

and do not include the Quartermaster Department, Ordnance, Coast Artillery, Engineers, and Signal Corps.

APPLICATION :—

Rutgers men who are eligible as indicated above and who desire to be admitted to the training camps may receive application blanks by writing to Major John Bigelow, Professor of Military Science and Tactics, Rutgers College, New Brunswick, N. J.

Read the instructions on the application blank and fill out carefully. Note particularly that letters of application are not wanted, but only the names of three responsible citizens who know the applicant best. Each applicant must be examined physically at his own expense by a reputable physician, who will fill out the physical report forming part of the official application blank.

Applications must be received between October 15 and December 1. No application received after December 1 will be considered.

MEN NOW IN THE SERVICE.

Rutgers men now in the service are eligible for admission into the training camps (1) as graduates of Rutgers College who have had military training, and (2) as enlisted men of organized divisions of the Regular Army, National Guard, or National Army. They may make application either (1) through Rutgers College as explained above, or (2) through their immediate commanding officer, with whom they should get into touch at once if they wish to make application by the second method.

Rutgers men who have been drawn for service in the National Army but not yet called into service may, if eligible under the provisions, apply to Major Bigelow for admission to the third series of camps.

Rutgers men who are in the Naval Reserve may, if eligible under the provisions, apply to Major Bigelow for admission to the camps. The applications of such men should be accompanied by a written consent that, in the event of their selection, they be released from the Naval Service while in attendance at camp.

Any further information will be given upon application to the War Service Bureau.
