THE MAIDS of Melody Quartette, pictured above, will perform at the Garden Theatre on Dec. 18 when the Passaic County Good-Will Association entertains underprivileged youngsters at the Garden Theatre. The quartette is comprised of Carol Neumann, 11, of East Paterson; Carol Hallock, 11, of Paterson; Dianne Antonienko, 12, of Paterson, and Jeanne Rizzo, 9, of Paterson. The girls are all students of the Rizzo Accordion Center in Paterson.

BRAVES' CHOICE for queen of the Sunburst tribe in Phoenix, Ariz., is lovely Jo Anna Withers. She's catching the sun in Valley of the Sun, one of nation's top vacation areas.

Vince Martinez, Paterson welterweight boxer who broke into the news this week with sensational charges that he had been approached by two strangers at his home in Haledon with an offer to lose his fight with Carmine Fiore prior to a fight in Madison Square Garden last month, is shown talking it over with Passaic County Prosecutor Donald Collesser at the latter's office at the Paterson Courthouse. Martinez said he didn't know the two men who made the offer, that he turned it down, said that their car had New York license plates but didn't notice the license number. The Martinez charges stirred up a lot of newspaper and fan excitement as well as skepticism in some quarters. Meanwhile, Martinez is preparing for a fight at Madison Square Garden next month.

Her Part Time Job Paid Off When She Needed Us Most

By ANNE HEYWOOD

WHEN a married woman wants a part-time job, her idea is usually to help the family financially while the children are growing up and in school.

Occasionally, however, I hear of women who have gone into part-time work for other reasons.

Mary G. was one of these. Mary's husband was an alcoholic. She hadn't known that before she married him, but it became heartbreakingly apparent shortly afterwards. She continued to love him for quite some time, but the strain, of course, was terrible. She never knew what jail he would telephone from or what abuse she might receive from him.

Had Been a Dietitian

Mary had been a dietitian for a big food company before she married. She had her degree and about three years in the job. Full-time work now was out of the question. "But," Mary said, "in those uncertain hours at night when I couldn't sleep and lay awake wondering what in the world was going to happen to me, I realized that I had to have something to do—something that would take me away from my problems if only for a few hours. There were no part-time jobs in dietetics, but I loved the field and wanted to keep my training from getting rusty."

She made a very wise decision, taking a job as waitress in a busy restaurant where she worked from 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. It didn't pay much, but it did keep her mind completely occupied. One good thing about being a waitress is that it is impossible to grieve about one's private troubles when six customers are yelling at the same time for their sandwich or their soup or their dessert. Mary gave the job everything she had and, on the side, she began to make notes on people's tastes in food.

That was five years ago. Two years ago, Mary's husband died, leaving thousands of dollars of debts. Instead of wringing her hands in despair, she made her three years as a part-time waitress.

Armed with material she had done eating habits, she headed the head of a large taurants which was well. She talked to her as head of the staff of dietitians, where effect what she had during her years as a some of the new policies which are instituted are responsible for the tremendous success of the once nearly failing restaurant man, and Mary's salary reflects her share in this success.

Don't dismiss a part-time job as just an unrelated incident in your life because you don't devote full time to it. If you can take it along the lines of your recent experience—even at a much lower level—you will end up with your experience vastly enhanced instead of rusty and deteriorated.

There are many hundreds of far-sighted citizens in this district who are proud owners of homes which are being purchased out of current savings. These citizens are wise planners. They set aside so much of their income regularly for savings, for mortgage obligations, for life assurance. Many have completed their program of protection through the Sun Life of Canada by a simple adjustment of their normal budgeting plans which takes care of the mortgage in the event of untimely death of the wage earner. Thus, in this tragic circumstance came about, the mortgage could be paid off in full and the family would not lose the home provided for them.

If you are a home owner, just write or call, and I will gladly tell you how the Sun Life of Canada can protect your home investment.

The Basketball Season Arrives

Don't look now—but the basketball season is here!

The seasons have a way of slipping each other right off the calendar (and, in recent years, they've even been encroaching on each other's time). So with Football in the climatic stages and the college gridgers moving off the scene, the dribblers are taking over.

Here in Paterson, the court season has been launched. The Harlem Globetrotters made a spectacular hit at the Armory last Monday night when they attracted a standing-room-only attendance to the Paterson court, the crowd enjoying the inimitable antics of this team which has packed them in all over the world. As old-timers recalled, in thrilled nostalgia: "It was like the old days to see that big crowd jamming the Armory!"

Now, the city basketball leagues are getting under way. Schedules have been released for the various circuits which are sponsored by the Board of Recreation. The teams in these loops see action on the school courts and at the City Hall Annex. The Heavyweight League has two divisions with 14 teams competing in them and the Lightweight race will feature ten clubs battling for the championship. This is the circuit which will have a wide-open scramble for the top spot this year because the YMHA which took the crown the past two seasons, has moved up to the Middleweight League and has entered a younger, untried team in the lighter loop.

The Middleweight race will find 11 teams battling for the honors while the Industrial League, back on the local court map again, will be in action with six teams. All of them are in the process of assembling strong lineups. The Industrial roster consists of Bogue Electronic, Hendor Mills, Public Service Commercial, Precision Gear, Kreisher Industrial, and Telephone Workers Union.

The Heavyweight League will be the one this year, since the Major League provided the top-flight competition last season has disappeared under the impact of a rule prohibiting out-of-town teams from competing in leagues sponsored by the recreation group here.

In the National Division of this loop, the teams will be: Shebers, Watters Island Casino, Stony Road Spas, Pantanos-Edwins, Uncle Sams, and Forty-Niners. Set for the American Division are Patsy's Ravens, Finucan Essos, Mes-shian AC, St. Michael's Ross Ticket Agency, Metropolitan Tire, Caspersens, and Van-Gals.

This circuit gets under way Monday night with 3 games scheduled, the Shebers opposing the Forty-Niners at School 5, Patsy's Ravens meeting the Van Gals at 18, and the Stony Road Spas tangling with the Pantano-Edwins at 26. From that point through the next few months, the action promises to proceed at a torrid pace.

The Lightweights will start on Wednesday, Dec. 1. Earlier starts are carded in the other loops — the Middleweights getting under way Monday night and the Industrial teams launching the schedule Tuesday.

Many outstanding players will be competing in the Recreation-sponsored basketball ranks this year. These will be topped by the talent in the Heavyweight League with such standouts as Garry Sondermeyer who has been starring for teams in court and diamond competition here for many years; Jim Brinkerhoff, Lou Cirangle, Allan Goldberg, Mickey Spinelli, Vince Moretta, and Franklin Clifton.

These players have become familiar figures to close followers of basketball in this area, serving with distinction on college squads and in League races. Moretta won fame in local ranks when, as a member of the Paterson State Teachers College team, he registered 1,000 points to enter that extremely select circle.

The Paterson State team is moving back into action again this season and hopes to rebound from a poor season in the course of 1953-4. The Pioneers will be active and of course, the scholastic squads will be providing basketball play soon now that the grid campaign has ended. Eastside and Central are ready to go and ditto for all the suburban schools in that area, along with the parochial high schools here.

It looks like a busy campaign as the dribblers bounce their way through another year. And as always, at the start of a new season, everybody's optimistic and hoping for the best. Of course, the coaches (in character) are making with the pessimism as they issue pre-season statements but deep down inside, they don't feel that way. They are of the opinion that they will wind up with the championship but they wouldn't be caught dead making an optimistic appraisal of their team's chances.

"PHILADELPHIA STORY" — Dorothy McGuire stars as Tracy Lord and Richard Carlson plays newspaperman Mike Connor in "The Best of Broadway" color production of Philip Barry's three-act comedy, "The Philadelphia Story," Wednesday, Dec. 8, on the CBS Television Network. Co-starred with them are John Payne, Herbert Marshall, Mary Astor, Charles Winninger and Dick Foran.

"WINKY DINK" and friends. Jack Barry (pointing), star of CBS Television's "Winky Dink and You," and his comic sidekick, Dayton Allen (in derby), who plays "Mr. Bungle" on the kiddie show, provided a special treat at a pre-Thanksgiving Party for youngsters in the polio ward of New York's Hospital for Special Surgery. Young patients who were able to leave their beds joined the act.

THE SHOWCASE

By D. G.

LOCAL MUSINGS: Ginger Rogers, who will be remembered as a polished song and dance performer and partner of Fred Astaire in many sparkling musical film shows in the late 1930's, is still a tremendous looking personality.

You can see for yourself at the Garden Theatre where Miss Rogers is holding the spotlight in "Black Widow," a CinemaScope mystery tingler. Julius Koenig, manager of the Garden who remembers Ginger from her early days in Hollywood, acknowledges that the veteran actress never looked better.

GINGER ROGERS

And on the Garden Theatre to note that Philip Barry will be honored on Wednesday when Sheriff Norman T. Russell presents him with a plaque in behalf of the Passaic County Good-Will Association.

The honor is extended to the youthful theatre impresario for his constant cooperation with the organization in fact, on Dec. 18, Turtlebaugh will give what comes naturally to him by turning the theatre over to the Good-Will Association for its annual theatre party for underprivileged county youngsters.

DANCE DEPT.: Jose Greco, hailed as "the world's greatest Spanish dancer" by Life Magazine, will bring his company of dancers, singers, and musicians into the Mosque Theatre in Newark tomorrow afternoon, it has been announced by Lauter Concert Series under whose auspices the troupe is making its appearance in Newark.

JOSE GRECO

Greco, a tall, dark man, who moves with the agility of a mator, and the grace of a cat, has won "oles" from Madrid to Helsinki, and then again on Broadway and in Hollywood.

It was in Madrid, spawning ground of dancers, that Greco organized his company and then achieved stardom.

His flashing feet and rare flare for dramatization captivated the Spaniards, quite a feat for an American of Italian extraction whose birthright was Brooklyn, whose boy-hood years were spent in Flatbush.

THEATRE DEPT.: "The Boy Friend," musical comedy hit at the Royale Theatre, is a riotous spoof on the song-and-dance shows of the 1920s, complete with demure heroine, grinning juvenile, giddy flappers and a Riviera setting. The frantic dance routines range from a Valentino-styled tango and an old softshoe to a fast and furious Charleston. Songs, patterned on the twenties variety, bear such titles as "All I Want Is a Room in Bloomsbury," "I Could Be Happy With You If You Could Be Happy With Me," and "You-Don't-Want-To-Play-With-Me-Blues."

By LOUIS ARTHUR CUNNINGHAM

STOOD UP AGAIN, thought Maisie, when she left the phone booth in the Carlyon lobby after listening to another one of Pete Rand's smooth excuses. How many times is this, she asked herself, and realized suddenly that it didn't matter, that whatever number of times it might be, it was the last. Pete was not the type to settle down. But he had been good fun, and she thought a bit bleakly of the empty evening ahead.

She strolled over to the flower shop. Maisie always bought herself a pretty when she felt depressed. One of Liz Blake's lovely flowers now—

Liz, plump and gray-haired, greeted her over the glass and chrome counter. "Hi, Maisie. What's the matter? Stood up again?"

She and Maisie were old friends. Maisie was the receptionist at the Alpha Studios away up on the Carlyon's roof. Maisie was little and dark and usually so happy that her friends could sense in a moment when things weren't right.

"You guessed it, Liz. Time I got wise to myself. I need a lift. Let's see now, I think I'll buy—"

A voice that suggested blue ice cut in on them—

"So-o-o sorry to interrupt, but is there someone waiting on customers—"

This was a blonde in a mink cape—one of those exquisite, mannequin jobs with platinum finish that both Maisie and Liz were only too familiar with.

"Yes, madame," Liz gave her a glassy smile. "What can I do for you?"

"Oh, I wondered if you worked here. Have you some yellow roses?"

"Sorry, madame. Not a yellow rose in the shop."

The blonde's mouth hardened. "What a dump! Is there a real florist's shop handy?"

"A block down on the avenue, a block over on 46th. Perhaps you'll have better luck—"

The blonde was away, scattering ice crys-als behind her.

"—but I trust not," finished Liz. "Well, darling—" she turned to Maisie again. "—it takes all kinds—and we get 'em all. What is yours?"

"A rose," grinned Maisie.

"Yellow?"

"No. Deep, deep red."

"I have just what you want. May it bring you all your heart's desire."

Liz beamed as Maisie pinned the gorgeous bloom on her shoulder and, with a wave of the hand and a happy smile, walked across the lobby and sat down to smoke a cigarette while she decided whether it would be a lonely two hours in a movie or a lonelier evening at home. Life could be dull. Nothing ever happened.

She began to realize that something was happening. He was a tall young man in gray tweeds, with a thin sun-bronzed face and brown eyes. He had walked back and forth in front of her three times; now he came and sat down a few feet away from her on the banquette and cleared his throat to make way for words. None came until he had cleared it a few more times. Then he smiled and said, "Heh—"

"I beg your pardon." Maisie didn't put the ice on him. She knew people; her job had made her expert at telling the real from the fake.

"Heh—hello," he said.

"Hello." Maisie gave him a questioning smile.

"This—this is an awful way to do things, isn't it?" His voice was slow and shy. "But I—I just got in town today and I'm going west tomorrow and I've been in Japan for years and I did so want to see a real American girl—"

"Soldier?"

"Just got my discharge. I'm Dennis Reid. I was an Air Force captain—"

"How do you do?" Maisie gave him all her charm. "I'm Maisie Collyer."

"You—I'm so glad. Will you have dinner

"I'll come maybe dance. I'd love it," murmured would."

"Fine!"

"You're a swell kid, Maisie." He smiled down at her. "I had no one to come to. Just no one. I'm going out to Columbia tomorrow to—to settle up my business. She was all I had. She's gone this ago."

Maisie's mournful "ch" turned into a... of sheer bliss. She murmured something and Dennis bent his head and kissed her again. "What were you saying, little Maisie? It sounded like 'a rose is a rose is a rose.' Is that poetry?"

"I never thought so," said Maisie, "until now."

How to turn a few dollars a week into THOUSANDS IN CASH!

Is there some secret to accumulating big amounts of money? No. You do it by saving steadily and investing your savings where they will grow.

But now, for the first time in history, you can have this done for you—automatically—through the Payroll Savings Plan!

With Payroll Savings, the money you want to save never gets a chance to slip away. Just name the sum to your pay office and it's saved out of your check each payday—before you get your pay.

No investment worries either! Your money is put into U. S. Series E Savings Bonds. And how it grows! Sign for $5 a week and in 9 years, 8 months you have $2,850.70! Sign for $18.75 and in 19 years, 8 months, you have over $25,000!

Start now to make your dreams come true. Join Payroll Savings today! Or, if you are self-employed, ask your bank about the Bond-A-Month Plan.

Pick your plan—and sign up now!

If you want your interest as current income, ask your banker about 3% Series H Bonds which pay interest semiannually by Treasury check.

Choose your own savings goal

	If you want approximately
	$5,000	$10,000	$25,000
Each week for 9 years and 8 months, save.....	$8.80	$18.75	$45.00
Each week for 19 years and 8 months, save.....	$3.75	$7.50	$18.75

This chart shows only a few typical examples of savings goals and how to reach them through Payroll Savings. Remember, you can save any sum you wish, from a couple of dollars a payday up to as much as you want. The important thing is, start your Plan today!
