KAMINSKY URGES SILK CODE AUTHORITIES TAKE ACTION

Benjamin Kaminsky, president of the Silk Manufacturers association, advanced a plan yesterday by which he seeks to do away with inequalities now existing in the silk industry as a result of the textile code. This he revealed in a long letter to Peter Van Horn, chairman of the Silk Textile Code Authority. He presented the alternative of either the federal authorities taking action in removing these inequalities after presentation of new statistics, or else the code authority should surrender the code and resign as administrators.

The Letter

Mr. Kaminsky's letter follows:

"I want to thank you for the copy of the letter that you sent to Mr. Harrison, dated April 23, 1935. I am taking the liberty to continue Mr. Harrison's questioning as it took place at our dinner. I felt that it was quite impossible for me to have carried on at that time, so I am taking the liberty now of putting forth my views in answer to your question as to what recommendations we desire to suggest.

"I do not believe that it is necessary to go into the ills of our industry, as I think that we both agree on what the existing ills are. The very next step would be the consideration of possible remedies.

"There is no doubt in my mind but that the present Congress will enact some form of law that will continue the NRA. There may be some minor changes, but fundamentally I believe that the law will remain as originally intended, i. e., to eliminate unemployment as much as possible; to raise the standard of living by creating minimum wages; regulate the number of maximum hours of labor, and in general to give industry itself a chance to control its own destiny.

"As regards its accomplishments, we find that the law has been successful in abolishing Child Labor (something which could not be accomplished in almost fifty years of legislation). It has also been successful in creating a standardized work week for some industries, and it has also succeeded in establishing a minimum wage. But it has failed miserably, insofar as industry has not been able to control itself.

"I do not wish to blame the law for the failure of industry to control so much as I do on industry itself. The opportunity that was given to us was a rare chance for us to take advantage of. And because of ourselves being completely dominated by selfishness and personal gain, we lost sight of the future of the industry, and the consequences of the ill effects on ourselves.

First Position Weak

"The position taken by the original planning board or the Silk Textile code was one that was very weak as regards the protection of our industry in its field of endeavor from other industries in the same field. We have as a result of that, a complete division in both the productive and distribution fields of our product. After a year and one half of the chaos which had to result because of the improper classifications of fabrics the very same people now realize that a mistake was made in allowing rayon fabrics to be classified under any other code but with that of silk, or to put it more plainly, that silk should never have been classified any differently than rayons.

"I know of your recent efforts to correct those. We both well understand that unless this is corrected, it is impossible to regulate the production of a product, unless the order effecting it reaches every process of production. This can only be done by one code covering the entire textile field.

Plan of Action

"After all these months of experiments, if I were Mr. Van Horn, and holding Mr. Van Horn's position, I would call a special meeting of the Code Authority. At this meeting, I would appoint sub-committees, each one with a purpose. First, one committee to investigate the actual percentage of rayon products under the Silk code; secondly, another committee to investigate the percentage of rayon products that is cut by the dress houses, as compared with all silk products; third, a committee to study the ground for common relationship between products of silk, rayon, wool and cotton. After having all this information available, the Code Authority should then go in a body to the NRA in Washington, and with the above figures, prove conclusively that it is quite impossible to administer a code for one set of manufacturers unless the other set is effected in the same way.

"After having gone thoroughly into this with the administration, and if the administration continues to take the attitude that it has in the past (almost complete disregard of our demands), I would then again send the entire Code Authority, and myself as chairman, make another appointment with the NRA administration surrender the Code, and resign as Code Administrators, as it would be apparent that it cannot function under such adverse circumstances.

"There is no question in my mind that such action would focus the attention of every newspaper in the land on this situation, and it would create an opinion which the administration could not afford to disregard. It would, furthermore, place those manufacturers, operating under the Silk Textile code without any obligation or regulation, so that those manufacturers, making our products under the Cotton Code would then have an unfair competition by silk manufacturers working without a code.

U. S. CHAMBER COMMERCE RAP NEW DEAL

Washington — At its 23rd annual meeting held here, the United States Chamber of Commerce broke definitely with New Deal policies in vigorously denouncing and urging end of NRA in a set of resolutions. The Chamber of Commerce urges that:

1. The present NRA law be allowed to expire and that Congress vote a "substitute bill" on a strictly temporary and limited basis.
2. Permission of business to regulate itself must be forthcoming.
3. The pending utilities bill outlawing holding companies must not be passed, and regulation of public utilities, must not be taken over by the federal government from the states.
4. The 30-hour work week should not be made into law, nor should the proposed permanent National Labor board be established.
5. The Federal Reserve system cannot be changed fundamentally without detriment to the country.
6. The AAA must change its policies in connection with the restriction of production. Restriction of exportable farm products "inevitably reacts" against the nation's economy.

Judge Davidson One Year On Bench

Today marks Common Pleas Judge Robert H. Davidson's first year of service on the bench. He was appointed last May to succeed former Judge William B. Harley.

Judge Davidson, together with Joseph A. Delaney, has presided over hundreds of civil, criminal and Orphans Court litigations. At the present time, due in large part to his great work, the court calendar is very much up to date.

Judge Davidson was also assigned for a time to Monmouth county to preside over many cases there. Today he holds the distinction of never having been reversed once by a higher court on appeal.

Two Plead Guilty Tampering With P. S. Meters

Judge Thomas J. Kennedy, of the Second District Criminal court, promised that henceforth he would be more severe in meting out sentences to offenders found guilty of tampering with gas and electric wires and meters. In the past, there have been several convictions, but in each case the offender got off with a lenient sentence. From now on, says Judge Kennedy, "I shall be more severe with those convicted of this offense in the future."

James Brown, of 181 Myrtle Avenue, Passaic, pleaded guilty and Joseph Cernak, 41 Lucile Place, also Passaic was convicted of the offense yesterday in court. They will be sentenced next Thursday.

LONDON ADVOCATES EXPANSION OF NAVAL AND AIR FORCES

Board Finance Postpone Sale $1,388,000 Bonds

The Board of Finance decided yesterday to temporarily postpone the sale of $1,388,000 worth of bonds. The cash realized from this sale would have gone to the city and the Passaic Valley Water Commission would have been the guarantor. It was revealed that the postponement is due to a difference of opinion as to the debt limit of the city, caused by different interpretations with regard to deduction cited in a debt statement to the state.

Tax collections during the past few weeks, in comparison with like periods of 1934 and 1933, show a marked increase.

During the past week, $114,578.54 was paid on 1933 taxes, $21,715.16 on 1934 taxes and $8,630.07 on 1933 levies.

Up to the present, $1,631,925.28 have been collected for 1935, representing $238,156.12 more than was collected on last year's levies during a like period.

Walter J. Hunziker, collector of taxes and assessments, also reports collections totaling $5,254,212.30 on 1934 taxes, representing $474,872.88 more than was collected on 1933 taxes for a like period.

The Board of Finance also decided to appropriate $500 with which to put in shape the old district court rooms on the third floor of the City Hall. After remodeling, these will be the new quarters of the legal department. The rooms now occupied by the legal staff will be taken over by the Board of Education.

Savastano Club Meets Tonight To Plan Affair

The James A. Savastano association will hold its monthly meeting at its headquarters tonight. Plans for a smoker to be held in two weeks will be discussed.

The organization announced that it has been given official recognition by party leaders in the Seventh Ward.

Prominent speakers will take the stand tonight, including members of the county committee.

$25,000 Suit Filed By C. De Palma

Chester De Palma, furniture dealer, filed suit for $25,000 yesterday with County Clerk Lloyd B. Marsh against the Paterson Store and Repair company and Leon Kessler, of 75 Ellison Street.

De Palma alleges that he was falsely arrested on an embezzlement charge, released in $200 bail and finally acquitted by Judge Foster Freeman in First District Criminal court last January 25. He claims the $25,000 amount because, as De Palma claims, his reputation was unjustly injured by the incident.

London—Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald officially announced in the British House of Commons the expansion of British naval and air forces to meet Germany's re-armament. At the same time he urged Germany to join other nations in an international peace agreement just as the Nazi government was broadcasting to the world that her new air force is as modern as any in the world and ready to fight with trigger-action speed.

MacDonald gave the understanding that in order to bring Germany again into the fold he would let a new agreement take the place of the Versailles Treaty restriction arms.

In pleading for cooperation, MacDonald went on to say:

"If that could be done successfully," he said, "the greater part of immediate European dangers would disappear."

"Will not Germany now come home," the premier said, "and show her readiness to help restore the international confidence so rudely shaken by her recent independent action regarding armaments?"

"I must express surprise that this moment was chosen by Germany to announce a ship building program, particularly the construction of submarines."

MacDonald called the German U-boat program "ominous" and reminded the House that British naval needs and ratios could not be fixed with relation to home waters alone. "Britain," he said, "wants to come to an international agreement making expansion necessary beyond rock bottom needs, thus preventing extravagance and sheer waste."

Amid cheers from the crowd which filled the House from floor to ceiling, MacDonald then announced his government's determination to make the British air fleet as strong as that of Germany.

"The government," he said, "has already taken steps for further acceleration and expansion of the British air force."

These steps, he said, would im-

FREEHOLDERS BARRED FROM CONTROL OF VALLEY VIEW

County Counsel Harry L. Schoen informed the board of freeholders yesterday afternoon that it has no legal right either to take over the management of the Valley View sanatorium or appoint one its members to the board of managers of that institution.

Schoen delivered this opinion upon the request of Freeholder Leo V. Becker, chairman of the Valley View committee which sought to learn what the power of the freeholders in the matter were.

Want Cooperation

The board had planned to place

one of its members in a directorial post "in order to bring about closer cooperation." Since the freeholders are in charge of paying the bills of the institution, Mr. Becker explained that they felt they should have a voice in the control of the institution.

"It should be made perfectly clear," said Freeholder Ernest T. Schneidermann, "that in asking for this opinion, it was not the board's intention to take over control of the sanatorium. There is no place for politics in the sanatorium and we want to keep politics out of the institution."

Lodi Teacher Wins Post Back After Appeal

Pasquale Maggese, teacher at the Thomas Jefferson high school in Lodi, was ordered reinstated by Dr. Charles H. Elliott, state education commissioner, according to word received from Trenton today.

Maggese had been dismissed on charges of misconduct. Dr. Elliott, however, maintained that he had not been given a fair trial by the board of education of that borough. He directed that back salary be returned to Maggese for the period in which he was suspended.

The board had declined to grant an adjournment to Maggese when the latter asked for time to prepare a defense to the charge.

Women G. O. P. Division Will Meet Tonight

Gladys Elizabeth Abbott, an alleged Communist underworld character, yesterday waived extradition in Brooklyn and will be brought here for trial on charges of bigamy.

Daniel C. Hurley of Brooklyn filed the complaint against the woman charging that he had married her in Hawthorne in 1943 only to learn she had been already wed to Anthony T. Giordano of Chicago since 1919.

Miss Abbott countered with the allegation that she had married Hurley only after he had convinced her that Giordano was dead. The woman had been indicted on the charge by Prosecutor Arthur C. Dunn several months ago.

BANKERS ARRANGING REGIONAL MEETINGS

Studying New Legal and Economic Conditions Affecting Bank Management

STRESS PUBLIC OPINION

American Bankers Association Sponsor of Meetings as Part of Nationwide Program of Banking Development

PHILADELPHIA.—Fifteen hundred bankers from fifteen eastern states met here in January in a two day conference devoted to discussions on legislative, managerial, operating and public relations problems of the banking business. This was the first of a series of meetings planned by the American Bankers Association in its nationwide program of banking development under the leadership of Robert V. Fleming, president of the association. Similar conferences will be held in southern and western sections of the country.

"It is the purpose of these working conferences to bring to association members and other bankers a thorough knowledge of the changes in banking laws and rules, provide discussion of better public relations so that there shall be greater cooperation and understanding between the banker and his customers and to give opportunity for a survey of the problems incident to the Government's competition with our chartered institutions," he said.

To Help Government Quit Banking

The discussions at the conference showed that the bankers are ready to make it easier for the Government to relinquish many of its emergency financial services as soon as possible by demonstrating how their institutions are able to render full banking facilities.

Bankers generally have recognized that in times of emergency the Government had to come to the assistance of the people where chartered institutions were unable to do so on account of such conditions, Mr. Fleming said. They also realize that possibly many functions which the Government is performing are of a nature which cannot be handled by chartered institutions under fundamental principles of sound banking.

On the other hand, he said, "we should survey all emergency lending measures of the Government to judge which of these activities can be properly and soundly taken over by banks."

The attending bankers devoted time to considering the Banking Act of 1935 and the many related regulations and discretionary powers under the Federal law. These were explained by O. Howard Wolfe of Philadelphia, who said he had found there are forty-eight places in the act where provision is made for discretionary power to be exercised by government officials through rule or regulation.

Bank taxation was discussed by Charles H. Mylander of Columbus, Ohio, who declared that "the average American is vitally interested in taxation of banks because solvency may depend to a large degree upon the way in which the taxing power is exercised upon them."

To prove his point he cited earnings figures which showed that, in the year ended June 30, 1934, "for the United States as a whole, national banks used $14.89 out of each $100 of net operating earnings, before taxes, in payment of taxes; but in seven of the twelve Federal Reserve Districts the percentage of earnings used for taxes was above the average. It was in practically these same seven districts that the greatest number of bank failures occurred in those hectic years from 1920 to 1933."

As an example of how far taxation can go, he quoted official figures showing that in 1934 a large number of small state banks paid on the

"I WAS born in a haunted house," related the comic artist, Percy Crosby.

"The first gleam of consciousness which I can remember in my life was seeing a colored mammy under the kitchen table, and hearing my mother say that the mammy was a ghost. All through my childhood I can remember my mother complaining to my father that our house was haunted, until, when I was three, we had to move from it.

"I can remember vividly that first experience—the only time I ever saw the ghost. It left an indelible impression on my mind.

"I had gone into the kitchen to get a cookie. Under the kitchen table I saw a negro mammy; a red bandanna was tied tightly around her head, her two hands were on the floor. She seemed to be backing away from me. I screamed in fright at the strange sight and ran to my mother.

"Mother grasped my hand, and took me back to the scene. The woman was still crouching there.

"I saw my mother slip at her, and her hand went right through her head and struck the wall; and the mammy disappeared.

"Ghost, ghost?" screamed my mother. I screamed also, not knowing what the word meant.

"Mother called witnesses who agreed that there was no sign or hair of the mammy in the room. I was with her to testify that she had been there, and that when mother struck her she disappeared.

"After that experience my mother grew more nervous and timid; but, like all small boys, the experience only gave me more courage, and more ideas for adventure. But I have never found a ghost since that time. No doubt since I was born in a haunted house, I'll probably die in one."

Horned Toads Bear Young

Snakes are not the only members of the reptilian family which give birth to living young. A small female horned toad captured by a ranger naturalist in the Petrified Forest National Monument, Arizona, recently, surprised her captor by giving birth to 19 young toads within three hours' time; 18 living and one dead. Within 30 to 60 seconds after seeing the light of day the horned toad youngsters were on their feet and spinning around the cage.

"I VERY seldom play any gambling games. I have not the time, neither have I the inclination to gamble," said the great pianist with a graceful and sweeping flourish of his hand.

"But one day in Monte Carlo I awoke with an irresistible impulse to play roulette and a premonition that luck was running my way. Always my work has been based on excellence and study. For once I wanted to play with a premonition.

"I went to the roulette table and won so often times in succession. The next morning I woke with the same smelling hunch. I returned to the tables, and won thirty-eight times. Confirmed gamblers tore their hair because I would not place more than the small 5-franc note.

"The third day my hunch was still there. Again I went to the tables and won thirty-four times. The time was in an uproar. The dealer decided that Paderewski was a cheat. The musician with his knowledge of intricate mathematics had evolved a system! Of course I had no such system. They crowded me to my side, and they wanted to take their money on my numbers. I always waited until the moment to place my note, so no one would know what number I was going to play.

"The fourth day I awoke with a distinct presentiment that my luck had run out. I wanted to test the validity of the presentiment, so I strolled to the Casino and placed a few francs. I lost. I played a few rounds and then stopped."

Tax Collections In Paterson Jump, Says Hunziker In Report

Tax Receiver Walter J. Hunziker reported to the Board of Finance today that tax collections for the past week had risen appreciably over similar periods in the past.

Mr. Hunziker's report also in the tax sale held yesterday yielded figures which showed that approximately $200,000 in arrearages on 1933 taxes. Over 1,000 parcels were placed on sale.

POLICE HOLD AGNESE FOR MURDER OF MRS. DE ORIO

Albert Ernest Agnese was today formally charged with the murder of his sweetheart, Mrs. Dorothy McNamara De Orio, by Paterson police today.

Insanely jealous upon finding his girl in the arms of another man, Agnese is alleged to have set upon Mrs. De Orio in her apartment at 270 Broadway at 10:30 Monday evening and literally kicked her and beat her to death. She was discovered Tuesday morning lying unconscious in her apartment and was removed to St. Joseph's hospital where she died this morning. Mrs. De Orio was 26 years old.

Agnese this morning confessed the crime according to police. Finding the woman in the arms of another man, he declared he asked her:

"What are you doing?"

When she angrily pushed him away, he attacked her in a rage and administered the beating which resulted in her death. Her lover, meanwhile, escaped. Police, however, declared they knew the identity of the man and would hold him as a material witness to the murder.

Taken To Hospital

It was Agnese and the janitor of the building, Thomas Combes who discovered the unconscious form of the woman Tuesday. The former accompanied her to the hospital where she lingered until her death this morning.

Agnese, who is 35 years old, is also suspected of white slave activity, according to the police. He is now under indictment for seduction.

Receivers Take Over Strengs' Dye Company

The Strengs Piece Dye Works, located at West Broadway and Oxford street, was placed under the control of equity receivers yesterday upon the petition of a committee of creditors and with the consent of the firm.

"Unfavorable working conditions which includes the cost of water and power is well as labor," according to the committee of creditors were the reasons which prompted the filing of an application for a receiver. The firm could not continue competing with New England companies under the present handicaps. It was stated.

Bond Furnished

Present assets were estimated at $900,000 with liabilities totalling $500,000. The board of receivers, consisting of Lawrence Eberhard, George R. Riches and Jean Stranga, president of the firm, was appointed by Vice Chancellor Vivian M. Lewis and ordered to present a bond of $50,000.
