

A black and white photograph showing the ruins of a city after a bombing raid. In the foreground, there is a damaged wooden fence and a path. Several people are walking along the path. The background shows the skeletal remains of buildings, including a church spire, under a cloudy sky.

Looking down right side of Park Avenue from near Carroll
St., Paterson, N. J.