Dedication Ceremonies
at the St. Louis Exposition.
THE ONLY OFFICIAL MOVING PICTURES TAKEN.

- 1654 The Arrival of President Roosevelt and Ex-President Cleveland. (Code Velt.)
This picture shows the carriage containing President Roosevelt, Ex-Pres. Cleveland and Ex-Gov. Francis, Pres. of the St. Louis Exposition, arriving at the exposition grounds, followed by the carriages of the foreign diplomats.
President Roosevelt and Ex. Pres. Cleveland escorted to the reviewing stand. This film is unusually fine being very sharp and clear, owing to special permits granted us, our stand was directly opposite the reviewing stand thus enabling us to obtain an absolutely perfect film of the exercises.
Length, 200 feet Price, $24.00

1655 President Roosevelt and Ex-President Cleveland reviewing the Parade. (Code Francis.)

This picture shows the parade as it passed the reviewing stand. First the Marine Band, followed by Maj. General Corbin and staff, Troop of Cavalry, the Marines from the Monitor Arkansas. Heavy Artillery. The Mountain Battery concluding with the Governors of different states and their staff. One of the finest ever taken.

Length, 200 feet Price, $24.00

1656 President Roosevelt at Portland. The complete film. (Code Acritan.)

Nowhere on his western trip was President Roosevelt received with greater enthusiasm than at Portland. The parade was unique; large number of school-children were dressed to represent the American flag, and as they marched along they presented a pretty appearance.

Whilst there the greatest moving picture ever made of the President was taken during a rain storm. The President was there to preside at the ceremonies pertaining to the laying of the corner stone of the Lewis and Clark monument in Portland's picturesque city park. Just as the President began his speech rain came down in torrents. A rubber blanket was thrown around the President's shoulders and he talked for thirty minutes through the pelting rain. In addition to getting all the incidents of the President's speech the taking camera swept over the vast umbrella covered assembly with the result that it is the most unique moving picture ever made. The film is clear and bright as a bell.

Length, 150 feet Price, $18.00

1657 The Parade. (Code Acritude.)

Length, 100 feet Price, 12.00

1658 Laying the Corner Stone. (Code Acrob.)

Length, 50 feet Price, 6.00

1659 President Roosevelt at Seattle. (Code Acroth.)

Taken at Seattle when President Roosevelt was making his trip across the continent. This picture shows him in a carriage passing through the gayly decorated streets of Seattle.

1660 President Roosevelt at Walla Walla. (Code Acrogen.)

This we believe to be one of the best films ever made of President Roosevelt. The scene shows the beautiful arch built by the citizens of Walla Walla in honor of President Roosevelt. The parade is seen passing through the arch and in the end the carriage containing President Roosevelt. As it approaches President Roosevelt is plainly seen standing up in the carriage smiling, waving his hat and bowing to the people. An exceptionally fine film.

Length, 75 feet Price, $9.00

1661 President Roosevelt at Tacoma. (Code Acrohite.)

Another scene of President Roosevelt taken at Tacoma. It first shows the President and escort passing through the streets on their way to the water front where the steamer is waiting to carry him to Seattle. The next scene shows the arrival of President Roosevelt. At the wharf he leaves his carriage and goes on board the steamer waving his hands to the crowds of people on the wharf as the boat steams away.

Length, 160 feet Price, $19.20

1662 President Roosevelt at Tacoma Parade. (Code Acrog.)

Length, 60 feet Price, $7.20

1663 President Roosevelt at Tacoma. Departure on Boat. (Code Acrolith.)

Length, 100 feet Price, $12.00

1664 Vice-President Fairbanks. (Code Aromin.)

Vice-President Fairbanks is the most reserved and bashful man in public life to-day in America, with the result that we have the only moving picture made of Indiana's favorite son. By the request of the Republican National Committee, we sent our operator to Indianapolis and secured an excellent likeness of Vice-President Fairbanks coming out of his home.

Length, 50 feet Price, $6.00
