This Sunday we celebrate Easter Sunday — the anniversary of the Resurrection of the "Prince of Peace." The feeling that comes over you as you join in prayer on Easter Sunday is as proud and soaring as a church steeple, yet as warm and humble as a neighbors' handshake. You and your friends, sharing the thrilling inspiration of the Easter services, become vital strands in a harmonious web-work held secure by the frame of religion. Attend the church of your choice this Easter, and join with your family in the impressive services.

James Assal of 898 Main Street, Paterson, leaves Brooklyn's Town and Country Club with singer Judy Garland as she decides to forsake the show. Miss Garland is telling Assal of her misunderstanding with the club management.

TRY CANOE VOYAGE FROM SOUTH DAKOTA TO FLORIDA — Sioux Falls, S.D. — Phil Bechtold (Left), 22, and Dan Oursland, 22, students at South Dakota State College and both Marine Corps Veterans, are shown shortly before they began a 2,500-mile canoe trip to Miami, Fla. They plan to go down the Missouri River to the Mississippi and then down to the Gulf of Mexico and over to Miami. Their budget for the trip is less than $300, and they hope to complete the trip in 30 days.

GOVERNORS MEET WITH DEFENSE SECRETARY — Washington, D.C. — Four members of the Governors' Conference Executive Committee are shown as they met with Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy (Center) to seek more defense contracts for distressed unemployment areas. The four saw McElroy at the White House where he had gone to attend a National Security Council meeting.

Dr. Albert E. Jochen will address the Passaic County School Boards Association at Passaic Valley High School Tuesday, May 6. He is assistant state commissioner for vocational training. He will speak on "County Vocational Schools", at the semi-annual dinner meeting of the association. All school board members are invited to attend.

From primary registration records released recently, it was revealed that the following numbers of eligible voters in the three boroughs are: Haledon 3,502; North Haledon 2,854; and Prospect Park 2,617. Don't forget that Tuesday, Apr. 15, is primary election day.

HALEDON

The screening committee of the Fiftieth Anniversary committee met Wednesday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Lupton, 57 Pompton Road, to finish selecting the pictures that will be used in the anniversary book. The members are George Bernascone, Walter Ormezzano, Mrs. Leo Joffe, Charles Cona, James Parker and Mr. and Mrs. Lupton.

Don't forget the drive that will be held Monday night by the combined fire departments of the borough to get all the names for the patrons list and the "In Memorium" list for the book. There seems to be a little confusion about the latter list; here's the story. If you have a friend or relative who has passed away, who was a resident of Haledon, and you would like their name listed in the anniversary book, a special page is being set aside for this purpose under the heading "In Memorium". There is a donation required of at least one dollar, and if you have paid for your name on the patrons list or have included a name on the "In Memorium" list, you will receive a free copy of the anniversary book, when it is printed.

A group of girl scouts from St. Mary's church, under the guidance of Annie Harding of 53 Ave. C, will undertake, as part of their community service, to "read the shelves" in the Haledon library. This will mean that teams of the girls will systematically straighten the books, on the shelves, make sure they are properly placed and report any that are missing or need repair.

Miss Barbara Jahreis, daughter of Mrs. Alice Jahreis, 37 Willie Street, and the late Charles Jahreis, has been elected vice-president of the Student Council at Drew University College of Liberal Arts. Barbara, a graduate of Central High school is, in her junior year, majoring in political science.

Tom Maskery, 15 Beam Place, will be home shortly for a thirty day leave. He has completed 3 years in the Air Force. When he returns to duty, he will be stationed in Korea for one year.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Stenchever, proprietors of the Campus Sweet Shop at 385 Belmont Avenue, recently celebrated their 28th wedding anniversary. They have one son, Morton, who is a resident doctor at the Medical Center at Presbyterian Hospital, New York. He and his wife Diane have one son, Michael; they live in Teaneck.

A theatre party is planned for April 22 by the Veterans Auxiliary. Interested members are asked to contact Margo Govin.

Thomas Calamia, 43 Zabriskie Street, is home from Rutgers University for Easter vacation.

Members of the Auxiliary of Fire Company 2 were saddened by the death of the husband of Helen Rose Watson, Samuel Watson, of 897 East 27th Street, Paterson. He was also the brother of former Haledon mayor, J. Irving Watson, now residing in California.

Remember the smorgasbord dinner dance planned for May 31 at Joe Pipp's in honor of Haledon's ex-fire chiefs? Did you remember all thirty names of the ex-chiefs? Here's a partial list from 1903 to 1931 in their chronological order. John V. Doty, Charles Becher, Cornelius Hartley, Edgar Lupton, Edgar J. Maskery, William Van Orden, Luther Hall, Charles De Pow, Vernon Heinlen, Theodore Martin, Ernest Rheiner, Russell Willis, Sr., Butlo Bachetti, George Nichols and Charles Dimond. The list will be completed next week.

There was a meeting Wednesday night at the home of Margaret Clark, 71½ Aberdeen Court, of the By-Laws and Policies Committee of the Board of Education. Committee member James F. Mason, Jr., was absent as he, his wife, Dorothy, and their three sons, Jimmy, Dickie and Bruce, left Monday for a ten day stay at grandfather Mason's in Fort Lauderdale, Florida. The least he could have done was take the rest of the committee with him, we wouldn't have objected!

Nearly 66 children were registered to enter kindergarten in the local schools last week.

There were many absences for measles and chicken pox.

Don't forget it's necessary for parents to report communicable disease cases to Mrs. Dorothy Buschmann, 447 Van Dyke Avenue, by calling LA 3-3433. Even if your child is too young to go to school, it's necessary to notify her, in case the school age children have to be quarantined.

Before you get your appetite prepared for the firemen's smorgasbord on May 31, you can practice on the "smorgasbord" the Democratic Club is planning for Wednesday, May 14. Jim Parker, chairman of the menu and arrangements for the affair has already established thirty-nine items on the menu, that will be served at the Trio's restaurant. Ed Smith is chairman of the ticket committee, and tickets will be available soon.

PROSPECT PARK

For the third straight year, Miss Sue Dykstra has been named to head the borough's Cancer Crusade for funds for the work of the Passaic County Chapter of the American Cancer Society. Anxious to get her organization ready for the one night Flash Drive from 7 to 9 p.m. on April 21, Miss Dykstra would appreciate the same help she received from volunteers during her previous campaigns.

Douglas Ebocker, 319 North 10th Street, member of the Board of Education; president of Ribbon Twisters and Loomfixers Local 1058, and International Representative, was recently named recording secretary of the UTW Department of Woven Label Workers, AFL-CIO by UTW International Vice President, Joseph Krause.

Word was received here of the death of Dorothy Henrietta De Bruin in Baldwin, Wisconsin. She was the wife of Leon De Bruin, former teacher in the North Fourth Street Christian School. Surviving are her husband, three sons, one daughter, thirteen grandchildren, her mother, Mrs. E. De Waal Malefyt of this borough, six brothers and four sisters.

NORTH HALEDON

Mike Carlson, Linda Vista Ave., was the winner of the state sheep judging contest, in a very difficult competition, at the College of Agriculture, Rutgers University, New Brunswick.

Carol Hanlon and Marilou Martone are among fifty-five preclinical students of St. Joseph's Hospital School of Nursing who participated in capping ceremonies last Sunday. Exercises were held in the auditorium of the Nurses School.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Lee, 173 Hillside Drive, who became the parents of a son, last Sunday at 7:28 p.m. at Barnert Memorial Hospital.

Strictly

SUBURBAN

Haledon officials saw demonstration of a new fire pumper last week which they are considering for purchase. However, neither Mayor Brown nor Councilman Len Smallheer were invited to observe the work of the equipment which costs around $20,000. As a representative of all citizens the mayor certainly should have been afforded the opportunity of giving his opinion. Ignoring the borough's chief executive, regardless of politics or personal feelings, is the same as ignoring the citizens. There will be public repercussions on this issue later.

West Paterson Tax Collector Charles Ulrich is doing a monumental job for the borough. He is currently handling around $500,000 yearly and it is no easy task.

The Two Guys From Harrison are still the area's value leaders. More and more of the giant highway marts are trying to emulate the pattern established by Herb and Milt Hubschmitt, merchandising experts, behind the Two Guys success story.

Herman Gionti of North Haledon, president of the Regional Board of Education, is slated to become vice president of the Passaic County School Boards Association at the organization's semi-annual dinner May 6.

There are reports that a new independent group is forming in West Paterson. Members include many Democrats dissatisfied with the "vest pocket" sinecure formed by present leadership. The Republican controlled borough council would not have such an easy time if Democrats displayed more unity of purpose.

Skillful handling of a delicate situation will not cause any serious rift in the Totowa Borough Democratic ranks. Both Democratic candidates have a great deal to be proud of in the example and standards established by "Joe" Ryan. Borough affairs were never in better order. The Ryan administration was the first following 50 years of "iron fisted" GOP control.

Emil Gacy, seeking a council post in Clifton, will get plenty of action from his PR men under guidance of Alex Bidnik, top man at Alex Bidnik Associates, specialists in advertising and sales promotions.

Has there been a rapprochement between Little Falls Mayor Jacob De Young and Committeeman Dr. James Stokes? GOP stalwarts on the township committee are peeved at the mayor's attempt to cut the budget by eliminating increases for municipal employees. De Young was concerned about the rising tax rate. It should be an interesting primary.

TO A BRIGHT AND HAPPY EASTER

Easter is a joyous time of the year. At Easter, like at no other time, the world seems much brighter and more full of hope of better things to come. The divine light cast by Him who died to save the world brings a great measure of comfort and reassurance to those mortals who suffer despair and disappointments.

The untold depth of His love knows no limits and cannot fail to inspire us and bring us the reaffirmation in our knowledge that He has been preparing a House for us. Let us each turn our eyes and hearts to the glorious and joyous meaning of Easter, remembering that even amidst the gloom that enshrouds us and in the dreary days ahead, we are not and will not be alone.

He has told us, "I am the Resurrection and the Life." In those seven words there is promise and fulfillment. The promise and fulfillment given to all without qualifications. Whatever may have past, and whatever may be ahead, each of us can look forward with joy in heart, to a bright and happy Easter.

May His blessings be visited upon all of us not only during the Easter season but through each day of the year.

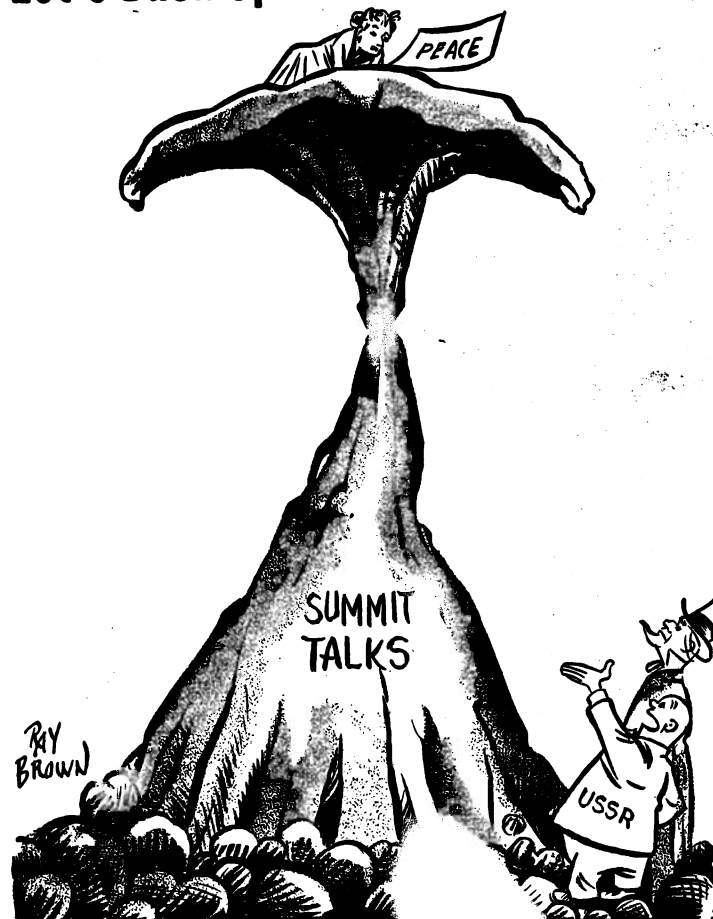

NATIONAL CONSERVATION WEEK

It is impossible to think of a more worth-while activity than National Conservation Week now being observed.

It is to be hoped that the American people get a better idea of what a sound natural resources policy involves. It does not consist of locking these resources up, so to speak, and hiding the key. It does consist of developing and using them wisely — so that we of today may get the vast benefits and still preserve them for future generations.

Our own country has proven the wisdom of that. Vast as our natural resources are, other nations are equally blessed. Our leadership has come from the fact that we have made the most of them under free enterprise development governed by sensible laws.

Let's Dash Up There And Rescue Her

The Editor Speaks

VINCENT S. PARRILLO

Eastertime comes again with its promise and boundless joy as millions of people throughout the world give thought to their mother and father, to their sons and daughters, and also to their friends.

Each and every one of us spends a great deal of time trying to find happiness. Each of us try desperately to find happiness not only at home but also in all our every day walk of life.

Although there is no prescribed form, the true definition for the word happiness is, that state of being gratified by the enjoyment of pleasure, possession, satisfaction and good luck.

The simple beauty and profound wisdom seem to have been completely forgotten by all, including the devout churchgoers. I feel that the most important teaching of the Sermon is expressed in these words: "Love Thy Neighbor," "Love your enemies," "Bless them that curse you . . ."

Now you may think that this teaching cannot be accomplished, that it is unworkable. Of course, it is hard, but this is the sort of forgiveness we must show to those we love so that we may find happiness.

Make Easter Sunday a time of meaning . . . of inspiration. Go to the church of your faith . . . heed the words of your prayer book . . . and your clergyman. Leave with a feeling of PEACE and CONTENTMENT, with which to face the weeks and months to come.

If you do this, I am sure you will find HAPPINESS.

Let's Talk

Politics

—by O J A Y

The opinions expressed in this column are exclusively those of the writer and do not necessarily reflect the policy and opinion of The Chronicle.

Senator Anthony J. Grossi did an admirable job last week in discussing the 1958 CIO legislative program with top Passaic County leaders. His forthright answers dispelled any doubt as to his position in seeking greater benefits for workers. However, in the Assembly the situation was considerably strained when Assemblyman Joseph Keegan lost his temper and flared back at CIO interviewers who sought to learn how he stood on certain issues. His attitude unquestionably lost local Democratic candidates several thousand votes. An elected public official owes a definite obligation to his constituents regardless of political beliefs and certainly does not engage in heated verbal barrages. Keegan made another serious faux pas when he tugged a union button from an inner pocket. John Condron, Passaic CIO leader, member of the State Mediation Board and nationally prominent in labor circles, was among the group to interview the Assemblymen when the incident occurred. It would seem that Democrats need to get together in an effort to learn "how to win friends and influence people". Meanwhile, on the local level party workers expect the patronage stalemate will end immediately after Primary. Acting prosecutor Charles Joelson is said to be swapping jobs with John Thevos, local organization choice for the prosecutorship . . . But who knows! ffl

Mayor Edward J. O'Byrne still not back at his post. The Morning Call campaign to retain the City Hospital has proved successful with approximately 3,500 more names than needed to bring the matter to a referendum . . . Whatever was behind the city's move in eliminating the hospital at this time seems doomed . . . Reports are that the Mayor is very upset about the matter . . . With the withdrawing of Leo Scialla as candidate for Third Ward alderman due to ill health, it now appears that Sam Bruno, Democratic stormy petrel, can repeat past performances and hold on to the aldermanic spot . . . Chief bone of contention is the leadership held by Mike Nottorgiacomo . . . Grapevine sources tell us to watch for the formation of a Passaic - Bergen Association composed of law enforcement men of Italian extraction . . . Several such groups already exist in various parts of the state . . . Assemblyman Robert Wegner is vacationing in Florida.

Paterson police again on a rampage ticketing everything in sight . . . While no one agrees with violators . . . it would seem that a little more consideration on the part of the cops would go a long way in effecting more pleasant and responsive public relations between them and the average citizen.

THE SHOWCASE

By D. G.

Mike Tood Jr., in his late father's footsteps, is said to want to produce a musical TV spectacular of "Gone With The Wind" — Meredith Willson and Franklin Lacy will co-produce a musical TV spectacular of "Little Lord Fauntleroy", starring 10-year old Eddie Hodges — The Duchess of Windsor has reportedly turned down a fabulous offer from CBS-TV to handle a once a week daytime program dealing with the social set — Syndicated columnist BOB Considine will write and narrate a new series, "Battles of the Century," which is being prepared for TV by Hal Roach Studios — Producer Don Fedderson recently auditioned 30 actors for possible selection to star in his forthcoming western TV series, "Town Tamer."

ABC-TV is mulling expanding Frank Sinatra and Sid Caesar to full hours next season in the same time slot on alternate weeks — Milton Berle is understood to be fed up with his retirement from TV, and his return to TV next season is not unlikely — Sessue Hayakawa has signed to star in "End of the Summer Season" on CBS-TV's "Studio One," May 12.

George "Gus" Thow, of Lawrence Welk's ABC-TV shows, holds an A.B. degree from Harvard, was graduated in the same class with Johnny Green and Leroy Anderson.

The top 10 Juke Box Record listed in the April 5th issue of the Cash Box are: "Tequila," by Champs; "Sweet Little Sixteen", by Chuck Berry; "Catch A Falling Star," by Perry Como; "Who's Sorry Now," by Connie Francis; "26 Miles," by Four Preps; "Sail Along Silvery Moon," by Billy Vaughn; "Lollipop," by Chordettes; "It's Too Soon To Know," by Pat Boone; "Get A Job," by Silhouettes, and "Are You Sincere," by Andy Williams.

Tommy Sands has been hailed as one of the best dressed performers on TV. Tommy, on tour with his picture "Sing Boy Sing", was described by Manhattan fashion stylist Irving Heller as "the most modishly garbed of the younger stars now comin up on television."

Vermont Bill: "The Vermont winters are so cold we have to put heaters under the cows so we can milk 'em." Texas Joe: "That's nothing! The Texas summers are so hot we have to feed ice to the hens to keep them from laying hard-boiled eggs."

"Well, my dear," said a businessman who had married his secretary, "I must get someone to replace you at the office."

"I've been thinking of that, replied the bride. "My cousin is just leaving school."

"What's her name?"

"John Henry Briggs," said the bride.

A bride-to-be had just shown her friend the list of wedding guests. "Isn't it strange," asked the friend, "that you've included only married couples?"

"Oh, that was Albert's idea," the bride-to-be replied. "He says that if we invite only married people, the presents will be all clear profit."

Someone asked Groucho Marx if the new house he is building is stucco. "Stucco?" cried Groucho. "I'll say we're getting stucco. We're getting stucco so good our bathroom will cost more than Boulder Dam!"

"Sam sleeps like a baby."

OPERA FARCE — Mac Morgan, John Alexander, Frances Bible and Phyllis Curtin (l. to r.) will sing the roles of two pairs of lovers in Mozart's opera, "Cosi Fan Tutte," when the NBC Opera Company presents it in English on Sunday, April 6 in a two-hour NBC-TV colorcast. The comedy — its title in English means "Women Are Like That" — concerns two men who try to woo their fiancées in disguise on a bet to prove that their girls cannot be tempted.

SPRING Song

BY ARGYE M. BRIGGS

Ellen Hardy sat by the open window in the breakfast nook and gazed listlessly out at the spring sunlight. She'd always loved this shabby little Texas town on Easter morning, with the church bells ringing and the lilacs sweet along the way, but the beauty had no power to stir her today.

She just sat, her competent hands folded in her lap, and admitted that she was licked. Yes, that was the only word for it. There was nothing more that she could do to help Janie.

"It's no use, Aunt Ellen!" The drawn young face across the breakfast table had been in touching contrast to the swollen, slender body. "I know all that pretty tale about the Resurrection and Life hereafter. It's ver ynice, but," and the young voice rose hysterically, "Robert's gone! Nothing, NOTHING can change that!"

Ellen sat alone at the table after the clumsy little figure had stumbled away, her heart one vast ache of sympathy and complete helplessness.

Sympathy, because she, too, had known this heartbreak. Not that the fact that she had lost Carl in the last war seemed to be much comfort to Janie, she thought wryly. "But you weren't MARRIED to him, Aunt Ellen," Janie would remind her tearfully. "It's different when you're married to a man, and having his baby."

Aunt Ellen hadn't talked or argued much about that. Maybe it was different.

It had been deep enough, though, so deep that she had preferred the exasperating routine of teaching rowdy young imps to play the piano, to taking second best with some other man. It had been deep enough to cause her to lavish all the affection of her heart on the orphaned Janie instead of demanding a home and family of her own. Maybe it was different with Janie, though.

How was an old maid music teacher to know!

Ellen sighed and absently stirred the cold coffee in her cup. Darling Janie, such a sweet little girl, with her loving little "Tante" instead of the prim "Aunt Ellen" of later years.

Dear little Janie, all brown pigtailed and thin little legs, eager-eyed and dreaming!

"Aunt Ellen!" The voice from the bedroom was husky with a new note, "Aunt Ellen, can you come here a minute, please?"

Ellen hurried into the bedroom to find a white-faced Janie gripping with tense hands the edge of the dressing table.

"Aunt Ellen, I—" Janie began, then her voiced faltered.

"I understand—" Ellen helped the girl to the bed, and swallowing the scared lump in her throat, spoke reassuredly, "Tell me when—" she looked at her watch and waited. Five minutes ticked by, then Janie clutched at her hand with a frantic clasp.

Ellen hurried to the telephone in the hall, "Five minutes apart— Yes, Doctor. Yes, Yes—"

"We are to wait here until they are three minutes apart, Janie," she told the frightened girl, then go to the hospital. It may be hours, the doctor says, and it may be minutes. You'll be more comfortable here as long as you can stay. They are so crowded in the hospital."

"Can—can I get up?" Janie's voice was tremulous.

"Sure! Sure, get up and walk around if you want to," Ellen assumed a matter-of-factness that she did not feel.

She left Janie moving slowly about the bedroom, and went into the kitchen. She poured the now tasteless coffee down the drain and shook soap flakes into the dishpan. Raising her head in the habit of years, she looked out the window over the sink.

Thank goodness it was spring at last, anyway! Easter Sunday! She'd not make it to church this day. Last year's dress with the new fichu would just have to wait to be admired.

It had been a mighty long winter—long and dreary. Endless gray days with a crushed and deeply bitter Janie to keep going. Ellen often thought that if the telegram had come at any other time than November, it might have been easier. Janie had been so sick and so gallant about it. When the telegram came something in her seemed to die.

"You'd better tell her," Doctor Martin had decided. "Or the resentment of not having known may be bad for her."

So Ellen had told her. Janie lay in the big bed with Robert's gifts around her. He had managed to send her something every week, some foolish little offering to make her laugh and to help tide her over the bad time. A toy chicken from Cleveland, a woolly rabbit from New York, and the latest one, wired only a few days before the telegram, an out of season Easter lily—wired from England!

Ellen had broken the news as gently as possible, but Janie had stared at her in dazed unbelief. It was days later that she began the bitter tirades that had occurred at intervals ever since.

The first one had been over the Easter lily.

"Take that thing out of here!" she stormed—"It's dead! I hate it! I hate it!"

Ellen had protested, "Janie, Robert gave it to you."

Janie's answer had been to snatch up the little pot with its withering flower, lean over the bed to unhook the window and hurl it into the flowerbed below. "There! I hate it! It's dead, dead, dead, like Robert is dead!" Her voice rose.

Ellen sighed at the memory and taking down the tea towel, went to work on the cups. She could hear the restless shuffle of Janie's feet as she trudged about the house.

Poor child, she was frightened and it was a frightening thing. Ellen wished there were some way to give her some joy of all this, but Janie seemed to have closed her heart and her mind to any thought other than rebellious grief.

"Aunt Ellen," Jane stood in the doorway, "I think I'd better go now."

Ellen laid down the towel. "Get on your things and I'll get the car." She hurried out of her apron and went to the garage on legs that suddenly felt weak.

"Thank goodness, you don't have a flat," she told the old car grimly, as she jammed her foot against the starter.

She parked the car in front of the house and went back to help Janie.

"There, Honey, you go on out to the car," she told the girl, "and I'll bring your bag. Go slow, Baby," she admonished and Janie smiled back at her.

The girl opened the front door and slowly walked out. The warm wind caught at her light cape, and it billowed softly about her.

Ellen went up to the bedroom and picked up the long-packed bag, and hurried out the front door. She set the bag down, locked the door and turned to go down the walk. She stopped in surprise, for Janie was nowhere in sight.

"Janie!" Ellen's voice was frightened. "Tante!"

Ellen turned to discover Janie kneeling by the flowerbed. "What—" she began in alarm, and went over to the girl.

"Se, Tante!" she pointed to the overturned flowerpot and the spilled soil about it.

Ellen looked. Up from the dirt, up from the harshness of the long winter, up from the death in the discarded flowerpot, grew the fresh slender green shoots of an Easter lily.

Janie stood up, and the eyes she turned on Ellen were quick with faith.

"I'm going to name the baby Robert," she smiled, and went down the walk to the car.

This Week In AMERICAN HISTORY

BY WILLIAM BRODIE

THE FIRST PONY EXPRESS

There was big excitement in the frontier town of St. Joseph, Missouri on April 3, 1860. The long-awaited Overland Pony Express was to start that day. It was a big moment for the West. A crowd had gathered to see the first rider take off.

After months of planning, the 1,980 mile route from St. Joseph, Missouri to Sacramento, California, had been laid out by an independent company. Now, at five o'clock in the afternoon, the first rider swung himself into the saddle of a fast horse and, with a parting wave of hand, galloped westward out of town while the watching crowd cheered loudly. The Pony Express was off!

At the same time, nearly two thousand miles away, another Pony Express rider was galloping eastward from Sacramento. These two riders were the first of 80 rugged horsemen who had been hired to rush the mails across the plains, mountains and deserts. There were few settlements in the wild western country at that time, and over much of the way there was constant danger from hostile Indians.

The route went past Fort Kearney, Julesburg, Scotts Bluff, Fort Laramie, South Pass, Fort Bridger, Salt Lake City, Fort Churchill, Carson City, Placerville, and into Sacramento, all landmarks of the old frontier. Stage-coaches took 30 to 40 days to make this run. The Pony Express cut the time to an average of less than 14 days. And to speed the delivery of President Lincoln's first inaugural address to California the 1,980 miles were raced in seven days and seven hours, or approximately 270 miles a day!

Pony Express stations had been built on an average of every 15 miles along the route. Each rider had a run of between 40 to 125 miles which he covered at a steady gallop whenever possible. When the rider came pounding into a station he was given two minutes to change his saddle-bags to a fresh pony and dash away.

Mark Twain, the famous author, while riding in a stage-coach at night across the desert, describes the speed of the Pony Express rider as follows: "We heard only a whiz and a hail, and the swift phantom was gone before we could get our heads out of the windows."

By day or night, in winter or summer through rain, snow, sleet, over crazy mountain trails against hostile Indians, the Pony Express riders never faltered. And in the 18 months of their existence they covered 650,000 miles and lost only one mail.

The Overland Pony Express was well-planned, but it was very expensive. Special saddles had to be made; 500 horses were used; and in addition to the 80 riders, hundreds of station keepers were hired. All of them were sworn not to drink, curse or quarrel. A fee of $5.00 per half ounce was charged for every piece of mail carried.

In October, 1861 the first telegraph wire crossed the country from New York to San Francisco and the Pony Express was given up. In its 18 months of service it had accomplished wonders. But now that the slender wire stretched from coast to coast the Pony Express became a thing of the past. Its last race had been run.
