Sanatorium Employees To Benefit
By County's Action

ACT ON OLD RESOLUTION

The board of freeholders yesterday decided to restore pay cuts to employees at the Valley View sanatorium, using as their authority in the matter a legal opinion rendered by County Counsel Harry L. Schoen.

The move, Freeholder Director Ernest Scheidebaum declared, was in accordance with a resolution passed early in the year which exempted cuts in salaries under $2,100 annually.

"I favor proper compensation to employees," declared Freeholder Leo V. Becker, "if the state and the county does not pay its working people properly, who will?"

Freeholders Hear Gavin's Plan For Scientific Detection

APPROVAL IS LIKELY

Plans for the establishment of a bureau of scientific crime investigation, manned by three men, were presented by Sheriff John A. Gavin to the board of freeholders at its regular meeting yesterday.

Emphasizing the fact that "science has been making rapid advances in crime detection work," Sheriff Gavin told the board that while the plan was still in its infancy, he had enlisted the aid of William J. Evans, county identification officer; James R. Cahill, hand writing expert and criminologist, and Assistant County Physician Joseph F. Donnelly blood expert.

$1 A Year

These men will work for a nominal fee of $1 a year, he explained.

Approval of the project by the freeholders seemed likely from the gist of a statement made by Freeholder Director Ernest Scheidebaum.

"I believe that we should encourage Sheriff Gavin in this project," he said.

COMPULSORY AUTO TESTS TO BEGIN VERY SHORTLY

Final Okay Of Stations Being Made By Sterner — Start
Possibly November 1

As soon as inspection stations have been thoroughly checked and approved, compulsory inspection of automobiles by the State Motor Vehicle Department is expected to begin.

Motor Vehicle Commissioner Magee said today he still does not know when the state will enter its new $1,000,000 business, but indicated it will be soon after November 1. Notices will be mailed to car owners telling them when and where to appear for inspection. Each car will be inspected semi-annually at a fee of 50 cents.

His department has met all major problems of getting the program under way, Magee declared. He said he has been assured by Civil Service Commission that a list of eligible inspector candidates will be submitted to him this week and that he then will begin interviewing applicants.

Appointment of the inspectors will be followed by a short course of training. Magee expects to use the Trenton station and another in North Jersey for the training course.

The inspection program is scheduled to get under way about 18 months after passage of legislation providing for it. At first it was expected the inspections might begin last November but there were delays in obtaining leases on the 25 stations and difficulty in buying equipment.

"It has been no easy task to organize the enterprise", Magee said. "Many of the major problems confronting the department were unique and could not be rushed if the business was to be conducted in a safe and efficient manner."

Magee said New Jersey is the first state to go into the inspections on a broad scale and predicted they will cut highway accidents by eliminating cars with defective brakes, bad wheels and treacherous headlights which, he declared, are the main causes of accidents.

Balanced Budget Is Urgent Need To Aid Business, Spur Progress

Federation Head Sees Need Of Action—Prescribes 2 Ways
Of "Turning Trick"

Prescribed as the only remedy for the "dangerous" and worsening fiscal situation of the federal government is a balanced national budget. This alone can avert disaster and restore great confidence to business and industry and is virtually essential for the relief of unemployment and to general prosperity. Hugh S. Magill, president of the American Federation of Investors made this the basis of his report to the federation.

More than ordinary interest is involved in his views by virtue of the fact that his son, Roswell Magill is Undersecretary of the Treasury of the United States.

The federal budget can be balanced in only two ways, says Mr. Magill. The first way is to reduce expenses so that they will come within national income, which "should not be difficult in this time of peace and plenty", said Mr. Magill, or by increasing taxation.

"Damaging as excessive taxation is to national prosperity", observed Mr. Magill, "it is far better than for our country to continue borrowing money and piling up the national debt higher and higher until the inevitable financial crash shall come."

"Congress alone can correct the

The F.H.A. And U.S. Housing Unit Are Two Separate Federal Agencies

Functions Of Two Are Different—
New Housing Law Responsible For Birth Of Latter

Despite the similarity of their names, the Federal Housing Administration and the new U. S. Housing Authority are two entirely separate organizations, separately staffed and separately operated or will be when the latter is fully established.

The functions of the two are different. Both are designed to be permanent agencies of the Federal government.

The Housing Authority was created by the Wagner-Steagall law, approved by the President September 1. Its purpose, as defined in the title of the act, is to provide financial assistance to the states and political subdivisions hereof for the elimination of unsafe and insanitary housing conditions for the eradication of slums, for the provision of decent, safe and sanitary dwellings for families of low income and for the reduction of unemployment and the stimulation of business activity, to create a United States Housing Authority and for other purposes."

The Housing Authority is designed primarily to provide housing for groups of persons for whom private industry cannot provide suitable housing. It is to be headed by an administrator under the general supervision of Secretary of the Interior.

A distinctive feature of the FHA is that it makes no loans or grants of public money. It simply insures loans for home financing made by banks, savings, building and loan associations and other private lending institutions.

The functions of the two are different. Both are designed to be permanent agencies of the Federal government.

X-ray Advance Is Cancer Cure Hope

Hamburg Professor Sees Steady
Improvement Of Treatment
Leading To Triumph

Chief of hopes for finding a cure for cancer lies in the steady advance of X-ray and radium technique and the diagnosis of the different kinds of cancer, rather than in any spectacular discovery. Professor Herman Holthusen of the University of Hamburg said as he returned for further study in Europe.

Professor Holthusen, recently elected president of the International Congress of Radiology, said he believed the time factor is most important in the application of X-ray or radium rays. Cancer can be cured, he said, but not easily.

FHA 3-YEAR LOSS $7,927.00 IS VERY LOW

Administrator Reports That Only
35 Properties Were Taken In Foreclosure In 3 Years

According to an announcement by Federal Housing Administrator Stewart McDonald, out of the 700 million dollars in mortgages on which insurance premiums are being paid to the Federal Housing Administration, net losses sustained over a 3 year period amount to $7,927.18, approximately 1,000th of 1 per cent.

Reviewing the developments of FHA business since passage of the National Housing act, McDonald pointed out that a total of 229,299 mortgages accepted for insurance only 35 properties have been foreclosed and turned over to the administrator. Of these 35 properties 17 had been sold, and the net loss sustained, he said, is represented in these 17 sales.

Pertinent facts involved in the total debentures issued on the 35 properties, together with the net losses on properties sold as of August 31, 1937, are:

Debentures issued on 35 properties amounting to $149,476.29; properties sold, 17, with debentures on seven amounting to $39,861.71 retired; debentures on 10 properties amounting to $3,502 authorized for retirement; total debentures retired or authorized to be retired, $71,463.71; loss sustained $7,927.18.

The total dollar volume of mortgages accepted for insurance as of August 31, 1937, amounted to $927,119.483.

The foreclosure and loss record of the Federal Housing Administration," McDonald said, "is gratifying. It provides us with the final and most convincing evidence of the soundness of our appraisal and risk rating systems. Properties eligible for mortgage insurance under the FHA system are compared to be sound mortgage risks and as the years pass we are confident that the protective devices we have provided for both borrower and lender will result in an amazingly low loss ratio.

"This of course, is as it should be. In administering the National Housing act, the Federal government wields a powerful weapon against gambling in home ownership and the many unsound mortgage lending practices that have threatened us in the past."

125 Killed By Autos In August

Compared with 118 deaths in August, 1936, automobile fatalities for August of this year totaled 125 the State Health of Department reported. Forty nine killed this year were pedestrians.

The figures generally are at variance with those of the Motor Vehicle Department because the health department records do not include data on persons taken to hospitals outside the state before their injuries proved fatal.

There were 4,980 births in August, 2,841 marriages and 3,101 deaths. The birth rate was 13.6 per 1,000 and the death rate 8.5. Infant deaths totaled 153 and the infant mortality rate was 33 for each 1,000 births. Typhoid fever took 6 lives, influenza and measles and whooping cough, one each. No deaths were recorded for scarlet fever and diphtheria.

Will Test Weak Hearts Of Those Planning Flight

Medical Group Gets Report Of Altitude Experiments Due
To Many Deaths In U. S.

How high an aviation passenger with a bad heart can safely fly will be tested, a report to the Aero Medical Association of the United States held.

It was found the man with coronary trouble can learn with present tests. But satisfactory rating methods for other kinds of heart trouble have yet to be discovered.

The feelings of 13 men and women, all with bad hearts, were tried out in Harvard University's fatigue laboratory at the equivalent of flying half an hour at 14,500 feet.

The report said the reason for the tests was "a number of deaths of air travelers not related to aircraft accidents."

The 13 were subjected to the same drop in oxygen which occurs in the rise of a plane. They were compared with 12 other persons, men and women, with perfectly sound hearts.

"The most striking feature," it was concluded, "was absence of complaint on the part of the subject."

Three of those with bad hearts fainted. But two of these did not even know they had temporarily passed out. Some with good hearts and some with bad said afterward that they had a feeling of sleepiness, preceded by a sense of well being. Some noticed dimming of eyes or blurring of vision.

Raise Rabbits For Fur Coats In New System

Farms Start In Southland As Demand Increases For "Seal"
And "Leopard" Coats

A new industry has been created in the South what with the increasing demand for fur coats—leopard, sealskin and others.

Noting a growing demand for rabbit furs by coat manufacturers A. L. Ward, secretary of the Atlanta Breeders Club, said today it is quite possible that the beautiful fur of milady's new "leopard" coat came from the back of a rabbit who had a haircut and an expert stenciling job.

There are a number of large rabbit farms at Birmingham and Scottsboro, Ala. and Knoxville and Chattanooga. Ward said, but American breeders are not yet able to supply the demand.

He estimated 90 per cent of women's fur coats are made from rabbits and about 80 per cent of the fur is imported.

When sold for garments, the fur of the rabbit is first tanned. For "leopard" coats, Ward said, "the fur is clipped and the spots stenciled on." For "seal skin" coats the fur is clipped and dyed black. When other furs are imitated, various other color dyes are used.

Because most of the fur has to be dyed, white rabbits are chiefly in demand, he said.

Besides the pelts, the breeders sell the meat of the rabbit.

Mudd Describes Rise Of Relief Costs Alarming

Expects Drop. Finds Costs Of Relief Slightly Increased.
Cites Condition Serious

Calling the rise "alarming" even if slight, State Relief Director Arthur Mudd expressed concern over the plight of New Jersey's municipalities' rising relief costs.

August disbursements totaled $1,069,736, Mudd said, and represented an increase of one half of one per cent over July costs of $1,061,227.

The Financial Assistance Commission, Mudd reported, had anticipated a seasonal decrease. Instead "unexpected factors" of Works Progress Administration layoffs, industrial curtailment and strikes sent the bill up.

With thirteen Counties reporting increases, the case load rise was even greater in per cent than the expenditure increase. The relief director said aid was dispensed to 3,267 more persons in 866 cases, for a jump of 1.8 per cent over July.

During the month there were 2,009 fewer persons on relief rolls than there were a year ago, but the cost of the average case soared from $20.01 to $22.33, accounting for an increase of 7.1 in disbursements.

Hudson, Passaic and Middlesex Counties, Mudd reported, showed the largest dollars and cents rise. Governor Harold G. Hoffman has said he "probably" would reconvene the Legislature in mid October to consider the relief situation. Slack operation of woolen mills and labor disputes, the relief director said, accounted for the added burden in Passaic and Paterson, and put Passaic County in the group showing greatest increase.

NO HOUSING FOR JERSEY

Must Pass Legislation In Line With
Wagner - Steagall Act To Get
Slum Clearance

Ineligible for participation in the federally sponsored slum clearance program, New Jersey will make of forts to enact legislation complementing the Wagner - Steagall act at the next session of the Legislature. Maine and Virginia are two other states along the coast ineligible for participation in the program.

Secretary of the Interior Ickes and General Counsel Foley of the Federal Housing Authority, with whom Representative O'Neill of the 11th New Jersey district, conferred, said the state would not be able to obtain federal housing financing until the Legislature authorizes creation of municipal housing authorities, empowered to act as legal agents.

O'Neill said he proposed to call a meeting of the executives of the municipalities in his district to relate the results of his conference and to explain the housing act as interpreted to him by Ickes, so plans could be laid for framing the necessary legislation to make the municipalities eligible for slum clearance aid.

VANDERBILT'S ELECTION

Members of the legal profession rightfully covet the honor of being elected to the presidency of the American Bar Association. Among those who have filled this office are such famous names as Taft, Root, Choate, Davis, Hughes and Kellogg. Cortlandt Parker, Sr. was before them and until his death the most distinguished and oldest active member of the New Jersey bar.

And so, in the election at Kansas City of Arthur T. Vanderbilt, of Newark; New Jersey again sees a favored and deserving son elevated to the high position.

Mr. Vanderbilt ascends the president's chair at a time when the bar and the nation confront fundamental issues profoundly affecting the law and the courts. The measure of his leadership will be in how well he succeeds in guiding the association's activities with reference to these matters along both sound and reassuring lines. The task may be heavy and difficult, but it is also a call to high adventure and great opportunity.

FEMALE OFFICE-HOLDERS

In New York City women have been admitted to jury duty at long last. In this respect New York is far behind New Jersey, where women have served on juries for several years and have participated in important trials, notably that of Bruno Hauptmann for the murder of the Lindbergh baby. It was, however, not quite year ago that women served on the federal petit jury.

Given the power of the ballot 17 years ago, many women of refinement have spurned jury duty because of the nature of some testimony they would have to hear. This is especially true of county courts, where all sorts of cases are tried before the same panel.

For the same reason of sordidness many women are kept from taking an active part in politics and particularly from running for municipal office. There is no doubt though, that, thanks to detailed study of current events by women's clubs more and more women are well informed about public affairs and are fitted, if they have the inclination, for public office.

Women are teachers, physicians, lawyers, librarians, secretaries while there are others who could give just as good an account of themselves in the jury box or at the council table as the men incumbents of those places do. But until or unless they register in large numbers a desire for these posts there is not likely to be much change in the proportion of men and women officials. When they obtained their franchise to vote, they had no further guaranty.

A NEW VIGILANTISM

The formation of a national committee to investigate the spread of "vigilantism" in industrial communities has been proposed by the American League Against War and Fascism. Hearings by a panel of citizen investigators headed by Bishop Francis J. McConnell of the Methodist Church, and containing the names of other prominent Americans, is being planned. It is also reported that the Department of Justice may cooperate with the LaFollette Civil Liberties Committee to shed light on this era.

Law-loving Americans will cheer these announcements as a healthy public reaction against such extralegal activities parading under the cloak of patriotism.

Today's activities against vigilantism are totally different from those of pioneer days in the Far West. There it grew from the desperation of citizen over the absence of law. Today, in troubled industrial areas, men are called upon to organize secretly to break strikes or drum labor organizers out of town.

We have no need for vigilantism of any kind in this country. If the laws are inadequate to protect life and property we can make adequate laws. If officers of the law don't enforce it, we can provide better oficers.

The quickest and surest way to kill these self-appointed bodies is to expose them.

IGNORANCE OF THE CHINESE

According to the New York Times, a Japanese army spokesman explained why Japan's troops have delayed so long their often-promised smashing of the Chinese lines at Shanghai. Chinese "ignorance", it seems, is to blame.

"The Chinese generals have massed too many troops in this area for efficiency of combat and strategy", this spokesman says. And he adds that the Chinese, having little knowledge of book strategy, remain in their trenches, carelessly sniping at Japanese advance points, when by all the rules of military tactics, they should be retreating.

That must be very irritating, and perhaps the Japanese spokesman is justified in speaking sharply. And yet we can see how it might be difficult for the Chinese to understand that a war which is being now fought without declaration, and which involves the bombing of open cities and the wholesale slaughter of women, children and other noncombatants, should be conducted according to the rules of book strategy.

"Football players today are better than those of the days when I played. I was All American end, but I couldn't do the things ends do today. In my time no one asked me to go down the field and take out a defensive back. When I did that I was applauded."
—John R. Kilpatrick.

"Steinbeck's got it. His Mice and Men is beautiful. He's screwy, though. I stayed a few days with him in California and he talked like Gertrude Stein with a hang-over."
—John O'Hara, novelist.

"We, the retailers, believing that our business, if properly conducted is an honorable and respectable one, have never been ashamed to enter the field openly against the dregs."

Rapid Transit Plan Will Get Hearing FridayConference Stated Here For Discussion Of Its Merits

Municipalities of Passaic and Bergen Counties will be represented at a conference to be held in the headquarters of the Chamber of Commerce tomorrow morning at 10 A. M. for the purpose of discussing a rapid transit plan for Northern New Jersey which was recently proposed by the Port of New York Authority.

The latter body has asked the state legislature for public aid or subsidy in carrying out its plan for a more facile system of rapid transit in this area of the state.

A conference for the purpose of permitting municipal and county governments of this area to hear the plan and voice their reactions to it, was accordingly arranged for tomorrow by the local Chamber of Commerce.

Colored Revue At The Majestic

To an average theater patron an offering combining all the elements so essentially necessary to light diversion, nothing like a harmoniously blended offering such a good musical comedy unit is, can satisfy the craving for fun, and fine dancing.

It is on such a mixture that "Brown Skin Follies", which opens today at the Majestic theater in Paterson, rests its claim to pronounced superiority. As a bracer it is everything to be desired and its side splitting laughing qualities are thrown in for good measure.

The offering, an all colored affair, could hardly be otherwise than a capitol show with such a brilliant cast of singers, dancers, comedians and above all, Colridge Davis and the Hardy Brothers' orchestra.

'Vogues Of '38' Now At Garden

Next year's fashions in fun, gowns, girls, music, dances and Technicolor are introduced by "Walter Wanger's Vogues of 1936" the gay musical extravaganza starring Warner Baxter and Joan Bennett, which is showing now on the Garden screen. Helen Vison, Misha Auer and Jerome Cowan head the imposing cast, which includes Marjorie Cateon, Dorothy McNulty and the famous Walter Wanger Models beautiful girls in the world."

If you are a football fan, then here is a treat in store for you in "Two Minutes to Play" starring Herman Brix, former All American gridiron star which is also showing on the same screen.

Panthers Face Celtics Sunday

Game Will Be Played Under Flood Lights Sunday Night—Celtics Lieue Powerful

The Paterson Panthers, of the American Football Association, resort to floodlights for the first time this year in a scheduled contest Sunday night at the Hinchcliffe Stadium against the Alexandria Celtics of the Dixie League.

The game is being played at night because of the Holy Name Parade and World Series game in the afternoon.

The Celtics hold a victory over the Shenandoah Presidents by a 3-0 count. The Shenandoah outlasted scored over the Panthers in last Sunday's game by a close count of 9-7.

Alexandria boasts one of the heaviest lines in pro football, with Kennon at 235, Hillary at 237, Altman at 220, Kinnego at 265 and Rathjen at 230. The Panther line is equally as heavy and the sparks are certain to fly.

FOR THE PANTHERS!

Behind that big black cigar of Coach Frank Kirkleski there was much joy along about the third quarter of that Panther tussle with the Shenandoah iron men and his green jerseyed pros were enjoying a 7-3 edge over the visiting Pennsylvanians.

Joy turned to sorrow when Barnes fumbled the center's heave to him as the Panthers planned to emerge from deep Shenandoah territory in the final quarter. From that point on the Shenandoah crowd just pushed and passed its way to the winning touchdown.

Never for a moment was there any doubt about the superiority of the Panthers over the Shenandoah crowd. For one thing the great number of reserve men, equally as powerful as the starting eleven, were always on hand to freshen the Panthers' attack and to bolster its tired defensive.

The Panthers had the better team, but the visitors made most of the breaks.

The referee's ruling of interference and illegal use of the hands when Ozzie Simmons, crack backfield star got that beautiful toss from Barnes in the final quarter was a stunning blow to the Panthers. There was a marvelous come back on the part of the Italian National Circle outfit, but rules must have to be observed and the touchdown was called back.

To me the Panthers eleven appears as one of the best pro crews in these parts. Reserve strength, the presence of such men as Al Kanya, Pete Zucks, Phil Albie, Harry Denning, Robert Barnes, Ozzie Simmons, Harry Miller, Bullet Baltzell, Jack Vollmer a grand offensive and team play makes the presence of any one star are factors making the Panthers a great team.

BARNEY ROSS TO APPEAR AT DIAMOND GLOVES TONITE

Will Attend Second Series Of Bouts At Paterson Armory Tonight

Barney Ross, the world's welter-weight boxing champion will make his first appearance in a New Jersey ring tomorrow night. The king pin of the world's 147 pounders will be guest of honor at the second show in the 1937 Passaic County Diamond Gloves championships to be held at the Paterson Armory. The tourney is sponsored by the Paterson Evening News A. A. and the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association Local No. 1 of Paterson.

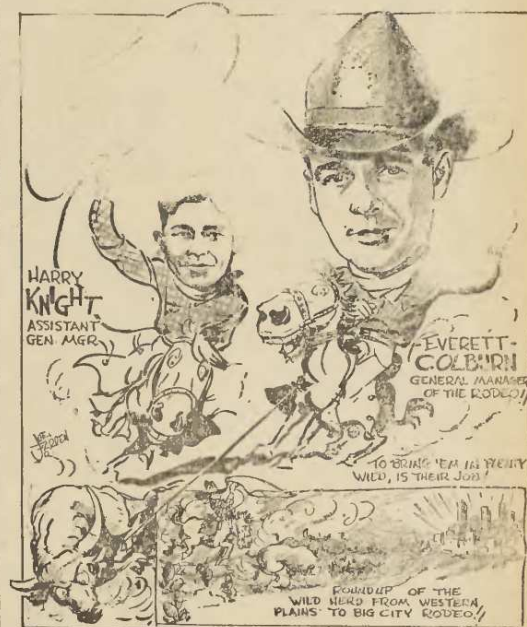

Considered one of the world's greatest fighters of all time, Ross makes his initial appearance in New Jersey three weeks after having successfully defended his championship against Cafarina Garcia, hard punching Filipino in the most thrilling bout of the recent "Carnival of Champions" show staged at the Polo Grounds.

Because he is New York to "take in" the world series, Ross will be available for the second show of the Diamond Gloves tournament. The presence of this popular champion is expected to be greeted with pleasure by followers of boxing in this section. He assured Patersonians of his presence in a telegram received by Abe Greene, associate editor of the Paterson News and head of the Jersey State Athletic Commission.

The second show of the tournament will provide action in seven novice classes of competition. All novice boxers have been ordered to report at 6:30 P. M. at the Paterson drillshed prepared for action. This means that fights are scheduled in the 112, 118, 126, 135, 147 and 160 and 175 pound classes.

New Roundup Bosses for Rodeo As Garden Presents Cowboy Contests

THE task of managing the long series of contests in the twelfth annual World's Championship Rodeo, which is being presented in Madison Square Garden, New York, from October 6 to October 12, is in new hands this year. Colonel W. T. Johnson, the genial Texas rancher, who brought the rodeo to New York each fall for five years, has retired to quiet ranch life and has turned over his rodeo duties to two younger men, both of whom have long held official positions in numerous rodeos.

Colonel Johnson, who used to be greeted by the crowds at each performance when he rode his black horse into the arena, decided that rodeo life was a little too strenuous for one of his age. This year his place as general manager has been taken by Everett Colburn, a quiet-mannered Westerner who has lived on a ranch all his life. He has been connected with rodeos for the last fifteen years and knows the rodeo in and out.

Many rodeo fans will remember him as the arena director during the last three World's Championship Rodeos in the Garden. In recent years he also has been arena director in rodeos at Boston, Indianapolis, Kansas City and Dallas, Texas. In addition he has put on some of the largest rodeos in the Northwest during the last ten years. He has a manner of calm assurance and all the rodeo hands respect his judgment concerning any phase of Western sport.

The assistant general manager is one of the best bronk riders that ever forked a saddle. He is Harry Knight, of Calgary, Can., who won the Prince of Wales Trophy, emblematic of the bronk riding championship of Canada, both in 1929 and 1930. He also won the Sir Thomas Lipton Trophy as the best all-round cowboy at the Calgary Stampede. During ten years of competition in rodeos throughout the West he won numerous titles and did not take up the official end of rodeo until he was severely injured when trampled by a horse in Chicago in 1923. He still carries the scars of that accident.

Cowboys everywhere look upon him as one of the best judges of bronk riding contests in the country. The quick eye that helped make him a great rider serves to catch every movement of bronk and cowboy in the arena.

Upon the shoulders of these two men rests not only the job of getting all the rodeo stock to New York but also that of making each night performance and the matinees, which are on Saturdays, Sundays and Columbus Day, a pageant of swift action.

Unscramble 'em --- Win Prizes!

Win Prizes!

Here's fun for the whole family—11 Messaggero, in conjunction with the management of the Garden theatre, is presenting a contest for its readers called "Scrambled Features" based on the incomparably lovely features of the Walter Wanger Models, the "most photographed girls in the world" who will appear in the new film, "Walter Wanger's Vagabonds of 1938" which opens at the Garden theatre today.

As prizes for winners in the contest, 11 Messaggero offers 12 pairs of passes to the first 12 readers of this newspaper who submit the correct solutions to the picture puzzle which appears on this page.

Contest Rules

The rules are simple. Merely unscramble the cutup faces of these beauties, paste them together, and mail them to Scrambled Features Editor, 11 Messaggero, 64 Hamilton street, Paterson, N. J.

Solutions will be judged on the basis of accuracy and neatness, and in case of a tie, the prize will go to the solution bearing the earliest post mark. Winning tickets will be good for two persons each.

The contest closes Monday morning, at noon. Tickets will be good for performances of either Tuesday or Wednesday.

Gene Raymond In U. S. Film

A streamlined romantic theme blends with rippling comedy and hitting melody to make "The Life of the Party" one of the most scintillating musical comedy entertainments to come to the U. S. Theatre. Beginning Friday, it is scheduled to be portrayed on the screen with "Bulldog Drummond Comes Back" starring John Barrymore, as the co-feature.

"The Life of the Party" is star studded from the top of the cast to the bottom, with Joe Penner, Gene Raymond, Parkyakarkus, Victor Moore, Harriet Hilliard, Helen Broderick, Billy Gilbert and Margaret Dumont in the principal roles.

As distinguished from many musical productions, the story predominates throughout, despite a sparkling variety of supplementary musical and dance features and comedy which keep the audience in a continual uproar.

"Bulldog Drummond Comes Back" is an adventure mystery that races excitingly from the drop of the first clue through a series of situations alternately romantic, funny, dangerous and sinister.

This picture, which is based on

McNelle's original story entitled "The Female of the Species" and closely parallels the detective story's plot, introduces a new riddle and rhyme pattern that is guaranteed to shake anyone's skeleton free from cobwebs. It also brings John Barrymore in the role of a police inspector from Scotland Yard.

"Stella Dallas" Comes To Fabian

Movie fans will be drawn to the Fabian tomorrow by the announcement of "Stella Dallas". They will come away thoroughly satisfied that they had seen the most compelling motion picture production since the silent version of the same picture took the country by storm some 12 years ago.

For sheer dramatic intensity "Stella Dallas" has rarely been approached. And the artistry of Barbara Stanwyck's performance in the title role definitely places her in the top brackets of the screen's greatest actresses.
