody-goody to make the Bible one's "home companion." It is something to live by and to live with and enjoy.

I wonder whether that lady was not so busy copying the Bible that she had no chance to enjoy it.

I wonder whether too many of us do not copy rather than LIVE.

Let's Talk

Politics

—by O JAY

The opinions expressed in this column are exclusively those of the writer and do not necessarily reflect the policy and opinion of The Chronicle.

There has been some talk that T. D. Rosenberg is slated to become Magistrate when the post is relinquished by John Masiello. However, a resistance move is in the making among many lawyers since they feel he has seldom been on the firing line in the same manner as Alfano, Shiffman, Brumale, Gelman and a number of others. However, recent turn of events indicate that Edward O'Byrne will make a widely popular choice by re-appointing Masiello who is very ill at the moment, and who is universally loved and respected for his conduct in office. . . . Contrary to reports, the Democratic status of Passaic cannot be disputed. There, City Leader Joseph V. McGuire has done an admirable job of producing majorities despite a divided organization. In several past elections, Commissioner Bernard Manney's group has done little to bolster party candidates. As a matter of record, several times he has disputed McGuire's leadership and attempted an ouster move with little success. . . . Incidentally, several major changes in the Passaic Democratic structure are planned for next year. Watch for further developments. . . . Since our first mention of Wayne's Robert Roe as a congressional candidate possibility, there have been a number of inquiries as to whether Roe will accept such a challenge. . . . It might be said that he has never flinched in the face of a tough contest and actually has worked long and hard against what appeared to be insurmountable odds. Each time he has come through with flying colors. As to whether he will be willing to face Canfield, we would say yes, although the decision does not rest with him at this time. . . . We can be reasonably sure that half of the United States will be watching Ed Murrow's "Person-to-Person" show on Dec. 13 when the noted journalist and commentator visits Morven via the television route to say "Hello" to Governor Meyner and his wife, Helen. . . .

In West Paterson, Joe Muccio, GOP leader, is busily engaged wooing Democrats. And well he might because on Dec. 18 borough residents will go to the polls in a special election to determine whether the present form of government continues or is replaced by a council-manager form. . . . Spearhead of the council-manager move is Ben Rabin, manager of the Passaic office of Employment Security. . . . As we mentioned previously here, Walter H. Jones, of Bergen County, is making sounds like a U. S. Senator. . . . The religious aspect. . . which is a shameful maneuver. . . is being used in some areas against Bernard M. Shanley, a Catholic. . . . Shanley is a man of high principles who deserves consideration on his ability and certainly not on the basis of his religious belief. . . . A successful Democratic candidate for office is on the verge of a suit locally for non-payment of a financial obligation. . . . He should at least talk to his creditor even if he doesn't have the available cash. . . . We hear a new Democratic Auxiliary is in the making. . . . It's about time, too. Seems like the distaff side are always far removed from patronage except for a favored few. . . . To the fellow who was asking so many questions last Wednesday noontime. . . let him take note that it very often takes more than "just money" to win elections. . . . Dollar bills are not tallied when the voting machines are opened.

Reports indicate that the move to oust Assistant Superintendent of Schools Joseph J. Masiello was not motivated by any altruistic desire to effect economy but rather by a well conceived plan to "settle a score." It has been rumored that a more omnipotent hand than that of Michael Gioia has ordered the attack. . . . A G.O.P. hand, at that.

OUTLOOK: Economists are cautious in forecasts. New factors are being weighed. Administration plans to have Congress raise the national debt limit in preparation for increased defense spending are expected to have a stimulating effect on the economy. The prospect that other categories of Federal spending will undergo a reduction is not necessarily bearish. Curtailment of Federal competition with industry should give courage to private enterprise. The effect of the Federal Reserve Board's action in cutting the rediscount rate from 3½ to 3 per cent in four of the 12 Reserve Districts still is being measured.

TAXES: In both parties it is felt no tax cut can be hoped for before 1959. The determination of the Administration to embark on additional defense spending as an answer to Soviet advances in rocketry is seen as making the hoped-for 1958 tax cut impossible.

Earlier this year there was talk that regardless of budgetary considerations a tax reduction might be indicated to halt a downdrift in the economy. Despite declines in industrial production and personal income, there is no fear expressed that recession tendencies will get out of hand.

FOREIGN AIR: The Administration may ask more money next year for foreign aid, as well as for defense. The extra funds would go to strengthen defenses of the free world as a deterrent to possible Soviet aggression.

It is too early to gauge the reaction of Congress. Some members have proposed to finance enlarged missile development costs by trimming foreign aid allotments.

POSTAGE: It is being predicted that by July of next year, the 3 cent first class postage stamp will be a thing of the past. Support is seen growing for 4-cent postage, with a pay boost for postal workers.

PLASTICS: The American Chemical Society says plastics have become basic building materials, now ranking fourth after steel, lumber and glass. The building industry is using plastics at the rate of $1.2 billion a year. By 1966 this figure is expected to rise to $2 billion.

THE SHOWCASE

By D. G.

A three-year contract was approved between Lawrence Welk and his four young singing Lennon sisters. The new contract calls for the girls to invest at least 20 percent of their earnings in U. S. Savings Bonds. They haul about $203.50 a week for the two night shows.

SMALL TALK—Dramatic TV star Gusti Huber has signed with 20th Century Fox for the lead part in the movie version of "The Diary of Anne Frank."

Movie star Cary Grant is still holding out against video appearance in spite of the fabulous offers he continually is receiving . . . according to advertising agents, as they look at TV ratings and presentation of programs, they claim singing commercials will be around for a long time, but jingles will have to change to the trends and beats of upcoming popular music.

MILLIE DeROSA

Alfred Hitchcock, the authentic spine chiller television and movie story teller, once worked for his wife in the movie business in England when she was a film cutter.

She is the one top critic Hitch still listens to.

The Rope Dancers," a new dramatic play on Broadway, opened at the Cort Theater. Sihban McKenna plays the anguished mother and Art Carney is her shiftless husband. A tragic tale set in the New York tenement district. Joan Blondell is also featured.

Paterson's talented and lovely Millie DeRosa may hit the "jackpot" with her latest release on Tin Pan Alley label, "Get With It". The toe-tapping tune is sung by up and coming Pat Riley and was featured by Les Elgart and his orchestra . . . Get "Get With It" at your favorite music shop today.

Television's "Real McCoys", tagged a real TV sleeper, has proven itself differently. Because twice in the last few weeks, ratings have soared higher than its opposition program "Climax". The latter is contemplating a new time change.

A woman complained to a friend that the walls of her new apartment were so thin that the neighbors on either side could hear everything she said.

"Oh, I think you could eliminate that trouble," the other replied. "Just hang some tapestries over your walls."

The woman considered the suggestion briefly, then shook her head. "No, that wouldn't do," she replied. "Then we couldn't hear what they say."

By JOE RICHARDSEN

A field of the nations top 224 bowlers will shoot for more than $30,000 dollars in prize money at the first annual World's Invitational match game championships now in progress at the Chicago Coliseum, Chicago, Illinois.

The tourney, which will run for 10 days, will windup on Dec. 13th. It is sponsored by the National Bowling Proprietors of the Chicago area.

Don Carter of St. Louis, only three-time National match game champion, heads the list of 160 men entries.

Topping the women's field of 64 will be Mrs. Marion Ladewig of Grand Rapids, Michigan. She has already collected six national match game titles.

The Eastern Intercollegiate Bowling Conference shows Brooklyn Poly-Tech leading with a 22-2 record followed by NYU, Fordham University, Iona College, along with Manhattan College, and St. John's University of Brooklyn all bunched in a second place standoff with 18-6 marks.

The top names in the bowling world, both male and female, were spotlighted on Jerry Lewis' Television Marathon last week to aid and combat Muscular Dystrophy.

The show originated from the 64-Alley establishment at Echo Lanes, in Mountainside, N. J., with WABD-TV, Channel 5, bringing it into your living room.

Among top keggers that appeared were Don Carter, Lou Campi, Ann Noga, Marion Ladewig, Al Lindy Faragelli, and Graz Castellano.

Congrats to Frankie Stampone, former St. Anthony's softball star, who last week turned in a perfect 300 game at the Paterson Recreation Center.

Reiman's Route 4 Bowling Lanes in Fair Lawn, will be host to a bowling clinic this afternoon, Dec. 8, at 1:30 p. m. and 3:30 p. m. It will be sponsored by the establishment and Eddie Cannon of the "Ten Pin Corner."

This Week In AMERICAN HISTORY

BY WILLIAM BRODIE

WASHINGTON'S FAREWELL TO HIS OFFICERS

In Fraunce's Tavern, which still stands in the lower part of Manhattan in New York City, a deeply emotional scene took place on December 4, 1783. At noon of that day General George Washington said farewell to a group of his officers who had served with him through the stormy eight years of the Revolutionary War.

Nine days before, on the 25th of November, the last of the British troops had sailed down the bay and the American army had entered New York. General Washington took up his quarters at Fraunce's Tavern until such time as the army which had won America's independence would be disbanded. Now, at noon of the 4th of December, the officers assembled in the long room of Fraunce's Tavern to say farewell to their Commander-in-Chief before he left for his home in Mount Vernon.

Shortly after the clock struck the hour Washington silently entered the room where his officers had gathered. Sadness lay tightly over the heart of every man present. Washington was choking with an emotion that even his strong will could not suppress.

A light repast of good things to eat had been laid out in the room and Washington could think of nothing better to do at the moment than to try to eat some of the refreshments, but he couldn't go through with it. He regained enough composure to fill a glass with wine. All the gentlemen present did the same. This helped all of them to get a grip on themselves.

Raising his glass, Washington, in a half-choked voice, said, "With a heart full of love and gratitude I now take leave of you. I most devoutly wish that your latter days may be as prosperous as your former ones have been glorious and honorable."

By the time each man had drunk his wine, Washington's tears were blinding him. In a faltering voice he said, "I cannot come to each of you to take my leave, but shall be obliged to you if each will come and take me by the hand." General Knox, his Chief of Artillery, was nearest and he came first. Washington shook his hand, then suddenly putting his arms around Knox, and weeping, he kissed him on the forehead.

When the last weeping officer had been embraced, General Washington walked out of the room. By the door he turned to raise his arm in a last silent farewell to all and went out of the tavern between the ranks of a guard of honor. Down the street he marched, his officers behind him at a distance, through files of soldiers and crowds of people. Cannon boomed, church bells rang, and the crowds cheered as the tall general, with the muscles of his face set tightly, strode to the barge at Whitehall Ferry.

As the barge moved away Washington bared his gray head and raised his arm again in a last silent gesture of farewell. The sad and weary warrior chief was off to his home, his great mission accomplished. America was now a free and independent republic.
