Four First National Bank Men Get Banking School Teaching Assignments

Classes for this year's session of the Graduate School of Banking at Rutgers University, New Brunswick, will begin on Monday, June 8, to run for two weeks. Four officers of the First National Bank of Passaic County: Robert W. Siebert, Jr., C. Wesley Bensen, Jr., Erwin O. Kraft, and John P. Anderson, will serve in various capacities as thesis examiners, thesis consultants and members of the faculty.

On Sunday, June 7, Anderson, Bensen and Siebert counsel with juniors on outlines of their thesis to be filed with the school in their senior years. During the first week of school, Anderson will serve as a member of the faculty for the sub-major on Business Development and Public Relations, and will sit in panel discussions covering these subjects. During the second week, Erwin O. Kraft, vice president, will lecture the seniors on Banking and Government.

The Graduate School of Banking has been conducted by the American Bankers Association since 1935. The course consists of three resident sessions of two weeks each at New Brunswick with two years of extension work at home. To qualify for graduation, an acceptable thesis based upon original research in the field of banking and finance must be submitted.

Hikers and Picnickers Are Warned Not To Kidnap Jersey's Baby Deer

"Don't kidnap baby deer from their natural surroundings!" This advice was handed out by State officials recently because this is the time of year fawns are born. People on picnics and hikers in the rural areas, as well as others, are requested to ignore a young deer in the woods because its mother is close by.

"People don't pick up babies that are seen crawling around lawns because they realize that the mother is watching," remarked William P. Coffin, chief conservationist of the state. "The same recognition should be accorded a spotted fawn which appear along a roadside or on a picnic area."

Taking of fawns from the woodlands, in many instances, is not an action motivated primarily by humanity, but rather pride of possession, Coffin believes. He said people who pick up a fawn deer and take it home are not doing the animal any favor. It will look to that person for food and shelter and very quickly become tame. When the novelty of possession wears off, the animal will not revert to the wild but will remain in the vicinity of its captivity.

When the deer hunting season comes in the fall, the captive deer will walk up to the first archer or gunner it encounters looking for a handout of food, but will probably get an arrow or a load of buckshot instead, according to Coffin. Thus the captive fawn will be killed by the kindness of the person who picked it up in the spring.

The State officials declared that possession of a wild deer is a violation of fish and game laws in New Jersey and upon conviction the person in possession of the deer is subject to a penalty of $100.

"PERRY PRESENTS" — Tony Bennett and Teresa Brewer star in "Perry Presents," musical variety colorcast series which takes the full-hour time-spot of "The Perry Como Show" Saturday, June 13. The weekly program also stars the Four Lads, noted vocal group.

American Automobile Sales High; Six Million May Be Sold This Year

American automobile manufacturers continue to turn out new cars at an increasing rate. Assembled last week, according to Ward's Automotive Reports, were 135,368 passenger cars, against 134,763 the previous week and 87,407 in the like week of 1958. Sales, which reached 502,500 in April — the largest volume for any month since June, 1957 — are reported holding at that level or a little better. Most leaders of the industry appear agreed that 1959 sales of new passenger cars will total in the vicinity of six million, including imports. The latter, last year, totaled 430,000.

Automotive accessory stores report a 28 per cent gain in sales in April, indicating that those Americans who are not buying new cars are investing generously in refurbishing older cars. Economists say that points to an increase in U. S. vacation travel this summer, promising an upsurge in demand for gasoline and oil products, sporting and camping goods and resort wear.

SUSPICION — Rory Calhoun (left) and Walter Abel star in "Meeting in Paris," the first in a selected series of one-hour dramas, beginning Sunday, June 14 on the NBC-TV Network. Calhoun plays an American duped by his ex-wife into helping her new husband escape from Paris. Abel portrays an American intelligence officer who briefs Calhoun on black markets and European intrigue. The series consists of 13 films originally telecast on NBC during 1957-58.

TEENAGER IN SPOTLIGHT — Fifteen-year-old Noreen Corcoran is featured as Kelly, an impish lass whose upbringing is a major concern of her uncle, Hollywood lawyer Bentley Gregg, portrayed by the series' star, John Forsythe, on "Bachelor Father." The popular situation comedy series becomes a Thursday night feature on the NBC-TV Network June 18.

Social Security Benefits Provide A Floor of Protection Against Old Age

When someone mentions social security, do you think only of the social security tax? If you do, then you are missing valuable information which you need when you are planning for future security for yourself and your dependents.

According to Stanley J. Fiorese, manager of the Paterson social security office, the social security tax system is compulsory. If you are working in an activity covered by the Social Security Act, you must make tax contributions to the program. In this way, you earn the protection offered by the system. If your work is not covered by social security, no social security tax is due and in fact you could not pay the tax, even if you wanted to do so. Since it is compulsory you may feel there is no need to learn about the tax and the insurance protection which you earn. But you may be missing out on valuable information needed to complete your plans for future security.

Social security payments provide a floor of protection against loss of earnings due to the old age, disability, or death of the family breadwinner. Fiorese points out that since social security is an individual right earned by a set amount of work under the law, this ground floor is a very solid one on which to build your "house" of the future. The second, third and upper stories of the "house" may be private insurance, stocks and bonds, real estate, cash savings, or other liquid assets. Of the more than 2½ million persons receiving approximately $700 million in monthly benefits, Fiorese states, some 75 percent have other income in addition to their social security benefits.

Social Security can, and should, play an important part in planning for your future and the future of your family. Your district social security office will be happy to advise you of the amount of work necessary to qualify for disability, old-age, and survivors benefits, as well as any other requirements for entitlement.

Since social security is a compulsory social insurance system, it makes good sense to find out how, when and approximately how much you and your family can collect. The Social Security Administration provides over 584 district offices throughout the United States to answer your questions and help you to plan for the future. The local district office is at 245 Market Street, Paterson, N. J.

Fishermen Who "Jump the Gun" Will Now Be Arrested and Prosecuted

Trout fishermen who "jump the gun" and fish in newly stocked streams before official opening time, are being placed under arrest and prosecuted, the State Division of Fish and Game, Department of Conservation and Economic Development, announced today.

To combat the new illegal practice of fishing ahead of time and depriving the law-abiding fishermen of a fair opportunity to catch trout, the Division has arranged schedules of conservation officers so that they can patrol well in advance of legal starting time, which is one-half hour before sunrise.

Since the week of May 3, the State Division reports 103 fishing violators have been apprehended for fishing too early. Of this number, 71 have been prosecuted for fishing at times at least an hour before starting time. Thirty-two warnings were issued to juvenile violators under 18 years of age for fishing in the streams before legal hours.

The State Fish and Game Council has relaxed many former fishing regulations, one of which eliminated all seasons except for trout and salmon, to provide more recreation for licensed fishermen.

Another of the changes eliminated size limits on all except small mouth bass and pickerel in Greenwood Lake and Lake Hopatcong. The trout bag limit has also been standardized throughout the State.

Fishermen have also been permitted to keep all fish caught through the ice whereas in former years trout and bass were required to be returned to the waters during the ice fishing season.

Stream throughout the State have been posted with signs announcing that streams are closed on specific days of the week during April, May and June. Many of the early fishermen have been apprehended in close proximity to such signs.

The campaign to eliminate early fishing is the result of knowledge gained last year when it was realized some fishermen would not wait for the official starting time on the days when closed waters reopened to fishing a half hour before sunrise.

Such early fishing defeats the purpose of the stream closure and stocking program and the Division intends to continue its campaign against unsportsmanlike "jump the gun" anglers.

Federal Tax Structure Study To Start In Fall

Possibly the broadest study to date of the Federal tax structure is scheduled to start in November. Chairman Mills of the House Ways and Means Committee says the purpose will be "constructive reform" of the tax system. Representative Mills has concept of "reform" as follows: (1) It must attempt to reduce tax rates without sacrificing needed revenues. (2) It must seek to produce an economic climate favorable to growth, while interfering as little as possible with a free economy. (3) It must aim at greater equity among different groups of taxpayers and seek to maintain price stability. (4) It must contemplate ease of compliance and administration and give assurance that the progression in tax rates will be fair. The Arkansas Democrat has said a major objective will be to find out whether some forms of income do not now pay their fair share of the costs of government — and whether the tax base can be broadened so as to permit reduction of existing rates on individual and corporate income.

Passaic County Planning Board Issues Booklet On Development Procedures

As a guide to municipalities and land developers in processing subdivisions activities throughout the county, the Passaic County Planning Board has just completed publication and started distribution of a 26-page revision of the procedure in all such matters.

Because of its importance to all parties concerned, copies of the revision have been sent to all municipal officials, engineers and planning board members and other practicing engineers of the county, also to interested State and National officials, in addition to which copies are available at the office of the County Planning Board, Room 203, County Service Building, 317 Pennsylvania Avenue, Paterson 3, N. J., for the use of developers and others contemplating land subdivisions.

This, the fourth revision of the Passaic County Subdivision Procedure since the original one was published in May 1949, is the result of an intensive cooperative study made by the County Planning Board and County Engineer George W. Mason, one of its ex-officio members, according to Chairman Robert Paul Lippman of Paterson.

He explained that the purpose of the revision is twofold: (1) to familiarize new municipal planning board members throughout the county with subdivision procedure and (2) to make several changes relative to minor subdivisions as they affect county roads.

Continuing the chairman said that "We feel that by following this procedure considerable time will be saved in the processing of subdivisions and that, through the review of minor subdivisions affecting county roads, we will be in a more advantageous position to facilitate the proper development of our county."

Pointing out that there also have been several minor revisions in the procedure for major subdivisions, the report points out that County Planning Board approval also will be necessary in the future for any minor subdivision on a County road, which has not been required in the past, but now is included because, "since development on county roads is continuing at a rapid rate, it is conceivable that the county storm drainage system may be seriously effected unless minor as well as major subdivisions on county roads are reviewed by our board and the County Engineering Department."

The report contains easy-to-follow step-by-step charts showing a glance the procedure for filing major and minor subdivision plats in accordance with the municipal subdivision ordinances and the County Planning Board's requirements.

In addition, the text of the report lists the procedures for approval of major and minor subdivisions; preliminary plat requirements for making application to the Passaic County Planning Board and the County Engineering Department for approval; excerpts from the filing law; data concerning the location of monuments on plats; excerpts from county enabling legislation; table showing the requirements for making application to the County Planning Board for review of major subdivisions, as well as minor subdivisions abutting on county roads; a check list for filing requirements, also owner, partnership and corporate affidavit forms for use when filing plans of subdivisions for County Planning Board review.

$1.00 Fee For Rifle And Crow Permits

The State Division of Fish and Game, Department of Conservation and Economic Development, today explained why the State Fish and Game Council has established a one dollar fee for rifle permits and crow permits.

First of all, the Division said, in recent years, the number of these permits issued has increased tremendously. In addition to printing and mailing costs, this program has necessitated extra clerical help in Trenton and considerable screening and checking by conservation officers.

The State Division operates on dedicated funds which yield a relatively fixed income. The current inflationary spiral, plus the encroachments of civilization which make the maintenance of hunting and fishing more costly, and the growing demand of the public for all types of services, puts an ever greater strain on the Division's finances. The cost of administering the rifle and crow permits has been pulling funds from other programs needed and demanded by license holders and the public.

As the numbers of permits have increased, it has been necessary to establish certain safety requirements especially for the use of rifles in densely settled New Jersey.

PETE AND EDIE — Craig Stevens has the title role in NBC-TV Network's "Peter Gunn" series and beautiful blonde Lola Albright portrays his torch-singer girl friend, Edie Hart. The mystery-adventure program is telecast Monday nights.

NATIONAL PASTIME, ISRAELI-STYLE — Archaeology has become the national pastime of Israel, says NBC-TV producer Doris Ann (above), who headed the task force that filmed "The Land of the Book" there for telecast as an "Eternal Light" special Sunday, May 31. This sarcophagus at Beit She'arim, discovered only a week before the NBC crew set to work, is part of the filmed evidence of the Israeli preoccupation with digging and unearthing. With Miss Ann here are (left to right) Rabbi Bernard Mandelbaum, dean of students, Jewish Theological Seminary of America, who served as consultant; Martin Hoade, director, and Joseph Vadala, cameraman. The program shows how Israel today is using the Bible as a manual of life.

Three men were driving through the countryside very late on a pitch black night. Two were in the front seat and the other in the back, half asleep.

Suddenly the driver asked the man in the back to look out the rear window and see who the crazy driver was behind them. For the past five minutes he had been trying to let him pass and, to top it off, his car had only one light on. The man looked out the back and then said very excitedly: "No wonder he can't pass you—he's on tracks!"

The country boy had been trying to propose to his girl a long time. Finally he got up the nerve to blurt out, "I'll betcha wouldn't marry me!"

She not only called his bet but raised him three.

"Now son . . . stand like this, then simply push your feet like . . . HELP!"

The drunk tiptoed up the stairs, shoes in hand. He patched up the scars of the brawl with adhesive tape, then climbed into bed, smiling at the thought that he'd put one over the wife.

Came the dawn: the ex-drunk opened his eyes and there stood his wife glaring at him.

A TRIBUTE TO TEENAGERS

Juvenile delinquency is a grave and growing problem in this country, and should never be underestimated. At the same time we shouldn't lose sight of the legions of young people of splendid character.

Something that happened off San Francisco's Golden Gate in early May deserves national recognition. An 18-year old girl, Shirley O'Neill, was swimming with an 18-year old boy when he was attacked by a great white shark which had strayed far from its normal habitat. As the water reddened with his blood he called to her to "go back, go back!" Instead, she swam to him and seized an arm. Finding it had been almost severed, she managed to hold about his body and brought him ashore. Then, while he lay dying on the beach, the Catholic girl baptized him and pronounced the Act of Contrition.

A soldier of long service who witnessed the tragedy from a bluff above the bay called it the greatest exhibition of courage he had ever seen. And the president of San Francisco's Board of Supervisors said he will seek a Carnegie Medal of Honor for Shirley O'Neill.

SAVE OUR WILDLIFE

There are certain natural resources which, once destroyed, can never be replaced. They are gone for all time, to the impoverishment of everyone.

Wildlife is among those resources. The tragic and classic example is the passenger pigeon. They once abounded in enormous numbers — Audubon, the great naturalist and painter, wrote of seeing an estimated two billion in a single day. They blacked out the sky in their passing, and whitened the earth. But the last passenger pigeon died in a zoo many years ago, and the species is extinct.

Near-extinction has come to other once-abundant species — the buffalo, the Florida Key deer, the whooping crane. And it will come to more unless there is an aroused public interest in wildlife conservation. The pressures of the time against wildlife are brutally heavy. Wild areas are turned into industrial sections, housing developments, roads and airports. Nesting and feeding grounds disappear.

This gives significance to a new public service program inaugurated by the Standard Oil Company of California. In the words of the announcement: "Each of us must exert a special effort to guarantee that wildlife and wildlife areas are managed not only for the general present benefit, but for the enjoyment and use of generations to come." The company has mailed some 200,000 colorful posters bearing a conservation message to western schools and national parks. The conservation theme will be stressed on the regular weekly music appreciation programs it sponsors for school children.

Efforts such as this, on the broadest possible scale, are needed in every part of the nation.

The Editor Speaks

VINCENT S. PARRILLO

Something is the matter with the world. I have lived on this earth for quite some time now and, frankly, I cannot remember any time when things were so uncertain, when everybody was so jittery, when one did not know from one day to the other what was going to happen.

Personally, I am a confirmed optimist although, I am sure, that makes no difference to you. But there must be thousands, if not millions, of other optimists who don't like this business of hanging in the air and who would like to discover just what is wrong.

Why always talk and think about the bad things; why not put the emphasis on the good ones?

Why live in fear of death or disaster rather than in love of life and the blessings we have?

We have had a war in Korea. But now we have peace.

We have had a lot of rain, but now the sun shines. Or, perhaps, it's the other way 'round. After a drought the blessed rain comes and makes things grow again.

Why talk and think so much about disease rather than about the wonderful discoveries medicine is making and the constant progress of science?

Man was created by God to stand erect with his head UP. Why not look to the SKY rather than down to the earth with the animals and the insects and the reptiles?

Religion teaches us that Heaven is up and Hell is down. Why make this life a Hell on earth when it can be so wonderful by just having some faith, a lot of hope and a good measure of optimism?

Life is what we make it — let us make the best of it.

Paterson Lyric Opera Theatre Ends Season With Thrilling Performance

The Paterson Lyric Opera Theatre concluded its season on Saturday evening, May 23, at School 26. It was an outstanding success.

Presented were Act I of Donizetti's "Lucia di Lammermoor", Act IV of Verdi's "La Forza del Destino", and Act II of Rossini's "The Barber of Seville" — this being the company's first attempt at comic opera.

The entire evening was well performed and well sung by their fine casts. However, it was "The Barber" that was the show stopper.

Paterson's own Beverly Triggan sang the coloratura role of Rosina. She was dazzling in a superb red Spanish costume and the enthusiastic audience broke into applause before she uttered a note. Her Rosina was pert, charming and full of spirit.

Miss Triggan sings with neatness of scale, having tones even throughout the entire voice. Her top register rang like crystal bells and "Una voce poco fa", was brushed aside as though it were child's play. The audience responded at its conclusion with thunderous applause and bravos. Brilliant and brightness of color were her recitatives and breath which seems limitless. This young soprano's vocal resources are securely under control. She is also a fine little actress to be reckoned with. Let us hope Paterson will hear much more of her.

Joseph Chiaradio as "Figaro", has a rich, beautiful baritone voice, adding much to the act. Richard Boyajian as the "Count", proved his comic flair and vocal ability. Edw. Perretti as "Dr. Bartolo" revealed an excellent comic style stirring the audience into repeated laughter. Paul Plishka as "Don Basilio", is a teenager of fine vocal and convincing acting ability.

Shirley Sagar-Postma as "Bertha", made the most of her small role as did the soldiers, Bennett Campanella and William James.

Armen Boyajian, musical director, was outstanding at the keyboard. The beautiful costumes were designed by Frank Gratale, imaginative set designs by Edgar Weinstock. Pat Mancini was make-up director.

At the close of the performance the entire cast shared a grand finale by being called for repeated curtain calls by the enthusiastic audience.

THURBER THEME— Christabel the poodle listens attentively to John Monroe (actor Arthur O'Connell) in the teleplay, "Christabel," to be seen on "Goodyear Theater" Monday, June 8 on the NBC-TV Network. The tale — based on stories by James Thurber — concerns Monroe, a writer (could Thurber be his prototype?), his dog, his wife, his daughter and a seven-year-old neighbor.

139 Governor St. Paterson,

This Week In AMERICAN HISTORY

BY WILLIAM BRODIE

HOBSON'S EXPLOIT

In the darkness before dawn of June 3, 1898 Richmond Pearson Hobson led an action that made his name a symbol of bravery in the Spanish-American War. The war had been on for six weeks at the time and, outside of Commodore Dewey's victory at Manila Bay in the far-off Philippines, there had been little for the American people to cheer about. Dewey's heroism was of the cold official type. But after June 3, 1898 Americans had a war hero they could take to their hearts in the person of young Hobson.

Richmond Pearson Hobson was a 28-year-old naval constructor with the rank of lieutenant in the U.S. Navy. To him was given the task of bottling up Admiral Cervera's Spanish fleet lying in the harbor of Santiago, Cuba. Off-shore, outside the harbor, rode Admiral Sampson's blockading U.S. fleet, keeping a watchful eye to prevent the escape of the Spanish fleet. Eventually the strongly fortified city of Santiago would fall to assault by American land forces and the enemy fleet would be taken, also.

Meanwhile, with the hurricane season approaching, there was danger that a storm might scatter the blockading fleet long enough to permit the Spaniards to escape. Admiral Sampson decided to prevent that possibility by running a block-ship aground in the harbor entrance, thereby sealing the enemy fleet in the harbor.

The job of organizing the risky undertaking and preparing the block-ship, which was to be the old collier Merrimac, for the sacrifice, was given over to young Hobson. He picked a crew of seven volunteers, and with them the old collier steamed into the entrance of Santiago harbor before daylight on the morning of June 3. Inside the harbor entrance the ship channel narrowed to a width of about a hundred yards. The plan was to run the collier's bow aground on one side, allow her to swing with the tide and her own momentum until her stern grounded on the other side. The harbor would then be closed to any ship's exit.

The daring attempt was met with a heavy fire from the shore batteries and Spanish troops on the beach. The Merrimac's tiller ropes were shot away and she became unmanageable. Instead of anchoring on the desired spot, the old collier, under enemy fire, drifted far up into the harbor before Hobson could sink her. By then she was in deep water, with ample room for ships to pass. The Spanish fleet was not bottled up.

There were some anxious hours abroad the American fleet waiting for news of survivors. Admiral Sampson feared that Hobson and his crew had perished in their gallant attempt. In the afternoon a flag of truce was seen approaching from the harbor. It was one of Admiral Cervera's staff officers coming to tell the Americans that Hobson and his men had been picked up unhurt in the water. They were found clinging to their life-raft and had been made honorable prisoners of war. The Spanish officer praised the bravery of the crew. "Muy valiente!" he said warmly.

The news of Hobson's exploit was eagerly spread by the newspapers. Despite its failure, the story of his daring attempt to bottle up the Spanish fleet made Hobson a war hero enthusiastically acclaimed throughout the country. And 35 years later Richmond Pearson Hobson received his country's highest token of merit when, in 1933, Congress awarded him the Medal of Honor for his valor in sinking the old collier Merrimac in Santiago harbor. He died, relatively unknown to a new generation, on March 13, 1937.
