Introduction

SHAW AND SHOEMAKER'S American Bibliography, 1801-1819,* is a list of publications printed in the continental United States during those years. As Professor Shaw states in the preface of the first volume, the work was intended to make the first step toward filling a gap in American bibliography. The authors make no claim to a definitive work but label it A Preliminary Checklist. The purpose of the present list is to enlarge, as far as I am able, the number of recorded publications printed or published in the state of New Jersey in that period. Nearly all the entries in this list are products of New Jersey presses, with a few printed elsewhere. Some which do not contain the name of the printer, place of printing, or publication, are included tentatively, since it seems logical to assume they were printed or published here.

There are certain differences in the method of listing which have seemed desirable. The Shaw-Shoemaker bibliography, involving nearly 52,000 entries, was prepared entirely from secondary sources, which is the only way it could have been completed within the lifetime of the authors. This list, however, is based on examination of the publications themselves, or photocopies, except where no location is shown. Titles are transcribed as they appear on the publication although capitalization and the order of printers' or publishers' imprints have been regularized. In some cases explanatory matter has been added within brackets and ellipses are indicated by three dots. All variants which have come to the attention of this compiler have been included, but no attempt is made to provide a full census of the titles listed.

One of the most pleasant as well as rewarding experiences of compiling a bibliography is the cooperation generously given by staffs of the libraries visited. I particularly want to express my appreciation of help given me by the following. At Princeton University Library, Miss Julie Hudson, Mr. Paul R. Wagner and Mr. Dannett; at Rutgers University Library, Mr. Donald A. Sinclair; at the American Antiquarian Society, Mr. Marcus A. McCorison; at the New-York Historical Society, Mr. Robert Slevin; at the New Jersey Historical Society, Mrs. Gerald May; and at the Presbyterian Historical Society, Mr. Gerald W. Gillette. [Scattered among the compiler's notes are other names: Charles F. Cummings (Newark Public Library), David C. Munn (New Jersey State Library).]

American Bibliography: a Preliminary Checklist for 1801[-1819]*. Compiled by Ralph R. Shaw and Richard H. Shoemaker. New York: The Scarecrow Press, Inc., 1958-1966. Twenty-two volumes including addenda and indexes.

THE ABOVE is essentially as it was written several years ago, with the addition of a final paragraph containing the acknowledgments. The latter was found after the compiler's death, on January 10, 1977, in a quantity of notes which he had intended to use in the preparation of a more extended introduction.

George C. Rockefeller was born in Plainfield, N.J., on March 9, 1901. He attended the Plainfield High School and entered Temple University in 1919, graduating in 1922. From the December following, he was employed until his retirement in 1968 as an accountant with the Public Service system, first in the Public Service Production Company (which was succeeded in 1930 by United Engineers and Constructors, Inc.) and, from 1938, the Public Service Electric and Gas Company. He soon became interested in early New Jersey printing, secondarily in state and local history generally. In 1932 he began compiling a bibliography of New Jersey imprints through the year 1800, eventually expanding greatly the pioneer work of Humphrey and Morsch. For the remaining forty-five years of his life, this project, and the formation of a New Jersey imprint collection, occupied him extensively.

While pre-1801 bibliography remained the primary interest, his enthusiasm for New Jersey imprints led him also into several peripheral studies and projects, including the present not-in-Shaw-Shoemaker checklist. Among his bibliographical papers, which were received recently by the Rutgers Special Collections Department, are several other essentially complete compilations, which it is hoped to publish as time and circumstances permit. Most important, of course, is the extensive bibliography of pre-1801 New Jersey imprints.

Although these compilations are still unpublished, George Rockefeller wrote a number of bibliographical or bibliography-related articles which appeared in the New Jersey Historical Society Proceedings, Bibliographical Society of America Papers, and the Journal of the Rutgers University Library. Last was a checklist of Princeton University publications, 1801-1819, in the Princeton University Library Chronicle.

The editor is pleased to offer in lasting form one segment of George Rockefeller's lifelong work.

It is interesting to trace the incorporation of the Hunterdon and Sussex Turnpike Company through printed documents listed here. First there is the petition to the Legislature (46), then a legislative bill "to incorporate a company to erect a turnpike road from the city of Trenton, in the county of Hunterdon, to the town of Hope, in the county of Sussex" (62) which did not pass, and which was succeeded by another bill "to incorporate the Hunterdon and Sussex Turnpike Company" (63). This was passed on March 12, 1806, printed separately (58) and included as chapter 189, in the Acts of the Thirtieth General Assembly, second sitting (Shaw-Shoemaker 10979).

Records of the New Brunswick Dorcas Society (name subsequently altered) are in NJR. On Nov. 29, 1813, twelve days after the Society's organization, it was resolved that the constitution be printed. A month later (Dec. 27) the "ladies of direction" were informed that "the Printers . . . have generously offered to print the Constitution gratis." Nothing further was reported at the meeting of Jan. 24, 1814, but on February 7 a resolution of thanks was offered "to each of the Gentlemen who contributed to the printing of their Constitution," and eight ladies were authorized to distribute varying numbers totaling 107 copies. The unnamed printers were almost certainly from the establishment of Lewis Deare. It may be noted that Miss Mary Deare was the first secretary and a Mrs. Deare was among the annual subscribers.

NOTES ON SHAW-SHOEMAKER ENTRIES

2144. DILWORTH, THOMAS, d. 1780. The federal calculator, or American schoolmaster's assistant and young man's companion. Being a compendium of federal arithmetic, both practical and theoretical . . . Originally compiled by Thomas Dilworth . . . Revised, improved, and adapted to the currency of the United States, by Daniel Hawley . . . Newark, N.J.: Printed for Eden Ruggles & Edward M. Hawley [1803] viii,9-254,[2]p. 17½cm. CTY NJR 257a

Entered in Shaw-Shoemaker with 1802 date, but preliminary matter includes a testimonial letter of

May 9, 1803; also the first publisher's name is given as "John Ruggls."

10194. CONCERNING STEAMBOATS. Extracts from the Constitution, treatis and laws of the United States. New York, 1806. IEG 258

Copy in the collection of Robert W. Carver has title-page, Concerning Steamboats, without imprint. Caption on p.[3] reads: Extracts from the Constitution, treaties and laws of the United States. On p.6 is "Extract from the journals of the Assembly of the state of New York, of 1820." This dates the publication 1820 or later (not 1806) and corrects a Shaw-Shoemaker entry which is defective in other particulars also.

41701. ORATIONS for the use of schools. Selected from Ch. J. Marshall, Pinkney, Wirt, Henry, Fox, Phillips, &c. Philadelphia: Published by I. Riley, David Allinson, printer, 1817. 108p. front. (port.) MWA 259

Incomplete entry in Shaw-Shoemaker.

41702. [Same, except that "Henry" is omitted from the list of names] 108p. MWA 260

Incomplete entry in Shaw-Shoemaker. MWA copy has no frontispiece (lacking?).

41888. PRINCETON UNIVERSITY. Catalogus Collegii Neo-Cæsariensis . . . Trenton, N.J.: Pr. by George Sherman, 1818. MWA 261

Date 1817 in Shaw-Shoemaker is incorrect, according to information from Marcus A. McCorison, director, American Antiquarian Society.

See above, no. 235, for full entry.

49192. PRINCETON UNIVERSITY. A report of a committee of the Board of Trustees of the College of New-Jersey, relative to measures for extending and improving the college establishment. Read before the Board, April 14, 1818, and ordered to be printed. [n.p., 1818] 15p. TNP 262

Shaw-Shoemaker entry quotes date in the title as "April 14, 1819" (error for 1818). There is a duplicate entry for this item under the correct year, 1818 (no. 45420). The copy located at TNP is now in the Tennessee State Library and Archives.
