Books'n Stuff

A way to peace and happiness for mankind is set forth by Fulton J. Sheen in "Way to Happiness," which Garden City Books recently published.

In this new book, Bishop Sheen shows that the key to social betterment can be found through individual betterment. And individuals can fulfill their purpose through loving God. "When enough men have found this way to happiness, they will find one another in brotherhood. Social peace will then ensue."

The material in "Way to Happiness" is grouped into such chapters as "Youth," "Inner Peace," "Work," "Love," "Fellowship," all stressing the ways in which people can grow spiritually and improve society.

Bishop Sheen is the author of many best-selling books, among them "Life is Worth Living," "Life Up Your Heart," and "Peace of Soul." His television program, "Life Is Worth Living," is seen weekly by millions of people of all faiths.

Garden City Books now has 21 titles by Bishop Sheen on its list.

In 1859 there was a railroad, not identified on any map, which ran from Fort Scott, Kansas, through Nebraska and southern Illinois into Chicago and on to Canada, its stations manned by men and women who risked their lives to give meaning to the ideal of human liberty. Leonard Nathan's "A Wind Like a Bugle," a first novel to be published May 11 by Macmillan, is the story of the escape of a slave known as Little David from Fort Scott and of his dangerous journey, under the guidance of Neal Geddes, through the Underground Railroad. Mr. Nathan was born in Omaha and is now living in Chicago. He is a graduate of the University of Chicago.

On May 7, the 200th anniversary of the founding of the New York Society Library, Macmillan will publish "Books and People," by Marion King, recently retired Assistant Librarian of New York's oldest Library. When Mrs. King joined the staff in 1907, the library was located near Washington Square, serving subscribers who lived in a world of horses, carriages, and bicycles.

BEHIND THE SCENES in Hollywood

By HARRISON CARROLL

TORN CARTILAGE PUTS LIZ OUT FOR MONTH

HOLLYWOOD—Instead of "housemaid's knee," Elizabeth Taylor has a torn cartilage.

Her leg has been put into a cast, which will have to stay on from three to four weeks.

And maybe you think that doesn't upset MGM, which hoped to put "The Last Time I Saw Paris" before the Hollywood cameras about the middle of the month.

Elizabeth Taylor

BING CROSBY laughed when I asked him about the report that son Gary was engaged to co-ed Barbara Staniskis.

"If so," he said, "they haven't told me. Of course, I might be the last to hear. But don't college boys give their fraternity pins to a lot of chicks?"

Bing is not so sure now that he and the four boys will be going to Europe after the finish of "Country Girl." "I have the reservations," he says, "and we may go. If not, we'll probably take a trip to Honolulu."

THERE'LL be no property settlement problems if Rhonda Fleming and Dr. Lew Morrill do go through with the divorce. They signed a pre-marital agreement. And Rhonda won't ask for any alimony.

Both she and Lew tried to avoid the rift. Now that it's come, Rhonda probably will go to New York and do some TV. If a picture comes up, of course, that takes precedence.

The wolves didn't wait a day before they started calling the red-haired star for dates. One even telephoned from New York. They all got the same answer, no.

THE LATE SPOTS were crowded after the "Prince Valiant" premiere. Many of the stars went to Twentieth Century-Fox's party at Romanoffs. Gene Nelson and Gower Champion switched partners. Gene and Marge Champion were doing some fancy foot work. Likewise Gower and Miriam Nelson. Among the other dancers were Mari Blanchard and Greg Bautzer, Jean Peters and Bob Wagner, Susan Zanuck and Rock Hudson, Katy Jurado and producer Leonard Goldstein, Susan Hayward and agent Ned Martin, June Haver and Fred MacMurray, Esther Williams and Ben Gage.

Lance Fuller beamed both Corinne Calvet and her friend, Betty Woods, to Ciro's. When Corinne got up to dance, she calmly removed her bouffant underskirt and put it on the table. Geordie Hormel and Marla English, who came to the premiere in a chauffeur-driven 1928 Packard limousine, also were at Ciro's.

BOTH Lana Turner and Ida Lupino will brave the winds at Mojave to be with spouses Lex Barker and Howard Duff on the "Nevada Gold" location.

Bob Neal's birthday gift to Debbie Reynolds was a platinum cross studded with diamonds. Jane Powell, who also had an April 1 birthday, received an oil painting set, several books on the subject and a wrist watch from Pat Nerney. And Pat also gave her a surprise party at the Villa Nova.

June Haver's sister, Evelyn, is in love, too. He's Dave Vachon, a Santa Monica tyer.

Jerry Lewis cancelled his New York trip after the death of Patti's mother. As soon as Patti has recovered a little from her grief, Jerry will take her on a trip.

LEAVING the kids at home, Judy Garland and Sid Luft are off for a 10-day vacation at Sun Valley.

And Doris Day and Marty Melcher staged a double celebration of Doris' birthday and their third wedding anniversary by going to Palm Springs. Doris must be feeling her old self again because she just bought six new evening gowns.

MAMIE VAN DOREN says Bill Stead broke his agreement not to date anybody else so, once more, it's all over between them. . . . Gloria de Haven will sponsor an acting career for her 22-year-old brother, David.

... Maria Palmer's favorite date is Dr. Sy Cole. And, careerwise, Maria can't accept all the offers. She's sought for six pictures and a TV series. . . .

Ruth Lewis and Jeffrey Stone are dating again. . . . And Ruth Hampton insists that Byron Palmer, now in Florida, is writing her every day and calling her every night.

THE SHOWCASE

By D. G.

BIG TOWN JOTTINGS: One of the funniest plays to hit New York in many a semester is "King of Hearts," graced by Donald Cook, Cloris Leachman and Jackie Cooper, and entrenched at the Lyceum Theatre for what appears to be a substantial run. The play was authored by Jean Kerr and Eleanor Brooke and is chockful of sparkling dialogue and crisp comments.

My man, William Doll, Esq., who pounded the tom-tom for the Montclair Theatre in these hyar parts many seasons ago, says that "King of Hearts" is very funny. He's only the publicity man for the show so he should know.

GAIL MANNERS

Lovely Gail Manners will play the part of Laurey in "Oklahoma" which opens at the Paper Mill Playhouse in Millburn on April 20 for a five-week run.

Gail has always been a favorite in Millburn, boasting a heap of talent and beaucoup good looks, too.

MILESTONE: "The Seven Year Itch," which still has Tom Ewell, Vanessa Brown and the others of the original company intact, is now the number one hit in New York, having racked up the greatest play. "Wonderful Town," in number of performances of the entire list, musical or straight which Rosalind Russell regaled capacity audiences (Carol Channing took over the starring role) is now the leader in the musical category in New York.

Courtney Burr and Elliott Nugent produced "The Seven Year Itch" which has Robert Emhardt, Neva Patterson and George Keane in support of star Tom Ewell and his leading lady Miss Brown. Robert Rryer is now represented by a second musical comedy extravaganza on Broadway in association with Lawrence Carr, he ushered into the Majestic Theatre "By the Beautiful Sea," starring Shirley Booth.

DONALD COOK
CLORIS LEACHMAN
JACKIE COOPER

Into a Broadway season studied with an unusual number of hit shows, Billy Rose's "The Immoralist" has already taken its place as a winner and continues to monopolize cocktail-time conversation as the most controversial stage fare of the year.

Now in its second playing month, the drama has shown a heavy box office profit, has played to more than 50,000 people, and has become the sort of show producers dream about—one that attracts its audiences via word-of-mouth.

Chief proponent for the show among the New York critical fraternity has been the New York Times' Brooks Atkinson, who gave the sensitive production high praise on two different occasions. His summation: "It is an admirable piece of work. The tragedy is austere, crushing and genuine."

Are The Yanks Washed Up?

Maybe -- But Most Experts Still Like Their Chances

The signs this spring have been ominous for the New York Yankees. In fact, a pun-inclined sportswriter of the opinion that their potential skid in 1954 could drive the Yanks to drink, might suggest that they join "Alcoholic Ominous."

Such puns of course are calculated to drive editors to drink, too, but this much is certain—the perennial champions have not looked the part through the spring months and their indifferent showing along the Grapefruit Circuit brought them home a bit uncertain as they prepared to launch the 1954 pennant race.

The Yankees, it was rumbled up and down the Florida Coast and en route to the Northland before they launched the season this week, just didn't look like a team that could wind up on top again. The feeling was echoed by many scribes and there were many who felt that they couldn't make it. Of course, every one of the other clubs in the two major leagues hoped for just such a turn of events.

Because that has been a gripping monopoly which Casey Stengel and his men have exercised the past five years as they not only captured the American League pennant every time but also the World Series prize, too.

Those who indicated that the Yankee dynasty was in the crumbling stage, pointed to several vital factors in making with the pessimistic (for the Yanks, optimistic for the other teams) talk! One of the chief bits of logic they advanced for the impending downfall of the proud New York team was the departure of Vic Raschi.

"You just don't lose a pitcher like Raschi and come out of it as strong as before," was the point stressed by the side advocating impending Yankee doom. "He was a great team man and a fine pitcher. You could count on him and Reynolds to be the stoppers. Reynolds is around but isn't as effective as before while Raschi is gone. So, it could be that they suddenly will lose both of their key pitchers."

The argument goes on to assert that besides Reynolds being a question mark, so is Eddie Lopat who is another past N. Y. mound bulwark. And furthermore, age is expected to do no good to another vital element in the Yankee defense—at shortstop, where Phil Rizzuto has to try to shrug off another year piled on to those creaking bones. Time, the pointers point out, has a way of catching up to a fellow like Rizzuto all of a sudden.

Besides, how about the departure of the old home run threat—Johnny Mize? And what about the loss of Billy Martin who was the star of the last World Series? Jerry Coleman's at second but Martin had a way of stirring things up.

On top of all these substantial arguments, there's that lack-lustre showing of the Stengeleers through the spring exhibition games. "No team which has pennant ideas figures to look as bad as the Yanks looked this spring," it was advanced. "It will take a lot of doing to prove the Yankees can bounce back that strong!"

However, the rebuttal has some strong points to offer, too. Such as—

Exhibition games don't always tell the story and that applies especially to a team which is experimenting with young pitchers and which has a good slugger like Mickey Mantle resting from the effects of an operation. Mickey's expected to see plenty of action.

Enos Slaughter is in the N. Y. fold now and he can supply a lot of punch and drive. That acquisition is bound to help the Yankees.

They have taken on additional pitching promise in the forms of such young hurlers as Byrd, Weisler, and Grim along with the veterans and the mind-changed comebacker, Johnny Sain.

You can't sell the Yankee success formula short. They always have managed to come up and win the big ones and conceivably they will continue to respond that way now that the actual season has started.

The other clubs haven't added enough strength to beat the champs down.

Which could explain a deeply significant fact: Most of the experts believe the Yanks will win again—and have selected them to do so! Nothing succeeds like success.

THE EDITOR SPEAKS

VINCENT S. PARRILLO

Sunday is Easter. At Easter time it seems, for some unknown reason, everybody has to deck himself out in his very best and go show off his new clothes to everybody else who is also doing the same thing. So we come to an impasse! Everybody is trying to impress everybody else with clothes which they couldn't afford to buy in the first place. What I can't figure out is why we don't call it a draw. I won't buy a new suit for Easter if you don't. (If any clothiers read this I'm just fooling).

Lost underneath this mountain of clothes, new shoes, new bonnets is the real meaning of Easter. How many of us are there who have at any period during the Easter season really given a thought to the true meaning of this wonderful time of year?

In the words of Him who gave His life that we might live, "I am the Resurrection and the Life" there is a powerful message of hope to all who want to listen. Here is a promise given to all without qualification. He didn't single out any group or individual. He promised Resurrection and Life to each of us. A promise and a fulfillment!

Heed these words well because they will come in handy when you're tired and despondent. Go to church, never mind your new finery! Give time to think of the messages given to us, by the Prince of Peace.

There are many of us who will go to church on Easter Sunday for the first and only time this year. Even once is better than no time at all, because you are at least exposed to the glories and wonders of Faith and what it can do.

There isn't one of us who won't feel better for this visit. All that remains is to get all of us to try this same practice not once but 52 times a year. As a matter of fact, if you are interested in finding out what the latest fashions are in either men or women's wear, there is no better way than on your way to church. If it makes you happy, use that as an excuse because most of us scrub up pretty good when we visit the House of the Lord. We wear our good clothes, too.

Now it doesn't make much difference what your denomination, or whether your clothes are of the latest cut and style. The joy and inspiration offered by the church of your choice will be gratifying beyond all definition.

It's easy. The hardest part is getting dressed, because you may have to get up for breakfast anyway. So why not make that your first stop every Sunday morning as well as Easter Sunday.

A very HAPPY EASTER to all of you.

EDITORIAL

A JOYOUS EASTER

Easter is a joyous time of year. At Easter, like at no other time, the world seems much brighter and more full of hope of better things to come. The divine light cast by Him who died to save the world brings a great measure of comfort and reassurance to those mortals who suffer despair and disappointments.

His limitless love cannot fail to inspire and bring to all the reaffirmation that our fate is safe in His hands. No matter what may lie ahead, we can find peace, contentment and a feeling of security if we remember the glorious meaning of Easter.

May His blessings be visited upon all of us not only during the Easter season but through each day of the year.

CUB SCOUTS LEARN ABOUT OIL

This April, tens of thousands of Cub Scouts are learning about the oil industry. With parental aid, they will spend considerable time preparing exhibits, displays and projects revolving around this great enterprise. An oil industry organization has made 100,000 informative kits available to help in the work, and these have been distributed by the National Cub Scout organization.

It is certainly desirable that our very young citizens should be given an insight into American industry, and oil is a good example. It is an absolutely essential enterprise in either peace or war. All through its century-old history, the oil industry and the people involved in it have demonstrated those characteristics and habits of mind that we think of as typically American. These include hard work, the willingness to take long risks, the urge to do a better job than the other fellow, the unremitting search for improved products, the determination to progress and give good value to the customer. And, in the American tradition, it is intensely competitive through and through.

Youngsters are often exposed to sweeping denunciations of American enterprise and the American way of doing things. They should be shown the falsity of such charges.

LOOKING AT LIFE

By ERICH BRANDELS

A short while ago King Paul of Greece and his charming little Queen Frederika visited our shores, and I think we missed a wonderful opportunity to impress them.

Naturally, this country being a Democracy, the royal visitors must have thought that we have no queens and kings here in our country. How mistaken they are!

We have kings and queens galore. And—leaving the kings out of the discussion entirely—I must say that OUR queens certainly have it all over some of the European ones I have seen.

The Queen of Greece is quite a comely number, I admit. But did she, like our Atlantic City and Long Beach queens, show herself in an abbreviated bathing suit? What do we know about her legs, her waist measurements, her hips, etc?

Some of OUR queens may not be able to vie with the European or African or Asiatic queens in mental measurements. But in corporal terms I really think there is no comparison.

So I wish they could have brought the Cranberry Queen, the Queen of the Mardi Gras, Cotton Queen, the Bologna Queen and all the other "Queens," and the no less queenly creatures who sport the more modest titles as "Miss Fruitcup," "Miss Broccoli," "Miss Insecticide of 1953," to meet Queen Frederika and to show her that we, too, have royal blood among us.

By the way, a Czechoslovakian beauty queen now in the United States has just told us about how the "queens" in her country are chosen.

She does not want her name mentioned because she needs her head in her business, and the Communists have a strange custom of cutting off your head if you talk too much.

The Reds don't choose their queens with a measuring tape or on eye-appeal.

To be a queen in a Communist country you must have distributed so many propaganda pamphlets or attended so many meetings. You must have established a certain quota in your factory or you must have laid more bricks in one day than any of your competitors.

That's what counts in Czechoslovakia and other Satellite and Red countries.

This girl knows, because she was a queen herself. I am not sure about it, but I think that the main prize when you are chosen Miss Czechoslovakia or Miss Bielo Russia over there, is a passport entitling you to leave the country. So you can imagine how popular these contests must be.

Now to an entirely different subject, which I mention only because we are on the subject of women, a subject to which all men come sooner or later.

It concerns fashions.

Elizabeth Taylor, film star, bought herself a gayly colored Capri jacket while vacationing on the Island of Capri.

She didn't know how the thing was worn, so she turned it inside out and wore it thataway.

The next day every woman on the island, figuring that this must be a new style, wore her jacket inside out.

So, ladies, don't be surprised if every woman in America will be wearing the short Dior skirt and a Capri jacket inside out.

But about that you'd better see your dressmaker. After all I'm no fashion expert.

Column of Comment. . .

Tuesday is another election. What does it mean to the average citizen? Practically nothing, for about twenty percent of the eligible voters will come out and exercise their right as American citizens to vote for whomever they choose. For the Republican party it will be automatic, since all the candidates will be unopposed. To the Democratic party, it is something different. It is different because the democrats have a primary fight for the nomination of Sheriff. The outcome of this battle will well prove just how strong the organization really is. Representing the organization is Joseph Albanese who is also the Democratic leader of Haledon. Opposing him will be Captain of Detectives Adam "Oats" Reiser. Only a couple weeks back, to most observers, it was just another contest with the organization slated to win hands down. But the picture has changed somewhat, for the contest has developed into a superb political battle with the outcome to be decided only when the votes are tabulated Tuesday night.

Outsiders give Reiser a good chance of sneaking through. Being no novice in the game of politics, "Oats" has campaigned from one end of the county to the other. If there should be an upset, then you can bet your last dollar that it is only because it is a protest to some of the hierarchie of the Democratic party and not the fault of Albanese who is not only a good campaigner but also a good democratic leader.

Things could have been made much easier for Albanese if some of the Democratic leaders had prevailed themselves in eliminating some of the squabbles and district fights in the city of Paterson and various parts of the county. To be able to do so, a politician should be able to give and take, be diplomatic, and decide right from wrong. To be isinterested on the aloof side does not pay off Election day.

We can only sum it up one way and that is that there will be only one winner Tuesday. This writer being a personal friend to the contestants can only say good luck "Oats" and good luck too Joe. May the best man win and hope that the two of you will be in the same corner come next November.

Remember what Governor Meyner said this week at the Wanaque Democratic Club dinner. Quote: "I believe in the primary system and I believe it is essential in the unity of our party that both sides join when the primary is over."

Here's a reminder. Tuesday is also considered a special election. If interested and I'm sure that every one is, go out and vote for BINGO. Did you know that you can vote for Bingo without declaring yourself? When you go to the election polls just say you want to vote for the special election. Vote yes and you'll be doing yourself a favor.

"This was a warning to gamblers that we don't want them around. We want them out of New Jersey."

Governor Robert B. Meyner, referring to the recent raid in Paterson by State Police under the direction of Deputy-Attorney General Hugh C. Spornow.

"Why should we take the responsibility for certifying these purchases," Dunn said, "when we do not have the responsibility for actually making the purchases."

Comsr. James M. Dunn, commenting and refusing to sign Paterson city bills totalling about $40,000, saying that he would sign no disbursements unless certified by the Purchasing Board. Dunn was backed by Comsr. Emma L. Conlon adding that where purchases total more than $1,000, there should be soliciting of bids.

"I am a candidate, not through my own whim or ambition, not as a representative of any small group, but as the choice of all the elected leaders in the County."

Joseph A. Albanese, Organization Democratic candidate for Sheriff of Passaic County.

"I accuse my opposition of not wanting harmony. Their idea of harmony is for everyone to go along with them. Our idea of harmony is for everyone to get together, including all factions, for the best interests of the Democratic party and not a self-chosen few."

Persistence Makes Part-Time Employment Easier to Find

By ANNE HEYWOOD

"I DON'T understand why so many women have trouble getting part-time jobs," a young matron told me the other day. Maybe it's because they're too choosy—want to set the world on fire, or make a mint of money. But I'm not particular, so I've had a fine time."

She was a sensible, nice-looking girl, without any particular business skills. "But, since the day we were married, I've always managed to find a part-time job when I wanted one," she told me.

Close to Home

"I always look right in my own neighborhood, and I never get too fussy. My husband's firm moves us every couple of years, and yet, no matter what town we land in, there's always a part-time job available if you look for it."

"Right now, for example, I work from one to five every afternoon in a dry-cleaning shop. It's a one-man shop, and when I'm there I run it. I meet lots of interesting neighbors, and besides the small but steady salary, I get a commission on all storage, mothproofing, dyeing and extra services I sell."

"Before that, in our last town I worked in a bakery shop, afternoons. The customers were so interesting, and I had a fine time. It's just like chatting with your neighbors, but you get paid for it, and get a chance to get away from your own four walls."

"In fact," she concluded, "I have no use for the women who complain about how hard it is to find part-time jobs. If you will look under your nose, and approach the neighborhood shops, particularly the small ones, you can find a man who needs a few hours' relief per day and is willing to pay for it.

"In addition to the cleaning and baking shops, I've worked in a beauty shop, a florist shop, a home decorations shop, and a dress shop. And I have no particular qualifications, except a love of people, an ability to work hard, and persistence in looking for what I want!"

Question of angles

BY FREDERICK SKERRY

A TRIANGLE? Sure, if you think in geometrical figures. But counting Mary Hill with the three men you'd have a square, wouldn't you.

Anyhow, we were on the Wild River bridge job. A nice change it was, too, with Barret Falls Center only a mile away; no construction camp in this picture. You could get room and board in somebody's house or you Fresh and sweet and cool-looking she was in boys who hadn't been too quick in grabbing room and board took their meals at the Elite Lunch—that is, those who had got a peek at what was inside the three-sided counter. I did myself.

And Mary Hill was very good for the eyes. Fresh and sweet and cool-looking she was in her white rig, even on the hottest day, and lovely to look at, I figured she was 28 or 29.

That steel crew, though, was a new breed to Mary Hill. A happy-go-lucky bunch, as ready for a scrap as a frolic, working hard and playing hard. One night when I was almost the last to leave Mary said: "I suppose the danger you fellows are in all day makes you gay and light-hearted when you get away from it. Men fall sometimes, don't they?"

"Not often," I said. "It looks worse than it is. A man is careful. You get used to height."

By this time the competition for Mary was all but general. I was on the side lines, you might say. Being field engineer, I was some older than most of the boys, not so much, but enough to make me conscious of the difference. Jack Benze, Clem Sask and Dave Johnson seemed to be favored. Benz, a good-looking, wise-cracking chap, eventually monopolized Mary's time.

Dave Johnson was the quiet, serious kind, and an A-1 bridge jack. But, now that he seemed out of the running, he quit coming altogether. Clem Sask and Benz were not talking.

Working from both ends, we were now almost ready to join steel. Jack and Dave and Clem were together on the down river truss. They'd put the head of a strut or a diagonal in place for the riveters, then go down to bolt the foot. Dave was on a hanging platform below when Jack went down, leaving Sask to tighten the bolts. Jack had no sooner stepped on the platform, hadn't time to anchor his safety belt, when Clem Sask dropped a spanner. Clem let out a yell. But that 7-pound spanner was on its way and bounced off Jack's head.

Jack toppled to follow it down to the river. All of him but his legs was off that six-by-six platform. But that was as far as he went because Dave had grabbed a suspension line and had thrown himself across Jack's legs. Then he reached down the other hand and took a fistful of Jack's over-all—and whatever was underneath it—and pulled Jack back. And it all happened while you'd be striking a match.

An ambulance took Jack to the nearest hospital, a small one in a small town twenty miles away. I guess they felt at the hospital that this job on Jack was too much for them because they delivered Jack to a big city hospital.

We considered it an accident. But I wished it hadn't happened between that particular pair. The news got to the Elite before we did, and Mary shared the general gloom. Later Clem asked for his time—which was just as well.

A few days later Dave began to eat again in the Elite. And I quit staying late to look at Mary.

A few weeks afterwards we were practically finished with the bridge; half the crew had left. One night I went to the movies and saw Mary and Dave sitting a couple of rows in front. I figured that Dave was making up for lost time. After the show, while on my way to where I slept, I crossed the street just as a car popped out of a cross street. I got it in the right leg.

Evidently a busted leg wasn't too much for that little hospital in the next town; anyhow that's where I landed. Dave was waiting when they got my leg set and in a cast. I had been wondering about him and Mary, but he was no talker. But I was sure I'd find out something from Mary, if I could see her.

And I did see her the next afternoon; she walked into my room not a minute after visiting time began. But the only news she let out was that Dave had heard that Jack was getting on all right but would be laid up for a long time.

For three weeks Mary came every day. Then the crew was through with the job, and Dave, making a last evening visit, was as dead-pan as ever. That puzzled me, and I banked on Mary being less shut-mouthed.

And, thinking of her, I realized that once out of the hospital I'd see little of her. I had that load on my mind when she came next afternoon looking pleased as Punch. She told me how the gang had bid her good-bye the day before. Then she said:

"I had quite a compliment last night, Charlie, Dave asked me to marry him."

"Congratulations, Mary!" I said. "Dave is a grand guy." And I meant it.

"Yes, he is," she nodded. "He'll make a fine husband for some girl who wants to worry about him while he's climbing over bridges. But I had to turn him down. I'll marry nobody I have to worry about at the start. That's that. Now look. I just talked with the doctor. He says you can leave here in two or three days, but you'll have to go easy on that leg, even after the cast is off. He's getting crutches for you. Now I have it all figured out. I have a perfectly good house and oodles of room, and nobody in it but myself—except when Ann is there doing housework—and that's where you go from here."

"Listen, Mary," I put in. "You've been an angel of kindness. But there's a limit. I know what these small places are, Mary, and I won't have you talked about on my account."

"I see what you mean." She looked down at me, and her eyes were dreamy. "Of course it would be nice..." I said nothing, and she wagged her head and looked at the ceiling.

"My heavens! Did a woman ever work harder for a man?"

That didn't make sense. "What man?" I said.

"You! Who else, for goodness sake?"

"Listen, Mary," I said. I felt all hollow inside. "Don't kid me—not about that."

"I'm not kidding—anything but." She took my hand. "Charlie, you are dumb! Did you think I was a district nurse, or something—coming here every day?"

"But—" I could hardly speak. "I thought—well, with Jack and Dave..."

"Business, dear," she cut in. "I own the Elite Lunch, so why wouldn't I build up good will with the customers? You never asked me out."

"Not because I didn't want to," I said. "But all those fellows, Jack and Dave—"

She gave a snort. "You didn't think a woman would be interested in the only man around who didn't seem interested in her. No. So I had to find out all about you from those others. And you had to go and get yourself hurt for me to get a good chance at you."

"Listen," I said. "A minute ago you said you wouldn't marry anybody who climbs bridges."

"I know I did," she admitted. "But your climbing days are over, Charlie—Doc says."

That stopped me. Still, I could always have a good berth in the plant—or some other plant. My tongue seemed tied, but I managed to make it work. "Would you marry me, Mary?"

She was off the chair like a flash and sitting on the edge of the bed, holding my hands. "He's said it!" she laughed. "The dumb bunny has actually said it! Would I..."

So, after all, you might say that the affair turned out to be a pentagon.
