COVER PICTURE:

This week we commemorate the birth of our first president of these United States, George Washington. It was his understanding and patient leadership in the fight for liberty that enabled this country to be born. It was his refusal to be perpetuated in office that set the standards of our democracy. Although he has long ago gone the way of all flesh, the fruits of his work and life are with us today, and upon the foundations which he helped to lay we are still building our nation.

The CHRONICLE

BLIND LOVE — Richard Cross, as Donato, a war-blinded youth, falls in love with Franca Duval, who plays the title role—a woman married to a war prisoner—in "Maria Golovin," Gian Carlo Menotti's opera which will be colorcast on the NBC-TV Network Sunday, March 8. Donato is tormented by jealousy in his love for Maria.

Columbiettes Complete Plans For Fashion Show

Plans have been made for the Third Annual Bridge and Fashion Show to be sponsored by the Paterson Columbiettes.

This charity fund raising event will take place on May 8, at the Alexander Hamilton Hotel.

Mrs. Vincent Mott, president, has selected as her co-chairmen, Mrs. Robert McNamara and Miss Jane Capobianco. Mrs. Sam Sibilio, fashion chairman, has announced that Marcelle Fashions will provide the dresses; hats will be by Grace E. L.; and furs by Pastore.

Other chairmen will be: Tickets, Mrs. Paul Vergari; door prizes, Mrs. Arthur Van Houten; table prizes, Mrs. Michael Millazzo; program book, Miss Rose Fay; special awards, Miss Florence Irmieri, publicity, Mrs. Charles Attara.

Vallace To Be Honored At Elks Dinner

A testimonial dinner dance honoring Joseph E. Wallace is being sponsored by the Past Exalted Ruler of Paterson Elks Lodge. Mr. Wallace is vice president of the North Central District of the Elks organization.

Wallace was an Exalted Ruler of the Paterson Elks lodge during the term of 1952-53.

Judge Edward G. Weiss will be the toastmaster, and tickets for the affair can be obtained from any member of the Past Exalted Rulers Association.

Glacier Threatens to Wipe Out Village

The villagers of Herbriggen, Switzerland, have left their homes. Wild animals are scampering around looking for a place of safety. Mount Nadelhorn, which overshadows the village has been covered with a glacier, which threatens to slide down the mountainside.

It is estimated that 300,000 tons of rocks and earth will deluge the village if the glacier starts sliding. The slide has moved one hundred feet in the last nine days, but it can at a moment's notice come ripping down the mountain, covering everything in its path.

Principal of Wayne Receives Award

The principal of Wayne's senior high school, John Van Dyken, received a special citation in this year's "Principal of the Year Award." There were seven other principals who received like awards.

Jersey Turnpike Traffic Heavy In January

Revenue traffic on the New Jersey Turnpike in January of this year was up 11.8 per cent and toll revenues 12.6 per cent compared with January 1958, as announced by Joseph Morecraft, Jr., chairman of the Authority.

A total of 3,187,600 vehicles was carried in January, 1959, against 2,849,900 in January 1958. Toll revenues totaled $2,203,400 compared to $1,957,500 a year ago.

The safety record on the Turnpike in January, this year, showed 61 accidents of all kinds; equal to a rate of 71.0 for each 100 million miles, compared to 73 accidents and a rate of 94.2 per 100 million miles on January, 1958. There were no fatalities in January of 1959, while in the same month a year ago there was one fatality.

Jersey Coast Boat Show To Be Held February 21

The sixth annual Jersey Coast Boat Show will open in Asbury Park's Convention Hall on February 21 and continue through March 1.

The show this year will bring together the largest roster of exhibitors ever assembled for this event.

According to Jerry Gasque, director of the colorful marine exposition, more than 200 exhibits will be featured in a vast array of engines, gear and equipment, on the two huge levels of the large beachfront convention building.

Those attending will see a record panorama of pleasure boats, powered and sail, inboard and outboard from leading United States and European marine manufacturers. During the show the Disabled American Veterans will chance off a sporty, all inclusive outboard motor and equipment.

Another special feature will include free courses given during the marine show by the U. S. Coast Guard and Auxiliary with veteran boat operators in charge.

The Turnpike and Garden State Parkway bring the sixth annual show close to the vast populations of North Jersey and New York.

The show will be open daily from 1 p.m. to 11 p.m. and Sundays from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m.

A giant forest fire raged in Italy this week in the vicinity of Mt. Grappa. Mt. Grappa was a World War II battle ground.

Firemen and Alpine troops battle the blaze, the biggest fire was near the mountain.

BEAUTY OF SCANDINAVIA ON FILM IN GLEN ROCK

The Education and Scholarship committee of the Glen Rock Woman's Club will present a full color adventure film April 3 at eight o'clock in the Junior High School auditorium.

The film will show the "Four Seasons of Scandinavia." The beauty of this rugged area of our globe will be brought to the residents in the comfort of home.

The film portrays the countryside, fjords, waterfalls and everyday life of the people.

HOUSE LABOR COMMITTEE TO STUDY UNEMPLOYMENT

Rep. Cleveland M. Bailey proposed this week that the House Labor Committee investigate unemployment. He says there about "25 different practices that are causing unemployment. He mentioned specifically a drop in exports, award of a government turbine contract to a foreign firm and imports of fuel oil.

Chairman Graham A. Barden appointed five committee members to try work out some method for conducting investigation

TOO MANY OFFICERS IN NAVY; SEEK SOLUTION

The Navy seems to be plagued with too many experienced senior officers. They have asked Congress to help in eliminating the surplus.

Navy Secretary Thomas S. Gates, Jr., said the Navy has 8,000 commanders and lieutenants to squeeze into 2,000 captain posts. The Marines have 3,000 lieutenant colonels and majors for 580 colonels' jobs.

He said the officers entered the service during World War II.

MANIE'S FRIENDS — The greatest lineup of top stars ever assembled for a telecast will perform on Liggett & Myers' production of "Some of Manie's Friends," 90-minute colorcast on the NBC-TV Network Tuesday, March 3. The performers, all of whom were helped in their careers by the late Manie Sacks, NBC and RCA executive, will work at minimum union scale so that Liggett & Myers can donate in excess of $200,000 to the

Emanuel Sacks Foundation. Pictured here are: upper left — Manie Sacks and Dinah Shore; upper right — (top) Kay Starr and Eddie Fisher, (bottom) Sid Caesar and Rosemary Clooney; lower left — (top) Perry Como and Jane Wyman, (bottom) Tony Martin and Nat King Cole; lower right — Manie Sacks and Frank Sinatra. ## BILLIONS FROM PENNIES

"Life begins at 40" is a saying that will hold little comfort for the nation's highway taxpayers on Wednesday, February 25. That day marks the fortieth birthday of America's first gasoline tax.

The "gas tax" idea was born on February 25, 1919, when a "one cent a gallon" levy was enacted by the Oregon legislature. That year three other states followed suit. By 1929 every state had a gasoline tax, and by then the average rate had climbed to 3.8 cents a gallon. In 1932, a federal gasoline tax was added.

In its first year this "penny tax" cost the motorists of four states a little more than $1 million dollars. Now it is costing highway users a whopping $4.6 billion a year. Its present national average rate of 8.9 cents a gallon amounts to a 41 per cent "sales tax" on gasoline.

In 40 years, motorists have paid $52.8 billion in state and federal gasoline taxes — more than half of this just since 1951. State gas tax receipts, now running to more than $3 billion a year, have more than doubled in the last ten years, with 75 rate increases enacted since World War II.

The federal tax, its rate doubled by two increases enacted since the war, is today costing motorists $1.6 billion a year at 3 cents a gallon. Now there is a move for another increase — the biggest ever — to boost the federal rate to four and one-half cents a gallon.

With that, motorists would be paying on an average more than $1 in gas tax on every ten gallons — and close to five and a half billion a year — a large part of it channeled to general funds, not roads.

So a Happy "Gas Tax" Birthday to you!

"WE BELIEVE . . ."

On the occasion of its 35th anniversary, the American Farm Bureau Federation adopted resolutions explaining its credo. These included the following:

We believe:

- . . . in the American competitive enterprise system.
- . . . that a man's search for progress should be encouraged by maintenance of opportunity, not hindered by illusions of security.
- . . . that a person should be rewarded in accordance with his productive contribution to society.
- . . . That every man is entitled to own property, earn money honestly, save, invest and spend as he chooses.
- . . . that government's regulatory functions should be based on law.
- . . . that government should provide only minimum controls and aids.
- . . . that government should stimulate, not discourage individual initiative."

'I Get The Spotlight'

The Editor Speaks

VINCENT S. PARRILLO

One of my readers wants to know why I never write anything about cats. Don't I like cats? Don't I think they are much smarter than dogs, much cleaner, much nicer all around? Well, I'm not going to get myself into any controversy about cats and dogs when I have refused to get mixed up in arguments on whether the Republican or the Democratic party is the better one.

All I want to say here is that I can take cats or leave them, that I have no prejudice either for or against them and that when one of my friends recently named a kitten Vinnie, my nickname, (he said it looked like me) I felt duly honored although not deeply moved. Now when we go to visit that friend and his wife calls "Vinnie", I never know whether it's me or the cat she means.

Perhaps I have misjudged that cat which has been sitting in our backyard watching the birds and trying to catch them. Perhaps it wasn't she at all that caught some of these birds whose feathers I saw lying all over the ground. But for some reason that self-same cat take it on the lam every time she sees me (it IS a she) and, at least to me she looks as if she has a very guilty conscience.

Frankly I cannot say that I am over-fond of cats, which, I know makes absolutely no difference to all you cat-lovers. You'll go on loving yours anyway and I hope you'll give them all the affection of which you are capable. Any kind of affection for others than yourself is good.

And now a statement which I know will get me in wrong with a lot of my women readers.

A cat is definitely a woman's pet. I have asked at least 30 men and I found only one (and he was a hen-peck) who preferred cats to dogs. All the others considered cats only as mouse catchers. As I told you, I have nothing against cats — but, gosh darn it, there is that pussy under the tree again. Pardon me while I chase her away.

Self-employed Persons Must Pay Social Security; It Is Mandatory

Self-employed persons are reminded by Stanley J. Fiorese, district manager of the Paterson Social Security office, to report their earnings for social security purposes with their income tax returns. Generally, these reports must be filed with Internal Revenue Service by April 15, 1959.

Any person engaged in a trade, business, or profession covered by Social Security who has $400 or more net profit from his business must report this income for social security purposes. Also, he must pay the 1958 social security self-employment tax on his net earnings on earnings up to $4,200 for 1958. The tax rate for self-employed persons on 1958 earnings is 3% per cent.

Self-employed persons are reminded that the payment of the social security tax is mandatory and not voluntary. Often a self-employed person may have enough exemptions to result in his not owing any income tax, yet the net earnings from his business are $400 or more, so he must pay the social security self employment tax.

It is important that the person's social security number be shown on the income tax return so that his social security account can be credited with the earnings reported.

For further information regarding social security tax questions, consult the nearest Internal Revenue Service office. For information regarding old-age, survivors, and disability benefits, contact the Social Security office at 245 Market Street, Paterson.

New 4-Cent Postage Stamp For NATO Meet

The Post Office Department will issue a special stamp in the 4-cent denomination on April 4, at Washington, D. C., during the three-day NATO meeting to be held there, beginning April 2. The new stamp will honor the tenth anniversary of the signing of the North Atlantic Treaty, binding fifteen nations "to safeguard the freedom, common heritage and civilization of their people, founded on the principles of democracy, individual liberty and the rule of law," according to Frank W. Murphy, postmaster at Paterson.

A proposal by the Government of France that NATO member nations issue one or more stamps to mark this significant anniversary was strongly supported by the United States Department of State.

TUBERCULOSIS ON DECLINE

The World Health Organization says that deaths caused by tuberculosis dropped roughly fifty per cent from 1952 to 1957. New drug were credited in the main for this decrease.

SOVIETS MAY PERMIT SOME JEWS TO GO TO ISRAEL

It seems probable that the Soviet Union will permit a small scale migration of Russian Jews to Israel, according to authoritative Jewish sources.

It is believed that several hundred Jews would receive exit visas this year for Israel on condition that they have relatives living there.

It is estimated that about 3-million Jews reside in Russia.

RAISING CHICKENS IN SALT MINES IN EAST GERMANY

Planners in Communist East Germany are sending chickens to the salt mines until they can be sent to market.

The official ADN News Agency reported that 20,000 chickens are being raised in the abandoned salt mines near Stassfurt.

The warm, even temperature in the tunnels reacts very favorably on the chickens growth, and the tunnels form natural pens.

"ACCENT ON LOVE"—A host of top-rated stars will be featured in comedy, dance, song and story in an original and gay musical revue, "Accent on Love." This "gentle spoof of love" will be presented on the "Pontiac Star Parade" special colorcast on the NBC-TV Network Saturday, Feb. 28. Here

STRIKE! — Sports caster Mel Allen makes believe he's calling a baseball strike, but it's really bowling strikes he's interested in here. Allen emcees NBC-TV Network's "Phillies Jackpot Bowling" show every Friday night following the boxing telecasts.

"Harold is awfully obstinate."
"In what way?"
"It's the hardest thing in the world to make him admit I'm right when he knows I'm wrong."
"A fellow told me I looked like you."
"Where is he?"
"I killed him."

One evening Jones was discovered by Brown trying to push a horse on to his front doorstep.

"I say, old man, do give me a hand," he pleaded, and Brown, wondering, did so. "Now," continued Jones, "let's get him up the stairs and into the bathroom."

After a lot of struggling, they got the horse safely installed, and Jones closed the door on him.

"What's all this about?" asked Brown, puzzled.

"I'll tell you," said Jones. "I've got a brother-in-law living with me and he knows everything. When he goes in the bathroom tomorrow morning he'll shout down: 'Hey, there's a horse in the bathroom,' and for the first time I'll be able to shout back: 'Yes, I know!'"

"I've decided I won't be married till I'm 25," confided the co-ed.

"And I, said her elder sister, have decided not to be 25 till I'm married."

Released by Blackstone Press Features.

CONFERENCE ON LINCOLN PARK FLOOD CONTROL

To hasten the Lincoln Park area flood control study members of the Upper Valley Flood Control Committee will meet in Washington with U. S. Senators Harrison Williams and Clifford Case on March 2. After completion of the study it will be presented to federal authorities.

MRS. ROBERT M. SCHMITZ

St. Bonaventure's R. C. Church was the setting for the marriage of Miss Alice Attema, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Attema of 124 Nagle Street, to Robert Schmitz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schmitz of Clifton. A reception followed at Schweisguth's in Clifton. The couple are on a wedding trip to Florida.

MRS. PHILIP PRIMERANO

The marriage of Miss Virginia Galione to Phil Primerano was solemnized recently at the Christadelphian Chapel. A reception followed at the Villa Nova Restaurant. Miss Galione is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ignatius Galione of Garfield. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Primerano of Garfield. On their return from a wedding trip to the Pocono Mountains the couple will reside at 79 Semel Avenue, Garfield.

Stars in Old Vic's "Hamlet," Feb. 24

John Neville stars in the title role and Barbara Jefford plays Ophelia when London's famed Old Vic Company presents "Hamlet," Shakespeare's action-packed drama of revenge, as the CBS Television Network's Du Pont "Show of the Month," Tuesday, Feb. 24. The distinguished American actor Fredric March is host of this special 90-minute production, which comes live from New York as the climax of the Old Vic Company's triumphant United States tour.

LEGACY

BY LOUIS ARTHUR CUNNINGHAM

The little midwestern town had turned out just as Keller had always pictured it: Monroe Street was just the Monroe Street that Buddy Laurence had spoken about so often — wide, shaded by huge maples, neat white houses set in bright lawns and lovely gardens. He recognized the Claire House in a moment and, though his heart gave a little jolt at the sight of her, he knew that he would have felt let down and disappointed if Mary Claire had not been sitting there on the wide verandah in the soft summer twilight.

The scent of phlox and mignonette, of stock and primrose, was exquisitely sweet to him, only a short while removed from the stench and reek of war. He thought of the roads he had walked less than a week ago, the scenes he had witnessed, and contrasting them with this picture of peace, he thought of how unreal it all seemed.

He felt glad that this was all as he had pictured it so often when he had listened to Buddy tell about it. And he wished — how he wished — that he was bent on a different errand, that there was no need for bitterness or reproach between him and this lovely dark girl on the chaise-lounge who looked up from her knitting as the tall Marine sergeant climb the steps and strode across the floor to stand above her.

The slue-black eyes grew wide, the soft lips parted and the color ebbed from her cheeks.

"You—" She was the first to break the silence. "You are Ross Keller, aren't you?"

"Yes." He wanted to hate her; he'd practiced hating her ever since Buddy died, and with that ugly letter of hers to bolster him, it hadn't been so hard to call her small-soled, shallow, a lot of other things. But now, close to her, he saw how small she was and young — only nineteen — and vulnerable and a bit afraid.

"So you're Mary Claire. I know you so well from your picture. Buddy often showed it to me, and I—"

He'd often sneaked a look at it, often dreamed about it and about her. He never tired of hearing Buddy talk about Mary Claire, of the way she laughed, the things she said, of how wonderful life was going to be when they were married.

"I was with Buddy when he died."

He'd meant it to be cruel, but he hated himself when he saw the look that came over that young, sweet face. He tried to be hard. Hell, look what she had done to Buddy — or would have done if he'd ever lived to read the letter in which she gave him the boot.

"Why did you come to Milverton? Just to—"

"Just to see in the flesh, the girl who could write a chap who'd lost his legs and tell him she wasn't up to sharing life with a cripple."

"Oh!" It was only a whisper. "I—"

"I'd been reading his mail to him — after he came out of the ether. He as a game one, Buddy. He'd have done fine—"

"You started to talk about the letter—"

"Yes. He was in bad shape the day it came, but we thought hearing from you would help him a bit. So I opened your letter. I always glance over a paragraph before I read it. So when I read what you'd written — I can quote it. I'll always be able to; for it's burned on my heart, I think — 'We'll have to call it off, Buddy. No matter how great one's love — and I have never doubted yours any more than you have mine — the strain of being married to a lifetime cripple is too much to put on any affection—'"

"When I looked up from the letter," he said softly. "Buddy was gone — just like that. He never did hear it."

Mary Claire's eyes opened slowly and were steady and unrepentant on his, that were steel blue and agate-hard. "I'm glad," she whispered. "So glad he never got to hear it. What did you do with it?"

"Does it matter? I chucked in in the wastebasket."

"And you hated me, didn't you?"

"Yes," he said, his gaze burning into hers. "I did hate you, I thought, you see, that you were the kind of girl whose love would become even stronger when her man was hurt, who would be a tower of strength, stick by his side."

She just looked at him in silence, searchingly frankly as a child.

"Buddy sent me lots of pictures of you," she said. "I knew just what you looked like. I—I always hoped you would come—but not — not this way."

"The same with me." He looked away from the steady gaze. He couldn't hate this girl, no matter what she was or what she had done.

"I'd promised Buddy I'd go see you if — if anything ever happened to him. He sort of left you to me — like a legacy."

"But you didn't want the legacy after—"

"Could you blame me? But I can't seem to hate you now. Maybe you were right. Maybe it never does work out—"

"You mean—?"

"A whole person and a handicapped one—"

"I don't know. It was just—"

He was looking at her almost hungrily. She read what was in his eyes.

"You're very lovely," he said. "I—I don't see how — anyway, I—"

"What are you trying to tell me, Ross?"

"That I love you, I guess — that I always loved you — from your picture, from your letters. I thought so much about you—"

"You'll have to forget." There was something like panic in her voice. "You'll have to. You — maybe you'd better go now—"

"Okay!" Bitterness crept back into his voice. "Goodbye," he said. "I guess I've done just what I came to do. I'm flying to Chicago tonight. I suppose we'll never see each other again."

"I suppose not. It was — was good of you to come — to tell me — oh, please go now."

He strode down the path. Thunderheads that had been building up for the past hour were rumbling over the hills.

At the gate, he met a small woman, hurry-up the street. She smiled at him. He knew her. He'd seen her in some of Buddy's endless snapshots. Mary Claire's mother. There were only the two of them.

"Were you to see Mary?" Her voice was young, her smile ready. "Must you hurry away?"

"I wonder — if you're not in a hurry—" The clouds burst and the rain bucketed down. "Run for it." She laughed up at him and grabbed his hand and he found himself running up the garden path and back onto the porch.

"Oh, mother—" She looked panic-stricken. "We'd better get in before we're soaked. Here, sergeant, you're a big strong man—you can carry her—"

"Carry her?"

"Why, yes. Didn't you know? Mary got polio shortly before Buddy was wounded. That was why she wrote him calling off their engagement. But she's coming along fine now. She can stand."

Keller stood looking down at her. He bent; his arms went out to her slowly and hers like a child's, eager and trusting, reached up to encircle his neck.

This Week In AMERICAN HISTORY

—BY WILLIAM BRODIE—

IWO JIMA

The "toughest battle in the history of the U. S. Marine Corps" began on February 19, 1945 and lasted for nearly a month. This was the bloody battle of Iwo Jima.

Iwo Jima is a tiny island in the western Pacific about 750 miles south of Japan. It is part of a group known as the Volcano Islands. Very little vegetation grows here and water has to be brought in or caught in rain traps. The entire island is only five and a half miles long and one and a half miles wide. Yet 40,000 fighting men died or fell wounded on its worthless soil.

The Japanese had made an important base out of Iwo Jima. They had two airfields on the island from where their interceptor planes attacked the B-29's flying their bombing trips to Japan from Saipan. And Iwo Jima was within fighter plane range of Tokyo.

The tiny island was heavily fortified by 22,000 Japanese troops commanded by Lieutenant General Tadamichi Kuribayashi. The hilly ground sloping up from the beaches was studded with caves, blockhouses, pillboxes, all deeply dug in. All types of mortars, rockets and artillery defended the island, in addition to thousands of machine guns. Iwo Jima was a tough military nut to crack. The job of cracking it was given to the Fifth Marine Amphibious Corps made up of the 3rd, 4th and 5th Marine divisions commanded by Major General Harry Schmidt.

Months of continuous shelling and bombing by American planes and warships had failed to soften up the defenses of the Japanese defenders, deep in their rocky caves, when the first Marines piled ashore on the western beaches of the island. Losses, light at first, soon became heavy as the Marines began pushing inland and the mortar and artillery fire began to pin them down.

The three main objectives for our Marines were Mount Suribachi, an extinct volcano 546 feet high at the southern tip of the island, and the two airfields known as Motoyama No. 1 and No. 2 in the northern and central sections of the island. It took four terrible days of ceaseless fighting to capture Mount Suribachi, almost foot by foot. But by the 23rd of February the Marines had the flag flying on the peak.

On the same day the Marines reached the main airfield, but it took three more days of ferocious fighting before it was captured. Over the hills and ridges of the island the Marines advanced doggedly against the bitterly contesting enemy. From their caves and hidden cement pillboxes poured an unending fire from weapons ranging from machine guns to heavy artillery. In one area 1000 yards long by 200 deep nearly a thousand pillboxes had to be silenced. The Japanese, grimly determined to make the American invaders pay bloodily for every inch of ground, fought to the death.

It was slow, awfully tough warfare with rifle, bayonet, mortar, flame-thrower and artillery, and the Marines lost heavily in rooting the enemy out of his underground strongholds. The battle of extermination lasted for almost a month. Not until March 16 did the Iwo Jima campaign end when the island was completely in U. S. hands.

The entire Japanese garrison of 22,000 men was killed or captured. Marine losses were nearly 20,000 killed, wounded and missing. No other campaign in Marine Corps history had been so tough and so costly. To their glorious record, reaching from the halls of Montezuma to the shores of Tripoli, the U. S. Marines could now add the magnificent chapter of rocky Iwo Jima.
