COVER PICTURE.

The CHRONICLE

THE RAINS CAME — Searcy, Ark. — A bumper crop of bumper-shoots fills a hallway at Harding College in Searcy, Ark., where it's not a fit day out for man nor coed. With all the criticism leveled at U.S. education lately, it's reassuring to note that the students know enough to come in out of the rain.

CLEVELAND, Ohio — After nearly matching the world's record for consecutive Caesarian births, Mrs. Thomas B. Murray proudly shows off her 10th child delivered by this surgical technique. The new baby, named Ruth Ann after her mother, was delivered by Dr. E. P. Monaghan, who has been the chief physician at all 10 operations. Two American mothers share the world's record with 11 Caesarian-delivered children apiece.

AZUSA, Calif. — Six Chesapeake Bay retriever pups suddenly found themselves in dire circumstances when their mother died during their birth. However the ingenuity of owners, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Goldston of Azusa, resulted in the construction of the device pictured here. An example of contentment are Suzy, Duke, Pat, Mike, Radar and Queenie.

Paterson State College Plans Building Program In Near Future

Steps are currently being taken to begin the building program at Paterson State College authorized by the State Legislature in May with a $3,064,000 appropriation for the campus in Haledon.

According to Frank Zanfino, business manager at the college, engineers are working on the master plan for the school. This plan is expected to be completed around the end of August. It shows all existing, proposed, and future buildings and facilities, including roads, parking lots and athletic fields.

Also included in the building plans is a new classroom building, a new cafeteria, a central heating plant, the remodeling of the current cafeteria building for a student center, and the remodeling of Haledon Hall for better administrative offices.

Totowa Borough Council Asks PS To Place Wires Underground

TOTOWA BOROUGH — Public Service Electric and Gas Company has been asked by the Planning Board to place underground all wires for power sub-station off Furler St.

The board on Friday night held up action for two weeks on a PS application for a subdivision which will permit the erection of the station on 3.76 acres between Furler St. and the D.L.&W. railroad near Union Boulevard.

PS representatives at the meeting said they could not decide the question. The board then forwarded its request directly to the company. While they said they were unable to estimate the project cost, the representatives said that at the outset it would be comparable to the sub-station on Route 23 and New York Avenue in Wayne. They noted it could grow to ten times the size.

Mayor Joseph F. Ryan voiced the board's concern as he contended that PS two years ago considered putting the high voltage wires along Union Boulevard underground. Mayor Ryan said the plan was accepted.

Mayor Brown Urges Support For PAL Financial Support Drive

HALEDON — Mayor David Brown officially opened the PAL fund raising campaign with a personal contribution and high praise for officials and members of the organization in their efforts for "all youths of the borough." He urged all residents to recognize the work of the PAL by assisting in the organization's extended program by physical and financial participation.

Louis Piccinnino, campaign chairman, said all borough residents would receive self-addressed envelopes by mail. He urged support of the PAL program that no child be denied the privilege of wholesome and well supervised athletic activities.

President Vincent Cimmino said the enrollment was at its all-time peak with almost 600 members. He said all funds realized are used entirely to benefit borough boys and girls in purchasing athletic equipment and supplies and related activities.

In addition, Cimmino said all children receive a free $1 ticket to the annual September picnic where more than $500 worth of trophies are awarded to the borough's outstanding youth.

Mrs. Zeiders To Be Hostess For European Tour

FAIR LAWN — Mrs. Emma DeWilde Zeiders, of 3-03 Berdan Avenue, received confirmation this week of her appointment as hostess for a September tour of the continent and Britain arranged by the Cultural Travel Council of Simmons Tours. Mrs. Zeiders is the daughter of the first custodian of the borough hall. Emiel "Pop" DeWilde, who for a period housed his family in the hall.

Her knowledge of Flemish aided Mrs. Zeiders in getting the position with the cultural tour group headed by Dr. Frederick Ingoldstad. Mrs. Zeiders reads Belgian newspapers daily.

The linguistic ability is particularly important because this fall's tour by the three-quarters-of-a-century old Simmons firm will include considerable time in Brussels at the fair.

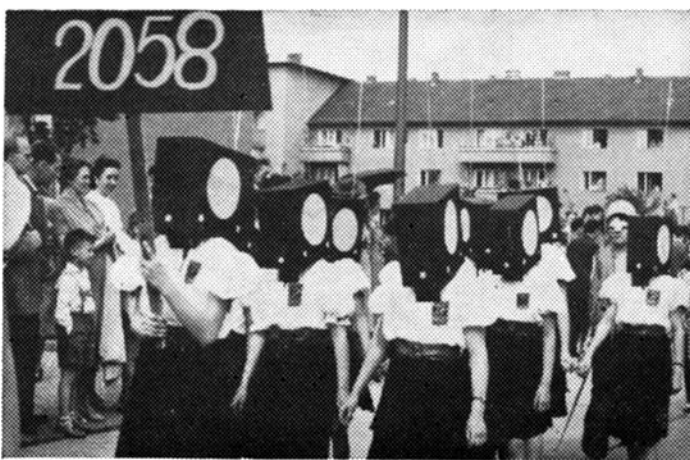

Mrs. Zeiders said last night that her duties with the tourists would be pretty much those of an airplane hostess. She is a practical nurse.

Below Normal Temperatures Reducing Anglers Catch

TRENTON — Unseasonable water temperatures are casting a chill over the "hot" salt water angling usually to be enjoyed in New Jersey waters during July, the State Division of Fish and Game, Department of Conservation and Economic Development announced today.

The spring menhaden run, which usually commences in April, did not get underway until June this year. Water temperatures have evidently become warm enough to please fluke, or summer flounder, and blow fish which have been abundant for several weeks. On the other hand, bluefish have not made their appearance in any numbers, as yet, but bigger than last year fish are still looked for, according to Division biologists.

During several periods of especially cold water large porgies, or scup, have been observed washed up by the surf at Island Beach State Park. Water temperature in the fifties generally accompany this phenomenon.

THE SHAPE OF THINGS TO COME? — Berlin — West Berlin girls dramatize their idea of what people will look like in the year 2058, as they parade to commemorate a new subway extension. According to them the human being of tomorrow will possess a radio receiver instead of a head and antennae instead of ears.

TAKING LIBERTIES WITH JUSTICE — St. Louis, Mo. — Putting the law in order, a workman draws a disapproving stare from a statue of Justice as he stands in her lap at St. Louis, Mo. He's directing a jet of cleansing water on the hand holding the scales during a general spruce-up of the Federal Building.

HIS WORK'S NOT ALL "OFFAL" — San Francisco — Artist Dante Pessagno, applies paint to canvas while at work in the yard of his brother's home. Pessagno, 44, came to San Francisco from Italy in 1954. His brother Aldo was already here — well established and a stockholder in the Scavengers Protective Association, a group of garbage men, and a hardy worker on the refuse trucks. Dante joined him and went to work too, then had to stop work because of a cut on the hand. At just about that time — the Scavengers completed their new office building and needed some decorations. Aldo mentioned Dante for the job, and after seeing his work, members of the Association decided to let Dante paint for his salary instead of hauling rubbish. Pessagno works in oils, in water colors, and in India ink. He has completed a mural map of San Francisco for the Scavengers' lobby, and several scenes of his native Italian country side for the offices in the building.

TRIBORO

The Haledon Emergency Ambulance Association's twenty-fifth anniversary celebration will be marked with a parade on September 20, featuring 45 squads from all over the state. Mayors David Brown of Haledon; Daniel Hook of Prospect Park and Frank Fischer, Jr., of North Haledon, will be among the leaders paying tribute to the local ambulance corps which serves the three boroughs.

In the event of rain, the parade will be held on September 27. When the parade ends at the Roe Street Recreation Field, all ambulances will line up for inspection by as yet an unnamed team.

Trophies will be given to squads with the largest attendance; those traveling the longest distance; best equipped vehicle and several other categories.

Souvenir glasses with the Haledon Corps' emblem will be on sale near the field. Purchasers will then be able to obtain free refreshments.

Forty-five squads which will participate in the parade are: Dunellen Rescue Squad, Inc.; Totowa Borough First Aid Squad; South Orange Rescue Squad; Englewood Volunteer Ambulance Corps; Oceanport First Aid Squad; Neptune First Aid; Pompton Lakes First Aid Squad; Endeavor Emergency Squad; Milltown Rescue Squad; and Freehold First Aid Squad.

Also, Rusling Hose Ambulance Corps; Stafford Township First Aid; Fort Monmouth First Aid; Lakewood First Aid and Emergency Squad; Fanwood Rescue Squad; Carlstadt Emergency Squad; South River Rescue Squad; Belmar First Aid Squad; Wrightstown First Aid Squad; Rochelle Park Post 170, American Legion Ambulance.

Also, Cresskill Fire Department First Aid Squad; Keyport First Aid Squad; Milltown Mobile Hospital Unit; Rutherford First Aid Corps; Iselin First Aid Squad; Matawan First Aid and Rescue Squad; Jamesburg First Aid, Boonton Kiwanis Squad, Morganville First Aid, Ho-Ho-Kus Memorial Volunteer Ambulance Corps.

Also, Verona Rescue Squad, Union Beach First Aid Squad, Midland Park Ambulance Corps, South Plainfield Rescue Squad, Callman's Emergency Unit No. 1, Tri-Boro First Aid Squad, Stewartville Volunteer Fire Company Emergency Squad, Paramus Volunteer Ambulance Corps, Inc., Lindenwood Ambulance Corps, Pequannock Township First Aid Squad.

Also, Wayne Township Memorial First Aid Squad; Ironbound Ambulance Squad, Inc., Oakhurst First Aid, and Madison Township Emergency Squad.

Alfred W. Smith is general chairman of the celebration. Assisting in the planning are: Mrs. Grace Groppi, corps president, as assistance chairman of all committee. Lt. Peter Raynot, parade chairman; Gay Gramp, corps chairman, programming; James Dunkerly, chairman of field arrangements; Len Krautheim, Jack Macri and Carolyn Corsini, co-chairmen for refreshments.

The ambulance committee of the Haledon Emergency Ambulance Association has been given the green light by the membership to join with the executives of the organization to purchase a new ambulance. Previously agreed on by the members, the ambulance will be put in service in several weeks. The ambulance now in service will be temporarily housed in the municipal garage in North Haledon. With two ambulances in service the squad feels it will be better able to serve the more than 18,000 residents of the three boroughs.

One of the reasons the new ambulance will not be able to be accepted into service immediately upon delivery is the fact that the overhead door to the ambulance garage must be raised to permit the entrance of the higher vehicle. It is felt this work will not be completed for a week or two.

Governor Meyner, has indicated he will contribute a trophy to be awarded during the competition and examinations held at the end of the parade at the Roe Street Recreation Field. Mayor David Brown will give a welcoming address, with added salutes coming from other dignitaries of the boroughs and of the Gold Cross Association.

HALEDON

Shortly before one o'clock, on Wednesday of last week, Joe Pignatelli, of 412 Hobart Avenue, while jumping off the swing on the school playground, fell and injured his leg. The Haledon Ambulance arrived and he was taken to Paterson General Hospital. Joe will be laid up for about 8 or 9 weeks with a fractured leg and hip. Just a few minutes after the boy was taken to the hospital, several of his playmates were seen trying to out-jump Joe's record that ended so tragically for him. Sometimes you wonder just when they begin to learn from experience.

The rest of the playground season has finally gotten off to a good start with Ralph Ravo of Barbour Street and Mrs. Ruth Rink of North Haledon as playground supervisors. The registration has reached over the 150 mark, with the children being exceptionally interested in the fine arts and craft program established. Even with the inclement weather of the past two weeks, the kids have kept busy in the basement of the school with games and crafts and general good times.

Mrs. John Teuwen, Mrs. William Riley, Mrs. Walter Bergen, Mrs. George H. Dowd, Mrs. Gerrit J. Zwolle, Mrs. Robert J. Kranich, Mrs. Frank Conforth and Mrs. Joseph Aquadro, all volunteered for clerical duties connected with the visit here by the Mobile Chest X-ray Unit. A total of 382 residents received free chest x-rays and 345 requested and received St. Louis Dreypaks, a simple home procedure for diabetes testing. The yearly visits of this unit are sponsored by the local Board of Health, the Board of Freeholders, Valley View Hospital and the Passaic County TB Association.

Miss Joette De Lorenzo of Clifton and Vince Martinez, welter-weight boxer of Haledon (although Paterson also claims him) and Miami Beach, will be married Saturday, August 16, at 5 p.m. in St. Mary's R. C. Church.

Miss De Lorenzo, daughter of

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph De Lorenzo, 639 Crooks Avenue, Clifton, attended Clifton schools and is employed by Dr. Edmund Dabagian, Paterson dentist. Vince, who graduated from Central High is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Martinez of Miami Beach, who makes his home with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Auterie, 33 Mangold Street, most of the time.

As more than 50 percent of the 600 members who registered in the Haledon PAL were required for the insurance plan to succeed, and as only 109 applied for the insurance, the plan has to be dropped. This was regretfully announced by president Vincent Cimmino this week. Those who had paid for the insurance already will have their money refunded. Refunds will be made Friday from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the borough offices at 408 Morrissee Avenue, or at the PAL swimming classes Saturday morning at Camp Veritan. Secretary James D. Sees will refund the premiums.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Van Putten of 413 Belmont Avenue, were guests of honor at a surprise 25th wedding anniversary party given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Donnelly, Sr., in Wayne.

The couple was married on July 29, 1933, at St. Paul's R. C. Church in Prospect Park. They have one son, Joseph, a Haledon eighth grade student.

Mrs. Van Putten, the former Mary Donnelly of Wayne, is a member of St. Paul's Rosary Society; president of the Haledon PTA and a volunteer librarian at the Haledon Free Public Library.

Mr. Van Putten is employed by the Port of New York Authority. He is a former nationally famous ice skating champion and is presently associated with Boy Scout Troop 10 of the borough.

Don't Let Professional Skills Be Lost Through Inactivity

By ANNE HEYWOOD

SINCE woman's life is so subject to changes in social and financial status, it is a wise woman who holds on to any business skill she may have acquired right out of school.

Too often I meet a woman who had a good secretarial job before marriage, or an editorial job or a filing job or what not, and then, as one said:

"I just got so busy at home that my job skill got terribly rusty. Now that I need a job desperately, it is just as if I am a beginner."

Part-Time Activity

The tragedy is that, nine times out of ten, this need not happen. Most young mothers, particularly in towns and cities, do get a certain amount of free time, a breather, so to speak, when their children are in school. Instead of spending this time at bridge parties, or just reading and taking extra naps, it is very sensible to spend some of it in a part-time activity, paid or not, depending on your budget, which will keep your skills sharpened. You may never need them, but on the other hand, they may avert a crisis for you and your children, if an emergency arises.

Eloise G. is one young woman I know who is keeping her hand in. She was a librarian in a publishing house before marriage.

Worked At Home

"I used to do extra indexing jobs at home," she told me. "And was pretty good at it. I used to like reading a book, and taking out the significant points, and making all the little cards, and typing up the finished index. I was so good at it, in fact, that I was sure the skill would not leave me.

"But then I took ten years out to bring up three children. When Bobby, the youngest, went to kindergarten, I went back to my old boss to see if I might do some more indexing jobs at home. He was delighted and gave me one that very day. . . ." Here she started to grin.

Found Herself at a Loss

"I'll never forget what a tizzy I was in! I took the manuscript home, bought a stack of little white cards, and set up the card table in the living room.

She Was a Whiz at Indexing . . . Before Her Marriage!

"My thinking was slow, my reading was slow, and my typing was hopeless. Four hours went by, and I hadn't got as far as I would have in twenty minutes before, to say nothing of the fact that by then, it was dinnertime and no dinner was on the stove.

"Fortunately, I have a long-suffering husband and very helpful children. It was three months before I got back to my old form.

"Now I index a book every month, because to let that skill slip away seems just as wasteful as cutting a hole in your pocket-book and letting the money leak out!"

MRS. LEONARD L. FIERTL

St. Catherine's R. C. Church was the setting for the wedding of Miss Eleanor M. Scialo of Fair Lawn to Leonard Fiertl of Ridgefield Park. The Rev. Joseph K. Hull officiated. A reception was held at the Friar Tuck Inn.

MRS. RAYMOND W. ANNIS

The marriage of Miss Faye Terranella and Raymond W. Annis took place recently at St. Joseph's R. C. Church in Lodi. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Terrantella, 20 Linden Street, Lodi, and the groom is the son of Mrs. Cosmo Annis and the late Mr. Annis of 40 Grand Street.

MRS. BARRY L. KANTOR

Miss Roberta J. Coven, daughter of Mrs. Robert E. Coven, 177 Derrom Avenue, was united in marriage with Barry Kantor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Kantor of East Orange in the roof garden of the Pierre Hotel, New York. The candlelight ceremony was performed by Rabbi Arthur T. Buch. A reception followed. The couple are on a European honeymoon.

MRS. JAMES FERGUSON

The wedding of Miss Lorraine Mabel Walker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Walker of 104 Terrace Avenue, North Haledon, to James Ferguson, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Ferguson of 169 Sussex Street, was solemnized in the First Presbyterian Church of North Haledon. A reception followed at the North Haledon firehouse.

COMBATTING CRIME

Every crime is the same in one basic fact. A crime is an infringement on the rights of others.

Every criminal from the petty thief to the hardened gangster is the same in one respect. His only "rule" is actually an animal instinct, "survival of the fittest." This worked out fine in the cave man era, but in our so-called civilized society, we are supposed to have risen above that early animal law.

Perhaps if we started out with the above presumption, and if the movies and television and books and magazines, yes and newspapers, ridiculed every criminal for what he is; just a throw back to the animalistic era, who has no respect for the rights of others, then youngsters might not have such a respect for hoodlums and try to emulate their deeds.

Even Jesse James, a legend in our country, had a feeling that if he was clever enough to outwit a sheriff and rob a bank he had the right to the money. How about the rights of the people who had worked hard to accumulate that money? What about their rights? No criminal ever worries about the rights of others, just his own.

Perhaps parents and educators can help prevent youngsters from turning into criminals when they see children growing up who habitually exert their wills and their rights over their friends and playmates. Remember, we said, habitually. Naturally, in the course of childhood, every child goes through several stages of growing up where he feels he has to assert himself to prove he's growing up. But when he becomes a bully, who always has to win a game, no matter if its through fair or foul means, then there should be a serious doubt in the parents' mind as to whether there shouldn't be some discipline exerted on that child to remind him of the rights of others.

Not all criminals are dumb plodding oafs, who know no other way to make money. Most of the major crimes in this country are conceived in keen minds that, if that mental energy were put to good use would have created a new invention to help mankind, or developed a new and better method of processing food, or manufacturing products.

But when any criminal, legendary or not, is given public notice and his deeds exploited as though they were really clever fellows who put one over on the law, we're sowing seeds for future crimes.

Maybe capital punishment isn't the best deterrent to crime. Maybe if we went back to the ducking tool, or branding, or public stocks and pillories, or whipping posts, it might prove more effective.

If a group of teenage hoodlums beat up and mug an old man, its a sensation on the front pages for a while, but then the trials, etc., are relegated to the back pages and forgotten.

Suppose instead, if the hoodlums are found guilty of this terrible crime, they were taken to a public whipping ground and spanked like naughty children, (but with a strap,) would any other youngsters feel they were such heroes. Suppose they were taken throughout the entire neighborhood and put on display with a loudspeaker announcing that these brave fellows had really accomplished something! They had beaten up an old man; several of these young strong hoods, had ganged up on a poor defenseless old man, and had gloriously conquered him and stolen his hard earned money! Would they then go back to the same neighborhood after their prison term and be looked up to as heroes?

Another Highway Causality

The Editor Speaks

VINCENT S. PARRILLO

So, Mr. Krushchev thinks he might come over to the United States for a meeting, eh? I have an idea. Let Mr. K. meet with a delegation of American women! I'm not being facetious now either.

I'll bet you that if a bunch of good looking intelligent women ganged up on our Russian friend we'd have him bottled up in no time.

Picture these women telling Mr. K. to get out of our hair, and get back to his own country and leave all the other countries of Europe and Asia alone. That they want our American troops back here where they belong, and if Mr. K. just doesn't tell Mr. Nasty Nasser to get into the borders of his own country and stay there, that we women will come over and starch all their sheets! So how does he like that! Let's see Mr. Nasser chasing all over Asia with the Arab chieftains jumping on their horses in starched sheets!

These girls would probably tell Mr. K. that they would send delegates back to Russia with him to start a League for Women Voters, and let them try to put just one guy up in an election then!

They would probably also tell Mr. K. that his manners were awful, he was overweight and really ought to be on a diet, and perhaps take him to a salon, with five cents a shot for anyone who wanted to massage him (money going to CARE) naturally.

Maybe this is a little far-fetched, but just ask any man who belongs to an organization where they have a ladies auxiliary. Ask him who does the most work on the annual fund raising affairs; the picnics, the building drives, etc.! Let the girls get their teeth into this international problem and I'm telling you the UN would never shut up because of a veto, unless the girls were the veto-ers.

Mental Health Fund Drive Nearing The $25,000 Mark

In the first report on the countywide Mental Health Fund Drive, the Passaic County Association for Mental Health today announced contributions totaling $23,611.

County Chairman Erwin Kraft of Ringwood said he has hopes of the final total reaching $25,000. He urged everyone who has not contributed to mail a gift to the Mental Health office, 339 Broadway, Paterson, or care of your local postmaster.

He said that about $14,000 was raised in the two-hour Bell Ringers Residential Canvass on June 4 in Paterson, Clifton, Hawthorne, Totowa, Haledon and West Paterson. The co-chairmen were Mrs. Robert O. Truman of Paterson and Mrs. Edward Han-neman of Clifton.

The seven communities with latest collections from all phases of the campaign are: (1) Paterson $7,171, (2) Clifton $5,747, (3) Passaic $2,478, (4) Wayne $2,335, (5) Hawthorne $1,151, (6) Pompton Lakes $1,047 (7) Wanaque $685.

Other community campaign totals include: (8) Totowa $678, (9) North Haledon $614, (10) Prospect Park $502, (11) West Paterson $392, (12) Haledon $375, (13) Little Falls $250 and (14) Ringwood $105.

The County Chairman praised the work of the 3,000 volunteers in the campaign and the community chairmen: Alfeo De Luca of Clifton, Emil Landsprung and Mrs. Stephen Poster of Little Falls, Harry P. Cook, Jr. of North Haledon, Salvatore Porretta of Passaic, Ernest Koenig of Pompton Lakes, John Pruiksma of Prospect Park, Joseph Wilson of Ringwood, Martin Allen of Wanaque and Mrs. Peter Isaza of Wayne.

Mr. Kraft expressed his appreciation to all who contributed to the fight against mental illness, which afflicts one of every twelve residents.

He gave his assurance that the money will be invested wisely in year 'round programs of re-

"Who's Who Includes Four Area Names

Four area residents have been named in "Who's Who in America." They join a total of 11 other residents carried over from last year's volume.

The newly-named four are: Bishop James A. McNulty, of the local Roman Catholic Diocese; Hugh C. Sperrnow, juvenile and domestic relations judge; Dr. I. J. Selikoff, who aided in the development of isoniazide, a drug that combats tuberculosis; and Dr. Marian E. Shea, dean of Paterson State College.

search, education, counseling, rehabilitation and promotion of more adequate care and treatment facilities.

"A portion of the money also will further the state and national attack against mental illness by the New Jersey and National Associations for Mental Health," he added.

New Officers To Be Installed At PBA Dinner

FAIR LAWN — The installation dinner of PBA Local 67 will be held on Saturday, August 16, at Viscentin's Grove, Saddle River Road.

Patrolman Warren Steenland will be installed as president. Other officers are Joseph Mesere, vice president; Wayne McCammon, treasurer; Thomas Mabey, secretary; Dante Lozzi, state delegate.

Al Crawford is chairman of the dinner committee.

Super Market Approved In Wayne Township

WAYNE—The Planning Board has approved plans for a super-market costing $270,000 to be erected on Hamburg Turnpike, alongside the T-Bowl Bowling Academy, near Church Lane.

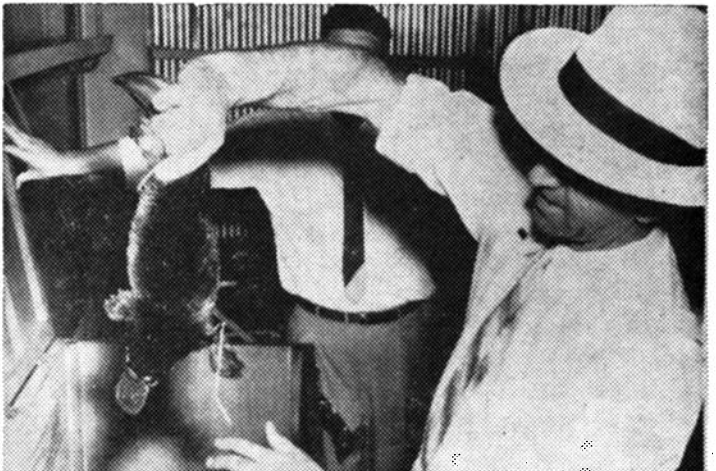

The store will be erected for Acme Markets and was proposed by Charles Behrman, developer of Gibraltar Homes.

GOING 'GATOR — Cleveland — An unusual cargo for a wheelbarrow, even in a zoo, is this 400-pound alligator named Albert. Since Albert has a tendency to wander away unless he is watched, reptile keeper Mike Turnaukas of the Cleveland Zoo, gave him and the other 'gators a lift when they had their "coming out" for the summer months.

George Montgomery (left), a tough gun-slinger hired to clean up a Kansas town, discusses his plan with John Agar and Jean Allison, in "Thousand Dollar Gun," on "General Electric Theater," to be broadcast over the CBS Television Network Sunday, Aug. 3.

LOS ANGELES — One of three rare Platypuses from Brisbane, Aust. is lifted from it's pen for a mid-afternoon feeding by Dr. David Fleay, noted authority on Platypuses who is traveling with the little animals. Ultimate destination of the three, named Paul, Patty and Pamela is the Bronx Zoo in New York but at this particular point Dr. Fleay could not tell which one he held.

HEALTH MEASURE — New York — Designed for doctors, not engineers, this two-foot slide rule displayed in New York by Brenda Underwood is a British innovation to aid medical diagnosis. Called the Nash Grouped Symbol Associator, the rule has 80 symptom strips stored in its back and 340 disease categories listed along one edge of its front side. From one to six symptom strips can be inserted under a movable window (beneath the model's left hand) which has an arrowed line to point out the corresponding ailment. Invented by a London physician, the rule does not make diagnosis mechanical, but does serve as a prompter or reminder.

MAIL FROM HOME — "We Get Postcards" might well be the theme of emcee Sandy Becker and "postcard girl" Marilyn Toomey of the NBC-TV Network's "Win With a Winner" quiz. The postcards they receive come from home viewers trying to win cash prizes on the Tuesday night show.

The neighborhood dogs were romping together one day when Scottie came along. "Heavens, Scottie, what's wrong with you?" asked the little Peke. "You look simply awful!" "I feel awful. I'm nervous, can't sleep, have no appetite." "You ought to see a good vet."

"Oh, I've seen them all, and they all say the same thing: 'Nothing wrong organically.'" "Maybe what you need is to see a good psychiatrist." "Oh, I couldn't—you see, I'm not allowed on couches!"

Laugh of the Week: A huge pile of statistics is available to show that business is getting better—especially for people who compile statistics.

The second tale concerns the poppa bear complaining: "Someone's been messing with my porridge." The second and third bears also complained: "Someone's been messing with my porridge." The mama bear replied: "Gripe, gripe, gripe—that's all you men-folk do around this house. The fact is I haven't even started to make the porridge."

Tenderfoot: "Why are hurricanes named after girls?"
Meteorologist: "Because they're spin-sters."

THUNDERING DOUBLE-ACTION FROM HEAVEN TO HELL AND BACK!

A Doll for Luck!

It was a symbol of love and a broken heart, too, in this poignant and tragic romance

By GENE GILBERT

Palmer soared through the sky with a light heart. He was leaving a hard life behind, years of hand-to-mouth existence, years of depending on occasional charter trips and the students able to pay the high rates on his big machine. The future opened before him. He would get a new ship, one of those long-range, all metal jobs, go in for long distance competitive races. And he would have a swell-looking girl with a pile of dough to pay the bills.

He glanced at the instrument board, saw that everything was all right. The cabin ship roared steadily over Connecticut at four thousand feet. There were scattered clouds beneath him, but not enough to hide the ground. His luck was breaking right for the first time, just right. Reaching up, he patted the mascot swinging from the roof on a length of ribbon.

It was a small doll, black of face, with two pearl buttons set in the satin for eyes, a piece of red silk stitched across the lower half of the face for a mouth. It was garbed in a loud plaid dress, green and red.

That rag-stuffed little figure had been hanging in this ship for over two years. Palmer had come to believe it was lucky. The girl who had loaned him the down payment on the machine had put it there. He had met her one summer when he had been barnstorming with a small, old ship, and they had knocked around together for three months. She had been pretty sure of herself. Palmer recalled, loaned him money, talked about how "we" were going to make a fortune with the larger ship.

He recalled the night when they had won the doll at a small carnival, in one of the ring-toss games. He had made up his mind already to pull out sometime soon. And it had annoyed him somewhat to see her having such a gay time. But he could not tell her, there was no need to say goodbye tearfully and have her bawl and carry on in front of him.

On their way home, she had insisted that they go to the field where his ship was staked down in the open, and sit in the cabin for a few minutes. She had been big, and light blonde and sentimental. Just before they had left the cabin, she had pinned the thing to the upholstery on the ceiling:

"That's our luck, Eric," she had said. "As long as she's there, we'll always be safe."

Palmer had smiled, kissed her and taken her home. At dawn of the same morning, he had taken off and come East. He had never returned. Once in a while, letter from her caught up with him, but he had not answered. What was the use? He had intended to send her back the loan when he could. He was grateful for the help, and everything. But how could he explain without hurting her, that they were just not suited to each other? Not for more than a few months, anyway.

When the letters had stopped coming, he had thought that she had understood. Then some fellow, who had known them both, had handed him a clipping, without a word. She had been killed in a crossing accident. It seemed that her car had stalled on the tracks, and that she had made no effort to get out. The fellow evidently thought she had done it on purpose. Palmer knew better. That girl had had character, she would not have done away with herself over a few hundred bucks and a broken engagement.

He had been tempted to take that doll down. Then he had reasoned that it would be, in a way, an admission of remorse. And he had nothing to blame himself for. If a guy married every girl he courted, in his business especially . . . And he had been right: The doll had brought him luck at last: Eleanor. She had looks and background and money. Furthermore, she had the kind of a spirit he liked which he needed close to him. To her, a ship wasn't something to work for a small house, for an ordinary living. She enjoyed what he enjoyed, fame, her name in the papers. She loved him, all right, but she would always understand that he must take long chances.

Ahead, he saw the small field where she was waiting. They would drive to her home, be married, and fly away. He tipped his left wing, banked lazily over a field. A bright spot of color detached itself from a long, sleek, dark car. Eleanor waving her scarf. That was service—already: His girl waiting for him with a 16-cylinder bus, complete with chauffeur.

His spirits surged higher. This was a private airport, no inspector would be around, so he was safe in giving her a show. He slammed the motor full on, nosed down then hauled the ship up and over in a tight loop. He leveled off and eased her around, a few wing-overs — and level flight again.

Something caught his eye, the doll, swinging from the roof, grinning redly. He smiled and slapped it like a punching-bag a few times, glanced at his altimeter. He still had fifteen hundred feet. One last stunt and then he could land. He circled the field once more, swung around and when he was almost over the car, shoved the throttle full, dove in a screaming fall. The moving doll again attracted his glance.

Eleanor had tightened her lips when he had told her it was a souvenir from a dame, before he got serious with her. It might be tactful to ditch it now—scarcely the memento for a perfect honeymoon! A small sacrifice to love. He reached out, jerked it loose and tossed it out through the open side window and pulled the wheel back to neutral.

Eleanor was standing still by the side of the car, he noticed and he decided to level off. No need to frighten her. He hauled back further on the wheel. It yielded an inch—and stuck. He pulled again, harder, and the wheel stuck—the wheel stuck—

He must get her nose up, level off—he was doing better than two hundred and the ground was close.

Too close . . .

Caught between the horizontal stabilizer and the counterweight for the elevators, the small black doll in the loud green and red plaid dress seemed to widen the grin of her scarlet satin mouth.

This Week In AMERICAN HISTORY

BY WILLIAM BRODIE

LAFAYETTE COMMISSIONED

A young man not yet twenty years old became an American general on July 31, 1777. On that day the Continental Congress in Philadelphia commissioned a young French nobleman as a major general in the Continental Army of the thirteen colonies fighting for independence. His name was Marie Joseph Paul Yves Roche Gilbert du Motier, Marquis de Lafayette. We know him as Lafayette, a name carved in glory and honor in our country's history.

The tall, slender, handsome, blond young Marquis de Lafayette was a wealthy French nobleman who had entered his country's military service at fifteen. By marriage at seventeen he allied his fortunes with those of powerful and ancient French families. Yet for all his aristocratic background he had a real love of liberty.

When Lafayette heard of the outbreak of the American Revolution his imagination and enthusiasm were stirred. He determined to join the great cause, believing that "the welfare of America is closely bound with the welfare of mankind. He also sought glory, and a chance to deal a blow against England in avenging the defeat of the recent Seven Years War in which France had been humiliated and his father had lost his life. Thus Lafayette, making the most important decision of his life, came to the aid of the American colonies.

He had to proceed secretly. He concealed his plans from his family, and withdrew from the French military service. Secretly, and at his own expense, he fitted out a ship and managed in time to sail to America. In the middle of June of 1777 he landed on the shore of South Carolina. Six weeks of hard travel brought him to Philadelphia where he presented his credentials to a committee of Congress. But he got a cool reception.

Congress had been annoyed with foreign adventurers who had little to offer but wanted high positions and big rewards for their services. The young Frenchman was at first glance considered in the same light by a weary Congress. But Lafayette wasn't easily rebuffed. He sent a petition to Congress requesting an opportunity to serve as a volunteer at his own expense. This unusual proposal got prompt attention. Lafayette's credentials were carefully examined, and on July 31, 1777 Congress voted him the rank and commission of major general. He was at the time two months short of his twentieth birthday.

Lafayette soon met Washington at a dinner in Philadelphia. Washington liked him from the first, seeing in the handsome young aristocrat the true gentleman, as well as enthusiastic seeker of glory. The American commander invited the boy to become one of his staff. There grew up between them an affectionate relationship of mutual liking and confidence, almost like that of father and son.

The young Marquis de Lafayette served bravely and with distinction through the Revolutionary War to its end with the final British defeat at Yorktown. After that he returned, with more fame and all the glory he had sought, to his family and young wife in France. Behind him he left in America the love and esteem of a new nation. Other foreigners have won the applause and homage of the American people. But above them all stands the glorious figure of young Lafayette.
