Wichita Falls, Texas.

Dear Flanney:

Someone or rather has given me your change
of address and we are glad to know where you are again.
When you change next time, please drop me a postal so I can keep in touch with you and send you our war service
letters and other notices about the college.

Yours in 1913,

Director

Lieut. F. Walker Flangin,
Ellington Field, Texas.

Dear Pat,

I've just spelled your name wrong, but never mind. This is just a brief note to acknowledge your letter of August 19th and to extend congratulations on your commission. It is fine; and I never thought, when we used to dream away the hours in Senior English, that you would be a full-fledged aviator and would be writing to me from Texas. Strange things happen, and the world goes on just the same.

Cliff Dennis dropped me a line a week or so ago. He is a lieutenant in Infantry and sailed for France in July. He wanted to be remembered to all the fellows.

Take keer 66 yourself, Pat, and don't try a tail spin too close to the ground.

Yours in 1913,
