ARS OF ENGLAND, 1861—Steve Cochran (background, left) and Richard Ney are the co-stars of "The Renegade," full-hour colorcast dramatization, set in the opening year of the American Civil War, on the NBC-TV Network Tuesday, Dec. 27. Cochran and Ney portray a pair of impressed English seamen who jump ship in Baltimore and are plunged into the turbulence preceding the first Battle of Bull Run.

OPERA PREMIERE — The wedding of Brigham Young is interrupted in "Deseret," American opera by Leonard Kastle, which will have its world premiere in a presentation by the NBC Opera Company Sunday, Jan. 1, in a two-hour NBC-TV Network colorcast. Seen here (l. to r.) are Rosemary Kuhlmann, Mac Morgan, Judith Raskin and Kenneth Smith.

The Man from Equitable asks—

Will you leave your family a home —or a mortgage?

THE ODDS that you will die before you pay off your mortgage are 16 times greater than the chance your house will catch fire. Yet, most prudent families wouldn't think of being without fire insurance. Why be without mortgage insurance?

Equitable's remarkable mortgage repayment insurance plan protects your family against forced sale... loss of savings... or loss of home. Costs are low for this basic protection. For full information call...

ON THE COVER

The Christmas spirit is in the air and the holiday custom of giving again makes its annual appearance. Youngsters leap their beds with zestful energy early Christmas morning to see what Santa has left them. Squeals of delight and surprise echo throughout the house as gayly wrapped packages are torn open to reveal the hidden treasures within. As you and your family gather around the Christmas tree during these magic moments, the love, warmth and happiness that you share knows no bounds. It's Christmas, and you are with your loved ones. The Chronicle Staff wishes you a Very Merry Christmas.

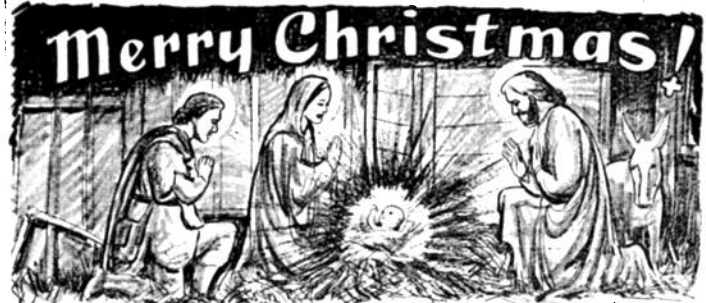

Much Joy In A "Little Red Stocking"!

IT'S SURPRISING TO THINK how much a "Little Red Stocking" can mean to a child at Christmas-time! Especially to "Jennie", whose "Little Red Stocking" takes on the importance of changing an entire life pattern; of providing a home and a loving parent's tender care! That's just what this "Stocking" means to little "Jennie" and to many other little girls and boys like her; all of whom who have been entrusted to the care of the Children's Home Society of New Jersey, the state's oldest non-sectarian, non-racial child care and adoption agency. Ever since 1894 the Children's Home Society has lent a helping hand to the "Jennies" and "Tommys" of New Jersey who otherwise might drift through life without the love and affection only parents can give. Since the Society finances its activities from gifts provided by thoughtful people, a favorable response to its Annual "Little Red Stocking" Appeal is important to the future well-being of these helpless little ones.

You should receive your "Little Red Stocking" appeal through the mails this week. When you do, please remember that your contribution to further the work of the Children's Home Society can be a most effective Christmas gift for many children in need of aid. Your "Little Red Stocking" gift can help provide the most wondrous of all life's gifts—a home with love in it. If you have not received your appeal, don't wait! Send your contribution direct to the Children's Home Society of New Jersey, 929 Parkside Avenue, Trenton. Do it today!

NOTHING BUT THE TRUTH by Russ Arnold

THE LORD WAS BORN IN THE LITTLE TOWN OF BETHLEHEM AT LEAST 4 OR 5 YEARS B.C.

Mathew 2:1 SAYS THAT JESUS WAS BORN IN BETHLEHEM OF JUDAEA, "IN THE DAYS OF HEROD, THE KING..."

Historical documents show that Herod, the Great, died about 4 years B.C., therefore the LORD was born several years before the beginning of the Christian Era -- WHICH MAKES OUR CALENDARS ALL WRONG!

CHRISTMAS TREE LANE in Altadena, Cal., is one mile of tall Deodar trees that are vividly decorated by 10,000 lights! 25,000 VISITORS ARE ATTRACTED TO THE SPECTACLE EACH YEAR!

THE ORIGINAL SANTA CLAUS was the benevolent St. Nicholas (SANCTUS NICOLAUS) WHO DIED 1600 YEARS AGO!

AWAY IN A MANGER

Away in a manger, no crib for a bed,
The little Lord Jesus laid down His sweet head;
The stars in the sky, looking down
where He lay,
The little Lord Jesus, asleep on the hay.

The cattle are lowing, the poor Baby
wakes,
But little Lord Jesus, no crying he makes;
I love Thee, Lord Jesus! look down
from the sky,
And stay by my cradle till morning is nigh.

Be near me, Lord Jesus, I ask Thee to stay
Close by me for ever and love me,
I pray;
Bless all the dear children in Thy tender care,
And take us to heaven, to live with Thee, there.

O LITTLE TOWN OF BETHLEHEM

O little town of Bethlehem,
How still we see thee lie!
Above thy deep and dreamless sleep
The silent stars go by;
Yet in thy dark street shineth
The everlasting light;
The hopes and fears of all the years
Are met in thee tonight.

For Christ is born of Mary,
And gathered all above,
While mortals sleep, the angels keep
Their watch of wond'ring love.
O morning stars, together
Proclaim the holy birth,
And praises sing to God our King,
And peace to men on earth.

THE FIRST NOEL

The first Noel the angel did say
Was to certain poor shepherds in fields as they lay;
In fields where they lay keeping their sheep
On a cold winter's night that was so deep.

Noel, Noel, Noel, Noel,
Born is the King of Israel.

They looked up and saw a Star
Shining in the East, beyond them far,
And to the earth it gave great light,
And so it continued both day and night.

Noel, Noel, Noel, Noel,
Born is the King of Israel.

O COME, ALL YE FAITHFUL

O come, all ye faithful,
Joyful and triumphant,
O come ye, O come ye to Bethlehem;
Come and behold Him,
Born the King of angels.

CHORUS:

O come, let us adore Him,
O come let us adore Him,
O come, let us adore Him,
Christ the Lord.
God of God, Light of Light,
Lo! He abhors not the Virgin's womb;
Very God, Begotten, not created.

Chorus

Sing, choirs of angels,
Sing in exultation,
Sing, all ye citizens of heav'n above;
Glory to God in the Highest.

Chorus

SILENT NIGHT

Silent night, Holy night!
All is calm, all is bright
'Round yon Virgin Mother and Child,
Holy infant so tender and mild;
Sleep in heavenly peace,
Sleep in heavenly peace.

Silent night, Holy night!
Shepherds quake at the sight!
Glories stream from heaven afar,
Heav'nly hosts sing Alleluia;
Christ the Saviour is born,
Christ the Saviour is born!

Silent night, Holy night!
Son of God, love's pure light,
Radiant beams from Thy holy face,
With the dawn of redeeming grace,
Jesus, Lord, at Thy birth,
Jesus, Lord, at Thy birth.

JOY TO THE WORLD

Joy to the world! the Lord is come:
Let earth receive her King;
Let every heart prepare Him room,
And heaven and nature sing,
And heaven, and heaven and nature sing.

Joy to the world! the Saviour reigns:
Let men their songs employ;
While fields and floods, rocks, hills
and plains,
Repeat the sounding joy,
Repeat the sounding joy,
Repeat, repeat the sounding joy.

No more let sin and sorrow grow,
Nor thorns infest the ground;
He comes to make His blessings flow
Far as the curse is found,
Far as the curse is found,
Far as, far as the curse is found.

May Good Will Prevail

There is no other time of year quite like the Holy season of Christmas. No other holiday can match the magnetic heart tug homeward when the yuletide aura fills the air. With home as the magnet, nostalgic memories crowd every other thought out of the most harried mind.

Old friendships and ties are brought to fore. Memories of a completely different aspect with gaiety and exhilaration quickening the pulse. Heavenly music fills the air. Ageless carols are revived and suddenly they become as new as tomorrow with added vibrancy. The tinsel and wreaths bring a sparkle unmatched by any lustre before or beyond Christmas.

But what causes all these changeless things to take on a completely unrelated aspect at Christmas?

Perhaps it is the chord of memory touching the heart as we recall the Life which brought such an impact on the world twenty centuries ago. In a brief thirty-three years, He so fired the hearts of men to outshadow even the fiercest force of an atomic blast.

The spirit of love and humility generated by the Prince of Peace enthalls every man, woman and child the world over, regardless of religious denomination. It is a living, breathing action so infectious that no one escapes its hypnosis.

There is none among us who has not learned the true meaning of the first lesson of His Sermon on the Mount.

We have come to know that if we keep the door of sympathy and understanding locked in us, then in turn this very same door, in the hearts of others, may be locked against us at a moment when we have need of a compassionate friend. Let us emulate the spirit and love of Him whose birth we celebrate.

Let us each remember the sacrifice He made that all of us could share and enjoy His manifold blessings.

May our collective efforts and our strength increase with each passing year and may the fruits of our efforts multiply in every corner of our city, nation and the world over.

MERRY CHRISTMAS!

Christmas In The Home -

The Editor Speaks

If I live to be one hundred and ten years old, Christmas will always be a wonderful time of the year for me. Every year almost every man and woman I know emerges from the holiday season as limp as a rag and as flat as tissue paper, financially.

Speaking for myself, right after Christmas I need about a month to recuperate from the strain and pain.

Work like a dog all day. Get home so tired you can hardly drag yourself up the back stairs. You gulp a fast supper and the little woman grabs you by the neck and rushes you downtown for the endless tour of stores, searching, searching, searching.

No sense crying, you're stuck until the stores close at 10 p.m. Then you have the next night to look forward to with the same pattern.

How about this? How about that? Do you think Aunt Minnie would like this? What size does Cousin Pete wear? "Long underwear or shorts?" you ask. "No, no, shirts, you dope."

I don't know how I stand it but there it is, a perpetual carnival looking for gifts that half of your relatives can't use and the other half don't want anyway.

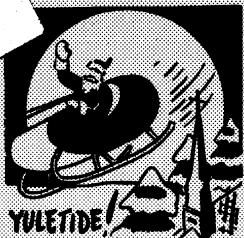

But no matter what it costs in terms of cold cash and aching muscles, the compensation is tremendous to see the happy smiles of the kids gathered around the tree on Christmas morning. And no matter how old they get, no kids ever outlive the thrill of receiving gifts gaily packaged.

I like it myself. As a matter of fact, I'm curious right now to know what's in store for me Sunday morning. It will be a big day, noisy and filled with laughter with no thought to the worries that bother you all through the year.

Christmas is wonderful. I love the spirit and meaning of the Holy season. Too many of us often forget the birthday of the Infant whose short life changed the complexion of the entire world.

Love, Peace and Joy are the keynotes of Christmas. The more of the keynotes we remember the happier our lives will be.

To all our readers we extend best wishes for all the joy of Christmas. May the spirit of the Prince of Peace descend upon you with all the blessings to make your joy complete.

American History

PRESIDENT JOHNSON'S AMNESTY PROCLAMATION

One of the most generous acts in American history occurred on Christmas Day of 1868. On that day President Andrew Johnson proclaimed a universal pardon to all persons, without exception, who had fought against the Union.

This was a shock to many in the nation. The American people were still smarting from the wounds of four years of bitter civil war. The terrible Reconstruction period was adding further hatred and hostility. Despite the opposition and abuse from his enemies Andrew Johnson did not hesitate in making this pardon. It was his last big gesture, before leaving the Presidency, in carrying out the good will Reconstruction policy as Abraham Lincoln would have done it.

When Vice-President Johnson, the Tennessee tailor became President after Lincoln's assassination, he wanted harsh measures for the rebel leaders. But understanding the South, he soon softened his attitude. Like Lincoln he wanted to treat the Southern states "as though they had never been away." This attitude brought him into sharp conflict with the radical Republicans in Congress who wanted to treat the South harshly. They were the wavers of "the bloody shirt of the rebellion" in the politics of the day.

Johnson, an obstinate man, fought Congress and bitterly aroused the majority against him to the point where he became the only President whom Congress tried to impeach. In May of 1868, seven months before he issued his full pardon proclamation, Johnson escaped impeachment by only one vote.

Andrew Johnson had risen the hard way to become the only President of the United States who had never spent a single day in school. At the age of ten he was apprenticed to a tailor in his home town of Raleigh, North Carolina. At 16 he ran away and soon managed to set up his own tailor shop in Greenville, Tennessee. He taught himself to read and write a little. His wife later helped him to improve his reading and writing and encouraged him to take part in public affairs. It took a tough, determined man to go from tailor shop to White House, and once there, Andrew Johnson did not bend before his enemies.

He was a solidly built man with Indian-like complexion, black hair, deep-set dark eyes and mouth with lines of grim determination. The hard expression may have been caused by the bitter political battles he fought and the abuse heaped upon him. No President was ever so vilified. To the South he was "white trash" and a traitor. To the radicals of the North, who wanted the rebels punished severely, he was a turncoat. Despite all that, he celebrated Christmas Day in the White House in splendid fashion by extending pardon, absolutely and without restriction, "to all who directly or indirectly participated in the late rebellion," including Jefferson Davis who had been the President of the Confederacy.

Praised by some, still hated and denounced by many, Andrew Johnson left the White House the following March and with his wife retired to Tennessee. Humble folks, they wanted to live quietly in their home surroundings.

Now Andrew Johnson's old tailor shop is a Tennessee shrine maintained by the state. Past its door runs the grand boulevard called the Andrew Johnson Highway. And thousands of travelers stop to visit the shop where a President of the United States once sweated over his hot ironing board and toiled at his tailoring.

IN CHRISTMAS CLASSIC — "Amahl and the Night Visitors," Gian Carlo Menotti's widely acclaimed opera, will be seen again on the NBC-TV Network on Christmas Day, Sunday, Dec. 25, in a repeat showing with the same familiar cast as in recent seasons: (l. to r.) Leon Lishner, Andrew McKinley and David Aiken as the Three Kings, Kirk Jordan as Amahl and Rosemary Kuhlmann as Amahl's mother. This will be the 11th presentation of "Amahl" by the NBC Opera Company.

Christmas Gift

By Thyra Samter Winslow

Nearly all the year round, Christine Farnum got along very well. "I live alone and loathe it," she said — and laughed because living alone didn't seem to her an ideal state. And her friends never believed her when she said that the reason she was single was because she never even met an eligible man.

"Why, New York must be full of single men!" they said — and never thought of introducing her to one of them. She had dinners with married couples she knew, or with unattached "girls" — all of the unmarried women she knew who were around her own age — sliding in or out of thirty. She read, and watched television evenings, when she didn't have one of her unexciting dates — and daytimes she was busy with her job. She was almost resigned to the fact that she was alone. Her parents were dead. Her two brothers had been killed during the Korean War. It was only just before Christmas that she really felt pretty bad about things.

It was the Saturday before Christmas — and Christine didn't have to go to the office. "An ideal time for last-minute buying," everyone said. Only Christine didn't have anything to buy — nor anyone for whom to buy anything. But as always, on one day just before Christmas, she hurried over to the big toy department of one of the largest department stores. In was fun, just looking at the toys.

Parents, with children in tow, bumped up against her. Even children's sticky fingers didn't annoy her. She looked at mechanical trains, at doll houses, at blocks that lit up, at clowns that tumbled. She walked over to "Santa Claus Mirror Maze" at one end of the store. Huge Santas held out promises of wonders within. There was a small charge to get inside, and Christine was about to make the payment, when she saw the sign, "No adult admitted unless accompanied by a child!"

And then she felt a small hand in her own, tugging at her fingers.

"Won't you take me in? I can be your little girl," a small voice said.

She looked down — and there was the sweetest child she'd ever seen in her whole life! A little girl, with big blue eyes, and round, rosy cheeks and an enchanting smile.

"Aren't you — with someone?"

"Oh, yes! I'm with my Daddy. He left me here. He had some other things to do. He's going to get me in an hour or so. So, if you'd like me to, I could be your little girl."

"I'd like that very much," Christine said. She paid the small admission, took the little hand again, and they entered the Mirror Maze.

Perhaps it really was an enchanted place. Perhaps it was just the store's idea of Christmas beauty. Or perhaps that small form, next to her, made things seem a bit different. It seemed to Christine the most beautiful thing she'd ever seen. All of the fairy tale characters came to life! And she and the little girl, whose name was Laurita, recognized all of them — Sleeping Beauty, Puss in Boots, Red Riding Hood.

They were out in the store again: With the little girl as her companion, Christine was no longer alone. She was one of the gay group of happy families, part of Christmas! "I want you to have a present. From Santa Claus," said Christine.

"I'd like a doll that talks and walks — and some clothes for it. More than anything in the world. You see, I haven't any little sisters or brothers to play with. I — get lonely."

Laurita chose the doll she wanted. It was expensive — but certainly not the most expensive one in the store. And the clothes that went with it, under Christine's guidance, were pretty and appropriate — just what the well-dressed doll should wear. Luckily Christine had a charge account at this particular store. The box was wrapped in gay wrappings and handed to her.

"I'd like to carry it," said Laurita. She took the big bundle. And then —

"Daddy! Daddy!" she shrieked. And ran toward a man who was obviously looking for her. A tall man, with a good face, and the blue eyes that were just like Laurita's. Christine started to go toward them — and an odd thing happened. Laurita joined him. He took her hand. And she began talking to him earnestly. And the two walked away!

She went back to her apartment — the little apartment she worked so hard to maintain. And even the bright curtains and the smooth furniture seemed dismal.

On Christmas morning she woke up — and hated to get out of bed. What was the use? She didn't even have a date all day!

The bell rang. Almost listlessly she answered it. And there — she couldn't believe it — stood Laurita! And the man she'd joined. Her Daddy! Each carried a Christmas package.

"Merry Christmas!" managed Christine. "Won't you — come in?"

"We sure will!" said the man, whose name, Christine found out, was George Matthews. "We had a hard time locating you."

"How did you find —"

"Well, luckily, you'd charged the doll! Laurita started to tell me about meeting you the minute she joined me in the crowd, but by the time I found out what she was saying we went back to find you, and you'd gone. So we persuaded the young lady who waited on you to trace the package and get your name and address. We thought you wouldn't mind if we came today to say 'Merry Christmas' and thank you for being so kind to my little girl.

"And I wanted to tell you how grateful I am. I felt sorry, having to leave her alone there, in the toy department, but I had to do some shopping. I knew she'd be safe. She's pretty accustomed to being alone, poor kid. You see, my wife died when she was three — and we've been alone, the two of us —"

"You're very lucky to have a little girl," Christine said. "Especially at Christmas."

"I know I am! I appreciate that. And Laurita said she didn't think you had a little girl of your own. That's why we came, today. To — to bring you these little things. And to ask you, if you aren't busy, to have dinner with us — just us three—"

"Three makes a family!" said Laurita. "All the kids have families for Christmas. I told 'em I had, too! And Daddy knows a place where we can have turkey and cranberry sauce, and they've got a tree and I can take my new doll. You'll come with us? Please?"

Christine felt the soft little hand in hers. Saw two pairs of blue eyes smiling at her. She must have said "yes" though she never remembered saying it. Later, she thought she said "Merry Christmas!" Which was a mild enough way to welcome happiness.

FAMOUS AMERICAN TAVERNS

Patio of The Menger in San Antonio, Texas

"Teddy" Roosevelt Recruited Rough Riders Here

These words hark back 101 years:

"The year is 1898, the town is San Antonio. We are here tonight to celebrate the opening of a new hotel, the 50-room, two-story Hotel Menger, the equal of any in the west.

"Attached to this establishment is a well ventilated stable where your horses will be cared for by first rate hostlers. When you register please give the number of horses you're traveling with. Cash in advance and no credit at the bar."

Since then the Menger has relaxed some of its regulations to accord with modern custom, but it has never relaxed its reputation as one of the greatest hotels in the country and one of the best-known in the world.

The Menger shares its niche in Texas history along with the Alamo, shrine of Texas liberty, located just north on Alamo Plaza.

Built in the Alamo Plaza by William A. Menger, a new citizen from Germany, the hotel gained fame from the start for good food and good drink. The reasons were easy to find: Mrs. Menger was a celebrated cook and her husband an experienced brewmaster; the Menger was noted far and wide for its beers.

Today, the Menger is a completely modern hostelry of 250 air-conditioned rooms. Nevertheless, the older part is maintained as it was originally designed and, throughout, the decor and atmosphere of century-old charm is retained. The original Menger bar, modeled after the House of Lords bar in London, is still in operation. Here Colonel "Teddy" Roosevelt recruited some of his Rough Riders and here O. Henry dreamed and wrote some of his immortal stories.

The roll call of the famous who have stayed at the Menger includes Generals Lee, Grant and Houston, Sarah Bernhardt, Anna Held, Annie Oakley, Lillie Langtry, Buffalo Bill, Oscar Wilde, John L. Sullivan and Sidney Lanier.

A Wonderful Christmas
★ TO ALL OUR READERS ★

Happiness is not so much in having or sharing. We make a living by what we get, but we make a life by what we give.

A sailor who had been a farm boy in civilian life was interviewed on a quiz show. "Do you expect to go back to the farm?" asked the M.C. "Oh, no," answered the sailor. "After all those knots I learned to tie in the Navy I wouldn't dare to milk a cow."

Jan Murray tells about the American visitor in a Bulgarian restaurant who complained to the waiter that his soup tasted like a rubber tire. "That's Communist progress," the waiter beamed. "After only one generation, we've replaced the horse with the automobile."

Label on the notebook of a high school student: "Closed on Sundays and Holidays."

"How about giving me one, to get rid of me?"
