COSTELLO WINS AWARD

MARCH 9, 1958

VOL. XXX, No. 10

CONFIDENTIAL WHISPER — Washington, D. C. — Former President Harry S. Truman seems to be whispering some confidential advice into the ear of New York's Governor Averell Harriman during a $100-A-Plate Dinner in Truman's honor. Truman was the main speaker at the affair which kicked off the 1958 Democratic Campaign.

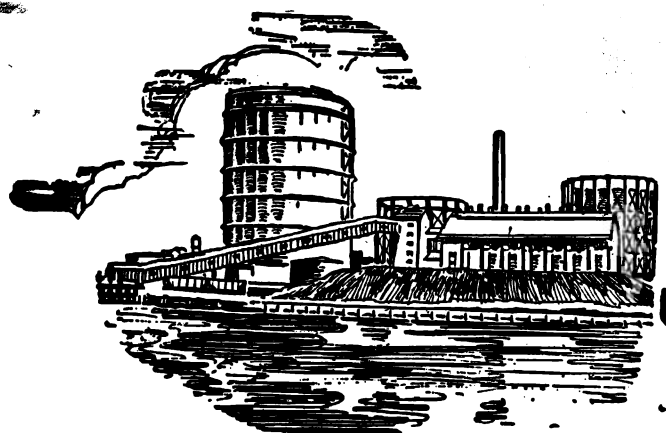

ROMY VIEWS "LEG WORK" AT STUDIO — Hollywood, Calif. — Nineteen-year-old German Actress Romy Schneider admires models of Cyd Charise's legs as she visits the Makeup Department at M.G.M. Studios. The leg models were used in the making of the picture "Silk Stockings"

ALSTON CHECKS ROOKIE'S FORM — Vero Beach, Fla. — Dodger Rookie Pitching Star Stan Williams takes to the mound to show Dodger Manager Walt Alston (kneeling) the form that made him a stand-out with St. Paul last year. He had a record of 19 wins and seven losses with 223 strikeouts and an earned run average of 3.04. Watching the young hurler in action are, left to right: Don Bessent, Roger Craig, Ralph Mauriello, Johnny Podres and Pitching Coach Joe Becker.

NEWS TEAM— NBC News commentators Chet Huntley (left) and David Brinkley are featured on the "NBC News" program over NBC-TV Monday through Friday. Huntley reports from New York and Brinkley from Washington. Subtitled "The Huntley-Brinkley Report," the program has received wide critical acclaim for its news coverage and analysis.

HAS BEAUTY AND RECORDS - Santa Clara, Calif. - Blonde 14-year-old Chris Von Saltza of the Santa Clara Swim Club takes a respite after breaking six American Women's Free Style Swim Records. At the Alameda Naval Air Station Swim Meet, the pretty aquamaid, an international top rated swimmer, bettered the American 200 Yard Back Stroke with a time of 2:32.4. She also established a new Pacific Association Record in the 400 Yard Free Style in 4:40.6 beating the old 10-year mark set by famed Ann Curtis.

MRS. FDR HONORED BY LAWYERS - Chicago, Ill. - Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt receives the Award of Merit of the Decalogue, Society of Lawyers, from Judge Harry M. Fisher, second from right. Mrs. Roosevelt was honored for her distinguished contributions to universal justice and the fellowship of all mankind.

SPEAKING OF SNOW DRIFTS! - Ontario, Canada - City sissies take note - the white fluff that skiers dreams are made of is proving to be a nightmare to residents of Ontario, Canada. Coming in very large doses, in some places fourteen-foot drifts, the heavy snow falls have snowed in villages and towns completely isolating the inhabitants. At Lake Scugog, car-high drifts have almost completely buried vehicles. One car-owner points to his buried auto completely covered except for the roof.

WILLIAMSON BUYS — Borough Manager W. T. Williamson of Fair Lawn, makes the first purchase of seals in the "Be Thankful You Can See" drive being conducted by the local Lions Club. Proceeds of the drive will go for eye glasses for the needy, surgical equipment and camps for the blind. Shown with Williamson is Dr. Samuel Waldman, seal drive chairman.

Life's Darkest Moment

A WEBSTER CLASSIC

NORTH HALEDON—A "Green Thumb Sale" will be held March 17 by the Memorial School PTA in the school cafeteria. The sale will be between 3 and 5 p.m., preceding and following the PTA meeting that evening.

Post 281, will be held Saturday night, March 15, at the post home. Mrs. William Strayer is chairman of the affair.

LITTLE FALLS — Frank Wheeler has been installed as president of the Russian American Club of Singac. Other officers include William Matson, vice president; William Pisano, financial secretary; John Balut, recording secretary; Vincent Dransfield, treasurer; and James Silzen, sergeant-at-arms.

Ed Saltzman was elected honorary president and Herb Feldman president of the 4th Ward Democratic Club.

Other officers include Rose Kalish, first vice president; Irma Nelson, second vice president; Levada Moore, third vice president; Pearl Pugatch, secretary; Jimmy Klivan, treasurer; Virgil Reed, Mary Griffin, Herman Goldberg, Gay Cohen, Andy McGill, Sam Rodgers and Dave McLaughlin, trustees; Ed Feldman, sergeant-at-arms; Martin Verp and Mort Rubenstein, counsellors, and Dr. Hochman, physician.

FAIR LAWN —A St. Patrick's Day dinner dance, sponsored by the Ladies Auxiliary of the VFW

PROSPECT PARK — Mrs. Edward Mondelli, president, announced reservations for the annual installation dinner of the PTA on Saturday, May 17, at Fabrunos may be made by contacting Mrs. E. Vander Ploeg, at LA 5-3426 or Mrs. J. Rose at AR 4-6833.

All money raised by the PTA will be used for purchasing books for the class libraries.

EAST PATERSON — Scouting skills will be demonstrated by local boy scouts and their leaders at a Scout-O-Rama scheduled for May 16, 17 and 18 on the municipal field.

The encampment at the field will be part of the borough's Youth Week activities. Morris Pechenik is director of the affair.

HAWTHORNE — The Neighborhood Playmakers, 22 year old community theatre group, will be hosts for the regional one-act play tournament of the New Jersey Theatre League on Saturday night March 15, at Hawthorne High School.

Community theatre groups from this area will be competing in the state-wide tournament.

TOTOWA BOROUGH — American Legion Auxiliary Unit 227 will hold a chowder sale Friday, March 14, at Legion Hall, Union Boulevard. Mrs. Myrtle Soder will be chairman.

The unit will meet Thursday, March 13 at 8:30 p.m. Hostesses for the session will be Mrs. Doris Croker, Mrs. Grace Gibbons, and Mrs. Garry Sieratowski.

Fran Molendyke's

Tri-Boro Notebook

We're hoping to see friends and neighbors of all three boroughs this afternoon, (Saturday) at the "get acquainted" tea for Joseph Gorab, newly appointed Superintendent of the Regional High School for the three boroughs.

HALEDON — Due to weather conditions and former commitments, no reporters were present at the February regular council meeting. At this meeting, Councilman Les Dean, and Thomas Belle resigned their posts on the board of recreation. Dean because of his conflicting duties and Belle because of his "inability to attend the regularly scheduled recreation board meetings.

James Manger of 337 Morrissee Avenue, and Frank Migliore of 22 Barbour Street, were elected to Fire Co. No. 22 on a probationary basis.

The Haledon Lions requested that a traffic light be installed at the intersection, where Belmont Avenue, Barbour Street and Clin-ton Street meet. The matter to the police committee for study. Previous traffic surveys made of that section by the state, would not confirm the need for lights at that corner.

A meeting was scheduled for Monday, March 10, for the residents of Central Avenue with the mayor and council, borough attorney and borough engineer for discussion of installation of sanitary sewers in that area.

Betty Van Riper was reappointed to the Passaic County Board of Elections for the third time.

At a special meeting and budget hearing, Monday, March 3, the following were appointed by the mayor and council to serve on the Fiftieth Anniversary committee: Margaret Ulrich, Mae Steenstra, Mary Hardt, Mrs. Edgar B. Lupton, Frances Molendyke, Nicholas Kruck, Charles Cona, Dan Ramella and Walter Rochelle.

Councilman Len Smallheer is sporting a wrist bandage, covering a splintered wrist bone suffered while on a business call to Brooklyn.

Mrs. Evelyn Scott, nurse at Hope Dell, and sister of Mrs. Emma Aitkens of 291 Haledon Avenue, suffered a slipped disc from lifting a patient at Hope Dell. Now she's a patient herself at St. Joseph's Hospital.

The year 'round golfing group including Al Caporossi, Emil Bon- esio, Bill Pryn, Jim Scarfo and Bill Harding, are back at it again, after the severe cold and snow, made them, (yes, even they) give up for a while.

Allen Groppi, 406 Morrissee Avenue, recuperating from surgery to remove a cyst from his spine.

Watch for June Gamble's new Ceramic Studio which will open soon at 212 Belmont Avenue. Her daughter, Denise, is out of the hospital but still home from school until a kidney infection is cleared up.

Phil Huntley, of 43 Zabriskie Street, is recuperating at Barnert Hospital from bronchial pneumonia. He is expected to be home some time next week.

Matilda "Mom" Bottcher was out visiting her daughter's store Tuesday after 12 weeks at home with illness. Her daughter is Chris Kerberg of Chris's Big and Little Shop.

Eighth graders selling magazine subscriptions to defray graduation expenses.

Dan Ramella, borough clerk, announces that numerous borough residents have requested their names be printed in Haledon's 50th Anniversary Book, which will be available during the latter part of May. The number of names appearing on the list falls far short of the number of residents. The clerk is making a final appeal to all who have failed to call. Names may be placed in the Pictorial Anniversary Book for a nominal fee, the cost of which will guarantee the subscriber a free book. You can notify Dan Ramella, by phone, ARmory 4-7766, or by dropping in at the borough office on Morrissee Avenue.

VINCE MARTINEZ is off to Miami for three weeks training, but promises to be home in time to vote in the primary.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Foussee, are awaiting the stork. He's the new publicity chairman of Fire Company No. 1.

Watch for more details appearing here about the Veteran's Beefsteak Dinner, which will be held in the Memorial Building on April 19.

Mrs. Annabelle Hamer, seventh grade teacher in the Kossuth St. school, was surprised at a birthday luncheon at the new Cedar Cliff Hotel on Belmont Avenue Tuesday. Those attending were: Muriel Ware, Miss Marjorie Stansfield, Mary Berdan, Ellen Snyder, Betty Joffe, Irma Reid, Isabelle Pabian, Alice Mesmer, Alberta Mackey and the guest of honor.

Tickets are now on sale for the concert of the three accordion bands, directed by Matthew Leydens, and sponsored by the Accordion Music Lovers, Inc., Mrs. David Fiorina, President, contact members of the bands or the sponsors. The concert will be held on Friday, March 28, in Hawthorne High School.

At the Veteran's Auxiliary meeting Tuesday night, a jewelry demonstration was held during the social hour. Committee chairman Jean Blasejewski had Lois Valle, Ruth Canepa and Dorothy C. Devlin assisting. President Irene Quazza reminds members of meeting scheduled for Tuesday, March 18 which is the deadline for paying dues for the year.

Be sure to stop and look at the window in Joffe's Drug Store on Belmont Avenue, to see the fascinating display of old newspaper sheets, drug supplies and prescriptions. A lot of time was put into gathering and displaying these articles, to remind Haledon residents that these are just a few of the many changes made in this borough since its incorporation. Even though the drug store is still on the same site as it was fifty years ago, the address then was "Rip Van Winkle Ave., Manchester Township." Now it's 346 Belmont Avenue, Haledon.

George MacBurney, 45 Tilt St., was named publicity chairman for the Haledon Regular Republican Organization.

PROSPECT PARK — John L. De Block, popular postman, serves as Service Officer every Thursday evening from 6:30 to 8 p.m. at the Riverside Veterans, Inc., 165 Fifth Avenue, Paterson. John is there solely to help veterans with problems concerning insurance, pensions, or compensations under the laws of the Veterans' Administration.

Boys Club Trustees meeting will come up with new schedule under the guidance of Judge Henry Schoonyoung and John Kalenich.

Members of the Louis Peia Bachelor Club are reminded they have only until Tuesday, March 12, to vote for "Bachelor of the Year." Committee studying formation of an auxiliary unit of "Bachelorettes", wants opinions expressed to president, Louis Peia, 105 Mohawk Avenue.

Mrs. E. Vanderploeg, at LA 5-3426 and Mrs. J. Rose, AR 4-6833, are accepting reservations for the annual PTA installation dinner to be held Saturday, May 17 at Fabrunos.

Mr. and Mrs. David Moezelaar, formerly of Prospect Park, now living at 104 N.E. 6th Street, Fort Lauderdale, Florida, celebrated their 50th anniversary Tuesday. Their children are Mrs. Orrie (Trina) Borduin, Mrs. William (Radie) Schuil, and Wilbert Moezelaar.

Gladys Mae Stellingwerf will be married today at the First Baptist Church to John William Myer of 168 North 12th Street.

NORTH HALEDON — Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Vander Groef, 29 Romaine Road, announce the birth of a son at Paterson General Hospital on Thursday, February 27.

North Haledon has two helpful, courteous and friendly gals working in the municipal offices, Lois Rickelmann and Mattie Vander-spiegel.

Despite the small turnout for the film, "How to Build a School Library", those attending were delighted with the vast store of enlightening information it contained. Only one person from Haledon attended the meeting.

Library Association should be complimented for their enthusiasm and their encouragement to the children of the borough to read more and better books. Reading plan is in effect whereby children from the second grade up, through the cooperation of their teachers, receive awards after completion of written reports on certain numbers of books read. To get these little pins, the children don't realize how interesting the world of books is becoming to them, and the idea of reading for enlightenment and pleasure will linger after the awards have all been won.

SUBURBAN

"Joe" Harrison, who has been doubling as West Paterson Democratic leader, will be the party's candidate for mayor opposing GOP incumbent "Al" Baumann. Harrison ran in 1956 and lost. Most recently he was replaced as Totowa Borough attorney on the promise he would be named to the prosecutor's staff. If the current patronage log-jam is resolved soon, will Harrison withdraw as mayoralty candidate?

Haledon Councilman Maurice Metzler is very unhappy! He now finds himself involved in a Primary Election contest with Mayor David Brown whose cause Metzler espoused until he decided to "switch" allegiance and become the candidate of the Ford-Cona forces.

In Totowa Borough the political picture is as hazy and bewildering as anywhere else. Originally, reports indicated Councilman Felix Liberti would replace retiring Mayor "Joe" Ryan as Democratic candidate. However, Councilman Raymond Blanchfield emerged as the party choice. Liberti filed his petition as an Organization Democrat for the Primary. Now it appears the leaders have effected a "switch" and have picked Councilman Joseph Fitzpatrick as the candidate to buck Liberti's bid. What many cannot understand is why the leadership is permitting an intra-party fight. If Blanchfield decided to withdraw, why wasn't the field left to Liberti who had already filed?

In Passaic, Mickey Wolf was preparing to challenge Robert Scherin's right to be the Democratic choice for freeholder in the April Primary, however, he changed his mind and will support the organization ticket.

West Paterson Councilman Arthur George, Public Service executive, will not be a candidate for reelection this year. "Art" has been in poor health for some time and will seek to recuperate his lost strength. John Asmus, planning board chairman, will seek the post.

Mayor Louis Bay of Hawthorne will definitely be a candidate for reelection. There had been rumors that he would seek to retire. However, his announcement has dispelled any doubt as to his availability.

Township Committeeman Dr. James Stokes of Little Falls will have to seek another avenue of attack against his GOP associates. Robert Sterret, his GOP opponent in the April Primary will submit his resignation from the Recreation Commission at the next meeting of the Township Committee. Dr. Stokes faces tough opposition this year.

Anthony Padula has been elected president of the West Paterson Republican Club. He succeeds Ernest Valle who served since 1953.

North Haledon Democrats will select candidate for mayor and council on a real democratic basis. Those receiving a majority of "write in" votes in the Primary will represent the party in the General Election. This ought to be done on a wider scale. The practice would insure better quality in candidates!

The Crisis in Higher Education

This country faces an acute crisis in higher education. It is being precipitated by three factors.

First, there is the high birth rate which started in the 1940's. Where there are about 9 million young people of college age now, the number is expected to reach 14 million by 1970 or soon thereafter — an increase of 55 per cent.

Second, the percentage of young people attending college increases rapidly. At present, about a third of all young people of college age are in college, as against 15 per cent in 1940 and 8 per cent in 1920.

Third, the nation's need for educated people is growing—and on top of this "...the sheer growth of knowledge requires a longer period of education for a person to become an educated man, than was true in former years."

Some of the complex and controversial problems and questions with which education is now concerned should be to stress quality rather than quantity, and to grow "only when growth is not achieved at the expense of quality.

This is certainly a wise approach — sheer size is no criterion of worth. And another point may be added. Industry and individuals should do their utmost to provide our private colleges and universities with the increasing sums of money they need. The alternative is government subsidy of education — which would ultimately mean political control of education.

Holder of the Key

Will the current decline in business continue? Or will it level off? Or will a new upward surge set in?

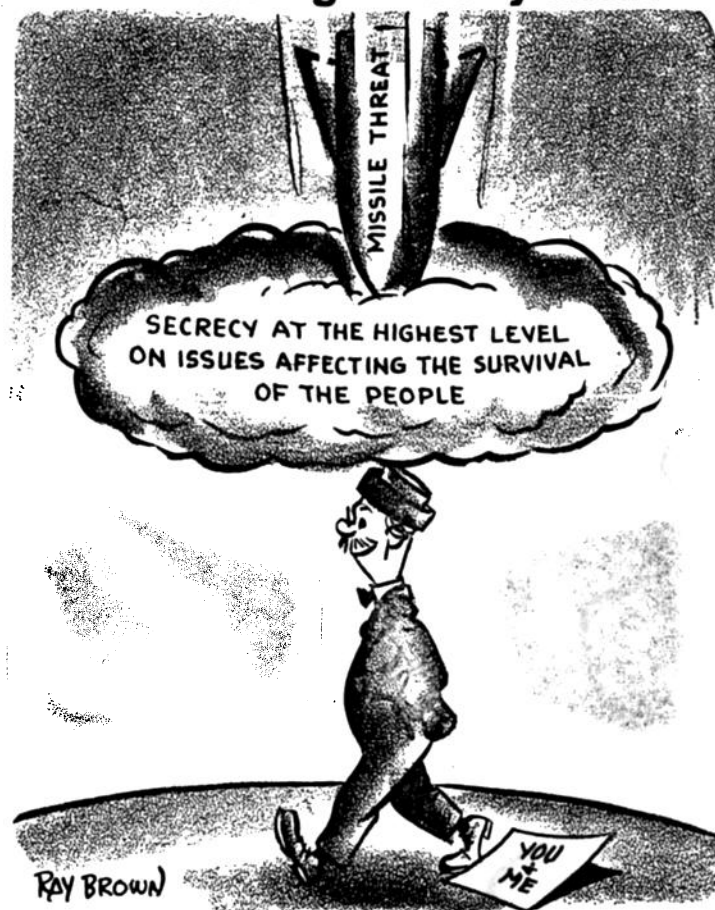

To a very great extent, the answers to these and other such questions will be found in the state of retail trade during the months ahead.

The consumer holds the key not only to the fortunes of retail business in 1958, but in a larger sense to the fortunes of the total economy.

The heavy stress used to be laid upon production figures. But consumption figures are equally important, and some think they are more important. It's obvious that production in any line can't hold up long unless people buy the goods. So the volume of retail trade directly determines what goes on in the factories.

Retailers know that competition will be tough this year. They know that consumers are doing more shopping around and more planning before buying. Every merchant will do all he can to offer the most attractive inducements and the best buys possible. And, it is good to report, most retail spokesmen seem reasonably optimistic about the sales prospects.

"I See Nothing To Worry About"

RAY BROWN

The Editor Speaks

VINCENT S. PARRILLO

Everybody seems to be worried about hard times. And well they might because things are a "bit rough." It is extremely difficult for a man out of work to understand we are undergoing a "mild" recession and things will pick up. For the family man with three or four months without "take-home" pay, things picking up mean very little.

The business upturn which, in the opinion of economists, will be putting in an appearance some time later this year, still was in the future in the first week of February. Up to now, the date of the change of direction has been predicted in general terms. Secretary of Labor Mitchell said last week: "There will be an upturn in business in mid-summer." At the same time he predicted the number of jobless might reach 4.5 million this month, compared with 3,670,000 unemployed in the recession year 1954. Walter D. Fackler of the United States Chamber of Commerce told the Congressional Joint Economic Committee that interference by the Federal Government at this time would not be helpful, since a free economy "demands a normal range of fluctuations in its operations as a necessary condition for adaptability and growth." Five other economists who appeared with Fackler urged tax cuts and expansion of Federal expenditures to a level beyond that contemplated by the Administration.

The chairman of U. S. Steel said last week there are indications that the steel industry may be picking up in some quarters. Other encouraging straws in the wind include reports of progress in some quarters in reduction of inventories. On the other hand, Dun & Bradstreet reported that business failures in the week ended January 23 rose to 333, a new high for the week since 1940. Figures for the like week in 1957 and 1956 were, respectively, 258 and 248.

Let's Talk

Politics

—by O J A Y

The opinions expressed in this column are exclusively those of the writer and do not necessarily reflect the policy and opinion of The Chronicle.

The surprise naming of Harrison Williams as Democratic candidate for U. S. Senator has added to the discontent and unrest extant among party workers . . . Hoboken Mayor Jorn J. Grogan says he will not retrench . . . Joseph McLean, commissioner of conservation and economic development, until two weeks ago, front-runner in the race, also states he will actively seek the office and scoffed at Gov. Meyner's report that 20 counties are pledged to Williams' candidacy . . . In any event, from here on in it should be a lively political year. The Republicans are not without their own brand of disturbances . . . State Senator Walter H. Jones of Bergen County, an acknowledged power among state leaders, last week came out swinging against general GOP dictatorial practices . . . A shrewd politician, Jones let it emphatically be known that he was "disgusted". It has been rumored that Jones may throw his support to the candidacy of Bernard Shanley for the U. S. Senate seat . . . If this comes to pass Democrats will have a hard time selling Williams to the voters . . . On the national level, Democratic leaders are counting heavily on the economic downtrend to reap a harvest of votes which will spell a decisive victory . . . However, at Monday's senate session, Sen.

Grossi

Anthony J. Grossi introduced a resolution to mark the week of March 23-27 as "Believe in America Week" aimed at fostering a greater degree of grass roots spending to eliminate the possibility of a further economic dip. In Passaic, Mickey Wolf, scheduled to challenge Robert Scheffrin in the Primary, has had a change of heart and will "go along with the boys", thanks to the good work of Passaic City leader "Joe" McGuire. However, in Paterson, the question of who will replace Sen. Grossi as city leader is driving a further wedge in intra party harmony. There is no shortage of candidates, but it isn't just a question of a candidate but rather a man who can keep the forces together without rancor and with a greater degree of unity of spirit and purpose. Sam Bruno will re-capture the Third Ward Democratic aldermanic seat despite organization opposition. The leaders have marked Bruno for extinction for daring to speak his mind according to the dictates of his own conscience. In the Second Ward, Democratic Alderman William Bradley will oppose his friend James Comerford in the general election. Comerford was named by the Democratic organization when Pete Gambatese withdrew because of his brother Ralph's acceptance of the vacant freeholder berth. Bradley cannot win, but he can weaken the structure of the team. Prominently being mentioned as a successor to Grossi in the city leadership is Housing Coordinator Joseph L. Ferraro. Joe has a host of friends and could do a notable job of effecting an "orderly restoration."

John J. Winberry, former member of the counsel team of the Kefauver Crime Investigating Committee, has announced he will run for the U. S. Senate as a Democrat, of course. Also bitten by the bug is James J. Parker, former pugilist turned politician, who would like to replace GOP incumbent Gordon Canfield. The local Democrats have already designated Joseph Brumale as their choice to oppose Canfield. It seems everyone feels that any Democrat on the ticket for any office will win hands down. There are quite a few local, state and national level boys who are going to be rudely awakened by the people you can only fool some of the time.

MISSILES — In months ahead, U. S. missile development will have all the priority it can use. Estimates that this country is as much as two or three years behind the Russians in development of intercontinental missiles have been offset by more optimistic appraisals. Some middle-of-the-road experts say the U. S. is only a few months behind. The U. S. lag is considered greater in development of intermediate range missiles, since the Russians are known to have fired hundreds of missiles with range up to 1,000 miles, and possibly have perfected missiles able to hit targets 1,800 miles from the launching site.

In the matter of launching satellites, the Army put our first space vehicle into orbit with an initial thrust of 75,000 pounds, whereas the Russians are believed to have put from 200,000 to 265,000 pounds of thrust behind Sputnik I, and may have used 500,000 pounds of thrust behind Sputnik II. In the field of developing such super-powerful rocket engines the U. S. is seeking to close the gap. A Senate Preparedness subcommittee recently called for work to start on an engine with one million pounds of thrust. Most experts say packing that much power into the first stage of a rocket involves no design problems but will take time — and money.

ATOMIC SECRECY — The Administration moved to break down some of the secrecy walls which have enshrouded U. S. atomic weapons output for 13 years. Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission proposed to Congress that the 1954 Atomic Energy Act be amended so the U. S. can give friendly allies enough design information so they can produce and train with atomic weapons. Strauss also proposed that Congress authorize transfer of plutonium or enriched uranium — or other special nuclear material — to friendly nations so they can have ready-made materials for atomic weapons output.

It is not clear to what extent Congress will be prepared to make changes in the secrecy provisions. Some members of the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee have voiced fear these liberalizations would only step up the atomic arms race

SURPRISE WEDDING — Las Vegas, Nev. — Television singing star Gisele MacKenzie climaxed a six-year romance by marrying her personal manager, Bob Shuttleworth, in a ceremony at Las Vegas.

THE SHOWCASE

By D. G.

The new Lunt-Fontanne Theatre will be dedicated on April 14th when Alfred Lunt and Lynne Fontanne open the playhouse recently named for them with a 12-week season in "The Visit", a dramatic comedy by Friedrich Ruerrematt adapted by Maurice Valency and presented by the Producers Theatre. The inaugural engagement, it has been said, may be the Lunts' farewell stage appearance.

Bess Myerson, starred on "The Big Payoff" isn't going to take it easy this summer when she gets her annual vacation from the TV show. The glamorous lady has been bitten by the legitimate stage acting bug, is now studying drama with Howard DeSylva and will use her vacation time doing summer stock work.

One of the newest, youngest and most promising singers on record is Larry Hovis, 21 year old Houston, Texas, boy whose first Capitol disk, "Do I Love You" - "We Could Have Lots of Fun" is on release and receiving multiple spins by the nation's deejays and on record coin machines. The youthful vocalist, also a drummer and song writer, is a student at the University of Houston where he is majoring in history and philosophy.

Over 75,000 gallons of water were used during the flood sequences in the "Night Run" episode of Screen Gems' "Casey Jones" series.

There will be 90 stars seen on the Oscar show in 90 minutes — some performing in groups. No commercials. It is expected that 250,000,000 people will eventually see the show in the U. S. and abroad. According to the Nielson ratings, TV has no series in the top ten with a girl in the lead. (Editor's note — what's Lucille Ball?). Jesse White has been signed as a regular on the Frank Sinatra Show starting March 28. Shirley Temple would be willing to star in a motion picture, if it would be filmed in her city, Atherton, California. She is also willing — even anxious — for her three children to appear with her on her TV shows.

By LEE BRYAN

Customer: "Please weigh this package for me."
Butcher: "Sure. It weighs three pounds."

Customer: "Thanks. It contains the bones of the four-pound roast you sent me yesterday."

Two Texans walked into a restaurant in Chicago, ordered a sumptuous dinner, got the bill and put a dime on the table. The dismayed waiter said: "You're from Texas—and you call that a tip?" "We are from Texas son," said one of them, "And that dime's for the meter in front of which your tip is parked."

"I'm sorry sir," said the telephone operator, "but that number has been taken out."

"Oh, really," said the caller. "Could you give me any information as to who has taken her out?"

There was the Texan who went to Las Vegas. He carried a couple of million dollars with him, but after a couple of days he found himself running short. Now being from real Western country he didn't bother with telephone or telegraph. Smoke signals. He sent up smoke signals to his bank: "Send five million at once." Later in the day, at the proving grounds, the atom was tested. In no time he had a message from the bank . . . "All right, . . . the money's on the way. DON'T SHOUT AND WATCH YOUR LANGUAGE!"

Richard Kiley and Betsy Palmer take little Jackie Eischman for a ride on a hobby horse in a scene from "Give Me My Son," a drama about an Air Force pilot who returns, after being listed as missing in action for four years, to find his son adopted by another couple. Betsy Palmer plays a social worker in this presentation of CBS Television's "The United States Steel Hour" on Wednesday, March 12.

CBS Television's special "Conquest" science series will offer viewers an exclusive on-the-spot report on current U. S. scientific research in the Antarctic on Sunday, March 9. Pictured here is Dr. Philip Smith of the University of Michigan, a leading glaciologist, examining a core of ice to determine the age of the frozen continent beneath it. Out of the Embers

"Let's talk this thing out," Janice had said. "For good and all." And he had agreed. Not enthusiastically. He thought he knew what it would be like. She was going to be very calm, very noble, very much the long-suffering, patient wife who will go no farther. All right, my dear. If you want one more talk, I'm game. Just so it doesn't end in another row.

He became slightly noble himself. Now that it was all over with them he was suddenly courteous. He spoke to her in a tone he might have used toward any good-looking woman not his wife: "Where would you like to sit while you pronounce sentence?"

She knew at once. She must have been thinking about that. "Not here," she said. "Would you mind if we went down to the cabin?"

The cabin. How long had it been since he had seen the inside of that two-roomed affair beside the river. And what could have made her want to go there, of all places? "Not in the least," he said. "We'll need wraps."

They dressed for the raw December day and went out the west door. Crossing the lawn she took his arm. That was unexpected. And also a little uncalled for, he thought, under the circumstances. Why should she make a game out of splitting up? Thinking that, he stiffened and she felt it. But she did not release his arm. "Remember the first time we came down here together?" she asked.

"Can't say I do."

"You mean you don't want to. It was after our honeymoon. And you held MY arm." Her voice was low and uneven and somehow queer.

"Oh," he said. "What's the matter? Getting a cold?"

"No. Not used to fresh air, I suppose. It'll be all right soon."

"In the Nevada climate, you mean?" She did not answer. Maybe she hadn't meant that. To speak of the advantages of Reno while he remained East would not fit her present mood. There had been times—plenty of them—when the important small niceties of conversation between them had been forgotten, giving way to bitterness and recrimination. But he admitted she had never been crude. To cover his own remark he said: "Has the cabin been kept clean?"

"Quite. It's always in good order. No telling when someone might want to use it. There's some wood there, I'm sure. And you remember how that fireplace heats, Will."

"That's right. I do remember." The worst of it was that he remembered too well, all at once. They had lived there—he and Jan— for a while after their honeymoon. The house was too big. Too many people around. Too many distractions from each other. So they had moved to the cabin. They had changed a great deal since then. Not in looks. Ten years wasn't very long. In themselves, somehow. But the cabin had not changed. It was precisely as it had been then, seemed a bit smaller, but then time always does that to distances and dimensions. He busied himself with the kindling. There was only one big chunk of wood. Enough for a little while. The fire caught nicely.

Jan held her hands to the growing flames. "Feels good," she said. And when the chill had been taken from the room she sat on the sofa and asked him, with a restrained, almost fearful little gesture, to sit beside her. He did, and waited—again very nobly—for her to begin this last talk she wanted.

At last she did. "This is where we started, Will," she said. "Here in this little two-by-four. Do you ever think about that time?"

"Thought of it just a moment ago."

"We were happy then, weren't we?"

He shrugged. "Suppose we were, Jan. But I'm afraid we haven't been happy since."

"No, not very . . . And why, Will? Do you know? How did we lose what we had then? Not that it makes any difference, of course. Here we are, and how we got here doesn't really matter, or even who's to blame . . . Right, Will?"

"Right." He stared into the roaring fire and considered that she was exceptionally calm. Better than he had hoped.

"The first day we came here you carried me through the doorway, Will. I remember thinking, while you held me in your arms, that no girl could ever have been happier than I was at that moment. No two people could have been more in love. We were like that fire is now. Just one consuming blaze of love for each other."

He couldn't help smiling at that. Jan really was in a state, to talk like that. But it disappeared when he turned toward her. She was so close to tears.

"And now, Will, look at us. We've made a wretched mess of things, haven't we?"

"Damned if we haven't." He was nearly noble enough to admit, furthermore, that it had been almost entirely his own fault, but he didn't. She might have agreed with him, and then the row would start. He was quiet for a long while, and then he said: "But fires do go out eventually, and I guess ours has."

"Yes. And what's the use of blowing on cold ashes? But, that's why I brought you here to the cabin, Will. I had the wild idea that somehow we could patch it up. Try again. But we're done that too often."

The room was hushed, after that, for many minutes. Hushed, except for the crackling of the one big chunk and the rush of air through the chimney. And even that slowly decreased. The fire he had built and not replenished was burning out. Just like the fire Jan had spoken of. Burning out. It was a simple thing to throw more wood on a fire. But was it so simple to rekindle their own flame? He decided he was getting morbid.

There were only deep red embers between the andirons when she rose. "I told you last night that nothing would keep me from Reno," she said. "I meant it, then, but—Will, I'll stay if you want me. I'll do my best to make us happy. We were once. Maybe, in some way, we could be again." She waited but he did not move; did not raise his eyes.

"Will, I said I'd stay if you want me to. Must I get down on my knees to you? Is that what you want?"

The embers glowed dully.

"Too late, then . . . All right, dear, I'll be packed and on my way in an hour. Would you—do you mind if I kiss you goodbye? Just for old times sake. I won't bother you any more."

He permitted it quite nobly, and when she had leaned and kissed him full on the lips he turned away from her and toward the fire once more. The door closed behind her.

An hour she had said. Well, he would wait that long before going back to the house. No use having more farewells.

He did not stir for a long while, frowning at the fireplace. The one big chunk had only a tiny bit of redness along one edge. The rest was cold gray ash, smoking. She had been right. They had been exactly like the fire, blazing up for a time and then cooling to drabness.

"I won't bother you any more." What had she meant by that? Never see him again? He suddenly realized that he WANTED to see her again. It wouldn't be right not to. You can't live with a person ten years and simply forget it, like that. Maybe they could even be good friends, after the divorce, and have some of the fun they missed before. Without the ties of marriage, or the restraints—

He knew he was being very foolish, thinking things like that. It was all over, and she would be strange and distant whenever—IF ever—they met. Friends? Hardly. Jan was out of his life for good—that was settled.

The cabin was getting cold. He had no idea how long he had been sitting alone. Was the hour up? He rose to stir his aching legs and considered hunting more wood for the fire. With the tongs he probed at the ashy big chunk and at his touch the wood which had seemed so cold, so lifeless, jumped into flames, warm, surprising, beautiful.

A single touch had done that. HIS touch. He gazed open-eyed. And then in quick, bounding leaps he ran up the hill and into the house. Up the stairs. Through a door he had not opened for so very long. The hour was not yet gone.

"Jan," he said. "Jan. You're as slim as you ever were. I'll carry you over, again."

This Week In AMERICAN HISTORY

BY WILLIAM BRODIE

FALL OF THE ALAMO

For twelve days the cannon of the Mexican army commanded by General Santa Anna had been hammering the wall of the Alamo in San Antonio, Texas, where a group of Americans, including a garrison of 187 fighting men, was besieged. Now, at daybreak of the morning of March 6, 1836, the Mexican lines began closing in for the final assault.

Santa Anna had brought his army of several thousand troops up from Mexico to defeat the Americans fighting for Texan independence. The small force of Americans defending the town of San Antonio took up its position in the Alamo. Originally a Spanish mission containing a chapel, a convent and a barracks, with a plaza of about two acres enclosed by an eight foot high stone wall, it was now being used as a fort.

The Mexican army had surrounded the Alamo so that there would be no escape for its garrison. Their cannon pounded the stone wall day after day. After hundreds of Mexicans were killed in trying to size the fort, a breach was made in the wall by the cannon-fire. On the thirteenth day of the siege the final assault began. Both sides knew that this battle would be a fight to the finish. Santa Anna had hoisted a blood-red flag which meant "No prisoners!"

The 187 American defenders were very tired from continuous fighting and loss of sleep. But they were rugged men of the frontier type, commanded by such tough leaders as Colonels William Travis, James Bowie, and Davy Crockett. They rallied once more on the wall to repel the Mexican advance with deadly rifle fire.

The Mexicans came on with scaling ladders to climb over the wall. Swarming up by the hundreds they were heedless of their losses inflicted by the sharpshooting defenders. Their first assault was thrown back. A second assault was also pushed back. Santa Anna was out to take the Alamo at all costs. He ordered a third assault that converged on a point where the wall had been broken by cannon-fire.

Through this opening poured the Mexican soldiers, brave men also, across the bodies of their first fallen ranks, while the hot rifles of the defenders never stopped firing. Colonel Travis, commander of the garrison, went down fighting on the wall. Now the defenders were pushed back by the Mexicans swarming through the breach and over the wall. Splitting up, the outnumbered defenders took their last stand in the tumbled ruins in the yard, in the buildings, in the chapel. Singly and in tight little groups they fought from house to house, room to room, swinging clubbed rifles and knives when their bullets gave out.

Jim Bowie, inventor of the wicked Bowie knife, was laid up in bed from a previous injury. He kept firing his pistol and swinging his big knife until the Mexican bayonets finished him. In the chapel, the last point to fall, Davy Crockett and the dozen volunteers who had come with him from Tennessee, fought to the last man.

By eight o'clock in the morning it was all over. Not one of the 187 brave defenders was left alive. The brutal message of Santa Anna's blood-red flag was carried out to the finish.

But Santa Anna's bloody victory here was to cost him dearly very soon. The slaughter of the Alamo's garrison filled the fighters for Texan independence with fierce hatred and roused their fighting spirit to the highest pitch. Less than two months after the fall of the Alamo the Texans crushed Santa Anna's army at the battle of San Jacinto. Their victorious war cry was, "Remember the Alamo!"
