

PATENT
488,780.

D.S. 33038

MARK TWAIN'S
SCRAP BOOK.

---

PATENT
281,657.

---

TRADE MARKS:

UNITED STATES.
REGISTERED No. 5,896.

GREAT BRITAIN.
REGISTERED No. 15,970.

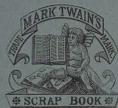

---

DIRECTIONS.

Use but little moisture, and only on the gummed lines. Press the scrap on without wetting it.

---

DANIEL SLOTE & COMPANY,
NEW YORK.

INDEX

A

PAGE

B

PAGE

B

C

INDEX

D

PAGE

E

PAGE

F

G

INDEX

H

PAGE

IJ

PAGE

K

L

INDEX

M

PAGE

M

PAGE

NO

PQ

INDEX

R

PAGE

S

PAGE

S

T

JOHN STOCKTON

John Stockton was the fourth son of Richard Stockton, the first son of the family at Princeton, and received by the will of his father a considerable tract of land, part of his dwelling plantation, as "Morven," which he was appointed a Judge of the County of Somerset, March 25, 1760, and was probably married in 1754. He was a friend of the College of New Jersey (now Princeton University), and it is understood to have been largely instrumental in securing the removal of the College from Newark to Princeton. It was still at Newark, when he was appointed one of the committee to receive subscriptions in its behalf, in January, 1763. In 1764 he had for two years the honor of being elected Moderator of the College. When the corner stone of Nassau Hall was laid, at Princeton, in September, 1774, he was one of the gentlemen who officiated at that important function. He was a Trustee of the College, in 1768, and in 1774. He died at Princeton, on Saturday, May 28, 1781. His will, dated May 9, 1768, was lately reprinted here, but does not mention his wife, she having predeceased him, but names children: 1. John; 2. Richard (the clergyman); 3. Hannah; 4. Susanna; 5. Rebecca; 6. Abigail, in Hagerman's "Princeton and its Institutions" it is stated that he also had a son Samuel William, who was entrusted with many important positions.

The New York Herald of June 5, 1781, publishes the following obituary notice of John Stockton:

"Prince-Town, (in New-Jersey) May 28, Saturday last, after a painful illness, departed this Life, John Stockton, Esq; of the Place, in the 67th year of his Age. As his Life has been so generally useful, his Death apparently diffuses an universal Sorrow. For about twenty-five years past, he has, with great Acceptance, executed the Office of a Magistrate, and about half the Time, that of a Judge of the Court of Common Pleas. His Judiciousness, Moderation, and Integrity, in his Office as a Magistrate, rendered him peculiarly dear to his Country, and his Situation in Life made it unnecessary for him to regard lucrative Motives, in the Discharge of his public Office, so he was unartificial and steady Piety to God, and universal benevolence to Mankind made him indefatigable in his Endeavours to compose Differences, promote Peace and Harmony, suppress Immorality, and encourage Virtue and true Religion. In the social Duties of Life, he distinguished himself as a tender Husband, an affectionate Father, with a great Patience and Composure, and received the Evidence of his approaching Dissolution, with that Magnanimity which true Religion inspires. It pleased God to give him strong Confidence in the Truth of the Gospel, and the Merits of his Lord and Saviour; and when he found his "Flesh and his Heart to fail," he doubted not, and has left his Acquaintances not the least Room to doubt, but that "God sees the strength of his Heart and his Purson for ever."

W PAGE

Office of the Plymouth Coal Co
No. 8 Walnut St Philad<sup>a</sup>
January 16th 1867

Dear Sir

M.H.S
Partial Gratification is Practical Error
in Linnæus Jan. 27th 1751

I am instructed by the Directors of the Corporation to acknowledge the tender of your resignation as Superintendent and to let the same has been accepted by the Board. I am also requested to thank you cordially for the elaborate and interesting report which you have prepared and has been submitted to the stockholders at their meeting. Nor can I let this opportunity to pass without expressing in the name of my fellow Directors our high personal regard to the founder and first President of the Corporation. It is with regret we are obliged to submit to the loss of your talents and services in our behalf, but doubt not that in the new and

W XYZ

JOHN STOCKTON.

John Stockton was the fourth son of Richard Stockton, the first settler of the family at Princeton, and received by his father's will as "Morven" the property of land, "part of his dwelling plantation known as 'Morven'" He was appointed a Judge of the Somerset County Common Pleas March 29, 1750, and was probably sworn in in 1751. He was a dear friend of the College of New Jersey (now Princeton University) and it is understood to have been largely instrumental in securing the removal of the College from Newark to Princeton. While it was still at Newark, he was appointed one of the committee to receive subscriptions in its behalf, in January, 1763. In 1751 he had received tickets in the Connecticut lottery for the benefit of the College. When the corner stone of Nassau Hall was laid, at Princeton, in September, 1754, he was one of the gentlemen who officiated at that important function. He was a Trustee of the College, 1762-8. He died at Princeton, on Saturday, May 29, 1782. His will, dated May 9, 1768, was lately probated June 9, 1768. He does not mention his wife, she having predeceased him, but names children: 1. John; 2. Richard (the clergyman); 3. Hannah; 4. Sumner; 5. Rebecca; 6. Rebecca; 7. Absaral. In Hagerman's "Princeton and its Institutions" it is stated that he also had Samuel Witham, who was entrusted with many important positions.

The New York Herald of June 5, 1782, publishes the following obituary notice of John Stockton:

"Princeton, (in New-Jersey) May 29. Saturday last, after a painful illness, departed this life, John Stockton, Esq. of this Place, in the 31st year of his Age. As his Life has been so generally useful, his Death appears diffused an universal sorrow. For about twenty-two years past, he bore, with great Acceptance, executed the Office of a Magistrate, and about half the Time, that of a Judge of the Court of various Decisions as a Magistrate, rendered him peculiarly dear to his Place and Country in which he lived; where his Merit acquired him a great Influence. As his Situation in Life made it unnecessary for him to regard lucrative Motives in the Discharge of his public Office, so his unartificial and steady Piety to God, and universal benevolence to Mankind made him indefatigable in his Endeavours to compose Differences, promote Peace and Harmony, suppress Immorality and encourage Virtue and true Religion. In the social Duties of Life, he distinguished himself as a tender Husband, an affectionate Father, a kind Master, and a faithful Friend: His last Sickness he supported with great Patience and Composure, and received the Evidence of his approaching Dissolution, with that Magnanimity which true Religion inspires. It pleased God to give him strong Confidence in the Truth of the Gospel, and the Merits of his Lord and Saviour; and when he found his "Flesh and his Heart to fail," he doubted not, and has left his Acquaintances not the least Room to doubt, but that "God sees the strength of his Heart and his Puritan for ever:"

W PAGE

Office of the Plymouth Coal Co
No. 8 Walnut St Philad.
January 16th 1867

Dear Sir

I am instructed by the Directors of this Corporation to acknowledge the tender of your resignation as Superintendent and to say that the same has been accepted by the Board. I am also requested to thank you cordially for the elaborate and able report which you have prepared and which has been submitted to the stockholders at their meeting. Nor can I permit this opportunity to pass without expressing in the name of my fellow Directors and myself our high personal regard to the son of the founder and first President of our corporation. It is with regret we are obliged to submit to the loss of your talents and services in our behalf, but we doubt not that in the new and

W

XYZ

JOHN STOCKTON.

John Stockton was the fourth son of Richard Stockton, the first settler of the colony at Princeton, and received by his will five hundred pounds of land.

Honorable position you have so recently assumed you will fulfill your duties so as to prove a worthy son and successor of your lamented and illustrious father

With much esteem

believe me

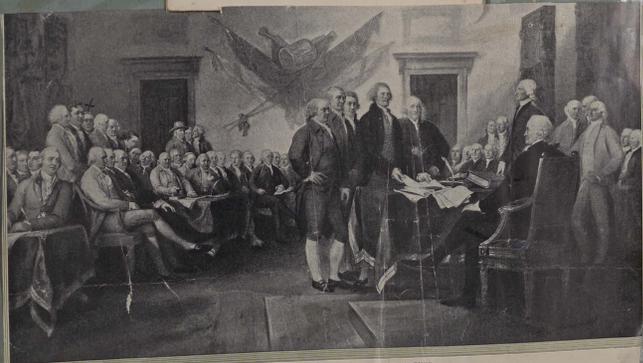

Yours Truly

A. W. Markley

President

To

Gen<sup>l</sup> D. F. Stockton
Trenton
N. J.

SIGNING THE DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE
Painted by John Trumbull. Now in the Yale School of Fine Arts

Richard Stockton the signer

GALLERY OF OUR ANCESTORS.
 This is a valuable and interesting volume on "Some Colonial Mansions" as the latest addition to the list of works on the Colonial Library of our country. For some years the steadily increasing interest in matters Colonial and Revolutionary which has been so largely the result of the success of the various historical and patriotic societies, has assured to books on these fascinating subjects a more or less very large sale. Formerly it was necessary for the person who ventured to take any interest in the history of the country, to pore over the voluminous and often uninteresting records upon the life and customs of every family of note in our early annals, for from these alone on this subject, Mr. Green's volume is especially valuable in that it treats of families and generations which have not yet become so familiar as some others to the average reader of manuscripts and illustrated papers. The author has described twelve families and their homesteads, and of these two only have New York families—the Van Rensselaers and the Livingstons. The others are New Jersey, except the Stockton family of Basildon, Jersey. Hardly any of these others from the number any ready attention person population. In this way Mr. Green's volume is a most interesting and valuable addition to the Colonial Library as well as a most interesting and valuable addition to the family of all interested in the history of the colonies. The author has given many interesting and valuable illustrations of these mansions, and of the general character of the buildings of that period, and the pictures are regarded as of great value to the descendants of the families, and the pictures are regarded as of great value to the descendants of the families, and the pictures are regarded as of great value to the descendants of the families.

at least the main part of it, in the first quarter of the last century. In the house Washington made for a night in 1781. In 1783, when Congress was in session at Princeton, he was frequently entertained at Morven. The house at that time was Mrs. Stockton, wife of Richard Stockton, a signer of the Declaration of Independence, and one of the signers of the Constitution, and one of the signers of the Constitution, and one of the signers of the Constitution. In the year 1776, Richard Stockton was elected to the Continental Congress, and with Dr. Hugh Corwell's advance through New Jersey forced him to remove his family and to leave Morven, which soon was turned into a British headquarters. The family plate and valuables had been buried in a neighboring field, but by the treachery of a servant of the house they were discovered and seized.

Two Hundred
 1701-1901, A.D.
 Tours of Morven spread
 And send the night away

Copyright, 1897, by Henry T. Coates & Co. RICHARD STOCKTON, THE SIGNER.

EDWARD RICHARD

700 YEARS OF PUBLIC LIFE

In announcing the death of our friend and fellow townsman, Richard Stockton, Jr., Esq., Attorney General of the State of Mississippi in our last number, we had not time to give any expression to the personal feelings which the intelligence excited. No could we then have found language to express our feelings at this unexpected and calamitous event.

To those who knew the deceased it is unnecessary to review the recollections of those attractive qualities of which he was possessed. By his townsmen, his affectionate disposition and engaging manners are still fresh in lively remembrance. Among the members of the bar his talents and professional abilities were well known and duly appreciated. But to his more intimate friends and relations, his many virtues will consecrate his memory whilst genius, courage, and generosity are by them esteemed.

It is only eight years since Mr. Stockton left his native place for one of the new states at the south, where a more extensive field would be afforded him for the exercise of those distinguished talents with which nature had gifted him. So commanding were these, and so stimulating and winning his address, that although a stranger he immediately obtained a large proportion of the most important business of the place in which he resided, and his success the first year of his settlement equalled the most lucrative practice of the oldest and most eminent lawyer of the New Jersey bar.

The Legislature of Mississippi soon appreciated the value of his powers, and presented them to the bar of the state by conferring upon him the office of a Judge of the Supreme Court. But this did not altogether accord with the ardor of his temperament and the enterprising and active habits which in a few years had gained and was immediately appointed to the honorable and responsible office of Attorney General, a which situation he continued to occupy with honor, integrity and profit to the state till the untimely event we are now calculating upon.

We have given a brief account of his brilliant professional career of only fifteen years. At an early age, in the midst of health, in the full tide of successful employment, with a mind in its ordinary mould, and with such valuable acquisitions, he was assailed by, when the highest hopes were just expanding in his wife, fell a victim in the society of friends and the field of his exertions. No time was allowed for the preparation of his will, and he departed this mortal life on Tuesday morning, the 18th inst.

DECEASED.
 In Princeton, on Tuesday morning, the 18th inst., Mrs. ANNIS B. THOMPSON, wife of John R. Thompson Esq., and daughter of the late Hon. Richard Stockton.

If rare qualities of person, mind, and heart, are entitled to evoke the announcement of this death, should be accompanied by at least a brief tribute to the worth of the deceased. She possessed such uncommon personal attractions, combined with what she might have been expected to have as a part of her family inheritance, such rare mental endowments, that even they who have only casually seen her shining in the social circle, cannot fail to remember her as some beautiful vision that has crossed their path. But to those who knew her well, the admiration excited by the finished grace of her demeanor, and the brilliancy of her conversation was fast in their love for the kindness which led her to study the comfort of all around her, the self-command with which she suppressed every thing that would disturb the cheerfulness which she sought to diffuse over every scene, and the uninterestedness with which she was ever ready to sacrifice her own ease and happiness in the service of her friends. The natural attractiveness of these attributes was heightened in her by their combination with that winning grace which seemed to stick a charm upon all she said or did.

During the protracted illness which has terminated her life, she exhibited the most unequivocal and gratifying evidence of her preparation for the change that awaited her. In the prime of life, possessed of qualities eminently fitted her to attract the admiration of every circle in which she moved, and to win the affection of the inner one, within which she dwelt, and surrounded by every thing that could make life desirable, she was yet perfectly resigned to the summons which called her away. Her resignation was something far higher and better than a passive submission to the necessity of her condition. The perfect serenity of her mind in view of her departure, notwithstanding her busy life, was a distinct and glowing triumph of Christian faith, resting upon the merits of Jesus Christ, and denoting the glorious triumph of a blessed immortality. In the full assurance of this hope she cheerfully gave her presence, leaving her friends nothing to deplore but their own loss, and adding, for the hearts that loved her, the more to "the sublime attractions of the grave."—Virginia Daily.

COMODORE STOCKTON

RICHARD STOCKTON

SEN JOHN P. STOCKTON

RICHARD STOCKTON

BAYARD STOCKTON

SEN RICHARD STOCKTON

JOHN - LORD MAYOR OF LONDON

RICHARD STOCKTON

Price
Julia
Boyd

My

The good me, upon that Cray close ever, inde
of en to m but

A.R.
New York

love Stockton
Princeton for Ct

TOWNSHIP OF PRINCETON—TAX NOTICE

Princeton, N.J. Stockton

You are hereby notified that the valuation of your Real and Personal Estate made by the Assessor as liable to taxation is $ 22,272. The amount to be raised on each $100 is 62 cents. The amount to be raised in No. 1 School District on each $100, is 31 cents additional.

Your Poll Tax is	1.00
- Dog Tax is	2.00
- State Tax is	2.80
- County Tax is	6.80
- Road Tax is	9.20
- Poor Tax is	1.80
- School Tax is	2.80
- No. 1 School District Tax is	1.70
- Your Incidental Tax is	6.40
Total	$ 23.50

Taxes are now due and may be paid to CROWELL MARSH, Collector, at his Drug Store in Princeton, until the 20th day of December next, when the names of all delinquents will be returned to a Justice of the Peace for Prosecution, and interest at the rate of 12 per cent. per annum and costs will be added.

The Commissioners of Appeal will meet at the City Hotel, (J. S. Leard's) to check, at 10 o'clock, on the 22d day of November next.
Princeton, September 29, 1864.

your, man having any self respect would ever enter the trade as a tailor, should the infamous punishment be reduced.

Yours, Robert J. Stockton

from your friend
and wife,
James Buchanan

ON BEHALF OF
E. W. BURNETT, Clerk, Registration of 20th Sept.

The following is a list of the names of the persons who have been registered in the County of Princeton, New Jersey, on the 20th day of September, 1864.

Princeton, New Jersey, September 20th, 1864.

The names of the persons who have been registered in the County of Princeton, New Jersey, on the 20th day of September, 1864, are as follows:

James W. Burnett	T. E. Dewar
James W. Burnett	James H. H. H.
James W. Burnett	James H. H. H.
James W. Burnett	James H. H. H.

W. H. STEIN, Clerk of Princeton.

THOMAS W. BURNETT, Clerk.

Princeton, New Jersey, September 20th, 1864.

T BU

[Faint, mostly illegible cursive handwriting on a cream-colored page. The text is arranged in several lines across the page.]

[A blank, cream-colored page with a vertical crease down the center, possibly serving as an endpaper or separator.]

THE GEORGEY
[A heavily stained and discolored piece of aged paper with some faint markings and a large brown stain.]

[A blank, light blue or greyish page, possibly a flyleaf or separator page.]

[A cream-colored page with faint, illegible handwriting, possibly a name like 'W. L. ...' written vertically.]

[A page of cursive handwriting on a light-colored paper, showing signs of age and wear, including a small tear and a brown stain.]

[Blank aged paper]

[Faint handwritten text on lined paper]

[Faint handwritten text on lined paper]

COMMODORE STOCKTON'S OLD MINE
Older citizens of New Jersey will remember that prior to the war Commodore Stockton, of that State, owned and operated a gold mine in Virginia, about eighteen miles from Fredericksburg. The property is now advertised for sale. It is said that during Commodore Stockton's ownership the mine secured an average of one ton of ore vein and that the mine, in fact, was one of the principal sources of his wealth. The mine is said even yet to be the most valuable gold deposit in the State of Virginia. There are over 800 acres in the tract.

1852
FREE
Hon. Robt. H. Swazey,
U. S. Senate,
Washington
D. C.
1852
Dear Sir, Remuneration for services

[Blank aged paper]

[Blank aged paper insert]

[Faint handwritten text on lined paper]

[Faint handwritten text on lined paper]

Bank's Pack<sup>o</sup> size Nov 14th 1852

here on the 11th of the month and was in letter from you our islands with the
there as I wrote
as disappointed
(your request) and
of the gold quartz,
yikes, and Bucca
tion is sufficiently forward it as

rapidly and of there being
to much

COMMISSIONER STOCKTON'S OLD MINE.
Older citizens of New Jersey will remember that prior to the war Commodore Stockton, of that State, owned and operated a gold mine in Virginia, about eighteen miles from Fredericksburg. The property is now advertised for sale. It is said that during Commodore Stockton's year out of one vein and that the mine, in fact, was one of the principal sources of his wealth. The mine is said even yet to be the most valuable gold deposit in the State of Virginia. There are over 800 acres in the tract.

1852
FREE
John Leggett
Remuneration for Services
March 1852
Robt. H. Stoveston,
U. S. Senate,
Washington
D. C.

[Blank aged paper insert]

PUBLISHED BY CORNER 4 VES

THE HUDSON AT PEESKILL

*Remuneration for Peekskill
March 1850*

Peekskill, N.Y.
 is on Nov 14th 1837

here on the 11th of
 - church Islands where months, and was in
 letter from you our
 islands with the
 there as I wrote
 as disappointed

(your regard) and
 of the gold-quartz
 mines, and Buccia
 ion is sufficiently forward it as

rapidly and
 of there being too much

CONTINUED FROM THE OLD SERIES
 Olden citizens of New Jersey will remember that they were to the war (Continued)

PUBLISHED BY CURRIER & IVES

THE HUDSON AT PEESKILL

Death of Commodore Stockton.

New Jersey has lost one of her most distinguished sons on Saturday evening at the family residence, the Moravia, Princeton, Raritan Flats, Princeton, at 10 o'clock, or a severe form of cholera.

Commodore Stockton belonged to one of the most prominent families in America. About two hundred years ago, his ancestors emigrated from England, and purchased a large tract of land, a part of which still belongs to the family. They belonged to the family of Francis, which endeavored to escape the persecution to which dissenters were exposed under the despotic rule of the Stuarts.

They resided about the hundred acres of land, extending from the Princeton on the west, to Milton on the east, and holding the title of the Borough of Princeton. The great-grandfather of the commodore, John Stockton, was a man of great influence, and occupied several positions of honor and trust. His oldest son, Richard, was carefully educated at the College of New Jersey, then established at Newark, and subsequently became a leading lawyer at the New Jersey bar. In 1766 he visited Europe, and after his return was made a member of the Executive Council of the State, and in 1774 was appointed a Judge of the Superior Court. In 1776, he was elected to congress, and was one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. He was subsequently taken prisoner, and the hardships he endured on the prison ship, shortened his life. He died in 1781.

The father of the Commodore, Richard Stockton, was for many years one of the leading lawyers of the United States. He lived for a short period, during the administration of Washington, and in 1812 represented the State in the Convention of Representatives. The rest of his life was devoted to his profession.

ROBERT FLEX STOCKTON, the second son of Richard Stockton, was born in the town of Richard Stockton, in 1790. In his thirteenth year, he entered the College of New Jersey, in the Freshman Class. He was distinguished as a student, but in his father's opinion was not fit for an imposing war with Great Britain, and in 1811 he entered the Navy as midshipman, and became an aide to Commodore Rogers, and boarded the frigate "Teesdale" in several battles. His promotion was steady and rapid, and in 1821, he was sent, in command of the "Zeus," to the coast of Africa, with a commission to aid the Colonization Society in procuring a site for a settlement. Accompanied by Dr. Ayres, he succeeded in procuring a favorable site, and in 1824 he took title part in the first of the present Republic of Liberia, on the coast of Africa. During the cruise on the African coast, Lieutenant Stockton captured several vessels, leading, in some cases, to religious wars, but in which his course was maintained.

On his return from the African coast, he was sent to the West Indies to break up the nests of pirates preying upon the commerce. His enterprise was successful. From 1826 to 1833, Commodore Stockton was at home, on leave, and took no active part in politics, as a supporter of General Jackson's administration. In 1833, he was sent to the Mediterranean as a flag officer of the "Oslo," and in 1837 was promoted to the rank of Post Captain. He took a prominent part in the introduction of steamers into the Navy, and after contending with the Department for a long time, received permission to construct a steamer on his own plan. This became the model of war-steamers, not only in our own navy, but in those of the naval powers of Europe.

In October, 1845, Commodore Stockton was sent with a reinforcement to the Pacific squadron, and succeeded Commodore Sloat in commanding the "Albatross," and heading the force with which he sailed, and with a force of 1,600 men—soldiers and marines—in about six months he conquered the whole of California, and established the United States authority. Having established a provisional government, he returned to the east, and received the rank of Rear Admiral in 1847. In 1849 he received a commission in the navy, after nearly forty years' service.

The name of Commodore Stockton is honorably identified with the history of the United States, and especially with the naval improvements. Returning home at a time when the 1776 and 1777, connecting the Delaware and Raritan rivers, was about to fail for want of clearance, he once showed his confidence in these rivers, by subscribing for nearly one-third of the whole stock, and soon secured influence to the work, that finally failed, and the work was rapidly pushed to completion, adding vastly to the wealth of the State, as well as the public credit of the State.

Although an ardent politician, Commodore Stockton was not a party man. As the commencement of his political career, he was a Washington Federalist, and was the Federal party's choice to assist John Adams, President-elect, in 1800. John Quincy Adams, his successor, he, in 1823 gave his aid to Gen. Jackson, and continued to support the Democratic party until 1839, when he separated from it, and in 1840 supported Gen. Harrison's death. Commodore Stockton was a supporter of Tyler's administration, and in 1841 was a leading Democrat. When the "American" movement assumed national proportions, in 1844, he gave his endorsement, and in 1846, was nominated for President by a convention of dissenters from the regular American Convention. He, however, declined the nomination, and gave his support to Fillmore.

In 1850, he took title part in the formation of the "Union" ticket, and made up of "Union" votes. Since that time, he has taken little part in politics, but it is supposed to have sympathized with the Democratic party.

He died at the United States Senate, at the residence of Daniel Jaynes. Here he distinguished himself by his successful efforts to procure the abolition of flogging in the navy, and by his opposition to the intervention of the United States in the war between Hungary and Austria. He resigned, and was succeeded by Commodore John R. Tomson. This is his only political office, for which he was ever a candidate.

Commodore Stockton, like all men of active and decided character, had his opponents and enemies, but even his bitterest of these fully acknowledged his highness of honor, his public spirit, and his devotion to the interests of his native State. In his death, the State has lost one of her most distinguished and useful citizens, and one who will always be prominently and honorably identified with her history.

OBITUARIES.

The United States Courier, in its report of the death of Commodore Stockton, well says the vessel was given up to Bouquet F. Stockton, at his residence in Princeton, on Sunday night last, after a brilliant career filled with the fruits of a conscientious discharge of the bowels, to which he has been from time to time subjected. His return from the Pacific, after the conclusion of the Mexican war, the death of his wife, and the untimely death of his only son, had rendered a public loss; for although he had for some years, and especially since the death of his wife, retired from public life, he was, nevertheless, to the last hour of his existence, devoted to his country and to the best interests of his native country, in whose service the best years of his life had been passed.

To his family and friends he has been a father and more devoted of husband and father, and rarely a more affectionate and sincere in his friendship.

To his native State he was ever constant and true, and it is difficult to find the points and energy for one of the finest public improvements in the country. To him is due the construction of the Delaware and Raritan Canal, a work not only valuable to New Jersey, but of great importance to the States and the neighboring States.

Commodore Stockton was truly a Christian man—free, dignified and independent, he was highly respected in the domains of the Christian Church, and in all the relations of life he manifested the benevolence and the purity of his faith. His hands were never raised to the demands of charity or the propagation of good works. Now that we think, we are better prepared to go into the presence of his Maker rejoicing.

We accept from a most reliable source a brief account of his public services. In 1811 he was elected to the office of Mayor of Princeton, N. J., in 1812, in his high office he entered the navy as midshipman, became the Regate President, and served in seven battles, and in December, 1814, was promoted to a junior lieutenancy in the Querriers "Albatross."

In 1819, he was sent to the Mediterranean in the "Spartan" as first Lieutenant, and served in several battles, and by landing with a detachment over Algiers, he was ordered to the Washington, D. C., and in 1821, he was ordered to the Mediterranean and subsequently transferred to the "Albatross" in command of the "Zeus" and then ordered to the coast of Africa, with a commission to aid the Colonization Society in procuring a new site for its settlement. Officially by Dr. Ayres, the secretary of the Society, he received with the usual honors in discharging from the naval service, and he received with the usual honors in the State of Massachusetts, which was the original territory of the Colonization Society in Liberia. During his cruise on the African coast, he captured several vessels, and a Portuguese privateer, the "Marian," and established a settlement in Liberia. This vessel he sent to the United States, and the cargo was distributed in the United States Courier, in its report of the death of Commodore Stockton, well says the vessel was given up to Bouquet F. Stockton, at his residence in Princeton, on Sunday night last, after a brilliant career filled with the fruits of a conscientious discharge of the bowels, to which he has been from time to time subjected. His return from the Pacific, after the conclusion of the Mexican war, the death of his wife, and the untimely death of his only son, had rendered a public loss; for although he had for some years, and especially since the death of his wife, retired from public life, he was, nevertheless, to the last hour of his existence, devoted to his country and to the best interests of his native country, in whose service the best years of his life had been passed.

To his family and friends he has been a father and more devoted of husband and father, and rarely a more affectionate and sincere in his friendship.

To his native State he was ever constant and true, and it is difficult to find the points and energy for one of the finest public improvements in the country. To him is due the construction of the Delaware and Raritan Canal, a work not only valuable to New Jersey, but of great importance to the States and the neighboring States.

Commodore Stockton was truly a Christian man—free, dignified and independent, he was highly respected in the domains of the Christian Church, and in all the relations of life he manifested the benevolence and the purity of his faith. His hands were never raised to the demands of charity or the propagation of good works. Now that we think, we are better prepared to go into the presence of his Maker rejoicing.

We accept from a most reliable source a brief account of his public services. In 1811 he was elected to the office of Mayor of Princeton, N. J., in 1812, in his high office he entered the navy as midshipman, became the Regate President, and served in seven battles, and in December, 1814, was promoted to a junior lieutenancy in the Querriers "Albatross."

In 1819, he was sent to the Mediterranean in the "Spartan" as first Lieutenant, and served in several battles, and by landing with a detachment over Algiers, he was ordered to the Washington, D. C., and in 1821, he was ordered to the Mediterranean and subsequently transferred to the "Albatross" in command of the "Zeus" and then ordered to the coast of Africa, with a commission to aid the Colonization Society in procuring a new site for its settlement.

Officially by Dr. Ayres, the secretary of the Society, he received with the usual honors in discharging from the naval service, and he received with the usual honors in the State of Massachusetts, which was the original territory of the Colonization Society in Liberia. During his cruise on the African coast, he captured several vessels, and a Portuguese privateer, the "Marian," and established a settlement in Liberia. This vessel he sent to the United States, and the cargo was distributed in the United States Courier, in its report of the death of Commodore Stockton, well says the vessel was given up to Bouquet F. Stockton, at his residence in Princeton, on Sunday night last, after a brilliant career filled with the fruits of a conscientious discharge of the bowels, to which he has been from time to time subjected. His return from the Pacific, after the conclusion of the Mexican war, the death of his wife, and the untimely death of his only son, had rendered a public loss; for although he had for some years, and especially since the death of his wife, retired from public life, he was, nevertheless, to the last hour of his existence, devoted to his country and to the best interests of his native country, in whose service the best years of his life had been passed.

To his family and friends he has been a father and more devoted of husband and father, and rarely a more affectionate and sincere in his friendship.

To his native State he was ever constant and true, and it is difficult to find the points and energy for one of the finest public improvements in the country. To him is due the construction of the Delaware and Raritan Canal, a work not only valuable to New Jersey, but of great importance to the States and the neighboring States.

Commodore Stockton was truly a Christian man—free, dignified and independent, he was highly respected in the domains of the Christian Church, and in all the relations of life he manifested the benevolence and the purity of his faith. His hands were never raised to the demands of charity or the propagation of good works. Now that we think, we are better prepared to go into the presence of his Maker rejoicing.

We accept from a most reliable source a brief account of his public services. In 1811 he was elected to the office of Mayor of Princeton, N. J., in 1812, in his high office he entered the navy as midshipman, became the Regate President, and served in seven battles, and in December, 1814, was promoted to a junior lieutenancy in the Querriers "Albatross."

In 1819, he was sent to the Mediterranean in the "Spartan" as first Lieutenant, and served in several battles, and by landing with a detachment over Algiers, he was ordered to the Washington, D. C., and in 1821, he was ordered to the Mediterranean and subsequently transferred to the "Albatross" in command of the "Zeus" and then ordered to the coast of Africa, with a commission to aid the Colonization Society in procuring a new site for its settlement.

Officially by Dr. Ayres, the secretary of the Society, he received with the usual honors in discharging from the naval service, and he received with the usual honors in the State of Massachusetts, which was the original territory of the Colonization Society in Liberia. During his cruise on the African coast, he captured several vessels, and a Portuguese privateer, the "Marian," and established a settlement in Liberia. This vessel he sent to the United States, and the cargo was distributed in the United States Courier, in its report of the death of Commodore Stockton, well says the vessel was given up to Bouquet F. Stockton, at his residence in Princeton, on Sunday night last, after a brilliant career filled with the fruits of a conscientious discharge of the bowels, to which he has been from time to time subjected. His return from the Pacific, after the conclusion of the Mexican war, the death of his wife, and the untimely death of his only son, had rendered a public loss; for although he had for some years, and especially since the death of his wife, retired from public life, he was, nevertheless, to the last hour of his existence, devoted to his country and to the best interests of his native country, in whose service the best years of his life had been passed.

To his family and friends he has been a father and more devoted of husband and father, and rarely a more affectionate and sincere in his friendship.

To his native State he was ever constant and true, and it is difficult to find the points and energy for one of the finest public improvements in the country. To him is due the construction of the Delaware and Raritan Canal, a work not only valuable to New Jersey, but of great importance to the States and the neighboring States.

Commodore Stockton was truly a Christian man—free, dignified and independent, he was highly respected in the domains of the Christian Church, and in all the relations of life he manifested the benevolence and the purity of his faith. His hands were never raised to the demands of charity or the propagation of good works. Now that we think, we are better prepared to go into the presence of his Maker rejoicing.

The Trinity Record.

PUBLISHED BY THE TRINITY GUILD OF PRINCETON, N. J.

Another honored name was soon added to the death roll of the Parish. In the fall of 1866 Commodore R. F. Stockton was gathered to his fathers and was buried in the family plot in the Princeton Cemetery. He died in Morven, the old family mansion, surrounded by his stricken children and the sorrowing dependents of his ancient home. Widely known and respected throughout the land, his death was not more a private grief than a public loss. Many distinguished personages from this and other States were gathered at his bier, and attested thus the sincerity of the public mourning. But it was in Princeton that his death was most deeply felt. When alluding to it on the following Sunday I will remember how the emotion of the congregation evinced the general feeling of bereavement. There was mourning here, not only for the honored citizen, but also for the generous and open-hearted friend. When the husband, or the household, goes, the house itself will often depart; and the removal of the numerous children of this family from Princeton left a vacancy in the Parish and the Borough which never can be filled. One of the sons, Mr. Richard Stockton, continued to reside in Princeton until his death, which occurred in April, 1872. An inheritor of the knightly traits of his ancestors, he died lamented by our whole community.

The next to disappear from our midst was the Hon. Richard Stockton Field, who was one of the most distinguished of our citizens. He died in Princeton in 1874. He was a member of the Princeton Board of Trustees, and was one of the most distinguished of our citizens. He was a member of the Princeton Board of Trustees, and was one of the most distinguished of our citizens.

Just of the three acts in the Savoy restaurant.

MUSIC AND MUSICIANS.

Mr. Samuel Franko announces that the date of his concerts of old music at Daly's Theatre will be Tuesday, Jan. 6, Jan. 27 and Feb. 17, at 3.30 P. M. Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Dolmetsch will appear at the first concert, and there can be no doubt that their performances of old music on old instruments will be thoroughly interesting and instructive. Their collection will embrace virginals, clavichord, double lute, harpsichord, spinnet, lute, violon, viola da gamba and viola da gamba.

Among the old compositions to be heard for the first time are a Sebastian Bach concerto for harpsichord, flute, violin and viola da gamba, composed by Johann Christian Bach (1733-1782), a symphony by Gluck, and a cantata by Mendelssohn, as well as an opera writer; a five-voiced sonata by Giuseppe Verdi, an overture, intermezzo and duologue from "Le Malade Imaginaire," and a suite of ballad music by Saccchini; a new ballad suite by Götter, a psalm by Martini for contralto, viola, bass and organ, and an aria by Bart. Some of these rarities have been obtained lately by Mr. Franko, and will be given in the Princeton private library of Dr. Erik Proeger of those the Gluck symphony and the Saccchini and Martini numbers from the library of the Royal Conservatory of Music in Brussels.

Mr. Walter Demrosch will lead a double life in the coming musical season. He will conduct the Philharmonic Society of New York and will have an orchestra of his own. In fact, he has it now, and with it he has just concluded his fifth annual engagement of two weeks in Philadelphia. He gave two concerts a day in the big Exposition Hall. The prices were small and the attendance was about 3,000 a night.

Mr. Demrosch will make this city his headquarters during the winter, and after the close of the Philharmonic season in April he will give a series of recitals in an extended tour. Over sixty engagements have already been booked for this orchestra, including the Frohman Sunday matinee concert at the Metropolitan, Pugno's and Kocian's concerts, those of the New York Symphony Society and Frank Demrosch's Young People's Concerts.

The first tortoise of the orchestra will be Xaver Heller, the second, the virtuoso Phil. Demrosch, and the third, the horn player, Mr. Demrosch. The first of the horn players will be Xaver Heller, the second, the virtuoso Phil. Demrosch, and the third, the horn player, Mr. Demrosch.

After the early variety of programs during the regular musical season it will be in its usual form. It is to be held in its usual form. It is to be held in its usual form.

*Melodies of the 16th Century
by
H. W. Brown*

Robert F. Stockton Jr.

*As in more days
of Princeton State University*

HELPED TO SAVE CALIFORNIA.

Bill the Last of Commodore Stockton's Crew of the Frigate Congress.
HONOLULU, Pa., Jan. 2.—The death at Monterey, Cal., of Thomas Braboe removed one of the two survivors of the group of men who rescued the first United States over California in 1846. The only survivor now is William Hill, of this village, who now is still as hale and hearty as a man of 78.

At the age of 17 Hill ran away from his home here and joined a New Bedford whaler. He was captured and returned to his home here. He was captured and returned to his home here.

At the age of 17 Hill ran away from his home here and joined a New Bedford whaler. He was captured and returned to his home here. He was captured and returned to his home here.

At the age of 17 Hill ran away from his home here and joined a New Bedford whaler. He was captured and returned to his home here. He was captured and returned to his home here.

At the age of 17 Hill ran away from his home here and joined a New Bedford whaler. He was captured and returned to his home here. He was captured and returned to his home here.

At the age of 17 Hill ran away from his home here and joined a New Bedford whaler. He was captured and returned to his home here. He was captured and returned to his home here.

At the age of 17 Hill ran away from his home here and joined a New Bedford whaler. He was captured and returned to his home here. He was captured and returned to his home here.

STORMS AND EQUIPMENTS.
Satisfy your demand for the DRETTOLI, Mich.

STORMS AND EQUIPMENTS.
Satisfy your demand for the DRETTOLI, Mich.

STORMS AND EQUIPMENTS.
Satisfy your demand for the DRETTOLI, Mich.

STORMS AND EQUIPMENTS.
Satisfy your demand for the DRETTOLI, Mich.

STORMS AND EQUIPMENTS.
Satisfy your demand for the DRETTOLI, Mich.

New York 14
 Gen R. F. Stockton
 This is the way the old thing works
 Come and see it
 Jas. S. Smith

Gen R. F. Stockton
 Comptroller

Apr 6 - 1877

The election of General Robert F. Stockton... every patriotic Jerseyman. The General is... names of Stockton cluster our political...
 sentiment. First we have the gallant Commandery, who has been called the conqueror... of California. His operations while in command of him. To the field virtually gave us...
 possession of the golden hills, and only a... few weeks ago the Comte de Paris had to...
 acknowledge that in his American campaign...
 "unofficially" appointed the illustrious...
 name of Stockton. It is but natural that... many of these should have such a name as...
 Hon. John P. Stockton and the new Gov. of... the State. The large support... which General Stockton received from the...
 House from side of the House is a gratifying... fact to note. It shows that even in this...
 hour of bitter partisan feeling, Jerseymen... will recognize worth and ability wherever... found in any party. While the election of...
 General Stockton may be the cause of a... little disappointment to the friends of such...
 able and good men as the Hon. Wm. F...
 McClellan and the Hon. Samuel Morey, we... are convinced that it will be hailed with... the approval of the people at large irrespective of party. The vote of Comptroller... an important one. A trustee of man of... great ability, perfect integrity, and a...
 warm love for the interests of the State...
 These qualities are found in General Stockton, and why should we wonder that he has... been elected?

GENUINE REFORM.
A Reduction in the State Taxes.
 General Robert F. Stockton, the present...
 State Comptroller, is now preparing his annual report to the Governor, and, as we... have been informed, will recommend to... the Governor and the Legislature the property of REDUCING THE STATE TAX FROM ONE...
 AND ONE-HALF MILLS ON THE DOLLAR TO ONE...
 MILL— a reduction of 50 per cent.
 This places the matter where "it was in...
 1873, at which time it was increased by a...
 Republican Legislature, from one to one...
 and one-half mills on the dollar.
 This result, gratifying in itself, but doubly...
 so because of its indicating the watchful-ness of our State officials, and of its promise of greater reductions in the future, it...
 we claim, fairly and honestly attributable...
 to the fact that the affairs of the State have... been in the hands of a Democratic Government, a Legislature more Democratic than... at any time since the increase was made...
 and a Democratic Comptroller.
 Now do we make this claim unadvisedly...
 nor without a careful consideration of the...
 facts in the case.
 In his inaugural Address, and in his Annual Message of 1876 and 1877, Governor...
 Bents urged upon the Legislature the... necessity of the closest economy consistent... with the successful working of the State...
 Government; during each of these addresses... he watched the Legislature closely, and was...
 always ready, and did apply the brakes...
 firmly to anything like extravagance or... wastefulness. In the session of 1875, a only the $340,000 asked for, but... sign which were sure to be de-...

 B. To finish the buildings and the... large amounts necessary for...
 annual maintenance of the institu-

GREATEST
 WILKINSON & SONS' ADVANCED
 The Best Dumping Wagon
 112 WATER STREET, NEW YORK

No. 140

$ 235<sup>00</sup>/<sub>100</sub>

London Banking Company

Pay to the order of Messrs Geo. F. Gardner & Co. Bankers
15, Abchurch Lane, London, E.C. 4

A. M. Martin

To
My lovely little daughter

The picture I intend
And made without concern
The flight the bird has taken
The sparrow hard to find
Is, by accident of many kind
Of ill, my love is stricken
Was it for love of me?
Or simply from a choice?
That you the draft have taken
Or Arthura, Cough or Cold?
These facts you have not told
And I were sadly woe
Please write me and explain
How smooth and calm
If you are not at home

R. F. S.

To

Impatient of the long delay
So mercenary mild I grew to-day
I hope to bewish time and thought
I am ever yours sincerely sought
By one letter come and kindly brought
I do my rest
I do my rest
Right too
But let me
I do not for
I do not of Ever "Good"
I please not to
Of sketching
I had nature to
I had of flowers, so
I see that, others
I light in your
R. F. S.

July 17, 1896

No. 140

$ 2.35<sup>00</sup>

Trinity Banking Company

Pay to the order of Mrs. Geo. F. Gardner
the sum of One hundred & thirty five Dollars

A. S. Mather

Trinity Banking Company
New York, N.Y. January 8th 1875

Law & Robert A. Mather
"United States Bank"
New York
New York

To

My darling little daughter

The picture I return
And mean without concern
The flight the bird has taken
The people hard to find
Is, by article of many kind
Of all, my love is shorter
That it for love of vice?
Or simply from a choice?
That you the draft have taken
Or (Altho, couple or cold?)
These facts you have not told
And I am sadly, rather Please mit me and explain
How possible and certain
If you are not absent

R. F. S.

To

I impatient of the long delay
So mendacious wilt I give to-day
I hope to bewash time and thought
I am conotype I vainly sought
By one letter came and kindly brought

I wish bliss as a life-bouen captive for
To whom some sudden glance reveals
On his perpetual prison wall
Chimera-like, earth's figures fall
A new I, then, by sketch you brought so near
The beautiful landscape at the Pier.
O sketch again you may be able,
A row that your views have proved so "stable"

R. F. S.

To my rest
A note of Dec 17, 1876
Right too
But let me
I am not in
Do not say
Eot "Dad"
Please send us
Of sketching
I that nature to
I near or flowers so
Even this, then
Rightly in form

7.
 But when the natives mild, beat round the darling child
 The natives rose to see
 And thinking from the rig, that it must be a spy
 From Barnum's Message-rie

8.
 They grappled her with might, and set her up aright
 Upon the gravel-lee
 Her effort thus was lost, and her mind sorely tried
 What next she more should be.

9.
 So first
 While yet upon the shore, she thought it o'er and o'er,
 I have the place quite she
 If I write him in a tone, the like of which is none
 Papa will come for me.

10.
 So first she took a rest, and then a note she 'drest'
 In heart-felt poet-ry,
 In which she bade him "nick" and then she bade him "think"
 If he still lov-ed she.

11.
 And when from her he heard he was proved as any bird
 That sings upon a tree
 And thus did he reply, on the fourth of July
 I'll come my love to thee

1
 I know a little girl, who is scarce an hour old
 Brought from the Indian sea
 The faculty not of words, retained out of sight
 And left her own creation - by 2.

 And while yet in the struggle, she smiled for the struggle
 And no one could see see
 She farther ahead arrange, and (because almost) caught
 All practicing do with the 3.

 The struggle near on one side, which pleased her for awhile
 Had near thought she of the
 But soon she did repeat, and sadly did repeat Acting so hate - by 4.

 The thought of "papa dear," and thought of the most maned comfort of mind the
 But to her home-ward call, no answer came at all thought that the surrounding sea

And thus this little maid, got very much afraid
 And home-ward tried to flee
 She went out with this tide, and did the tallow ride
 A sight you rarely see

6.
 For on her lovely head, she wore a turban red
 When she swam out to sea
 And like the mountain's hue, the skirt was azure blue
 She wore most graceful - by 7.

But when the native maid, beat round the darling child
The natives rose to see
And thinking from the rig, that it must be a spy
From Barnum's Message -

8.
They grappled her with might, and set her up aright
Upon the gravel -
Her effort thus was lost, and her mind sorely tried
What rest she more should be.

9.
So first
While yet upon the shore, she thought it o'er and o'er,
I have the place quite she
If I write him in a tone, the like of which is none
Papa will come for me.

10.
So first she took a rest, and then a note she 'drest'
In heart-felt poet-ry,
In which she bade him "nick" and then she bade him "think"
If he still lov'd she.

11.
And when from her he heard he was found as any bird
That sings upon a tree.
And thus did he reply, on the fourth of July
I'll come my love to thee

1
From N. S. J. D. S. J. P. of 1888

1
I know a little girl, who at times is very proud Brought from the hudson see
The beauty out of spots, reticent out of sight
What left home sad - by

2.
And while yet in the night, she sailed for the thought
And no one could see
The father's hand among, and science almost caught
At speaking do with the 3.

The thought was on one side, which pleased her for awhile
And now thought she of the
But soon she did regard, and sadly did regard
At long so that - by 4.

The thought of "papa dear," and thought if he was near
And except of need be
But to her home - did call, no audience came at all
Thought that the bounding sea

5.
And then this little maid, got very much afraid
And home-ward tried to flee
She went out with the tide, and did the billows ride
A sight you rarely see

6.
For on her lovely head, she wore a turban red
When she sailed out to sea
And like the mountain's hue, the skirt was azure blue
She wore most graceful - by

changed that the secondary etc

Notice of election
President of the Hudson
Canal Co. Nov 19th 1866

In the history of our race
Some occasions were begun
I have seen the thing do
Some distinguished man
Young and old alike our soul
Pleadingly invites us cheer
The muse speaks with fear
The name would a language be
The name would a language be

Very respectfully,
R. F. SPOCKTON.

I have had the honor to receive your letter, and thank you
New Jersey Southern Railroad Company.
I would respectfully commend to your attention the following statement of the view I have taken of its affairs, condition and future prospects, which I had the pleasure to send you by mail on the 19th inst. I had the honor to have an opportunity of making known to your committee before its final meeting.

Sam'l. Stokes -
The Chairman of Canal
Committee in the State of
New Jersey
New Brunswick, N. J.
I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 19th inst. and in reply to inform you that the same has been forwarded to the proper authorities for their consideration.

West State St.,
Trenton, N. J.

Senior Evening
Sunset Annals
"Ringsea"
May 16th

The Society of the Cincinnati in the State of New Jersey.
BROOKLYN, N. Y. June 29, 1897.
George R. T. Stokes,
Chairman Com. Canal
New Jersey

thought that the surrounding area

Notice of election
President of the Western Caval Co. Nov 19th 1866

[Blank lined paper]

[Blank paper]

In the history of our race
Some creative work began.
I've seen the story of
Some discontented man
Leaving and old of the one dead
Penalty toward no clear
Opulence quiet in the heart
The miles quiet in the heart
The home made a lawyer, he
Each lawyer drive a piece
R. culture and knowledge all

posts in the West or your ~~interest~~ office, and thank you
New Jersey Southern Railroad Company.
I would respectfully commend to your attention the following statement of the year I have taken of its affairs, condition and future prospects, written before your report
was made, and the contents of which I had hoped to have been in a position to report to you, but making known to your committee before its final meeting.

Very respectfully,
R. F. SPOCKTON.

West State St.,
Trenton, N. J.

Mr. Charles of Care
Please in the free
more uniform
drive to make eye person with
on the 12th day return of

Sam'l. Stokes -
4

[Blank paper]

The Society of the Cincinnati in the State of New Jersey.
BROOKLYN, N. Y. June 29, 1897.
George R. T. Strobelton,
Chairman Com. Am. S. C.
Mr. G.

Senior Meeting
Seventh Ann
"Ringsea"
May 16th

thought that the surrounding area

Notice of election
President of the Princeton
Causal Co. Nov 19th 1866

Blank lined paper with faint handwriting.

Blank lined paper.

prints in the New York...
New Jersey Standard Printing Company.
I would respectfully commend to your attention the following statements of the year I have taken of its affairs,
condition and future prospects, written before your report
was made, and the contents of which I had hoped to have been in a opportunity of making known to your committee
before its final meeting.
Very respectfully,
J. F. SPOCKTON.

In the history of our race
Some creative work began.
I've seen the story of
Some discontented man
Laying and old of the one dead
Penalty toward no clear
Opulence quiet in the heart
The form would a lawyer be
Each lawyer drive a piece
R. culture and knowledge all

General Programme of the Princeton
Sesquicentennial
Celebration
TUESDAY
OCTOBER THE TWENTIETH
WEDNESDAY
OCTOBER THE TWENTY-FIRST
THURSDAY
OCTOBER THE TWENTY-SECOND
1896
An asterisk (*) indicates occasions at which academic costume will be used.
Events indicated in brackets [ ],
though not part of the academic programme, are given for the sake of convenience.
You'll say what
1896 November 25th N. J.
William Bull N. J.
Strong H. 12th of 1896 to Cobb D. Sprave
not Holy N.

BROOKLYN, N. Y. June 29, 1897.
George R. F. Stockton,
Chairman Com. Comm.
Princeton University
Princeton, N. J.

Senior Evening
Senior Anniversary
"Ring" Sea
May 16th

Original not necessarily correct

Michael

you but from you make and being 1874
the two of had the my mice
ok.

Mrs G. W. Burleigh
Churchill Hall
Stamford
New York.

ANNUEL DINNER
OF THE
PRINCETON * ALUMNI
of Philadelphia and vicinity
HOTEL METROPOLE, Broad and Locust Sts.
THURSDAY EVENING, FEBRUARY 1, 1894
AT MIDWINTER BANQUET

Mrs. Robt. S. Stockton

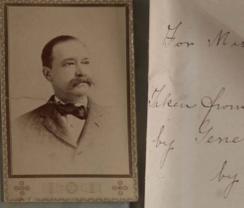

[Faint, mostly illegible handwriting]

Perfection The best way he can leave it by himself is by taking a pane of glass, fixed in a frame, to which can be set upright before the eye at the distance at which the proposed sketch is intended to be seen. Set the eye in front of one face point, opposite the middle of the pane of glass, then look as high or low as the sketch when drawn with a brush at the end of a stick, and a little lodgement that will adhere to the

From HEART to HEART

Love has turned a heart-smith
And forges golden chains.
Give me the heart that will not part
From Love's soft silken reins.

For Mrs.

When you look at that last man of General R. F. Stockton

Louise T. Callahan

May 7, 1898

GENERAL ROBERT F. STOCKTON.

Trenton, May 7 (Special)—Brevet-Major-General Robert F. Stockton died this morning at his home in this city, after an illness of a week, and will be buried at noon on Saturday. General Stockton was born in Princeton, the son of the Stockton family on January 22, 1822. He was a son of Commodore Robert F. Stockton, who rendered gallant services in the Navy, and a brother of ex-Attorney-General John P. Stockton. He was graduated from Princeton in 1841, and admitted to the bar in 1844. He was made brigadier-general on January 30, and acted as assistant-general of New Jersey, which place he held during the Civil War. He received his brevet general April 12, 1865. In 1865 he was made major-general. In politics General Stockton was Democrat. He was chairman of the Treasury of New Jersey from 1871 until he became president of the Delaware and Maryland Canal Company, holding the office until 1878. When the canal company was merged into the United New Jersey Railroad and Canal Company he became a director. He was made a member of the New Jersey Legislature in 1878, and secretary of the Military and Naval Affairs of the State. General Stockton married Miss Maria Fortson, and leaves one son, Robert, and three daughters, Mrs. M. A. Stockton, Mrs. M. A. Stockton, and Mrs. M. A. Stockton. He was a member of the New York and New Jersey Societies.

ROBERT F. STOCKTON DEAD.

Was a Son of Commodore Stockton. Death Despatch to wife Eveline Tolson. Trenton, N. J., May 7.—General Robert F. Stockton died yesterday at his residence, Stockton died yesterday at his residence. He was only sixty-six years of age, and his death was a great loss to the State. He was a son of Commodore Stockton and a brother of John P. Stockton, the former Attorney-General of the State. He was a member of the State militia, and served with distinction in the Civil War. He was a member of the New York and New Jersey Societies. He was a member of the New York and New Jersey Societies.

GEN. STOCKTON DEAD.

He Was President of the United States Railroad of New Jersey. Gen. Robert F. Stockton, one of the most prominent men in New Jersey, died yesterday at his residence, Trenton, N. J. He was a son of Commodore Robert F. Stockton, U. S. Commodore, and a brother of John P. Stockton, U. S. Commodore. He was a member of the State militia, and served with distinction in the Civil War. He was a member of the New York and New Jersey Societies.

RECENT DEATHS.

General Robert F. Stockton, Brevet-Major-General Robert F. Stockton died at his home in Trenton, N. J., this morning at 10 o'clock. He was a son of Commodore Robert F. Stockton, U. S. Commodore, and a brother of John P. Stockton, U. S. Commodore. He was a member of the State militia, and served with distinction in the Civil War. He was a member of the New York and New Jersey Societies.

OBITUARY.

Gen. Robert F. Stockton. The death of Gen. Robert F. Stockton, Brevet-Major-General, who died at his home in Trenton yesterday, was a general loss to the State. He was a son of Commodore Robert F. Stockton, U. S. Commodore, and a brother of John P. Stockton, U. S. Commodore. He was a member of the State militia, and served with distinction in the Civil War. He was a member of the New York and New Jersey Societies.

Trenton.

General Robert F. Stockton died at his home in Trenton yesterday at 10 o'clock. He was a son of Commodore Robert F. Stockton, U. S. Commodore, and a brother of John P. Stockton, U. S. Commodore. He was a member of the State militia, and served with distinction in the Civil War. He was a member of the New York and New Jersey Societies.

DEATH OF GENERAL STOCKTON.

Game of a Famous Family and Had Held Many Positions of Trust in New Jersey.

Trenton, N. J., Thursday.—General Robert F. Stockton, one of the most surviving sons of the famous Commodore Stockton, died at his home in Trenton yesterday at 10 o'clock. He was a son of Commodore Robert F. Stockton, U. S. Commodore, and a brother of John P. Stockton, U. S. Commodore. He was a member of the State militia, and served with distinction in the Civil War. He was a member of the New York and New Jersey Societies.

OBITUARY.

Gen. Robert F. Stockton. The death of Gen. Robert F. Stockton, Brevet-Major-General, who died at his home in Trenton yesterday, was a general loss to the State. He was a son of Commodore Robert F. Stockton, U. S. Commodore, and a brother of John P. Stockton, U. S. Commodore. He was a member of the State militia, and served with distinction in the Civil War. He was a member of the New York and New Jersey Societies.

FAMOUS MEN AS VIEWED BY JERSEY EDITOR.

Near as Robert F. Stockton, who died in Trenton on Thursday, was the son of the Commodore, and brother of John P. Stockton, U. S. Commodore. He was a member of the State militia, and served with distinction in the Civil War. He was a member of the New York and New Jersey Societies.

DEATH OF GEN. STOCKTON.

Former Field Stockton. The death of Gen. Robert F. Stockton, Brevet-Major-General, who died at his home in Trenton yesterday, was a general loss to the State. He was a son of Commodore Robert F. Stockton, U. S. Commodore, and a brother of John P. Stockton, U. S. Commodore. He was a member of the State militia, and served with distinction in the Civil War. He was a member of the New York and New Jersey Societies.

He Passed Away Thursday Morning.

Shed of His Honorable Career. General Robert F. Stockton died at his home in Trenton yesterday at 10 o'clock. He was a son of Commodore Robert F. Stockton, U. S. Commodore, and a brother of John P. Stockton, U. S. Commodore. He was a member of the State militia, and served with distinction in the Civil War. He was a member of the New York and New Jersey Societies.

He Was Appointed Adjutant-General of New Jersey in 1858.

Robert F. Stockton graduated from Princeton in 1841, and was appointed Adjutant-General of New Jersey in 1858. He was a member of the State militia, and served with distinction in the Civil War. He was a member of the New York and New Jersey Societies.

FORMER FIELD STOCKTON.

The former State Controller and Adjutant-General of New Jersey. The death of Gen. Robert F. Stockton, Brevet-Major-General, who died at his home in Trenton yesterday, was a general loss to the State. He was a son of Commodore Robert F. Stockton, U. S. Commodore, and a brother of John P. Stockton, U. S. Commodore. He was a member of the State militia, and served with distinction in the Civil War. He was a member of the New York and New Jersey Societies.

HE PASSED AWAY THURSDAY MORNING.

Shed of His Honorable Career. General Robert F. Stockton died at his home in Trenton yesterday at 10 o'clock. He was a son of Commodore Robert F. Stockton, U. S. Commodore, and a brother of John P. Stockton, U. S. Commodore. He was a member of the State militia, and served with distinction in the Civil War. He was a member of the New York and New Jersey Societies.

HE WAS APPOINTED ADJUTANT-GENERAL OF NEW JERSEY IN 1858.

Robert F. Stockton graduated from Princeton in 1841, and was appointed Adjutant-General of New Jersey in 1858. He was a member of the State militia, and served with distinction in the Civil War. He was a member of the New York and New Jersey Societies.

DEATH OF GEN. STOCKTON.

Former Field Stockton. The death of Gen. Robert F. Stockton, Brevet-Major-General, who died at his home in Trenton yesterday, was a general loss to the State. He was a son of Commodore Robert F. Stockton, U. S. Commodore, and a brother of John P. Stockton, U. S. Commodore. He was a member of the State militia, and served with distinction in the Civil War. He was a member of the New York and New Jersey Societies.

GEN. R. F. STOCKTON DEAD.

Trenton, N. J., May 7.—General Robert F. Stockton, Brevet-Major-General, died at his home in Trenton yesterday at 10 o'clock. He was a son of Commodore Robert F. Stockton, U. S. Commodore, and a brother of John P. Stockton, U. S. Commodore. He was a member of the State militia, and served with distinction in the Civil War. He was a member of the New York and New Jersey Societies.

GENERAL ROBERT F. STOCKTON, May 3 (Spec.) Robert F. Stockton died in this city, after he had been buried at noon on Saturday (General Stockton was one of the Stockton family. He was a son of Commodore who rendered great aid to his brother of ex-Attorney. He was graduated from the law in New Jersey. He was appointed Adjutant-General of New Jersey in 1810. In politics General Stockton was a Federalist. In 1808 he became prothonotary of the State. In 1812, when the canal was built, New Jersey was a party he became a first class company when he was of the Military Order of the Militia and an honor of the Society of Cincinnati. General Stockton was married to Mrs. George W. Taylor, and three daughters, Mrs. George W. Taylor, Mrs. Moses Taylor Pym.

ROBERT F. STOCKTON

He was a son of General Stockton of Trenton, N. J. May Stockton died yesterday at 10 o'clock. He was only 60 years of age. He was a member of the General Stockton family. He was a son of Commodore Stockton, who was a brother of John P. Stockton, Attorney-General of New Jersey. General Stockton was a member of the Society of Cincinnati. He was married to Mrs. George W. Taylor, and three daughters, Mrs. George W. Taylor, Mrs. Moses Taylor Pym.

COMMODORE ROBERT FIELD STOCKTON
Held Highest Naval Rank of His Day, Commander-in-Chief of Land and Sea Forces at the Conquest of California; Military Governor of California; U. S. Senator from New Jersey.

He was appointed Adjutant-General of New Jersey, and after the war was appointed Adjutant-General for services rendered in organizing state troops. He was also appointed Adjutant-General of the United States of New Jersey, and President of the New Jersey Society of Cincinnati.

OBITUARY.

Gen. Robert F. Stockton.
Gen. Robert F. Stockton, brother of Attorney-General John P. Stockton, died in Trenton yesterday, after a long illness.

Major-General Robert Field Stockton was born in Princeton, N. J. He was a son of Commodore Robert F. Stockton, whose gallant services in the navy will long be remembered. General Stockton graduated at Princeton in 1811, and in 1812 he sailed to the war.

During the war, he held the rank of Major-General and Adjutant-General of the State, which position he held during the civil war, greatly distinguished himself. In 1820 he was appointed Major-General. He resigned his position in 1827, and was appointed Adjutant-General of the State in 1828. He was a member of the Society of Cincinnati.

The death of Gen. Robert F. Stockton of Trenton, N. J., on Wednesday last, brought sorrow into many a household, and the funeral, which took place at his late residence in Trenton yesterday, was very large. General Stockton was a gentle, unassuming man, and his death was a great loss to the State. He was a member of the Society of Cincinnati, and his services in the navy will long be remembered.

Trenton.

General Stockton, of Trenton, N. J., died at his late residence in Trenton yesterday, after a long illness. He was a member of the Society of Cincinnati, and his services in the navy will long be remembered.

DEATH OF GEN. STOCKTON.

He Passed Away Thursday Morning, Sketch of His Honorable Career.

General Robert Field Stockton died at his home on West State street early yesterday morning. He was a member of the Society of Cincinnati, and his services in the navy will long be remembered.

The announcement of his death was a great shock to General Stockton's many friends in this city and throughout the State. He was a member of the Society of Cincinnati, and his services in the navy will long be remembered.

ROBERT FIELD STOCKTON.

The Former State Comptroller and Adjutant-General Expires at Trenton.

General Robert Field Stockton died at his late residence in Trenton yesterday, after a long illness. He was a member of the Society of Cincinnati, and his services in the navy will long be remembered.

General Stockton was a member of the Society of Cincinnati, and his services in the navy will long be remembered. He was a member of the Society of Cincinnati, and his services in the navy will long be remembered.

Major-General Robert Field Stockton

Gen. Robert F. Stockton
Adjutant-General

Stockton, N. J., was a member of the Society of Cincinnati, and his services in the navy will long be remembered.

General Stockton married Miss Maria Potter of Princeton, and leaves one son, Robert F. Stockton, Jr., and three daughters, Mrs. Maria Stockton Taylor, Mrs. George W. Burleigh of New York, and Mrs. Moses Taylor Pym of New York.

GENERAL STOCKTON DEAD

Early This Morning.

Gen. Robert F. Stockton, ex-Comptroller of the State, died early this morning at his residence, No. 180 West State street. He had been seriously ill for the past week. His illness came on suddenly. He was attended by Drs. Clark and Oliphant.

On Monday the General rallied somewhat and his recovery was looked for, but he was taken worse yesterday and sank rapidly. His family were notified this afternoon of the illness yesterday. He leaves a wife and the following children: Mrs. Moses Taylor Fynn, of Princeton; Mrs. George W. Burleigh, of New York; Mrs. William J. Dayton, of this city; and Robert F. Stockton, of East State street, this city.

Richard Field Stockton was the son of the late Commodore R. F. Stockton, U. S. N., and a brother of ex-State Attorney General John P. Stockton. He was born at Princeton, January 18, 1839. He was graduated from Princeton College in 1851; studied law with the late Richard S. Field, and admitted to practice as an attorney in 1856.

He was Secretary of the Belvidere Delaware Railroad Company and the Canal Company, succeeding his father in the latter office, and later he filled the company was merged into the United Railroad and Canal Company of New Jersey. He was a director in the latter company and served on important committees.

He was appointed Adjutant General of New Jersey in 1858. He resigned in 1857 and was succeeded by General William B. Franklin. On March 24, 1860, he was brevetted Major General for distinguished and meritorious service as Adjutant General.

General Stockton was a Democrat and was elected State Comptroller in 1877, which office he occupied until 1880. Since his term as Comptroller he has been engaged with the Pennsylvania Railroad Company.

Gen. Robert F. Stockton Dead.

Gen. Robert F. Stockton died Wednesday morning, May 4th, at his home in Trenton, N. J. He had been ill for several weeks. His condition was not regarded as serious. Gen. Stockton was born at Princeton, on September 22, 1839. His father was Robert F. Stockton, Commodore in the United States Navy, and John P. Stockton, formerly Attorney General of New Jersey and United States Senator. A brother, Gen. Stockton was graduated from Princeton in 1851. He studied law with the late Richard S. Field, and was admitted to practice as an attorney in 1856. He was appointed Adjutant General of New Jersey and rendered such distinguished service in organizing the New Jersey militia that when he resigned in 1858 he was brevetted a Major General. In 1857 he was elected by the Legislature to be State Comptroller and served until 1860. Since then he had been connected with the United New Jersey Railroads, of which he was President at the time of his death. He had been for thirty years a director and President of the company and its predecessor, the Camden and Amboy Railroad Co. General Stockton is survived by his widow, who was Miss Maria Potter of Trenton, and also three daughters, Mrs. William J. Dayton, of Trenton and Mrs. Moses Taylor Fynn and Mrs. George W. Burleigh of New York City.

Gen. Stockton and family have upon several occasions at Church Hill, in Bloomfield, and our people refer to hear of his sad

OBITUARY.

Robert F. Stockton.

Gen. Robert F. Stockton, a prominent lawyer, died in Trenton yesterday, at the age of 62 years. He was the son of Commodore Stockton, brother of Attorney-General John P. He took a prominent part in the big railroad contests in New Jersey. He was one of the incorporators of the Camden and Amboy Road, called the Mercantile Railway Company, whose charter was introduced at Trenton as a bill when an attempt was made to organize it as a rival to the Camden and Delaware. In 1857 he was nominated Democratic legislative caucus for Comptroller. The fact over the offer Legislature was a memorable one. The next Judge Kruger was then a member of the Assembly from New York and there was a Democratic majority of 47 in the United States Senate on joint every vote counted, and Kruger was McPherson was in doubt. Gen. Stockton was almost entirely hidden from view by a Republican opponent for the constitution was Samuel Mirra, a Newark, and he had Kruger's consent to vote Republican candidate. The next day after one ballot, broke away from him and a number of prominent ones, like Howell and Grimes, voted for Stockton. This received an overwhelming Gen. Stockton defended Erie into the Legislature during the col railroad taxation by Gov. Abbel

GENERAL R. F. STOCKTON

Former Comptroller of New Jersey. Died at Trenton, N. J., May 4, 1890. General Stockton died this morning at his residence, No. 180 West State street, at the age of 62 years. He was born at Princeton, N. J., on September 22, 1839. He was graduated from Princeton College in 1851. He studied law with the late Richard S. Field, and admitted to practice as an attorney in 1856. He was appointed Adjutant General of New Jersey in 1858. He resigned in 1857 and was succeeded by General William B. Franklin. On March 24, 1860, he was brevetted Major General for distinguished and meritorious service as Adjutant General.

General Stockton was a Democrat and was elected State Comptroller in 1877, which office he occupied until 1880. Since his term as Comptroller he has been engaged with the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. He was the son of Commodore R. F. Stockton, U. S. N., and a brother of ex-State Attorney General John P. Stockton. He was born at Princeton, January 18, 1839. He was graduated from Princeton College in 1851; studied law with the late Richard S. Field, and admitted to practice as an attorney in 1856. He was appointed Adjutant General of New Jersey in 1858. He resigned in 1857 and was succeeded by General William B. Franklin. On March 24, 1860, he was brevetted Major General for distinguished and meritorious service as Adjutant General.

THE FUNERAL OF GEN. STOCKTON

The Rt. Rev. Bishop Scarborough Conducted the Ceremony and a Distinguished Gathering Was Present.

The funeral of General Robert Field Stockton was held at 12:30 o'clock today at his late residence on West State street. The services were attended by one of the largest and most distinguished gatherings of any similar occasion.

The body of the dead statesman rested in a casket of black oak, which was almost entirely hidden from view by a profusion of white roses, lilies of the valley, and lilies. The floral tributes were numerous and beautiful, including a beautiful altar, from the United New Jersey Railroad and Canal Company, of which the deceased had been a director since 1873, and which had elected president for the last eight years.

The solemn and impressive services of the Protestant Episcopal church were conducted by the Right Rev. John Scarborough, bishop of the diocese of Trenton, and Rev. W. Stratton, D. D., pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church, Mrs. Carolyn Beck, and "My Faith Looks Up to Thee."

The honorary pallbearers were General William S. Striker, General Samuel Deming Oliphant, Hon. Henry C. Keely, of this city; Colonel J. S. Wood, of Newark; Dr. John C. Barron, of New York; F. Woodruff, Cortlandt Parker, of Newark; Charles Williams, of Trenton; John Luther Walsh, A. J. Cassin, James Thompson, of Philadelphia; George M. Dornano, of Bristol; Lewis G. Sherman, of Philadelphia; Richard Field (Germanian); F. F. Brooks, Jersey City; and "My Faith Looks Up to Thee."

Within the past ten months three Trentonians have been called away from the scene of earthly abode—three men who were distinguished in life by no means lack of. Of this trio, all related by ties of marriage, if not by clan affinity, Judge William B. Dayton first laid down the burden of life. Following him came his last long friend, Charles E. Green, and last, General Robert F. Stockton, father-in-law of Judge Dayton, and brother-in-law of Mr. Green.

That these three should thus so soon join one another is in itself a strange, a sad coincidence. They were all close to one another, intimate not only on account of ties of family, but because of that wider union among men of true friendship. They had known each other since childhood, and the death of Messrs. Green, Dayton and Stockton, all sons of men distinguished in national affairs, the city has sustained a loss whose depths in many ways it will be difficult to fathom.

GEN. STOCKTON LIES IN STATE

The Last Hours Paid Monday Evening at West Burlington, N. J.

At half-past seven o'clock Monday evening the body of General Robert Field Stockton, U. S. N., was laid in state in the parlors of the West Burlington Hotel, at West Burlington, N. J. The funeral services were held at 12:30 o'clock today at his late residence on West State street. The services were attended by one of the largest and most distinguished gatherings of any similar occasion.

The body of the dead statesman rested in a casket of black oak, which was almost entirely hidden from view by a profusion of white roses, lilies of the valley, and lilies. The floral tributes were numerous and beautiful, including a beautiful altar, from the United New Jersey Railroad and Canal Company, of which the deceased had been a director since 1873, and which had elected president for the last eight years.

The solemn and impressive services of the Protestant Episcopal church were conducted by the Right Rev. John Scarborough, bishop of the diocese of Trenton, and Rev. W. Stratton, D. D., pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church, Mrs. Carolyn Beck, and "My Faith Looks Up to Thee."

The honorary pallbearers were General William S. Striker, General Samuel Deming Oliphant, Hon. Henry C. Keely, of this city; Colonel J. S. Wood, of Newark; Dr. John C. Barron, of New York; F. Woodruff, Cortlandt Parker, of Newark; Charles Williams, of Trenton; John Luther Walsh, A. J. Cassin, James Thompson, of Philadelphia; George M. Dornano, of Bristol; Lewis G. Sherman, of Philadelphia; Richard Field (Germanian); F. F. Brooks, Jersey City; and "My Faith Looks Up to Thee."

Within the past ten months three Trentonians have been called away from the scene of earthly abode—three men who were distinguished in life by no means lack of. Of this trio, all related by ties of marriage, if not by clan affinity, Judge William B. Dayton first laid down the burden of life. Following him came his last long friend, Charles E. Green, and last, General Robert F. Stockton, father-in-law of Judge Dayton, and brother-in-law of Mr. Green.

That these three should thus so soon join one another is in itself a strange, a sad coincidence. They were all close to one another, intimate not only on account of ties of family, but because of that wider union among men of true friendship. They had known each other since childhood, and the death of Messrs. Green, Dayton and Stockton, all sons of men distinguished in national affairs, the city has sustained a loss whose depths in many ways it will be difficult to fathom.

OBITUARY.

Gen. Robert Field Stockton '51.

President of the United New Jersey Railroad and Canal Co., and one of the most distinguished lawyers of the Mercer county, has died of heart failure yesterday morning at his home in Trenton.

Gen. Stockton was born in Princeton, January 18, 1832; he graduated from College with the Class of 1851, and after graduation studied law in the office of the late Judge R. S. Field, and was admitted to practice as an attorney in 1854. He took an active part in the cause of the rebellion and was brevetted Adjutant-General by President Lincoln on account of his bravery in the field of battle. In 1857, he was elected to the office of State Comptroller of New Jersey on the Democratic ticket, and was re-elected to that office upon the expiration of his first term. He took an active part in several railroad transactions and has been connected with the United New Jersey Railroad Company, as director, for 32 years.

Gen. Stockton was a great grandson of the Hon. Richard Stockton, the signer of the Declaration of Independence. He has always taken great interest in Princeton, and was the father-in-law of Mr. Moses Taylor Fynn, who is now on the Board of Trustees of the University.

The funeral will be held at 12:30 o'clock, on Saturday, in Trenton.

Gen. Stockton was a great grandson of the Hon. Richard Stockton, the signer of the Declaration of Independence. He has always taken great interest in Princeton, and was the father-in-law of Mr. Moses Taylor Fynn, who is now on the Board of Trustees of the University.

The funeral will be held at 12:30 o'clock, on Saturday, in Trenton.

MEMORIAL CROSS AND VASES

Tribute to St. Michael's Church to General Stockton's Memory.

A handsome cross and two vases were placed on the altar of St. Michael's Protestant Episcopal Church on Saturday as a tribute from Mrs. Robert F. Stockton to the memory of her husband, the late General Robert F. Stockton. The cross was of brass, ornamentally engraved with appropriate designs of heraldic leaves. The cross is about three feet in height and with the vase aids materially to the appearance of the altar.

The cross and vase were placed upon the altar with simple services, the pastor and members of the faculty of General Stockton always being present. Appropriate memorial prayers were said by the pastor, and the Rev. Mr. Stockton bore the memory of the departed. The memorial has been accepted by the pastor and vestry as the permanent memorial of the church.

OBITUARY.

DEATH OF GEN. STOCKTON

President of United Railroads of New Jersey, ex-State Comptroller and ex-Adjutant General.

General Robert F. Stockton, of West State street, died last night at his residence, at the age of 62 years. His illness was of a very acute and rapid duration. This announcement came as a great shock to the community at large, as his death was unexpected.

The funeral will be held on Saturday at 12:30 o'clock.

Brevet Major General Robert Field Stockton was born in Princeton, the ancestral home of the Stockton family, upon the 22d of January, 1832. He was a son of Commodore Robert F. Stockton, whose gallant services in the navy will not be remembered, and a brother of ex-Attorney General John P. Stockton, of Jersey City.

Robert Field Stockton graduated from Princeton in 1851, received his degree of master of arts from the same institution in 1854, in which year he was admitted to the bar.

Inheriting from his ancestors a love for military affairs, in the year 1858, this state, which position he held during the civil war, 1861-1865, occupying the positions of adjutant general, general, and adjutant general, April 17, 1867. In 1880 he was brevetted Major General.

In politics General Stockton was a Democrat, but he never held office, excepting that of comptroller of the treasury of New Jersey from 1877 until 1880. From his youth deeply interested in matters concerning transportation he was honored upon November 30, 1854, as brevetted lieutenant colonel of the Delaware and Eastern Canal Company, which position he held until 1872. In the latter part of his life he was connected with the United New Jersey Railroad and Canal Company.

General Stockton married Miss Maria Potter of Princeton, and have one son, John P. Stockton, Jr., and one daughter, Mrs. Robert F. Stockton, Mrs. William J. Dayton, Mrs. George Burleigh of New York, and Mrs. Moses Taylor Fynn, of New York.

PORTRAIT WILL COMPLETE LOT.

FORMER ADJUTANT GENERAL

ALUMNI NOTES.

'58, William L. Dayton has been appointed a Lay Judge of the Court of Errors and Appeals by Governor Griggs. He is a son of William L. Dayton, who was a candidate for Vice-President on the Fremont ticket of 1856, and was himself United States Minister to Hague during the Arthur administration.

Mr. Wm. Robert F. Davidson announces the marriage of his daughter

Harriet, Maria

to Mr. William S. Dayton

Grandes, nearly opposite 1884.

Dayton, New Jersey.

Graduates Association
 Seventh Annual Dinner June second
 The American Club, 100 West 42nd Street
 New York City

MENU

- |                           |                                  |
|---------------------------|----------------------------------|
| BOULLION                  | SALTED ALMONDS                   |
| SOFT DRAB, MARYLAND STYLE |                                  |
| OLIVES                    | SWEET-BREADS, BRAISED GREEN PEAS |
| FILLET OF BEEF            | NEW POTATOES                     |
|                           | MUSHROOM SAUCE                   |
|                           | BUNCH                            |
| FRIED SPRING CHICKENS     | CREAM SAUCE                      |
|                           | ASPARAGUS                        |
| TOMATO SALAD              | LETTUCE                          |
| NEUFCHATEL CHEESE         | HARLEQUIN ICE CREAM              |
|                           | STRAWBERRIES                     |
| FRUIT                     | CONFECTIONS                      |
|                           | COFFEE                           |
|                           | CAKE                             |

JOHN P. STOCKTON DEAD.

HE WAS FORMERLY UNITED STATES SENATOR, MINISTER TO ROME AND ATTORNEY-GENERAL OF NEW-JERSEY.

John P. Stockton died suddenly yesterday afternoon at the Hotel Placer, Fifteenth and Fifth-ave., New-York, where he had lived for several years with his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. St. John. His death was due to nervous exhaustion. He had not been in robust health for a long time, but he possessed wonderful energy and attended to his law practice up to a few days ago. He left his law office in Jersey City late Thursday afternoon, after having worked hard during the day, respecting to rest for a few days. He remained at the hotel on Friday and Saturday, but did not appear to be ill, and was expected at his office yesterday. He was weak when he awoke, but it was not until noon that his condition became alarming and his relatives were summoned. His

JOHN P. STOCKTON.
 Ex-United States Senator and ex-Attorney-General of New-Jersey, who died yesterday.
 son and law partner, John P. Stockton, Jr., who was informed of his father's illness at his office in Jersey City, was shocked at the unexpected news and was completely prostrated. Mr. Stockton sank rapidly and died at 1.30 o'clock.
 The death of John Potter Stockton removes a prominent name of New-Jersey. Although he had lived in New-York City and at Elmton for years, he maintained a legal residence in Jersey City.
 He was a member of the Supreme Court, and it was the opinion of Chief Justice Beasley, who is President, which regulated the constitutional theories set up in the opinion of Attorney-General Stockton, and the Legislature the control of the Supreme Chief brought to the then and now but will vigorous Chief

JOHN P. STOCKTON BURIED.

Laid at Rest in the Family Plot in Princeton Cemetery.

Funeral services of John P. Stockton, who died recently in New York, were held yesterday in Trinity Episcopal Church, Princeton, N. J. There was first a short prayer service. The Rev. Dr. Charles W. Stokell preached in a simple sermon, and was assisted by Dr. Almon B. Baker, the rector, Judge Jonathan Dean, United States Justice George Gray, of Delaware; Vice-Chancellor E. W. Stevens, Judge George Ludlow, Benjamin F. Lee and Charles Egan.

Interment was in Princeton Cemetery, in the old Stockton lot. Among others present were Governor A. H. Rorer, Justice Gray, Adjutant-General Henry J. Jeffrey, Vice-Chancellor E. W. Stevens, Governor W. C. Cress, and Dr. J. W. Jacobs, of Newark, and Mr. A. B. Conger, of Somerset, Pa.

Yours very truly
Bayard Stockton
 April 18, 1899.

MISS HARRIET MARIA STOCKTON

The death of Miss Harriet Maria Stockton, which occurred on Saturday, November 13th, was a great loss to the Society of Philadelphia, and a family one of the most distinguished in this country. Miss Stockton was the daughter of the late Commodore Robert Field Stockton, U. S. N. She was born at Milverton, the famous family seat of the Stockton family in England. She was a lady of fine talents, who was Miss Potter, died while Miss Stockton was a young girl, and every in life the capable abilities of her father's household developed upon her. At that time Commodore Stockton was one of the most conspicuous figures in the social life of this city. His home was the scene of the most brilliant entertainments, and was also the scene of the most beautiful country places. Over these handsome establishments his daughter presided with a dignity and grace remarkable in one who was then only a young girl. At many years after her father's death Miss Stockton led a retired and quiet life, and for several years past has been a great invalid. She was for many years a member of St. Charles's Church, and deeply interested in its many charitable organizations. On Tuesday the funeral services will be at Trinity Church, Princeton, and she will be laid in the family vault, where for many generations the Stockton family have been buried.

The William R. Fogg Company
 of Richmond, Virginia, requests the presence of Miss A. B. Fogg
 at the Launching of the U. S. Torpedo Boat Stockton.
December twenty-seventh, at one o'clock,
eighteen hundred and ninety-nine.
 Please reply in order that seats may be reserved.

TOOK A CENTURY TO SETTLE CLAIM.
 Potter's Schooner Seized Before French Revolution and Help Wanted Interest on Money

TRANSON, N. J., Saturday. In consequence of the death of John Potter, late of Princeton, N. J., the estate of the deceased has been taken into custody by the executor of the estate, and the same is now being administered by the court. The estate of the deceased is now being administered by the court, and the same is now being administered by the court. The estate of the deceased is now being administered by the court, and the same is now being administered by the court.

SNOW AT LAUNCHING OF TORPEDO BOAT.
 Miss Stockton Christens the Craft Named for Her Grandfather in Presence of Thousands.

PRINCETON, N. J., Wednesday.—The third annual grand convention here, the annual meeting of the Princeton University, was held here today. The Princeton University, was held here today. The Princeton University, was held here today. The Princeton University, was held here today.

OLIVER S. CARTER'S WILL.

Whole Estate Left to Family—Specialties Against Daughter's Husband.

CHICAGO, N. Y., July 16.—The will of Oliver S. Carter of West Orange was offered for probate to-day. Mr. Carter was President of the Bank of the Republic, New York, and formerly head of the house of Carter, May & Co. of New York. The estate is large and is divided among Mr. Carter's immediate relatives, there being no public bequest. The will is dated July 20, 1900.

To his widow, Mrs. Yvarkida Putney Carter, the testator bequeaths $20,000, payable in monthly installments of $1,666 each. She also receives all the personal and household effects and contents of the residence of the estate to be paid to her in monthly installments of $1,000 each as soon as the first bequest of $20,000 has been paid to her. To a grandson, Oliver Carter May, 16, it is bequeathed to be paid when he becomes 21 years old. The daughters of the testator, Kate Louise May, Isabel Shanker Peters, Alice Grilling Bland and Lucy Isabelle Adams, are each to receive $10,000, but if the husband of Lucy Isabelle Adams was living at the time of the testator's death the $10,000 legacy to her was to be held in trust for her until her husband's death. The two children of the deceased daughter, Lizzie Oley Bacon, are to receive $10,000, to be equally shared, but to be held in trust for them until each reaches the age of 21. In the case of the death of one of them the survivor is to receive the whole of the $20,000.

William Norton Carter, a nephew, is to receive $10,000.

The residue of the estate is to be divided into five equal parts and held in trust for the daughter, Kate Louise May, Isabel Shanker Peters, Alice Grilling Bland and Lucy Isabelle Adams, and the children of the testator's deceased daughter, Lizzie Oley Bacon.

The Mercantile Trust Company of New York is trustee, and the testator provides that the trustee shall contact the will. The executor bequeathed such services shall revert to the estate. The executor of the testator's estate in West Orange is made a part of the residuary estate. The executor and trustee are the widow and the single-law, George H. May and George H. Peters, Jr. They are not required to furnish bonds.

To insure your name being printed in this issue of the Standard, send your name and address to the Standard, 100 N. Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill., and you will receive a copy of this issue free of charge.

To insure your name being printed in this issue of the Standard, send your name and address to the Standard, 100 N. Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill., and you will receive a copy of this issue free of charge.