

September 3, 1918.

Mrs. F. B. Kilmer,
College Avenue,
New Brunswick, N.J.

Dear Mrs. Kilmer,

The editors of the RUTGERS ALUMNI QUARTERLY hope to print in the October issue of the magazine a picture of your son, Joyce, together with an appreciation of him and his work. If you have on hand a photograph of him which we may borrow for a few days, we shall promise to take good care of it and to return it as soon as possible.

His death was a big shock to the college circle. Although he was only with us for a year or so, we like to think of him as a Rutgers man.

Very sincerely yours,

My dear Mr. Silvers.

I have been out of town for the past week and found your letter with a request for one of my own pictures for the "Larguin".
The latest one - which I showed to the New York Times, ~~and which~~ has been requested by the "Reviews of Reviews", so I can not let you have it - but am sending instead one taken in his graduation Cap and Gown, which for a college paper may perhaps be better.

I must ask you to return it, as it is the only one I have.

Yours truly

Annie Kilbuck-Kilmer.

Wednesday evening.

New Brunswick 2nd Dec. 1918.

My dear Mr. Silver.

Thanks very much for the copies of the Quarterly which you were good enough to send me. The article by Mr. Lapping is very good indeed - only it would have read better if he hadn't said that Joyce "rests in a shallow soldier's grave". Of course we know what he meant, but we expect something better from a Collegian.
Of course the fact of my having published five of his poems to my own Musical sitting - published in London a few years ago, and advertised in New Brunswick - was not thought of with mentioning - while the fact of his Catholicity, during the last four ^{years} ~~months~~ of his life (and which would of course, be fitting to a Dutch Reformed College) was brought in twice - but that of course is a detail. Also his sixth book (since Mr Lappin wrote a sort of a Biography) was not mentioned - an Anthology of Catholic verse - called "Dreams and Fancies" ^{is now in the} 2nd edition The photo looks well, and is the same one his university used - Columbia had them in ^{four} ~~three~~ of their books - in Columbia Alumni News is given his picture and his most celebrated poem "The white Ship and the Red." beside a first Editorial.

In Columbus War Walk - a copy of which I am sending you - (as they sent me several of each line picture is given - with the last poem he wrote - "The Peacemaker". which was published in the Sat. Evening Post, not long ago.
In the Alumni News Warfield his name appears among the rest of their graduates.

Thanking you again for kindly sending me the Quarterly - and also for returning the

Very cordially yours
Armed Kilburn Kilmer.

(Mr. Kilburn Kilmer.)

P.S.

I forgot to mention that the editorial from one (4) of the Columbia News. was given to the Home News - I don't remember whether they (le. M.) quoted any of his poetry - as the Home still has it, but it was from the board of the Alumni of Columbia, of which he was an active member for the past five years.
A.K.K.
