CITY SLICKER — Chicago, Ill. — Just a few blocks south of Chicago's bustling loop (background), corn flourishes under the cultivation of a city farmer and the protection of a pair of scarecrows. The "farm" is located between railroad tracks at about 16th Street in the City.

Louis C. Pisacane, Sr., is sworn in as North Haledon's new Tax Assessor by Floyd V. Amoresano, borough attorney, in ceremonies held in the Municipal Building. Pisacane, who was elected last November and will take office July 1st, becomes the first Democrat to assume the office in the 57 year history of the borough of North Haledon.

REALISTIC APPROACH TO ABSTRACT ART — Pittsburgh, Pa. — Four-year-old Michael Thomas does what most of us want to do while trying to make head or tail of a piece of abstract art. Michael is employing the upside-down technique while looking at a painting. P.S. Even upside-down he didn't dig it.

"GO EAST!" — That's the advice Jack Linkletter followed. The handsome young son of radio and TV star Art Linkletter left California for New York to become emcee of the NBC-TV Network's new colorcast quiz show, "Haggis Baggis," on Monday nights.

CUTE? — NOT ON YOUR LIFE! — Los Angeles, Calif. — They may look like playful pups but if you were "Little Red Riding Hood" you would know the difference right away. Standing with MaMa Wolf in the cage at the Griffith Park Zoo, this trio seems fuzzy and frolicsome, but, as their names imply — Little Bad Wolf No. 1, 2 and 3 — these grey timber wolves can't be tamed, trained or civilized in any way.

REBEL TANKS IN INDONESIAN CITY — Bukittinggi, Indonesia — Rebel tanks roll through the streets of Bukittinggi after the city was occupied by rebel forces. The U.S. State Department has granted export licenses for shipment of small arms to the Indonesian Government of President Sukarno, officials disclosed. Licenses for the small arms had been blocked since the outbreak of hostilities in Indonesia in February. Officials emphasized that approval of these licenses did not mean there had been any lifting of the general American embargo against major military shipments to Indonesia until hostilities end.

'TODAY IS OURS' — Patricia Benoit, Peter Lazer, Joyce Lear and Patrick O'Neal (left to right) will be seen in the new NBC-TV Network feature, "Today Is Ours," which starts June 30 on a Monday-through-Friday daytime schedule. Miss Benoit plays the role of an assistant high school principal who is raising her young son (Peter Lazer) without any other help.

New Social Security Law For Clergy

Public Law 239 has given clergymen another chance to come under social security according to Stanley J. Fioresi, district manager of the Paterson district office of the Social Security Administration.

Mr. Fioresi stated that under the Social Security Amendments of 1954, clergymen could come under social security as self-employed persons by filing a waiver certificate with the Internal Revenue Service. This certificate was due on or before the income tax return date for their second taxable year after 1954. This group includes Christian Science Practitioners and members of religious orders who had not taken the vows of poverty and were performing duties required by the order. For most clergymen, the 1954 Social Security Amendments created an April 1957 deadline for filing the necessary tax waiver.

According to Mr. Fioresi, many ministers failed to elect coverage in time — probably due to lack of knowledge or a misunderstanding of the tax law. By amending the law again in 1956, Congress extended the deadline for filing the necessary tax waiver. For most clergymen, this new date is April 15, 1959.

Mr. Fioresi stated further that the value of meals and lodging furnished to a clergyman is counted in figuring his gross income for social security purposes. He advises ministers desiring more information to get in touch with the nearest social security district office or Internal Revenue Service office.

In Paterson, the Social Security office is located at 245 Market Street.

HALEDON

Haledon lost two fine gentlemen last week. Mr. Edward MacBurney, 45 Tilt Street, and Mr. Alfred F. Bottcher, 256 Granite Avenue. Our sympathies are with those left behind.

George MacBurney, son of the late Mr. MacBurney had left for Camp Drum Friday evening after being assured by the doctors that his father, up until then, was recuperating as well as could be expected. On the way to camp, the truck that George was in, jackknifed, and he received slight injuries to his arm. Naturally, this caused his vehicle to drop out of convoy making him late in getting to camp. When he did arrive, messages had been relayed from the Haledon police notifying George of his father's death, and arrangements were made for him to fly home. He will return to camp now to complete his two weeks sojourn.

Mrs. August Hansch with her sons, Garry and Steve, have returned home to Dallas, Texas, after a two week visit with the James Grayson family at 90 Cliff Street. Mrs. Hansch is the sister of Mrs. Helen Grayson, teacher in the Absalom Grundy school and former school board member.

Mr. Blackwell graduated from Central High School, Oklahoma City, Okla. He served four years in the U. S. Navy, part of that time aboard the Aircraft Carrier USS Valley Forge, during the Korean War.

Miss Jones, is the niece of county clerk, Floyd E. Jones, and was employed for a number of years at the First National Bank.

Alternates were Janet Harding, 53 Ave. C, and Ann Silvestri, 329 Haledon Avenue. All girls were selected by the principal and faculty of the high schools the girls attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Belle, 53 Henry Street, celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary recently. They were married June 17, 1933, in St. Paul's R. C. Church, Prospect Park, by the Rev. Angelus Stevens. They have one son, Louis, a sophomore at Central High. Mrs. Belle is the former Teena Granatell. Mr. Belle is a popular mail carrier in the Haledon area and is trustee of the PAL and is immediate past president of the PAL.

At the court of honor held last week for Boy Scout Troop 10, second class badges were presented to George Shannon, Thomas Ebersbach, Joseph Van Putten, Michael Malone, George Dowd, and Robert Foster. Mothers of the boys were given second class miniature pins. A merit badge was given to Paul Ebersbach for stamp collecting. Among the scouts who attended the court were Richard Bansini, William Royle, David Van Dyne, Larry Holland, August Scheck, Joseph Steyh and Charles Philpott.

James Royle, Richard Ebersbach and Richard Malone, committee men. A weekend camping trip completed the activities.

Arthur Zinn, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Zinn, Sr., 585 Belmont Avenue, has been named to the dean's list for the second semester of his sophomore year at Fairleigh Dickenson University, Teaneck campus. He is majoring in mechanical engineering.

Haledon's Emergency Ambulance Association's twenty-fifth anniversary celebration is getting into full swing. Everyone's hoping for nice weather on September 20. Keep that date open, for a great parade through all three boroughs served by the squad.

Last Saturday's drizzly weather caused postponement until today (Saturday) the picnic of the Sunday School of the First Presbyterian Church of North Haledon and the field day of Haledon's Fiftieth Anniversary celebration.

Area schools were heavily hit by vandals. Parents should realize that if they don't know where their children are, when they're out at night, they could be blamed. Every parent who is a taxpayer pays for repairs through a higher school budget. It's not "cute" to wreck public property, and not just "high spirits". It's poor business! Papa pays for it even if the kids never get caught. Wrecking a school is just as stupid as ruining your own home. You have to pay for the damages!

Even though the mayoralty election in Paterson is still two years off, rumors are starting about a resurgence of enthusiasm for Mike De Vita. Then there's talk that Joseph L. Ferrarro is getting in line too. Anyone else getting the bug?

CAUTION! AVOID HAZARDS OF SUMMER FUN

With the rainy season past (he said hopefully) and with the children home from school, there are many more hazards to be cautious of, than a month or a week ago.

City children of course, have some playgrounds but most of them dart into the streets as soon as breakfast is over. This means motorists have to be more wary; not only at corners and intersections, but all along the block, as children love to pop out from behind parked cars. Naturally they've been warned, but they are only children and can forget to be careful in the heat of a game of tag, hide go seek, or just plain running.

More cars will be on the road to swimming pools, lakes and the seashore, so travelers should plan to take more time getting to and from their picnic areas so they don't have to rush and have an accident.

At the picnic grounds, there's always fire hazards to watch out for. Inept chefs can not only char a steak or hamburger, but may set fire to a whole mountainside. There are darn few mountainsides these days that don't have a few houses scattered on them, so that fire could really do a lot of damage.

Besides property damage, fires can cause serious burns that will not only spoil one's outing but a whole lifetime of fun for the badly burned or scarred individual.

Of course, there's always the boating and swimming problem with summer time too. No one would dream of getting behind the wheel of an automobile without first learning how to drive it. But how many people get into a canoe or rowboat for the first time without having the least idea of how to maneuver it properly, just because it looks easy or they've seen it done so many times they think they know how to do it. Or perhaps they did it when they went to camp as kids, and think they've remembered everything there is to know.

Take someone with you who really knows how to handle the boat or power craft until you feel in your heart you can be trusted with other's lives and property.

Never go swimming by yourself. Keep someone near you, so that if you run into trouble you've got someone who can help you or who can go for help. We know this type of accident like so many, always happens to the "other fellow, who doesn't know any better," but just in case, why not be safe instead of sorry?

Teach your children, that while picnicking they shouldn't pick up stray animals or plants or berries. If something looks good enough to eat, check with someone from that region first. Remember toadstools resemble mushrooms, but they effect you much differently. Berries and pretty leaves could come from a poison plant that can make you miserable, so become acquainted with these rascals, so you can avoid them.

Bring proper equipment for storing food, even for a day's outing. Don't run the risk of drinking sour milk, or tainted sandwich fillings. Bring a container that's coldproof, so that you're leftover lunch will be in good condition for supper.

Bring some soap and a modest first aid kit, so that insect stings, cuts from sharp stones, broken glass, etc., can be tended to on the spot.

Don't try to get a suntan all in one day! Remember you may look glamorous with a tan but a bad sunburn is just as serious as any other kind of burn, and sunstroke is serious too.

Is There A Difference ?

The Editor Speaks

VINCENT S. PARRILLO

Saw an ad accompanied by an article that really set me to conjuring up pictures the other day. This article said that pajama manufacturers are making the jacket tops of men's pajamas so fashionable they can be worn as summer sport jackets! Doesn't that make you start picturing things too!

Girls, go look in your husbands' dresser drawer and take out his newest pajama top. I'll wait for you, hmmm. Jelly-roll baby, you've got me in a ja-a-am. All righty, now you're looking at his pajama top, right? Tell me truthfully girls, would you be seen out in public with him wearing that!

Right! Now see the psychology behind this idea? You want hubby to be stylish, so-o-o you go pick him up a nice new set of pajamas. Say a nice navy blue pair, with white braid trim and a little nautical design embroidered on the pocket. Slick! Of course, the bottoms are necessary to the sale so you take them home too, but just toss them in the drawer.

Pop comes home, pooped, from the shop. You whip out his nifty, nautical pajama top and say, "Here dear, slip into this." Being without a stimulant up to this point, Dad obliges. It's cool and comfortable, just like the ad says. He slumps down on the lawn chair, puts his feet up and grunts, "How soon's supper ready?"

You pop in to get the table set, and what happens? When you call him, he's sound asleep! The pajama top's all wrinkled where he's slid down into the chair and he's a mess. So you wake him up and say "Come on, supper's ready," and bawl him out for wrinkling his jacket.

"Jacket," he screams, "I've got on a pajama coat, what else should I do but go to sleep in it?" So you explain it.

Next day, you've washed and ironed it back to its natural freshness, and this time you're prepared. No supper home. You push him into his summer slacks, and top it off with his p.j. top. Then you say, "Get the car out, while I finish my face." He says, "Why? Where are you going?" When you explain that you both are going out to dine, what does he do? He shouts, "No sir! You're not going to make a clown out of me, walking into a restaurant with nothing on but a pajama top. Where do you women get your assinine ideas? So he slumps in the chair again, while you run down to the delicatessen to scrape up supper.

QUESTION BOX

RESERVED

This space is being reserved for a new summer feature. A Question and Answer column. You ask the questions and we'll try to answer them for you.

What would you like to know about your town, the people who govern it, its facilities, its laws, its capacities or your fellow townsmen?

When you ask us the questions, we'll ask the person or officer, or group that should know the answers, and print the question and its answer the following week.

Sit down now, while you're thinking of it and send your question to The Question Box, care of The Chronicle, 170 Butler St., Paterson, N. J.

Sign your name or initials. If you don't want your name published, just say so in your note and it will not be printed with the question.

Let's see which town sends in the most provocative questions!

Party Marks 25th Year For The Melissants

FAIR LAWN — Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Melissant, of 8-11 Berdan Avenue, will celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary with a family gathering tonight.

The couple was married June 28, 1933, by the late Rev. J. J. Timmerman at the Fourth Christian Reformed Church of Paterson. Mrs. Melissant is the former Joannette De Vries.

Mr. Melissant is employed with the Lont and Overkamp Publishing Company in Prospect Park.

The couple has a daughter, Anne Lenora.

Holsters' Entertain Guests From Florida

FAIR LAWN — Mr. and Mrs. Ira Holster of 5-02 Bryant Pk., have as their house guests Mrs. Holster's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Thompson of Fort Pierce, Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson, formerly of Paterson, moved to Florida five years ago. They will spend a month in the area visiting relatives and friends.

Orphan Asylum Offers House To Forum School

The Forum School, a non-profit school for seriously disturbed children, will open its 1958-59 school year in vastly expanded quarters due to the generosity of the Board of Trustees of the Paterson Orphan Asylum Association, which has offered the school the use of a seven room house at 750 Eleventh Avenue, for a period of five years.

"Ten children have been all we could accomodate in our quarters at the Veritans' Camp where we have been hospitably housed for three years," says John O'Keefe, president of The Forum School. "As soon as we can find staff and the money to pay them we hope to extend our services to sixteen children. Eventually we can care for twenty in the new school on 11th Avenue."

The Forum School is under evaluation by Dr. Seymour Canter, psychologist, who resides and practices in Paterson. The benefits of his observations will be used in planning extended services. This evaluation is being sponsored by the State of New Jersey.

The Timid Soul

A WEBSTER CLASSIC

NEW STAR— Ann Flood will star as Elizabeth Fraser in the NBC-TV Network's new daytime serial drama, "From These Roots," to be telecast Mondays through Fridays starting June 30.

DOUBTS SHE'S A "BRIDIE MURPHY" — Louisville, Kentucky — Mrs. Patricia Jeanne Williams, 29, of Louisville, who related during a hypnotic trance that she once was a young Confederate Sergeant who was killed in battle 96 years ago, said today she doubts she is any "Bridie Murphy" re-enacting a past life. Mrs. Williams is holding a letter from the Shreveport Public Library which was unable to confirm key parts of the story she told under hypnosis.

TWO BIRDS IN THE HAND — New York — The feathered mendicant on the fingertips of Adolph Tirsch had just found a "soft touch" on Duffy Square and was, no doubt, congratulating himself on having a monopoly on the free meal when company literally dropped in on him. A second pigeon landed on the back of the first one, to the latter's chagrin and to the joy of the photographer.

Graduation Banquet Planned For Tonight

FAIR LAWN — A Christian youth formal and graduation banquet will be held at 7 p.m. today at the Van Riper-Ellis Memorial Church.

Paul Breen Jr., will serve as master of ceremonies. A film entitled "The Cross or the Sickle" will also be shown.

Summer Brings Demand, Swim Suit Stolen

The theft of a $16 bathing suit from a clothes line was reported to police by Mrs. Margaret Desposito, of 23-16 Howard Ave.

Mrs. Charles Bloom of 15 Gurney Terrace, reported to police that $90 was stolen from a bedroom dresser drawer in her home over the weekend.

Receive Electrical Engr. Degree From Dickenson

EAST PATERSON — Kenneth Kendall was graduated cum laude from Fairleigh Dickinson University at Chatham Park.

He was awarded a bachelor of science degree in electrical engineering by the university and plans to attend Columbia University in the fall for his master's degree.

Kendall was elected to the Phi Beta Kappa Honor Society, and the Phi Omega Epsilon Honor Society. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Kendall, 58 Four-nier Crescent.

Real Estate Commission Elects New Officers

D. E. C. Somers of Jersey City and Fred Hoelscher of Paterson were elected president and fiscal officer, respectively, of the Division of The New Jersey Real Estate Commission in The Department of Banking and Insurance for the year beginning July 1, at an organization meeting held at the executive office, Friday, June 20.

Commissioner Somers was appointed to the Commission in 1954, and Commissioner Hoelscher became a member in 1955.

Miller Installed President Of Rotary Club

CLIFTON — John L. Miller, one of the organizers and first secretary of the club, was installed as president of the Clifton Rotary Club at a dinner meeting held in the Upper Montclair Country Club.

Also installed by District Governor William Fielder were Ray Kirwan, vice president; Vern Moorman, secretary; and Ira Hagens, treasurer. Miller, a local attorney, succeeded the Rev. Robert Goodwin as president.

Entertainment for the 92 members and their wives who attended was furnished by Betty Ann Busch and Howard Janett.

Three men were driving through the countryside very late on a pitch black night. Two were in the front seat and the other in the back, half asleep.

Suddenly the driver asked the man in the back to look out the rear window and see who the crazy driver was behind them. For the past five minutes he had been trying to let him pass and, to top it off, his car had only one light on. The man looked out the back and then said very excitedly: "No wonder he can't pass you—he's on tracks!"

"Is that you, Sam?" the wife called out to the late-returning and somewhat inebriated husband. "All I know," grumbled Sam, slamming into the buffet, "is that I'd damn well better be."

Clergyman: "Isn't there a still, small voice, madam, that tells you what to do and what not to do?" Mrs. Laffwell: "Oh, that thing? I never listen to my husband!"

Seems three prisoners in a Russian work camp were talking: The first asked, "Why are you here?" His co-prisoner replied, "I was for Slansky. Why are you here?" The first said, "I was against Slansky." They then turned to the third and asked, "Why are you here?" He confessed, "I'm Slansky."

WINNING SMILE TO MATCH WINNING POSTER — Syracuse, N. Y. — Six-year-old Mary Hayes, pupil at St. Patrick's School, Syracuse, New York, and youngest entrant ever to place among the 10 first prize winners in the 14-year history of the Annual School Traffic Safety Poster Contest, holds her winning poster. The contest was held by the American Automobile Association.

NO OTHER WAY.

Judy kept her eyes on the Jersey shore line all the while she was talking.

"I . . . I don't know what to do," she said. "He asked me to let him know tonight."

She had tried to tell Ted about Lloyd Richards earlier that evening — first, when they met, and then when they were having dinner — but each time she had made the mistake of looking at him. And then they were in the narrow park by the river, and she couldn't put it off any more.

"He says we could be married tomorrow," she went on. "He's staying another day."

And there it was! She sat back and pressed her hands in her lap. She didn't want Ted to see how they were trembling.

But Ted wasn't watching. His arms were hooked over the back of the bench and he stared out on the Hudson. His dark, brooding face stood out sharply against the cluster of lights from the Palisades. She reached out to touch him — to clear that face, even for a moment — then she fought back the impulse . . .

"Oh, I'm going to kill him," she thought. "If he just sits there and takes it like that!"

"I think you should do it," Ted said.

Judy went limp. She dug her nails into her flesh and felt nothing. "I promised I'd call him," she said weakly. "He'll be waiting."

Imagine? Making a crack like that! She'd fix him good!

"Why shouldn't you?" Ted said. "This Richards can give you all the things you should have. What can I give you?"

Nothing. Ted. Nothing at all, you big lug. Only everything a girl . . .

"What could I give you?" Ted went on. You'd have some life with me. Dinners in cafeterias. Evenings in parks. On our honeymoon, for variety, we'd go to a museum. You'd have some sweet life!

It sounded sweet enough to Judy, but she didn't say as much. This was the beginning of a familiar routine. There was nothing that could be done until it ran itself out.

"A lawyer!" Ted said. He addressed the single star above. "Twenty-five thousand lawyers in New York weren't enough. I had to starve, too."

It didn't do any good to tell him that things were bad all over; that, after all, he was only out of law school a short time. It didn't do any good when he was like this, to tell him anything.

"Let me tell you," he said. "You've got to be somebody to starve to death in this town. Do you think they'll let anyone starve? No! You've got to have a background. You've got to have a college diploma and a law certificate and an office to hang them up in, and then you can go ahead and starve."

Judy stood up. "Let's walk a bit," she suggested. She slipped an arm through his and walked lightly beside him, a slim girl in a simple dark dress. Her eyes were troubled as Ted hurried her along. He couldn't stay depressed long — not when she was with him. When they were together, he was soon the real Ted. And that couldn't help but make a success.

Ted freed his arm and tried to drop it around her. Judy stepped aside. Ted looked surprised and drew her into the shadow.

"Hurry, Judy!" He was smiling at her now. "It's getting late," she said. "I have to call Lloyd."

"Lloyd? Who's Lloyd?"

She looked at him furiously. "We've only been talking about him for the last . . .!"

"Gosh, honey, you're so swell."

"Ted, now pl . . .!" Judy wrenched her mouth to one side and then closed it. When he let go of her she hung on to his lapels.

Ted spoke through her hair. "You were saying something about a guy called Lloyd?"

Judy waited until she could feel solid ground beneath her. "Don't joke about it. The man wants to marry me."

"He does? You don't say so?"

This was more like it. This was Ted. Judy sighed. If she could only keep him like that.

"I don't suppose I want to marry you?"

Ted said. "I suppose my intentions aren't honorable?"

He was smiling, but it was very much on the surface. "I suppose, if there weren't a darn good reason, we wouldn't have married long ago?"

Two years to be exact. Two years that could have been the happiest in their lives.

"Tell me," Judy said. She tried to keep her tone light. "Just for the record. What was that wonderful reason again?"

Ted turned away wearily. "Let's skip that for once," he said.

She was as tired of the subject as he was. They had been over and over it without getting any place . . . Yes, Ted said, he knew all about it. Two could live as cheaply as one, sure. And Judy could keep her job. Sure. Okay, he said, he didn't think she could support him in the manner in which he had become accustomed. And so until the time he could handle that end of it himself . . .

Judy knew wit was useless, but still she persisted. She had used the same phrases so often she knew them by heart . . .

"Let's not discuss it," Ted said. "We'll just have to wait."

"Why should we wait?" She clenched her hands angrily. "We don't know how long it'll be. I want to settle it — right now!"

He turned back to her slowly. "I see. Before you speak to your Mr. Richards?"

She had forgotten about that, but now she met his gaze fully. "Yes, before I speak to him."

"It's always good to have a guy in reserve isn't it?" Ted said.

She gulped in some air. All right! O.K.! She waved at him angrily. "So nice to have known you," she said and walked away.

"What was so nice about it?" Ted called after her.

Oh, it was pretty nice, Theodore, don't kid yourself. But Judy didn't glance back.

Back in the park, she knew, he was miserable. And that made her miserable, too.

Besides, it wouldn't last long. She knew his moods. Let's see now. She looked at her watch. Two minutes for despair, then the next two for thought . . . and then, in about two or three more . . .

She slowed down. She wasn't so sure now. They'd fought before and sometimes hadn't made up for days. But then he didn't have much to worry about. He could just let it slide. He could let everything slide.

She was near panic when she reached the corner — and then she heard heavy footsteps behind her. She caught a glimpse of Ted as she rounded the building. The only thing that troubled her now was where they would live — uptown or out in the suburbs.

As for her conscience, that didn't trouble her at all. Consciences, sometimes, were pretty much of a bore. And as for Lloyd Richards — well, she wouldn't even have to call him. Lloyd knew her answer. She had given it to him this afternoon.

AMERICAN HISTORY

BY WILLIAM BRODIE

THE "KEARSARGE"
VS. THE "ALABAMA"

There was only one real sea fight during the Civil War, but it was an important one for the hour that it lasted. It took place off the coast of France, on the bright Sunday morning of June 19, 1864.

On the cliffs and shore line of the French harbor of Cherbourg thousands of people were gathered to see a most unusual sight—a fight to the death between two American warships. The Confederate commerce raider Alabama, being refitted in Cherbourg, had challenged the Union war vessel, the Kearsarge, which had come there in the hope of meeting up with the Alabama.

For two years the Alabama, a ship of about a thousand tons, built in England for the Confederate government, and equipped for both sail and steam, had roamed the high seas destroying United States shipping in all parts of the world. Captain Raphael Semmes of the Alabama was swift and clever. Before the Kearsarge caught up with him he had destroyed about 70 ships, a big portion of the United States merchant marine of that time.

During the Alabama's two years of raiding, from the Atlantic to Singapore and back, there had been nothing to oppose her on the ocean. It was like a grand tour well supplied with captured ships' stores. Since the Alabama had no home port to which to bring her prizes, she usually set fire to the captured ships. Then her crew got the thrill of watching the flames "run up the tarred rigging like fiery demons to the mastsheads, with burning ropes flying to the wind."

When the Alabama returned to European waters she put into Cherbourg harbor to be refitted. And there she met up with the U.S.S. Kearsarge commanded by tough Captain John A. Winslow. The Kearsarge was about the same size as the Alabama, with slightly heavier armament. Two years of success had made the Alabama's captain quite cocky. He challenged the Kearsarge to a fight. Captain Winslow quickly accepted the challenge and steamed out of Cherbourg into neutral water offshore to await the Alabama, which came out with flags flying, while the crowds on the shore watched intently.

Semmes of the Alabama was quick-triggered and hasty. Winslow of the Kearsarge was slower, more methodical. At a range of a thousand yards they opened fire, and circling round and round the two ships came closer, pouring in broadsides. The Kearsarge's guns fired more accurately. The Alabama was struck repeatedly. Soon her machinery was wrecked. She caught fire and began to list.

The watchers on the shore saw her turn back toward the harbor, while the Kearsarge followed, firing steadily. Then the white flag went up over the Alabama. Too late. Before all her crew could be saved she sank, taking many of them to the bottom with her. Most of the survivors became prisoners of the Kearsarge, but Captain Semmes was rescued by a British ship.

The battle had lasted exactly one hour and two minutes. And at the end of it the destroyer of many ships had at last met up with her own destruction.
