LITTLE EGG HARBOR BAY

MAP OF NEW JERSEY

St. Albans-By-the-Sea

¶ ST. ALBANS-BY-THE-SEA is situated on Long Beach Island, New Jersey, just south of Beach Haven and ten miles north of Atlantic City.

¶ The Atlantic Ocean, with safe and beautiful beach for bathing, washes the easterly shore of ST. ALBANS-BY-THE-SEA and the splendid Little Egg Harbor Bay bounds the westerly side.

¶ This property has both an ocean and bay front, and both surf and still-water bathing is available for all who wish to indulge therein. The bay has a popular reputation of being the most beautiful sheet of water in the State, and is very attractive for sailing, gunning, fishing and other aquatic sports.

¶ Little Egg Harbor Inlet, connecting ocean and bay, bounds the southerly end of this splendid tract and is the widest and deepest inlet along the entire New Jersey Coast.

¶ ST. ALBANS-BY-THE-SEA has been laid in lots 40x100 feet and 50x100 feet, with broad avenues extending from ocean to bay.

¶ A more ideal location for a summer residence than ST. ALBANS-BY-THE-SEA could not be secured, and a rare opportunity is now afforded to the early purchasers.

¶ This is a beautiful "Isle of the Sea," and presents a charming view of bay and ocean, which cannot be surpassed, if equalled, on our whole coast.

¶ ST. ALBANS-BY-THE-SEA is in a direct line, and as the new route for an electric line, actually surveyed, measures only fifty-two miles from Philadelphia.

¶ Nearer than Atlantic City.

¶ At present, ST. ALBANS-BY-THE-SEA is reached by the Pennsylvania Railroad, via. Beach Haven.

¶ A cordial invitation is extended to you and your friends to visit ST. ALBANS-BY-THE-SEA, and see what a delightful spot it is for a summer home, for rest, health and recreation, or for an investment.
