IV GENERAL STATEMENT OF ORGANIZATION AND PURPOSE

The American University Union in Europe is the result of two movements—one in Paris and the other in this country—which have united to accomplish the same object, namely, “to meet the needs of American university and college men who are in Europe for military or other service in the cause of the Allies.” The more specific purposes of the Union are thus stated in the constitution:

1. To provide at moderate cost a home with the privileges of a simple club for American college men and their friends passing through Paris or on furlough: the privileges to include information bureau, writing and newspaper room, library, dining room, bedrooms, baths, social features, opportunities for physical recreation, entertainments, medical advice, etc.

2. To provide a headquarters for the various bureaus already established or to be established in France by representative American universities, colleges, and technical schools.

3. To co-operate with these bureaus when established, and in their absence to aid institutions, parents, or friends, in securing information about college men in all forms of war service, reporting on casualties, visiting the sick and wounded, giving advice, serving as a means of communication with them, etc.

One of the movements which lead to the establishment of the Union was begun by American college men abroad who met in Paris, June 18, 1917, and formed the American University Alumni Association in France. The meeting was attended by representatives of the ten following American institutions: Columbia, Cornell, Dartmouth, Harvard, Michigan, Pennsylvania, Princeton, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Williams, and Yale. The objects of this Association as originally stated were “to coöperate in all proper ways with University authorities in the United States for the general well-being of American university and college men who come to France.” The controlling body of this Association is a Board of Governors of which Mr. James Hazen Hyde, President of the Harvard Club of Paris, was the first president. On being elected a member of the Executive Committee of the American University Union in Europe he resigned this position and has been succeeded by Mr. Edward Tuck, a graduate of Dartmouth College.

A second factor leading to the establishment of the Union was the Yale Bureau in Paris, which was formally authorized in May, 1917, "to supply a headquarters in France for Yale graduates, students and prospective students, and their friends." The number of inquiries regarding the Bureau and the offers from other colleges to coöperate, soon led its founders to see that the plan should be broadened so as to include all representative American institutions of learning.

Out of these two movements has developed the American University Union in Europe. Although organized to meet war needs it is the hope of its founders that the Union may prove a permanent institution helping, in coöperation with other organizations, to attract American college men to France for graduate study, and to serve as an agency for cultivating a better understanding of the United States in France and other European countries.

After many conferences with officials of the Red Cross, the International Committee of the Young Men's Christian Association, and the War Department, a meeting was called at the University Club, New York City on July 15, 1917, for the purpose of establishing the American University Union in Europe, adopting a constitution, and electing officers. The plan of organization agreed upon included a representative Board of Trustees in America, a small Executive Committee appointed by the Board in Paris, and an Advisory Council composed of the Board of Governors of the American University Alumni Association in France. It was decided that the Union should be a coöperative enterprise enlisting the general support of American Colleges and Universities. The following institutions were represented at the organization meeting: College of the City of New York, Columbia University, Cornell University, Dartmouth College, Harvard University, Johns Hopkins University, New York University, Northwestern University, Princeton University, Tulane University, University of Michigan, University of Pennsylvania, University of Washington, Vanderbilt University, and Yale University. Of these, five—namely, Columbia, Harvard, Michigan, Princeton, and Yale—and in addition the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and the University of Virginia have already decided to send over their special representatives, who will have offices in the headquarters of the Union, while a total of over forty American institutions have become members of the Union.

Professor Nettleton of Yale, Professor Paul Van Dyke of Princeton, and Mr. Evert Wendell of Harvard sailed for Paris on August 3 to serve with Mr. Van Rensselaer Lansingh of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology as the nucleus of the Executive Committee. Mr. Lansingh had gone to Paris several weeks earlier after consultation with those planning the Union movement, and established a Technology Club, the facilities of which were generously placed at the disposal of the Executive Committee. This club has ceased to exist in its original quarters and has become a part of the American University Union.

V DESCRIPTION OF PARIS HEADQUARTERS

The members of the Executive Committee first planned to secure a hotel in the residential section of Paris between the Champs Elysées and the Bois, and made tentative arrangements for such a hotel when the increasing difficulties connected with the problem of transportation made it seem essential that headquarters nearer the center of Paris be secured. Consequently, acting on the advice of the Advisory Council in Paris, the Executive Committee unanimously recommended to the trustees to rent the Royal Palace Hotel on the Place du Théâtre Français. This hotel is at the head of the Avenue de l'Opera and near the Louvre and the Tuileries Gardens. It is within a block of the Palais Royal station of the "Métropolitan"—the Paris subway, and accessible by all Avenue de l'Opera and Rue de Rivoli omnibuses. The hotel, built in 1911, has an excellent reputation and is under well established management. It faces south on an open square and has 80 bed rooms accommodating over one hundred men, in addition to attractive public rooms for reading and social purposes, and 40 modern bath rooms. Each bed room has running water.

The offices of the Union and of its constituent bureaus have already been established in this hotel and a reasonable tariff of charges has been adopted. The restaurant has a high reputation and provides luncheon for 4½ francs, and dinner for 5½ francs, in addition to a very moderate priced petit déjeuner. Members who are on furlough in Paris for several days can secure pension at from 15 francs a day upward, everything included. A room for a single night costs from 6 francs up, a room with bath 10 francs. These charges are in accordance with the schedule adopted in October, 1917, and are subject to slight modification if the Executive Committee finds this necessary. In view of the high cost of supplies in Paris, where anthracite coal sells at $70 a ton, the tariff will, it is believed, seem moderate, especially as the franc is now the equivalent of only 17½ cents.

It is planned to make the hotel a center for all American college and university men and their friends in France. Informal receptions and "smokers" will be held from time to time, and afternoon tea will be served without charge daily.

In addition to representative English and French journals, fifty of the leading American daily papers, weeklies and magazines are on file at the Union—also many college periodicals.

Arrangements have been made for the use of tennis courts and other athletic facilities. Rackets and balls may be rented at the Union, which also conducts a small store where various war luxuries and necessities may be purchased at moderate prices.

VI FINANCIAL SUPPORT

To secure the Royal Palace Hotel a guarantee of about $30,000 receipts from room rentals for the first year has had to be assumed by the trustees in addition to a budget for cables, moderate salaries, clerical assistance, stationery, newspapers, entertainments, traveling expenses, etc. of $27,000. It is believed that at least half of the rentals can be counted on in the first few months, and all thereafter if the war lasts, but as the work of the Union is constantly expanding, and includes a London office and may soon demand a place for recuperation in the French Alps or on the Riviera, it is necessary that an annual budget of at least $50,000 be provided. The trustees believe this to be a small sum in comparison with the importance of giving American college men who will furnish so large and important a part of the American army with attractive furlough headquarters in Paris under wholesome influences, and providing them, and their friends and parents, with the manifold help which the officers of the Union can give.

It is proposed to meet the budget in two ways:

1. College and club memberships as outlined on page 17. This should provide annually about $18,000
 2. Individual subscriptions aggregating . . . 32,000
- $50,000

Checks should be made payable to Mr. Henry B. Thompson, Treasurer, 320 Broadway, New York City.

VII LONDON BRANCH

After consultation with members of the Executive Committee the following announcement of the establishment of a London Branch of the Union has been authorized:

The anticipated presence in London of an unusual number of American University men, either passing through or on leave from the front, has suggested the need of some common rendezvous where notification of their presence in London can be registered and meetings can be arranged with friends who may be there at the same time.

Arrangements have therefore been made by members resident in London of the alumni of various colleges to establish a general meeting place for College men when in England.

These headquarters will be known as the "American University Union in Europe—London Branch," and will be for the use of Alumni of all Universities and Colleges in the United States.

Through the courtesy of the London office of the Farmers Loan & Trust Co. of New York, rooms in their building at 16 Pall Mall East, S. W. 1, have been given over for this purpose and are being adequately furnished. The building is near Cockspur Street and Haymarket. The telephone is Gerrard 9200.

American papers and periodicals will be found there, and proper facilities afforded for registration, forwarding mail, letter writing, etc.

VIII CONSTITUTION

I. NAME

The name of the association shall be The American University Union in Europe.

II. LOCATION

The office of the association in America shall be in or near New York City. The headquarters of the association shall be in Paris, with branch agencies in London, and at such other places in the countries of the Allies as may seem desirable.

III. OBJECTS

The general object of the Union shall be to meet the needs of American university and college men who are in Europe for military or other service in the cause of the Allies. Among its specific objects shall be the following:

1. To provide at moderate cost a home with the privileges of a simple club for American college men and their friends passing through Paris or on furlough; the privileges to include information bureau, writing and newspaper room, library, dining room, bedrooms, baths, social features, opportunities for physical recreation, entertainments, medical advice, etc.

2. To provide a headquarters for the various bureaus already established or to be established in France by representative American universities, colleges and technical schools.

3. To coöperate with these bureaus when established, and in their absence to aid institutions, parents, or friends, in securing information about college men in all forms of war service, reporting on casualties, visiting the sick and wounded, giving advice, serving as a means of communication with them, etc.

IV. RELATION OF UNION TO COLLEGE BUREAUS

The Union shall serve as a headquarters for the bureaus of such institutions as may decide to send their special representatives to Europe to look particularly after the interests of their own graduates and students. The internal affairs and policies of each of these bureaus, when not inconsistent with the general regulations and best interests of the Union, shall be subject to its own jurisdiction. The bureaus shall be independently financed, and if they represent colleges subscribing directly to the Union, shall pay only a moderate proportional rental for each office room occupied.

V. ORGANIZATION

The administration of the affairs of the Union shall be in the hands of three Boards, known respectively as the Board of Trustees, the Executive Committee, and the Advisory Council.

VI. BOARD OF TRUSTEES

The final responsibility and authority for the affairs of the Union shall be vested in a Board of Trustees of ten members, each of whom shall be a graduate of one of the institutions coöperating in supporting this Union, and not over two of whom shall have received their first degree from the same institution. Of these trustees, three shall be elected at the organization meeting. These shall have power to add three others to their number. Each elected trustee shall be subject to the approval of the President of the university with which he is affiliated. The remaining three members of the Board of Trustees shall be appointed one each by the President of the University Club of New York City, the Chairman of the Red Cross War Council, and the Chairman of the Army and Navy Committee of the International Young Men's Christian Association, respectively. The remaining members of the Board shall be elected by the Board of Trustees. Should any of those asked to name a trustee fail to act within a month of the time when invitations are extended, the trustees who have qualified may at any duly called meeting fill the vacancies. Vacancies among the elected trustees shall also be filled by election of the Board; other vacancies by appointment as indicated. Four members shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business.

VII. EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

An Executive Committee not to exceed seven in number shall, subject to the control of the Board of Trustees, have immediate charge of the affairs of the Union in Paris and elsewhere abroad until and unless the Board of Trustees shall decide to create other executive committees for other European branches. The Executive Committee shall have power to appoint a House Committee and other appropriate committees, to draw up and enforce rules and charges for the Union, to engage and dismiss employees within the budget of the Board of Trustees, and in other ways to act as the representative of the Board in Europe. The Executive Committee shall consist of not more than seven members to be elected by the Board of Trustees, which shall have the power to fill all vacancies, a majority of the Committee being chosen from among the official representatives in Paris of American universities or colleges. The Chairman of the Committee, who shall have the title of Director, shall be named by the Board of Trustees, and when elected shall cease to be the official representative of any University or College.

VIII. ADVISORY COUNCIL

An Advisory Council shall consist of the Governing Board of the American University Alumni Association in France. The Council shall be consulted by the Executive Committee on all important matters of policy, and may take the initiative in making recommendations to the Committee, which recommendations are to be considered privileged business to be given prompt attention.

IX. OFFICERS

The officers of the Board of Trustees shall be a Chairman, Vice-Chairman, Honorary Secretary and Honorary Treasurer, with the duties which generally fall to such officers. They shall be elected by the Board of Trustees and shall serve for one year and be eligible to re-election. They may be superseded at a duly called meeting by a two-thirds vote of the total membership of the Board. The Board shall appoint for service in Paris a Director, an Associate or Assistant Director (who may act as Business Manager) and a Medical Advisor, and may also appoint such other officers, agents or committees as it shall see fit to carry out the general policy outlined in this constitution. It shall also have the power to determine the official titles, salaries, allowances, and terms of service of its appointees, and to dismiss any of them for cause.

X. HONORARY PATRONS

The President of the United States and the President of the French Republic, the Secretary of War of the United States and the Secretary of the Navy, the Ambassadors of the United States to France and Great Britain, the General commanding the American troops in France, and such other persons of distinction as may commend themselves to the Board of Trustees may be invited to serve as Honorary Patrons.

XI. MEMBERSHIPS

Membership in the Union shall be of four classes,—college memberships, club memberships, sustaining memberships, and honorary memberships.

1. College Memberships. All universities, colleges, and technical schools in the United States of America, giving degrees recognized by the Committee on Admissions of the New York University Club and named in its published list, together with all State Universities and land grant colleges, and such other institutions as may be approved by the trustees, shall be entitled to membership on the payment of the following annual fees:

For institutions of ten thousand or more graduates	$500 a year
For institutions of from five thousand to ten thousand graduates	$250 a year
For institutions of under five thousand graduates	$100 a year

Payment of these membership fees entitles the subscribing institution to all reasonable use of the services of the Union's staff of officers. It also entitles graduates, non-graduates, students, and prospective students of such institutions to the general privileges of the Union, subject to the rules and conditions laid down by the Executive Committee.

2. Club Memberships. Any University Club or other organization of American College men approved by the Board of Trustees may, by subscribing $250 a year, secure the same general privileges of the Union derived through college memberships.

3. Sustaining Memberships. Any person contributing $100 or more to the work of the Union shall be enrolled as a sustaining member for the year of the subscription.

4. Honorary Memberships. The United States Military Academy at West Point and the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis shall be accorded honorary memberships and shall secure the same privileges of the Union as are derived through college memberships.

XII. VISITORS

Any person privileged to the rights of membership in the Union as outlined in the previous section may introduce as visitors friends in war service—whether college men or not—as far as the accommodations of the Union and its House Rules will permit, but for each of such visitors a small charge will be made over and above the regular house charges.

XIII. AMENDMENTS, BY-LAWS, ETC.

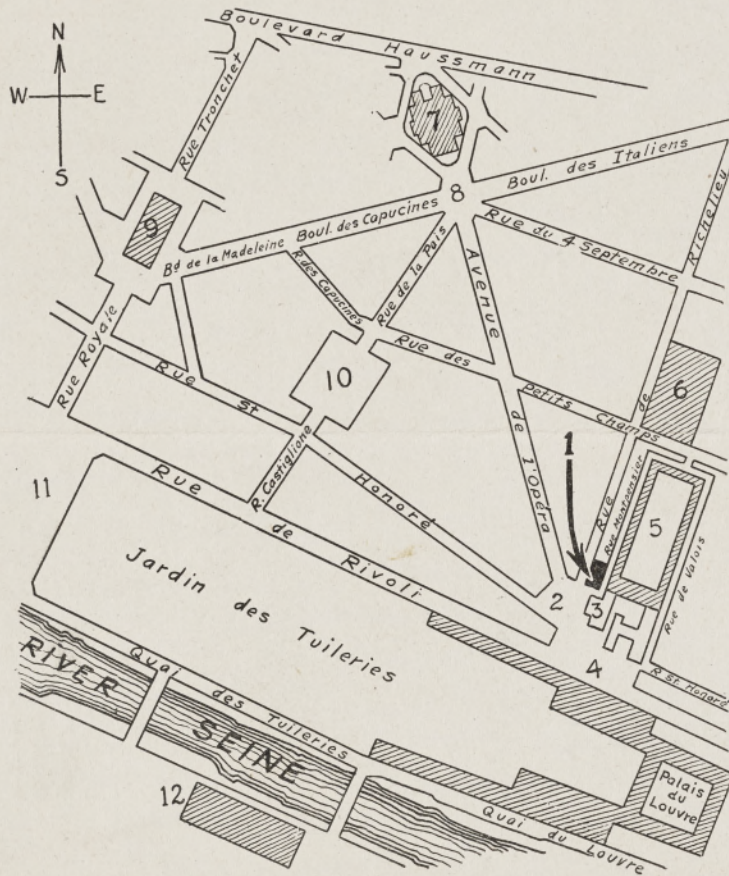

This constitution may be interpreted, added to or amended by the Board of Trustees at any duly called meeting, but the Board shall effect no fundamental change in the constitution without notifying at least a week in advance the Presidents of all institutions subscribing to college memberships, inviting an expression of their opinions on proposals. The Board of Trustees may adopt its own by-laws as to meetings, order of business, etc.

V GENERAL STATEMENT OF ORGANIZATION AND PURPOSE

The American University Union in Europe is the result of two movements—one in Paris and the other in this country—which have united to accomplish the same object, namely, “to meet the needs of American university and college men and their friends who are in Europe for military or other service in the cause of the Allies.” The more specific purposes of the Union are thus stated in the constitution:

1. To provide at moderate cost a home with the privileges of a simple club for American college men and their friends passing through Paris or on furlough: the privileges to include information bureau, writing and newspaper room, library, dining room, bedrooms, baths, social features, opportunities for physical recreation, entertainments, medical advice, etc.
2. To provide a headquarters for the various bureaus already established or to be established in France by representative American universities, colleges, and technical schools.
3. To coöperate with these bureaus when established, and in their absence to aid institutions, parents, or friends, in securing information about college men in all forms of war service, reporting on casualties, visiting the sick and wounded, giving advice, serving as a means of communication with them, etc.

One of the movements which led to the establishment of the Union was begun by American college men abroad who met in Paris, June 17, 1917, and formed the American University Alumni Association in France. The meeting was attended by representatives of the ten following American institutions: Columbia, Cornell, Dartmouth, Harvard, Michigan, Pennsylvania, Princeton, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Williams, and Yale. The objects of this Association as originally stated were “to coöperate in all proper ways with University authorities in the United States for the general well-being of American university and college men who come to France." The controlling body of this Association was a Board of Governors of which Mr. James Hazen Hyde, President of the Harvard Club of Paris, was the first president. On being elected a member of the Executive Committee of the American University Union in Europe he resigned this position, and the Board was reorganized as an Advisory Council, now consisting of 24 members. Of this Council Mr. Edward Tuck, a graduate of Dartmouth College, is Chairman.

A second factor leading to the establishment of the Union was the Yale Bureau in Paris, which was formally authorized in May, 1917, "to supply a headquarters in France for Yale graduates, students and prospective students, and their friends." The number of inquiries regarding the Bureau and the offers from other colleges to coöperate, soon led its founders to see that the plan should be broadened so as to include all representative American institutions of learning.

Out of these two movements has developed the American University Union in Europe. Although organized to meet war needs it is the hope of its founders that the Union may prove a permanent institution helping, in coöperation with other organizations, to attract more American college men to France for graduate study, and to serve as an agency for cultivating a better understanding of the United States in England, France, Italy and other European countries.

After many conferences with officials of the Red Cross, the International Committee of the Young Men's Christian Association, and the War Department, a meeting was called at the University Club, New York City on July 15, 1917, for the purpose of establishing the American University Union in Europe, adopting a constitution, and electing officers. and university men living in France. It was decided that the Union should be a coöperative enterprise enlisting the general support of American colleges and universities. The following institutions were represented at the organization meeting: College of the City of New York, Columbia University, Cornell University, Dartmouth College, Harvard University, Johns Hopkins University, New York University, Northwestern University, Princeton University, Tulane University, University of Michigan, University of Pennsylvania, University of Washington, Vanderbilt University, and Yale University. Of these, six—namely, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Yale, Princeton, Harvard, Michigan, and the University of Virginia have already sent over their special representatives, who have offices in the headquarters of the Union, while a total of about ninety American institutions have become members of the Union. Amherst, Bowdoin, Brown, Dartmouth, and Williams unite with Harvard in supporting a Bureau. The interests of men coming from colleges which do not support special Bureaus are looked after by the Staff Secretaries of the Union.

Professor Nettleton of Yale, Professor Paul Van Dyke of Princeton, and *Mr. Evert Wendell of Harvard sailed for Paris on August 3 to serve with Mr. Van Rensselaer Lansingh of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology as the nucleus of the Executive Committee. Mr. Lansingh had gone to Paris several weeks earlier after consultation with those planning the Union movement, and established a Technology Club, the facilities of which were generously placed at the disposal of the Executive Committee. This club, which was made possible by the gifts of Mrs. Edith Perkins Cunningham of Boston, has ceased to exist in its original quarters and has become a part of the American University Union.

* Mr. Wendell died in Paris on August 27.

In establishing the Union its officers have received the heartiest support from the American Embassy, the officers of the American Expeditionary Force, the Red Cross and the Y. M. C. A.

The Union has also been much helped by the Intercollegiate Intelligence Bureau. Its office in Washington has been placed at the service of the Union, while the Union's Executive Committee in Paris aids the work of the Bureau in every way in its power. It is believed that at the close of the war this friendly relationship will be of great advantage to American college men seeking opportunities for employment by the government and in business or professional life.

VI DESCRIPTION OF PARIS HEADQUARTERS

LOCATION

The members of the Executive Committee first planned to secure a hotel in the residential section of Paris between the Champs Elysées and the Bois, and made tentative arrangements for such a hotel when the increasing difficulties connected with the problem of transportation made it seem essential that headquarters nearer the center of Paris be secured. Consequently, acting on the advice of the Advisory Council in Paris, the Executive Committee unanimously recommended to the trustees to rent for the period of the war the *Royal Palace Hotel on the Place du Théâtre Français. This hotel is at the head of the Avenue de l'Opera and near the Louvre and the Tuileries Gardens. It is within a block of the Palais Royal station of the "Métropolitain"—the Paris subway, and accessible by all Avenue de l'Opera and Rue de Rivoli omnibuses.

GENERAL DESCRIPTION

The Royal Palace Hotel, built in 1911, has an excellent reputation and is under well established management. It faces south on an open square and has 80 outside bed rooms accommodating over one hundred men, in addition to attractive public rooms for reading and social purposes, and 42 modern bath rooms. There is an elevator and every other convenience. Each bed room has running water, and through the coöperation of the municipal authorities, the Union is allowed to supply hot water daily, instead of only twice a week, the usual war allowance. At the entrance, 8 rue de Richelieu, an attractive sign: "American University Union," replaces that of the Royal Palace Hotel. At the desk are kept a Members' Register and a Visitors' Book. In the former are registered all American College men, with their college and class, degree (if any) or department, military rank or form of service, home address, and European address. In the latter are registered all guests with the names of the college men who introduced them. Bulletin boards carry the rules and regulations of the Union, information as to barber, laundry, suit-pressing, mending, theatre tickets, French lessons, notices of college reunions, Union entertainments, and similar matters of interest. A canteen or small shop has been opened in the lobby of the Union. It is open from noon to 9.30 P. M. The canteen carries books, toilet articles, flash lights, stationery, tennis balls, chocolate, tobacco, etc. Tennis rackets can also be rented.

* To meet the demands for increased accommodations, special arrangements have been made with the Hotel Montana and with other hotels in the immediate neighborhood to take members of the Union at reduced rates.

TARIFF OF CHARGES

The restaurant has a high reputation and provides luncheon for 4½ francs, and dinner for 5½ francs, in addition to a very moderate priced petit dejeuner. The pension for three meals is fixed at 10 francs. Members who are on furlough in Paris for several days can secure pension at from 15 francs a day upward, everything included. A room for a single night costs from 6 francs up, a room with bath 10 francs. These charges are in accordance with the schedule adopted in October, 1917, and are subject to slight modification if the Executive Committee finds this necessary. In view of the high cost of supplies in Paris, where anthracite coal sells at from $60 to $70 a ton, the tariff will, it is believed, seem moderate, especially as the franc is now the equivalent of only 17½ cents, and as no fees are expected or allowed. To prevent the "tipping" nuisance a fixed charge of 10% is made on every bill for the first week, and 7% thereafter, this amount being distributed among the servants.

READING ROOM

The first floor and the entresol are used for the general purposes of the Union, the separate college Bureaus being on the upper floors, visitors being assigned as far as possible to bed rooms on the same floor as the College Bureau with which they are affiliated. Writing tables and tables for chess and other games have been placed in the petits salons on each floor opposite the elevator.

A special feature is made of the Reading Room and Library. In addition to the most representative English and French periodicals, and the leading college papers, the following American newspapers and magazines are regularly on file:

The nucleus of the Library was a gift of fifty books from Chapter IV of the Colonial Dames of America, supplemented by a similar number presented by Mr. Lane of the University of Virginia. Several French men of letters much impressed by the Union as a sign of the "rapprochement" between France and the United States have interested themselves in the Library and have presented French books. Other suitable gifts to the Library are solicited, for the Union wishes to give its members every kind of wholesome intellectual and social refreshment.

VII OPENING OF HEADQUARTERS

The Union was opened October 20, 1917. Representatives of thirty different American colleges took rooms the first night, while two weeks thereafter the Executive Committee cabled that the accommodations were "overflowing." By the close of the third week men had registered from eighty-three different institutions, as far separated as the Universities of Alabama, California, Maine, Minnesota and Texas.

The opening exercises were simple. General Pershing was officially represented by General Allaire, Provost Marshal of the American Expeditionary Forces, while Ambassador Sharp, who was ill, sent a cordial message of greeting referring to the purpose of the Union as "in every way most commendable," and adding "I am certain that the high personnel of the men who are associated with this enterprise will ensure its unqualified success."

On Tuesday afternoon, November sixth, the Union held its first reception for members and guests, from four to six o'clock. The general arrangements were in charge of the Entertainment Committee, whose chairman is Mr. Hyde. The patronesses who received were the wives of the officers of the Union, including Mrs. Sharp, the wife of the Ambassador, whose husband is an Honorary Patron. About one hundred and fifty persons were present, including many prominent American and French officers and officials. Tea was served at individual tables in the restaurant. Through receptions of this character an opportunity is afforded members of the Union to meet representative Americans resident in Paris.

Informal "smokers" are held from time to time, and afternoon tea is served daily. Entertainments and lectures are arranged as occasion offers.

VIII LONDON BRANCH

After consultation with members of the Executive Committee the following announcement of the establishment of a London Branch of the Union has been authorized:

The anticipated presence in London of an unusual number of American University men, either passing through or on leave from the front, has suggested the need of some common rendezvous where notification of their presence in London can be registered and meetings can be arranged with friends who may be there at the same time.

Arrangements have therefore been made by members resident in London of the alumni of various colleges to establish a general meeting place for College men when in England.

These headquarters will be known as the "American University Union in Europe—London Branch," and will be for the use of Alumni of all Universities and Colleges in the United States.

Through the courtesy of the London office of the Farmers Loan & Trust Co. of New York, rooms in their building at 16 Pall Mall East, S. W. 1, have been given over for this purpose and are being adequately furnished. The building is near Cockspur Street and Haymarket. The telephone is Gerrard 9200.

American papers and periodicals will be found there, and proper facilities afforded for registration, forwarding mail, letter writing, etc.

The Union is especially indebted to Mr. Lewis P. Sheldon, an attaché of the American Embassy, for his coöperation in arranging to have the office separately established in London made a branch of the American University Union in Europe. It is probable that if conditions warrant it a small hotel will be taken later as headquarters.

IX FINANCIAL SUPPORT

To secure the Royal Palace Hotel a guarantee of about $30,000 receipts from room rentals for the first year has had to be assumed by the trustees, in addition to a budget for cables, moderate salaries, clerical assistance, stationery, newspapers, entertainments, traveling expenses, etc. of $40,000. It is believed that the full rentals can be counted on, but as the work of the Union is constantly expanding, and includes a London office and may soon demand a branch in Bordeaux and a place for recuperation in the French Alps or on the Riviera, it is necessary that an annual budget of at least $50,000 be provided. The trustees believe this to be a small sum in comparison with the importance of giving American college men who will furnish so large and important a part of the American army with attractive furlough headquarters in Paris under wholesome influences, and providing them, and their friends and parents, with the manifold help which the officers of the Union can give.

It is proposed to meet the budget in two ways:

1. College and club memberships as outlined on page 20. This should provide annually about $18,000
 2. Individual subscriptions aggregating . . . 32,000
- $50,000

Subscriptions of nearly $20,000 towards the $32,000 required in the way of individual gifts have been received up to December 1, mostly in sums of $100 and over—necessary to constitute “sustaining memberships.” Additional gifts for the general fund or for specific needs are earnestly desired.

Checks should be made payable to Mr. Henry B. Thompson, Treasurer, 320 Broadway, New York City.

X CONSTITUTION

I. NAME

The name of the association shall be The American University Union in Europe.

II. LOCATION

The office of the association in America shall be in or near New York City. The headquarters of the association shall be in Paris, with branch agencies in London, and at such other places in the countries of the Allies as may seem desirable.

III. OBJECTS

The general object of the Union shall be to meet the needs of American university and college men and their friends who are in Europe for military or other service in the cause of the Allies. Among its specific objects shall be the following:

1. To provide at moderate cost a home with the privileges of a simple club for American college men and their friends passing through Paris or on furlough; the privileges to include information bureau, writing and newspaper room, library, dining room, bedrooms, baths, social features, opportunities for physical recreation, entertainments, medical advice, etc.

2. To provide a headquarters for the various bureaus already established or to be established in France by representative American universities, colleges and technical schools.

3. To coöperate with these bureaus when established, and in their absence to aid institutions, parents, or friends, in securing information about college men in all forms of war service, reporting on casualties, visiting the sick and wounded, giving advice, serving as a means of communication with them, etc.

IV. RELATION OF UNION TO COLLEGE BUREAUS

The Union shall serve as a headquarters for the bureaus of such institutions as may decide to send their special representatives to Europe to look particularly after the interests of their own graduates and students. The internal affairs and policies of each of these bureaus, when not inconsistent with the general regulations and best interests of the Union, shall be subject to its own jurisdiction. The bureaus shall be independently financed, and if they represent colleges subscribing directly to the Union, shall pay only a moderate proportional rental for each office room occupied.

V. ORGANIZATION

The administration of the affairs of the Union shall be in the hands of three Boards, known respectively as the Board of Trustees, the Executive Committee, and the Advisory Council.

VI. BOARD OF TRUSTEES

The final responsibility and authority for the affairs of the Union shall be vested in a Board of Trustees of eleven members, each of whom shall be a graduate of one of the institutions coöperating in supporting this Union, and not over two of whom shall have received their first degree from the same institution. Of these trustees, three shall be elected at the organization meeting. These shall have power to add three others to their number. Three members of the Board of Trustees shall be appointed, one each by the President of the University Club of New York City, the Chairman of the Red Cross War Council, and the Chairman of the Army and Navy Committee of the International Young Men's Christian Association, respectively. The remaining members of the Board shall be elected by the Board of Trustees. Each elected trustee shall be subject to the approval of the President of the university with which he is affiliated. Should any of those asked to name a trustee fail to act within a month of the time when invitations are extended, the trustees who have qualified may at any duly called meeting fill the vacancies. Vacancies among the elected trustees shall also be filled by election of the Board; other vacancies by appointment as indicated. Four members shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business.

VII. EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

An Executive Committee not to exceed seven in number shall, subject to the control of the Board of Trustees, have immediate charge of the affairs of the Union in Paris and elsewhere abroad until and unless the Board of Trustees shall decide to create other executive committees for other European branches. The Executive Committee shall have power to appoint a House Committee and other appropriate committees, to draw up and enforce rules and charges for the Union, to engage and dismiss employees within the budget of the Board of Trustees, and in other ways to act as the representative of the Board in Europe. The Executive Committee shall consist of not more than seven members to be elected by the Board of Trustees, which shall have the power to fill all vacancies, a majority of the Committee being chosen from among the official representatives in Paris of American universities or colleges. The Chairman of the Committee, who shall have the title of Director, shall be named by the Board of Trustees, and when elected shall cease to be the official representative of any University or College.

VIII. ADVISORY COUNCIL

An Advisory Council shall consist of the Governing Board of the American University Alumni Association in France. The Council shall be consulted by the Executive Committee on all important matters of policy, and may take the initiative in making recommendations to the Committee, which recommendations are to be considered privileged business to be given prompt attention.

IX. OFFICERS

The officers of the Board of Trustees shall be a Chairman, Vice-Chairman, Honorary Secretary and Honorary Treasurer, with the duties which generally fall to such officers. They shall be elected by the Board of Trustees and shall serve for one year and be eligible to re-election. They may be superseded at a duly called meeting by a two-thirds vote of the total membership of the Board. The Board shall appoint for service in Paris a Director, an Associate or Assistant Director (who may act as Business Manager) and a Medical Advisor, and may also appoint such other officers, agents or committees as it shall see fit to carry out the general policy outlined in this constitution. It shall also have the power to determine the official titles, salaries, allowances, and terms of service of its appointees, and to dismiss any of them for cause.

X. HONORARY PATRONS

The President of the United States and the President of the French Republic, the Secretary of War of the United States and the Secretary of the Navy, the Ambassadors of the United States to France, Great Britain and Italy, the Minister to Belgium, the General commanding the American troops in France, and such other persons of distinction as may commend themselves to the Board of Trustees may be invited to serve as Honorary Patrons.

XI. MEMBERSHIPS

Membership in the Union shall be of four classes,—college memberships, club memberships, sustaining memberships, and honorary memberships.

1. College Memberships. All universities, colleges, and technical schools in the United States of America, giving degrees recognized by the Committee on Admissions of the New York University Club and named in its published list, together with all State Universities and land grant colleges, and such other institutions as may be approved by the trustees, shall be entitled to membership on the payment of the following annual fees:

For institutions of ten thousand or more graduates	$500 a year
For institutions of from five thousand to ten thousand graduates	$250 a year
For institutions of under five thousand graduates	$100 a year

Payment of these membership fees entitles the subscribing institution to all reasonable use of the services of the Union's staff of officers. It also entitles graduates, non-graduates, students, and prospective students of such institutions to the general privileges of the Union, subject to the rules and conditions laid down by the Executive Committee.

2. Club Memberships. Any University Club or other organization of American College men approved by the Board of Trustees may, by subscribing $250 a year, secure the same general privileges of the Union derived through college memberships.

3. Sustaining Memberships. Any person contributing $100 or more to the work of the Union shall be enrolled as a sustaining member for the year of the subscription.

4. Honorary Memberships. The United States Military Academy at West Point and the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis shall be accorded honorary memberships and shall secure the same privileges of the Union as are derived through college memberships.

XII. VISITORS

Any person privileged to the rights of membership in the Union as outlined in the previous section may introduce as visitors friends in war service—whether college men or not—as far as the accommodations of the Union and its House Rules will permit, but for each of such visitors a small charge will be made over and above the regular house charges.

XIII. AMENDMENTS, BY-LAWS, ETC.

This constitution may be interpreted, added to or amended by the Board of Trustees at any duly called meeting, but the Board shall effect no fundamental change in the constitution without notifying at least a week in advance the Presidents of all institutions subscribing to college memberships, inviting an expression of their opinions on proposals. The Board of Trustees may adopt its own by-laws as to meetings, order of business, etc.

"Resolved, that this Association cordially endorses the American University Union in Europe, and also that it asks all other college or university bodies to cooperate with the Union without forming independent organizations, with the hope that it may be practicable to extend these advantages to other than University men."

The suggestion in the last line is covered by the clause in the constitution which states that the Union is intended for "college men and their friends."

Professor Samuel B. Hemingway, Secretary

The interest of men from other colleges and universities are cared for by the Staff Secretaries named on page 2

V GENERAL STATEMENT OF ORGANIZATION AND PURPOSE

The American University Union in Europe is the result of two movements—one in Paris and the other in this country—which have united to accomplish the same objects, namely, “to meet the needs of American university and college men and their friends who are in Europe for military or other service in the cause of the Allies, and to serve as a bond between the universities of America and those of European nations, especially by encouraging the attendance and advancing the welfare of American students at the representative universities of France, Great Britain and Italy in such ways as the trustees may see fit.” The more specific and immediate purposes of the Union were thus stated in the first printed catalogue:

1. To provide at moderate cost a home with the privileges of a simple club for American college men and their friends passing through Paris or on furlough: the privileges to include information bureau, writing and newspaper room, library, dining room, bedrooms, baths, social features, opportunities for physical recreation, entertainments, medical advice, etc.
2. To provide a headquarters for the various bureaus already established or to be established in France by representative American universities, colleges, and technical schools.
3. To coöperate with these bureaus when established, and in their absence to aid institutions, parents, or friends, in securing information about college men in all forms of war service, reporting on casualties, visiting the sick and wounded, giving advice, serving as a means of communication with them, etc.

These purposes have all been carried out, except that the Union has not found it necessary to provide regular medical service, and that it refers to the Red Cross all requests for information regarding casualties.

One of the movements which led to the establishment of the Union was begun by American college men abroad who met in Paris, June 17, 1917, and formed the American University Alumni Association in France. The meeting was attended by representatives of the ten following American institutions: Columbia, Cornell, Dartmouth, Harvard, Michigan, Pennsylvania, Princeton, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Williams, and Yale. The objects of this Association as originally stated were "to coöperate in all proper ways with university authorities in the United States for the general well-being of American university and college men who come to France." The controlling body of this Association was a Board of Governors of which Mr. James Hazen Hyde, President of the Harvard Club of Paris, was the first president. The Board was later reorganized as an Advisory Council, now consisting of 24 members. Of this Council Mr. Edward Tuck, a graduate of Dartmouth College, is now Chairman.

A second factor leading to the establishment of the Union was the Yale Bureau in Paris, which was formally authorized in May, 1917, "to supply a headquarters in France for Yale graduates, students and prospective students, and their friends." The number of inquiries regarding the Bureau and the offers from other colleges to coöperate, soon led its founders to see that the plan should be broadened so as to include all representative American institutions of learning.

Out of these two movements has developed the American University Union in Europe. Although organized to meet war needs it is the hope of its founders that the Union may prove a permanent institution helping, in coöperation with other organizations, to attract more American college men to France for graduate study, and to serve as an agency for cultivating a better understanding of the United States in England, France, Italy and other European countries.

After many conferences with officials of the Red Cross, the International Committee of the Young Men's Christian Association, and the War Department, a meeting was called at the University Club, New York City on July 6, 1917, for the purpose of establishing the American University Union in Europe, adopting a constitution, and electing officers. The plan of organization agreed upon included a representative Board of Trustees in America, a small Executive Committee, in Paris, appointed by the Board, and an Advisory Council composed of representative American college and university men living in France. It was decided that the Union should be a coöperative enterprise enlisting the general support of American colleges and universities. The following institutions were represented at the organization meeting: College of the City of New York, Columbia University, Cornell University, Dartmouth College, Harvard University, Johns Hopkins University, New York University, Northwestern University, Princeton University, Tulane University, University of Michigan, University of Pennsylvania, University of Washington, Vanderbilt University, and Yale University. Several of these institutions conduct their own or joint Bureaus at the Union, while the interests of men coming from colleges which do not support special Bureaus are looked after by the Staff Secretaries of the Union.

Professor Nettleton of Yale, Professor Paul van Dyke of Princeton, and the late Mr. Evert Wendell of Harvard sailed for Paris on August 3 to serve with Mr. Van Rensselaer Lansingh of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology as the nucleus of the Executive Committee. Mr. Lansingh had gone to Paris several weeks earlier after consultation with those planning the Union movement, and established a Technology Club, the facilities of which were generously placed at the disposal of the Executive Committee. This club has ceased to exist in its original quarters and has become a part of the American University Union.

In establishing the Union its officers have received the heartiest support from the American Embassy, the officers of the American Expeditionary Force, the Red Cross and the Y. M. C. A.

The friendly interest of General Pershing has been specially helpful. He has recently written that "the Union is without question performing a very useful service to members of the American Army."

VI DESCRIPTION OF PARIS HEADQUARTERS

LOCATION

The members of the Executive Committee first planned to secure a hotel in the residential section of Paris between the Champs Elysées and the Bois, but difficulties connected with the problem of transportation made it seem essential that headquarters nearer the center of Paris be secured. Consequently, acting on the advice of the Advisory Council in Paris, the Executive Committee unanimously recommended to the trustees to rent for the period of the war the Royal Palace Hotel on the Place du Théâtre Français. This hotel is at the head of the Avenue de l'Opera and near the Louvre and the Tuileries Gardens. It is within a block of the Palais Royal station of the "Métropolitain"—the Paris subway, and accessible by all Avenue de l'Opera and Rue de Rivoli omnibuses.

GENERAL DESCRIPTION

The Royal Palace Hotel, built in 1911, has an excellent reputation and is under well established management. It faces south on an open square and has 80 outside bed rooms accommodating about one hundred and fifteen men, in addition to public rooms for reading and social purposes, and 42 modern bath rooms. There is an elevator and every other convenience. Each bed room has running water, and through the coöperation of the municipal authorities, the Union is allowed to supply hot water daily, instead of only twice a week, the usual war allowance. At the entrance, 8 rue de Richelieu, an attractive sign: "American University Union," replaces that of the Royal Palace Hotel. At the desk is kept a Register of all American College men, with their college and class, degree (if any) or department, military rank or form of service, home address, and European address. Bulletin boards carry the rules and regulations of the Union, information as to barber, laundry, suit-pressing, mending, theatre tickets, French lessons, notices of college reunions, Union entertainments, invitations to French and American homes, and similar matters of interest. A canteen or small shop has been opened in the lobby of the Union. The canteen carries books, toilet articles, flash lights, stationery, tennis balls, chocolate, tobacco, etc. Tennis rackets can also be rented. A special Purchasing Agent attends to commissions from the Bureaus and from individual members, including men who are unable to visit Paris personally.

TARIFF OF CHARGES

The restaurant has a high reputation and provides luncheon for 5 francs, and dinner for 6 francs, in addition to a very moderate priced petit déjeuner. The pension for three meals is fixed at 11 francs. Members who are on furlough in Paris for several days can secure pension at from 15 francs a day upward, everything included. A room for a single night costs from 6 francs up, a room with bath 10 francs. These charges are subject to slight modification if the Executive Committee finds this necessary. In view of the high cost of supplies in Paris, where anthracite coal sells at from $60 to $70 a ton, the tariff will, it is believed, seem moderate, especially as the franc is now the equivalent of only 17½ cents, and as no fees are expected or allowed. To prevent the "tipping" nuisance a fixed charge of 10% is made on every bill for the first week and 7% thereafter, this amount being distributed among the servants.

READING AND WRITING ROOMS

The first floor and the entresol are used for the general purposes of the Union, the separate college Bureaus being on the upper floors, visitors being assigned as far as possible to bed rooms on the same floor as the College Bureau with which they are affiliated. A separate Writing Room with desks and Union stationery is provided on the first floor.

A special feature is made of the Reading Room and Library which occupy a large room with open fireplace on the second floor. In addition to the most representative English and French periodicals, and the leading college papers, the following American newspapers and magazines are regularly on file.

The nucleus of the Library was a gift of fifty books from Chapter IV of the Colonial Dames of America, supplemented by a similar number presented by Mr. Lane of the University of Virginia, and by a set of most of the publications of the Yale University Press. Several French men of letters, much impressed by the Union as a sign of the "rapprochement" between France and the United States, have interested themselves in the Library and have presented French books. The French Foreign Office and the "Association des Universités et Ecoles Françaises" have also made generous contributions. Other suitable gifts to the Library are solicited, for the Union wishes to give its members every kind of wholesome intellectual and social refreshment.

ENTERTAINMENTS

The Executive Committee arranges occasional Sunday evening concerts at the Union. Musical talent of distinction is secured and is much appreciated. Teas are held regularly on Saturday afternoons during the winter months. The wife of the American Ambassador, officers of the Committee of French Homes and other ladies are generous of their time on such occasions, and many of the most representative homes of French and American residents in Paris are thrown open to members of the Union.

The Bureau of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, which has always taken a most generous attitude towards the Union, makes a feature of serving after-dinner coffee in its attractive headquarters.

VII LONDON BRANCH

In the autumn of 1917, Mr. Robert Grant, Jr. (Harvard), Mr. Lewis P. Sheldon (Yale), and Mr. Lawrence Tweedy (Princeton), after consultation with the Executive Committee of the Union, made arrangements for a London Branch office of the Union. Through the courtesy of the London Office of the Farmer's Loan and Trust Company of New York, rooms were provided and adequately furnished in their building at 16 Pall Mall East, S. W. 1. These rooms and the registration of American college men continued throughout the winter under the generous management of Mr. Henry King Smith, London representative of the Farmer's Loan and Trust Company.

In March, 1917, under the auspices of the Union, an American University dinner was held at the Criterion Restaurant, at which almost two hundred American college men, representing over fifty different institutions, were present. Lord Bryce was the guest of honor. At this dinner, Messrs. Grant, Sheldon, and Tweedy were elected as the nucleus of the London Advisory Council of the Union, with power to add to their number. Additional members of the Advisory Council now include Messrs. A. Chester Beatty (Columbia), J. B. MacAfee (University of Pennsylvania), George A. Mower (Massachusetts Institute of Technology), Henry King Smith (Yale), R. Edmonds Pennoyer (University of California) of the U. S. Embassy, and Mr. Yelverton (University of North Carolina) of the U. S. Consulate. Of this Council Mr. Tweedy has been chosen Chairman.

Arrangements for reduced rates were made with the Saint James's Palace Hotel, Bury Street, S. W. 1, near Piccadilly Circus and the business office of the Union. Professor J. W. Cunliffe, Associate Director of the Columbia School of Journalism, was installed as Director of the London Branch of the Union. Since then, Professor Carl Fish of the University of Wisconsin has been chosen as Associate Director, and Doctor George E. MacLean, formerly Chancellor of the University of Nebraska and President of the State University of Iowa, as Secretary of the London Branch. This staff is especially qualified to deal both with the present interests of American college men in military service in England and with the larger international educational questions affecting the period of demobilization and the permanent educational relations between British and American universities and colleges. A gratifying development has already been seen in the appointment by Oxford and Cambridge Universities of representative committees to provide hospitality for members of the Union and in other ways to further friendly relations with the Union.

VIII ROME BRANCH

In the early spring of 1918, the rooms occupied by the American Military Attaché in the Hotel Royal, Rome, were taken over by the American University Union in Europe. The hotel is centrally located on the Via XX Settembre within a few blocks of the railroad station and near the American Embassy. The Union rooms adjoin the "Bureau of Welcome and Information" established by American ladies in Rome for all American officers and men in government service. Arrangements were also made for reduced rates at the Hotel Royal for members of the Union. In May, 1918, under the auspices of the Union, an American University dinner was held, at which Mr. Thomas Nelson Page, the American Ambassador to Italy, who is an honorary patron of the Union, presided. Eighty-five were present, including various Italian guests of distinction. The Under-Secretary of State, representing the Government, the Syndic of Rome, representing the municipal authorities, the Rector of the University of Rome, and Senator Marconi, made speeches of welcome and congratulation, emphasizing the significance of the occasion to Italo-American relations, both military and educational. At this dinner the following American college men residing in Rome were elected as the Rome Advisory Council of the Union: Colonel M. C. Buckley (West Point), U. S. Military Attaché; Lieutenant-Colonel Robert P. Perkins (Harvard), Commissioner to Italy of the American Red Cross; Mr. G. P. Stevens (Massachusetts Institute of Technology), acting Director of the American Academy in Rome; Reverend Walter Lowrie (Princeton), Rector of the American Church, and Mr. Emerson MacMillin (Yale), of the American Embassy.

During the summer Professor Kenneth McKenzie, of the University of Illinois, was chosen Director for Italy of the Union, and has already assumed active charge of the Rome Branch.

IX CONSTITUTION

I. NAME

The name of the association shall be The American University Union in Europe.

II. LOCATION

The office of the association in America shall be in or near New York City. The headquarters of the association shall be in Paris, with branch agencies in London, and at such other places in the countries of the Allies as may seem desirable.

III. OBJECTS

The general object of the Union shall be to meet the needs of American university and college men and their friends who are in Europe for military or other service in the cause of the Allies, and to serve as a bond between the universities of America and those of European nations, especially by encouraging and advancing the welfare of American students at the representative universities of France, Great Britain and Italy, in such ways as the Trustees may see fit.

IV. RELATION OF UNION TO COLLEGE BUREAUS

The Union shall serve as a headquarters for the bureaus of such institutions as may decide to send their special representatives to Europe to look particularly after the interests of their own graduates and students. The internal affairs and policies of each of these bureaus, when not inconsistent with the general regulations and best interests of the Union, shall be subject to its own jurisdiction. The bureaus shall be independently financed, and if they represent colleges subscribing directly to the Union, shall pay only a moderate proportional rental for each office room occupied.

V. ORGANIZATION

The administration of the affairs of the Union shall be in the hands of three Boards, known respectively as the Board of Trustees, the Executive Committee, and the Advisory Council.

VI. BOARD OF TRUSTEES

The final responsibility and authority for the affairs of the Union shall be vested in a Board of Trustees of fifteen members, each of whom shall be a graduate of one of the institutions coöperating in supporting this Union, and not over two of whom shall have received their first degree from the same institution. Of these trustees, three shall be elected at the organization meeting. These shall have power to add three others to their number. Three members of the Board of Trustees shall be appointed, one each by the President of the University Club of New York City, the Chairman of the Red Cross War Council, and the Chairman of the Army and Navy Committee of the International Young Men's Christian Association, respectively. The remaining members of the Board shall be elected by the Board of Trustees. Each elected trustee shall be subject to the approval of the President of the university with which he is affiliated. Should any of those asked to name a trustee fail to act within a month of the time when invitations are extended, the trustees who have qualified may at any duly called meeting fill the vacancies. Vacancies among the elected trustees shall also be filled by election of the Board; other vacancies by appointment as indicated. Six members shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business.

VII. EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

An Executive Committee not to exceed seven in number shall, subject to the control of the Board of Trustees, have immediate charge of the affairs of the Union in Paris and elsewhere abroad until and unless the Board of Trustees shall decide to create other executive committees for other European branches. The Executive Committee shall have power to appoint a House Committee and other appropriate committees, to draw up and enforce rules and charges for the Union, to engage and dismiss employees within the budget of the Board of Trustees, and in other ways to act as the representative of the Board in Europe. The Executive Committee shall consist of not more than seven members to be elected by the Board of Trustees, which shall have the power to fill all vacancies, a majority of the Committee being chosen from among the official representatives in Paris of American universities or colleges. The Chairman of the Committee, who shall have the title of Director, shall be named by the Board of Trustees, and when elected shall cease to be the official representative of any University or College.

VIII. ADVISORY COUNCIL

Advisory Councils shall be established in Paris, London and Rome, consisting of representatives of American colleges residing in France, England and Italy respectively. The Councils shall be consulted by the Executive Committee on all important matters of policy, and may take the initiative in making recommendations to the Committee, which recommendations are to be considered privileged business to be given prompt attention.

IX. OFFICERS

The officers of the Board of Trustees shall be a Chairman, Vice-Chairman, Honorary Secretary and Honorary Treasurer, with the duties which generally fall to such officers. They shall be elected by the Board of Trustees and shall serve for one year and be eligible to re-election. They may be superseded at a duly called meeting by a two-thirds vote of the total membership of the Board. The Board shall appoint for service in Paris a Director, an Associate or Assistant Director (who may act as Business Manager) and a Medical Advisor, and may also appoint such other officers, agents or committees as it shall see fit to carry out the general policy outlined in this constitution. It shall also have the power to determine the official titles, salaries, allowances, and terms of service of its appointees, and to dismiss any of them for cause.

X. HONORARY PATRONS

The President of the United States and the President of the French Republic, the Secretary of War of the United States and the Secretary of the Navy, the Ambassadors of the United States to France, Great Britain and Italy, the Minister to Belgium, the General commanding the American troops in France, and such other persons of distinction as may commend themselves to the Board of Trustees may be invited to serve as Honorary Patrons.

XI. MEMBERSHIPS

Membership in the Union shall be of four classes,—college memberships, club memberships, sustaining memberships, and honorary memberships.

1. College Memberships. All universities, colleges, and technical schools in the United States of America, giving degrees recognized by the Committee on Admissions of the New York University Club and named in its published list, together with all State Universities and land grant colleges, and such other institutions as may be approved by the trustees, shall be entitled to membership on the payment of the following annual fees:

For institutions of ten thousand or more graduates, including all that have graduated over three thousand men in the preceding decade . . .	$500 a year
For institutions of from five thousand to ten thousand graduates, including all that have graduated over two thousand men in the preceding decade . . .	$250 a year
For institutions of under five thousand graduates . . .	$100 a year

Payment of these membership fees entitles the subscribing institution to all reasonable use of the services of the Union's staff of officers. It also entitles graduates, non-graduates, students, and prospective students of such institutions to the general privileges of the Union, subject to the rules and conditions laid down by the Executive Committee.

2. Club Memberships. Any University Club or other organization of American College men approved by the Board of Trustees may, by subscribing $250 a year, secure the same general privileges of the Union derived through college memberships.

3. Sustaining Memberships. Any person contributing $100 or more to the work of the Union shall be enrolled as a sustaining member for the year of the subscription.

4. Honorary Memberships. The United States Military Academy at West Point and the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis shall be accorded honorary memberships and shall secure the same privileges of the Union as are derived through college memberships.

XII. VISITORS

Any person privileged to the rights of membership in the Union as outlined in the previous section may introduce as visitors friends in war service—whether college men or not—as far as the accommodations of the Union and its House Rules will permit, but for each of such visitors a small charge will be made over and above the regular house charges.

XIII. AMENDMENTS, BY-LAWS, ETC.

This constitution may be interpreted, added to or amended by the Board of Trustees at any duly called meeting, but the Board shall effect no fundamental change in the constitution without notifying at least a week in advance the Presidents of all institutions subscribing to college memberships, inviting an expression of their opinions on proposals. The Board of Trustees may adopt its own by-laws as to meetings, order of business, etc.

The suggestion in the last line is covered by the clause in the constitution which states that the Union is intended for "college men and their friends."

XI REPORT OF THE CHAIRMAN

To the Board of Trustees of the American University Union in Europe.

GENTLEMEN :—I beg to submit herewith a brief report of the work of the Union for the first year of its existence. The new pamphlet showing over 140 subscribing institutions and giving an account of the headquarters in Paris and of its branches in London and Rome is of itself adequate testimony to the success of the Union. It has the great advantage of being an institution that was developed to meet actual needs and not merely a theoretical plan established as an experiment. Its main original object was "to meet the needs of American college men and their friends in war service" while a supplementary object from the first and one now incorporated in the Constitution is "to serve as a bond between the universities of America and those of European nations, especially by encouraging the attendance and advancing the welfare of American students at the representative universities of France, Great Britain and Italy, in such ways as the Trustees may see fit." The fact that over 14,000 American college men abroad registered with the Union during the first year of its existence and that these registrations came from 385 American colleges, universities, and higher technical schools is evidence that an American collegiate headquarters abroad is appreciated.

But statistics are cold and do not reflect those important realities for which the words "service" and "atmosphere" stand. Anyone who has been to the Union in Paris during the war realizes the great service it is rendering by giving its members a home, an opportunity to get in touch with their friends, the advantage of helpful counsel and practical assistance, and in general the privileges of a simple club with restaurant, library, reading-room, bedrooms, occasional receptions and entertainments, etc. On the social side the work of the Union has been greatly aided by the various college bureaus, eight of which have been established, namely, the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Yale, Princeton, New England, Michigan, Virginia, Columbia, and Washington Bureaus. These have generously opened their rooms to men from all colleges but they are especially helpful in providing centers for men from the same institution. The combination of war interest and college interest is always uppermost in the Bureaus and talks about their open fires where men from different college generations meet together with the official representative of the institution are delightful features of the Union's life. The Bureaus do much to maintain the ideals of American college life, and hundreds of letters testify to the soldiers' appreciation of their privileges. I am glad to bear testimony from personal experience of all the Bureaus to their value to their own members, and to the exceedingly coöperative attitude that those in charge of them have always shown in the general work of the Union. It is not too much to say that the great majority of American college men who have stopped at the Union look upon it as their home in France, and turn to its officers for advice and counsel in countless ways.

The second function of the Union, which is to serve as a bond between the institutions of higher learning in America and those in France and other Allied countries, has proven even more successful than was anticipated. Especially through the efforts of Professors Nettleton, vanDyke and Vibbert, and of Mr. Hyde in Paris, and of Professor Cunliffe and President MacLean in London, close bonds have been developed between the Union and the educational institutions of France and England. This has shown itself in many striking ways including the proposal of the Rapprochement Universitaire to hold a solemn festival at the Sorbonne in honor of the entrance of American college men into the war with the officers of the Union as guests of honor, the formal receptions tendered to the Union by various social and academic organizations, the gifts to the Library from the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and the Ministry of Education, the invitations extended by Oxford and Cambridge to Union members on furlough and on special visits, the coöperation of the "Association des Universités et Ecoles Françaises" with the Union in various educational projects both in France and America, and in many other ways. It is delightful to see so many distinguished French professors and men of letters visiting the Union and consulting its officers on all manner of subjects involving America and Franco-American relations. It seemed appropriate that at the invitation of Mr. Hyde, the Rectors of the French universities were invited to dine at the Union last spring, an invitation which was accepted by all with the exception of one who was ill at the time. It is not too much to say that the authorities of the French Ministry of Education and of the French universities recognize the Union as a potent factor for international good will, and one whose significance is likely to increase after the war.

I may perhaps sum up the impression which the Union has made in Paris in the words of a distinguished member of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs who told me that he had agreed to provide the "Revue Hebdomadaire" with three articles on "the three great American organizations working in France," namely the Red Cross, the Y. M. C. A. and the University Union.

To lay the foundations of a new and novel institution in a foreign city in the midst of war was no easy task, and too much praise cannot be given to Professor Nettleton, the Director, and to Mr. VanRensselaer Lansingh who has resigned after completing one year's service as Assistant Director and Business Manager. Through Mr. Nettleton's tact, good judgment and ability as a diplomat and administrator are due in large measure the success of the enterprise, while Mr. Lansingh's indefatigable energy and large business capacity have also proven invaluable. Every member of the Executive Committee has also rendered most useful service; Mr. Hyde, especially in connection with dealings with French officials, Mr. vanDyke through his work as acting director in the Director's absence, Mr. Vibbert through his many points of contact with the French people both within and without the University circle, and Mr. Crenshaw through his assistance on the side of publicity. The members of the Advisory Committee under the Chairmanship of Mr. Tuck have also aided substantially in giving the Executive Committee the advice and help of a group of resident Americans who understand thoroughly the local situation.

I am sorry to have to report the death during the year of two members of our staff abroad, Mr. Evert Wendell of Harvard, one of the finest representatives of American college life, and Professor Alderfer of Oberlin College whose death left a gap in the staff of the Union which it has been hard to fill. Both these men exemplified in their personal life that spirit of unselfish service which is essential to any institution.

The work in London was not started until April. Conditions there have made the development of the social side of the work much more difficult than in Paris, because the Y. M. C. A. officers' hotels afford such excellent accommodations at low rates and because the number of American college men passing through London is naturally much smaller than is the case in Paris. Professor Cunliffe has, however, conducted the office in a most satisfactory way and made it a useful center for information and registration, while his activities as the representative of American educational institutions have been eminently successful. The London Advisory Committee under the leadership of Messrs. Tweedy (Princeton), Grant (Harvard) and Sheldon (Yale) originated the work and have been most coöperative in making it effective. President MacLean and Mrs. Cunliffe have been very helpful, especially in dealing with individual men, their needs and their problems. The London Branch has the disadvantage of having its office a few blocks distant from the social center at the hotel, but it is difficult without spending a large sum of money and duplicating the efforts of the Y. M. C. A. to provide an adequate unified headquarters such as we have in Paris.

The headquarters secured in Italy at the Hotel Royal in Rome seem very satisfactory. Professor McKenzie and Mrs. McKenzie have only recently taken up the work. It is believed, however, that the opportunity for intensive service to the hundreds of American college men in or near Rome in connection with the Army, Navy and relief organizations will afford a useful field for work, while Professor McKenzie is admirably qualified to cultivate permanent relations of significance with the Italian universities, and to aid the cause of the Italo-American rapprochement.

To those of us connected with the Union it has been a source of great pleasure to find all American colleges, universities, and other schools of higher learning uniting so heartily in the support of this institution for the helpful service of their men overseas. It is noticeable that the list of coöperating institutions includes all the most representative state and privately endowed institutions, Catholic and denominational colleges, state agricultural colleges, endowed universities, state universities, etc. The Union has tried to serve all alike, and its staff secretaries have sent regularly lists of graduates and former students from every member institution who have registered at the Union with information as to their addresses, rank, etc. It has met the needs of American college men, irrespective of whether they are privates or generals, the military authorities having assented to the proposition that the Union was like a social club and that the fact that a man was connected with an American institution of learning was evidence of a common experience which would prevent any friction arising from officers and men making use of the same accommodations. There has never been the slightest difficulty due to this cause.

It is also significant of the influence of the American institutions of learning that they should have united in the midst of the great world war to render this practical service to their men. In this connection it is worth recording that to prevent any possible lack of democracy the Union has always welcomed the friends of college men, whether they are college graduates or not, and that during the year only a single case has been reported to the House Committee of the abuse by any member of club privileges.

The Constitution has been amended during the year so as to make the number of trustees "not to exceed fifteen." It is believed to be representative of American institutions of learning and now that the success of its undertaking has been assured, it is hoped that friends may be forthcoming who will provide the Board with sufficient gifts to income and to endowment to insure the permanency of its work.

I wish to express in behalf of all the trustees my great appreciation of their unfailing coöperation. I am especially under obligations to the other officers, President Hutchins, the Vice Chairman, Mr. Pierce, the Secretary, and Mr. Thompson, the Treasurer. Mr. Hutchins' interest and judgment have been invaluable. Mr. Thompson has been the mainstay of our financial campaign and a far-sighted counsellor who has always placed his time generously at the disposal of the Union, while Mr. Pierce's services as secretary have involved arduous work which he has accomplished most successfully, especially in building up the membership of the Union.

The trustees have taken definite steps to insure the permanency of the work in Paris through coöperation with the "Maison des Etudiants," an organization of representative American and French university men to whom the Municipality has presented a very desirable site for an American student headquarters. The details of the plan will be sent to coöperating institutions in the near future. Both the Executive Committee and the trustees are fully persuaded that the Union must be a permanent institution in Paris serving American college men who go to France for graduate study, and helping to interpret to France the higher life of America. It is also probable that some permanent organization will be effected in London.

In closing, I wish to point out that the year's work has been completed with the expenditure of a relatively small sum, less than $50,000. When the actual service rendered to the thousands of American college men is considered as well as the influence of the Union in creating a friendly feeling between America and the intellectual leaders of the allied countries, the amount of money expended seems insignificant. This is particularly true when we realize that we are laying the foundations of a permanent institution which should be of large significance to American education after the war. The increase in our Army from less than 200,000 men in France when the Royal Palace Hotel was taken, to nearly 2,000,000 men to-day, makes it imperative that larger quarters should be secured. This will undoubtedly involve increased expense. The trustees are of the opinion that if they can keep the budget within $100,000 during the coming year they can count on the support of all the institutions which have united in establishing the Union. This stands abroad for service and international good will on the part of America's schools and colleges of learning.

Respectfully submitted,

Chairman

XII REPORT OF THE DIRECTOR

October 9, 1918

To the Board of Trustees.

GENTLEMEN:—I beg to submit herewith the following annual report prepared in accordance with the resolution of the Board of Trustees at its meeting on October 7, 1918.

Two dates are especially significant in the history of the American University Union in Europe. On July 6, 1917, the adoption of its Constitution at a meeting of representatives of various American universities and colleges gave definite form and authority to the organization in the United States. On October 20, 1917, the opening of the Royal Palace Hotel in Paris as the European headquarters of the Union gave actual life and vitality to the work undertaken abroad in behalf of American college men in war service. The Director's report will deal only with the main features of the European development of the Union during the past year.

GENERAL ORGANIZATION

From the outset the plan of the Union was conceived broadly. Though its main activity centers inevitably in France, branches are maintained in England and Italy. These are not isolated and independent but integral parts of one central organization—"The American University Union in Europe." The London and Rome Branches work in close coöperation with the Paris headquarters and under the supervision of its central Executive Committee. This ensures unity of policy and coördination of effort.

THE UNION IN PARIS

(a) As an American social center and college organization

The primary object of the Union is to meet the needs of American college men and their friends in service in the cause of the Allies. Within eleven months after the opening of the Paris headquarters, the Union registered upwards of 14,000 American college men, from 385 different institutions of learning, representing every form of active military and naval service and of war relief. Registrations at Paris, in person or by mail, now exceed 2,000 per month and are increasing steadily. The number of new men registering in person has sometimes exceeded 100 a day, with mail registrations running as high as 60 a day. The Union has thus been from the beginning a notable meeting-place and social center in Paris for Americans in war service—a home where men from all colleges and from every state have met and made friends. As in university and college clubs in the United States, men of every military rank have met without constraint, finding the memories and associations of student days strengthened in the democracy of a common service.

On the physical side, the Union provides the ordinary facilities of a simple and comfortable club. It has 115 beds, 40 bathrooms and a good restaurant, at moderate prices, writing, reading and lounging rooms, and an excellent library. It keeps on file a score or more of the leading American newspapers, a wide range of weekly and monthly magazines, and the various publications of scores of American colleges. From departments of the French government, the Union library has received notable accessions of books dealing with France and with the war,—in especial, a Christmas gift of a set of the French literary classics, sent as “the best that France can offer to her friends.” Many French authors and editors have presented copies of their works. The nucleus of a good English library has also been formed, partly through the generous coöperation of the American Library Association, and partly through such gifts as that of fifty volumes from the Yale University Press.

The social life of the Union has been developed by frequent all-college and individual college dinners and smokers, by concerts, exhibitions of French official war-films, Saturday afternoon teas at which American and French ladies have acted as hostesses, and by informal lectures and talks. The Union maintains for its patrons a small shop or “canteen,” and for men at the front or on service outside of Paris a purchasing department which has proved of constant service. It has a bureau of information, with lists of selected French pensions and French teachers. It aims to provide mail, storage, and shipment facilities, and in general to serve the needs of its thousands of transient visitors as far as possible. On the practical side the Union is thus, first of all, an American university social center and club, specially adapted to war conditions in a country where differences of language and customs make its services peculiarly valuable.

(b) As a war relief organization

Through its central offices and through the various special bureaus maintained by individual colleges, the Union has rendered personal service of every sort. During its opening months, for example, its officers and staff were consulted by hundreds of members of the American Field Ambulance who, at the expiration of their terms of voluntary service, were often at a loss whether to seek commissions or enlistment in regular service abroad or to return home. Within the limits permitted by military regulations, the various members of the Union and college bureau staffs have corresponded with families at home and with colleges that are members of the Union concerning men in service, have rendered financial assistance in numerous cases often of critical need, have visited the sick and wounded, and have given counsel and aid to many otherwise without accessible friends. Letters alike from men in service and from their relatives at home constantly show deep appreciation of this important aspect of the work of the Union.

The Union has constantly proceeded in entire sympathy and harmony with the various other American war relief organizations in Europe. It has received from them most cordial encouragement and assistance and, in return, has coöperated to the extent of its ability both with them and with American and French officials in many matters important to the welfare of the American forces abroad. Its representatives have also served freely as speakers at Y. M. C. A. and other American centers and huts throughout France, as visitors especially at the Red Cross hospitals in and near Paris, and as members of various joint American committees.

LONDON AND ROME BRANCHES

In September, 1917, a committee of American college graduates resident in London, in coöperation with the officers of the Union, organized a branch office in London at 16 Pall Mall, East. In March, 1918, arrangements were made to enlarge the office facilities and to provide hotel accommodations at the Saint James's Palace Hotel, Bury Street. Professor J. W. Cunliffe, of Columbia University, was installed as resident Director, and has been generously assisted by Doctor George E. MacLean, formerly Chancellor of the University of Nebraska and President of the State University of Iowa. The staff has recently been further strengthened by the appointment of Professor Carl Fish, professor of history at the University of Wisconsin, as Associate Director in London. In May, 1918, a branch of the Union was established at Rome, with an office centrally located at the Royal Hotel. Professor Kenneth McKenzie, professor and head of the department of Romance languages at the University of Illinois, has recently taken active charge as Director of the Italian Branch. Though operating necessarily on a smaller scale than the headquarters at Paris, these branches of the Union aim to render similar services. During the coming year the work already successfully inaugurated will be considerably extended.

THE UNION AS AN EDUCATIONAL BOND BETWEEN THE UNITED STATES AND THE ALLIES

From the outset, the founders of the Union had definitely in mind its large possibilities of service in promoting closer educational and intellectual relations between the United States and the Allied countries. In November, 1917, Oxford and Cambridge Universities appointed committees to coöperate with the Union. Arrangements were carried out for week-end excursions of American college men and for individual visits to Oxford and Cambridge. The American University dinner in March, 1918, arranged by the Union, at which Lord Bryce was guest of honor, was another recognition of the bonds between British and American universities. At a similar dinner of the Union in Rome, many Italian guests of distinction were present, including representatives of the government and city, the Rector of the University of Rome, and several of its professors. Professor Cunliffe has visited many of the leading British universities. Doctor MacLean, who has already published extensive studies of the universities of England, Scotland, Wales and Ireland, has gathered materials for a hand-book concerning their present facilities for American students. The Union coöperated with the University of Cambridge in its arrangements for the program of its Summer Session, at which three of the officers of the Union and various other American professors were lecturers. In these and similar ways the London and Rome Branches of the Union have been in friendly relation with the educational institutions in their respective countries.

The most marked proofs of the service of the Union in cementing educational relations between the United States and the Allied countries have naturally been shown at the Paris headquarters. A prominent Frenchman recently remarked that the Union in France had already become not merely the most representative center for American college men and American educational interests abroad, but an organization of recognized influence in Franco-American affairs. The first public function of the Union was a reception given especially to French educational leaders. The "Office National des Universités et Ecoles Françaises," conducted by M. Petit Dutailis, has made the Union a medium for the distribution in the United States of various official documents—in particular, concerning its facilities for providing French teachers for American colleges and schools. The Union has thus been enabled to secure already for several of the leading colleges and preparatory schools French teachers officially recommended.

Through the same central office there was tendered to the Union in December, 1917, a generous offer of the educational resources throughout France for instruction, especially in the French language, of the American military forces. This offer and a subsequent one from another French official bureau of the services of French officers capable of giving addresses in English to our forces, were transmitted to the American Y. M. C. A. and have been utilized in the plans of their Educational Department for the work of the Army Overseas Educational Commission.

The interest of the Union from the outset in these far-reaching educational developments was shown by the appointment in January, 1918 of Mr. Stokes, chairman of the board of Trustees of the Union, as Acting Director of the Educational Department of the American Y. M. C. A. He organized the department and prepared two extensive memoranda dealing with the educational program for the American army (a) during the period of hostilities, (b) during the period of demobilization. These memoranda received in February, 1918, the official approval of the Commander-in-Chief of the American Expeditionary Forces. Since the return of Mr. Stokes to the United States he has been concerned with the organization of the American Army Overseas Educational Commission on the lines already approved. The Union has offered the coöperation of its central and branch organizations in Europe to the European Commission, whose chairman is Professor Erskine, of Columbia University.

The "Rapprochement Universitaire," an association of French university professors and intellectual leaders, gave a reception to the staff of the Union, and formulated plans for a public ceremony in the amphitheater of the Sorbonne in honor of the entrance of American college men into the war, and in particular recognition of the American University Union. These plans, which received the approval of the American Commander-in-Chief in France, had to be abandoned on account of the threatened German offensive, but they were nevertheless proof of the cordial reception accorded by the French university world to the work of the Union. M. Paul Deschanel, President of the Chamber of Deputies, formally received the officers and staff of the Union, at a reception attended by representative professors and educational leaders in Paris and by the Rectors of the provincial universities. The "Cercle Artistique et Littéraire" has elected to its membership many of the members of the staff of the Union. Two of their number have served as American members of the committee which has organized throughout the year the notable series of weekly Franco-American dinners, at which the speakers have included many of the most eminent French and American diplomats, government and military officers, and leaders in the various war activities and organizations.

Through the courtesy of various departments of the French Government, the officers of the Union have been frequently designated as American representatives and speakers at various official functions—such as the series of manifestations organized throughout France on the Fourth of July and the ceremonies in connection with the visit of the American Labor Commission to Paris. Similarly, to the Allied memorial demonstration at LeHavre, under the auspices of the Belgian government, on the anniversary of the destruction of Louvain, the American speaker was an officer of the Union. To these and to many less formal functions representatives of the Union have been invited with the utmost cordiality.

The "Association of French Homes" has throughout the year extended generous hospitality both to members of the Union in Paris and to officers on leave throughout France. Its American Advisory Committee consists of one representative from the American Red Cross, one from the American Y. M. C. A., and one from the Union. The Union issues a weekly bulletin showing the various French homes open in Paris for the entertainment of our officers and men in military service. Receptions, teas, musicales, and informal luncheons and dinners are frequently given. Upwards of seven hundred men from the Union have availed themselves of these unusual privileges of hospitality offered by French families in Paris. The "Association" has been formally recognized by both the French and American military authorities. During the coming year the opportunities of entertainment of American officers on leave will be largely increased through the local French committees already organized throughout the country. The fundamental idea of the "Association" is to offer to Americans in service in a foreign country the hospitality of homes which may, in some measure, replace their own which they are unable to revisit. The Union has in every way coöperated with these most generous and far-reaching plans.

Throughout the year the Union has constantly welcomed, both formally and informally, many French visitors. Such functions as a general Franco-American reception on the French national holiday, July 14, and a dinner to M. Tardieu and the members of his commission have been supplemented by many informal dinners and entertainments for French friends. The Union files of American college catalogues, as well as its newspapers and library, have been of frequent service to them. The college bureaus, as well as the Union, have been most hospitable to French visitors. It would be possible to multiply greatly the illustrations already given of the value of the Union in strengthening the educational and social ties between the United States and the Allied countries. The examples cited, however, should suffice to indicate not merely definite results obtained during the first year of the history of the Union, but its opportunities for the future.

The second fundamental purpose of the Union, that of strengthening the educational bonds between the United States and the Allied countries, has already been served in no small degree. The initial difficulties of converting a theoretical plan into practical realization have been overcome. The Union has thus the advantage of an established organization, which has demonstrated its ability to serve alike the present needs of war and the no less certain and more enduring needs of peace.

THE FUTURE OF THE UNION

It is already evident that the Union has laid the foundations for large and permanent service to American educational interests abroad. Throughout the remaining period of the war and during the time of demobilization it will continue increasingly to render essential personal service to American college men on military duty abroad. Unlike many war relief organizations, however, its work will not end with the return to the United States of our military forces. Without premature announcement of plans, it is possible to feel assured that the work already accomplished in promoting international educational relations will not be suffered to lapse. The Union, especially in France, has already become a recognized clearing-house for these common educational interests. Even despite war conditions, it has begun to further international interchange of professors and students, to furnish information to foreign students desirous of coming to the United States, and to Americans already contemplating study abroad. It has established contact with representative foreign universities and with educational leaders, especially in France, Great Britain and Italy. Its bureaus in these countries should act increasingly as educational embassies, serving American educational and intellectual relations with these countries, as our official embassies serve political and diplomatic relations. They will remain American agencies, but mindful of foreign as well as American educational interests. The service of the Union to the cause of international relations will not, however, be limited to the countries where it at present maintains branches. Its officers have already been consulted concerning various educational plans and institutions in Belgium, Switzerland, Spain, and Denmark. These are alike illustrations of the possibilities for future development and proof of the need of permanent organization of American educational interests abroad.

CONCLUSION

This report of the Director to the Trustees cannot conclude without an expression of appreciation, however inadequate, of the spirit of service and sacrifice shown by all those connected with the Union, whether as members of its Executive Committee and general staff, or of the different college bureaus which have steadily subordinated individual advantage to the common interest, or as members of the Advisory Councils whose support has been unstinted and whose coöperation has been essential. Without attempting to specify in detail the services rendered by the various individuals who are still connected with the active staff of the Union, it is fitting to mention in particular the especially effective and loyal service of Mr. VanRensselaer Lansingh during the first critical year of the Union's history. He served as Assistant Director and Business Manager, and though his active connection with the work abroad has now ceased, its influence will be permanent. Two of our number, Evert J. Wendell, of the Board of Advisors, of Harvard University, and J. Franklin Alderfer, Professor at Oberlin University, have died abroad during their terms of active connection with the Union. Their names belong on that Roll of Honor which includes all those, in whatever service, who have given to the utmost all that they have and all that they are.

AMERICAN UNIVERSITY UNION IN EUROPE.

Head Office: 8 RUE DE RICHELIEU, PARIS.

London Hotel Headquarters—

ST. JAMES'S PALACE HOTEL,
BURY STREET, S.W. 1.

London Office—

16 PALL MALL EAST,
S.W. 1.

The American University Union in Europe asks the attention of all American college men, especially of those in active war service, to the plans for the development of its London Branch.

MEMBERSHIP AND PURPOSE OF UNION.

More than one hundred Universities and Colleges in the United States, including West Point and Annapolis, have now officially joined the American University Union in Europe and contribute to its financial support. The Honorary Patrons are, in the United States, the Secretary of War and the Secretary of the Navy, and, in Europe, the American Ambassadors to Great Britain, France, and Italy, and General Pershing. Its work has been developed in entire accord with that of the American Red Cross and Y.M.C.A. Its general object is "to meet the needs of American university and college men and their friends who are in Europe for military or other service in the cause of the Allies." Its central headquarters are the Royal Palace Hotel, 8 rue de Richelieu, Paris, of which it has exclusive use, and at which upwards of 5,000 American college men have already been registered. The Union offers its privileges freely to men of all colleges in the United States, whether graduates or not.

LONDON AMERICAN UNIVERSITY DINNER.

On 14 March, 1918, an American University Dinner was held at the Criterion Restaurant, London, at which Lord Bryce was the guest of honor. There were present 167 men, representing 51 different American universities and colleges. At that time the dinner committee, Mr. Lewis P. Sheldon (Yale), Mr. Robert Grant, Jr. (Harvard), and Mr. Lawrence L. Tweedy (Princeton), were elected as the London Advisory Council of the American University Union, with power to add to their number. In consultation with them the officers of the Union have made the following arrangements to develop the work of the Union in England.

LONDON OFFICE.

In September, 1917, through the efforts of Messrs. Sheldon, Grant and Tweedy, and with the generous co-operation of Mr. Henry King Smith of the Farmers' Loan & Trust Company, a London Branch Office of the Union was opened at 16, Pall Mall East, London, S.W. 1. About 200 American college men have already registered there. Through the courtesy of the Farmers' Loan & Trust Co., the entire first floor has now been given over to the Union. A large writing and reading room, plentifully supplied with American newspapers and periodicals, together with a Bureau of Information and Registration, will be open from 9.30 a.m. to 5 p.m. (Saturday till 1 p.m.). A duplicate file of all registrations in the Paris office will be kept here. The office will be in charge of Professor J. W. Cunliffe, of Columbia University, who has been appointed Director of the London Branch of the Union.

HOTEL HEADQUARTERS.

Excellent hotel arrangements have been secured, at reduced rates, for all American college men, at the St. James's Palace Hotel, Bury Street. This hotel is admirably situated near Piccadilly Circus and not far from the Union office at 16 Pall Mall East. A large writing and reading room and lounge on the ground floor is reserved for the exclusive use of members of the Union. Rooms may also be had at hotels near by under the same management. The restaurant of the St. James's Palace Hotel is open at special rates to members of the Union, whether or not they occupy rooms. The St. James's Palace Hotel will thus become a convenient and attractive center for all American college men in London.

OXFORD AND CAMBRIDGE.

Oxford and Cambridge Universities have appointed representative committees of hospitality to encourage visits to them by American college men. An unusual opportunity is thus given to see the English universities under the most favorable conditions. Members of the American University Union who wish to avail themselves of the privilege may do so by arrangement with the Director of the London Branch of the Union.

REGISTRATION.

All American college men in Great Britain are urged to register, either in person or by mail, their name, college and class, degree, (if any), and European mail address. Registration blanks may be had on application to the London office.

HOTEL RESERVATIONS AND INQUIRIES.

Applications for rooms should be addressed direct to the St. James's Palace Hotel, Bury Street, (Telegrams : "Suppings, London").

Inquiries, except as to Hotel reservations, should be addressed to the Director of the London Branch of the American University Union, 16 Pall Mall East, London, S.W. 1.

The purpose of the American University Union in Europe is to serve in every way the interests of men from any College in the United States, who, whether graduates or not, are regarded as members of the Union. All American college men are requested to co-operate promptly with the Director of the London Branch of the Union in order to render its work effective.

GEORGE HENRY NETTLETON,

Director of the American University Union in Europe.

2 April, 1918.

AMERICAN UNIVERSITY UNION IN EUROPE
8, Rue de Richelieu, Paris.

To American college men in military service abroad:

This bulletin is issued to inform American college men in service abroad of the possibilities of study in French, British, and other universities and higher schools of learning in Europe. The general administration of educational work for the American military forces is vested in the Army Overseas Educational Commission of the Y.M.C.A., whose chairman is Professor Erskine of Columbia University. This Commission was appointed by the Y.M.C.A. in consultation with the Trustees of the American University Union in Europe, whose chairman, Secretary Stokes of Yale University, acted as Educational Director for the Y.M.C.A. during the winter of 1917. He prepared two memoranda outlining a general educational programme (a) for the period of the war (b) for the period of demobilization. These memoranda were officially approved by General Pershing in February 1918.

That which immediately concerns American college men is the opportunity offered during the period of demobilization for study in foreign universities. Within a few weeks an Army order will be issued giving detailed information. The immediate steps to be taken by those desiring to present themselves as candidates to be accorded leave to pursue study abroad are these: (1) to file a preliminary application with the applicant's commanding officer (2) to forward to Professor Erskine, 10 rue de l'Elysee, Paris, a written statement giving concisely and specifically (a) the applicant's previous college training and qualifications for advanced study (b) the branch of study he prefers to follow (c) the place of study he prefers (for example France, Great Britain, Italy. If the applicant wishes to study in France or in Italy he should state his knowledge of the language) (d) extent to which applicant could meet his expenses.

The officers of the American University Union are working in entire cooperation with the Army Overseas Educational Commission, and may be consulted personally or by letter concerning individual problems. Letters of inquiry to the headquarters of the Union in France should be addressed Educational Department, American University Union in Europe, 8 rue de Richelieu, Paris. Professor Cunliffe, Director of the London Branch of the Union, should be addressed at 16 Pall Mall East, S.W.1; Professor McKenzie, Director of the Italian Branch of the Union, at the Hotel Royal, Rome. While the officers of the Union are ready to assist as far as possible with information, advice and letters of introduction and recommendation, it should be distinctly understood that leaves are granted only by military authority, and that the Army Overseas Educational Commission is the body officially charged with the actual administration of the educational work for the Army.

Very truly yours,
EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE. of the American University Union in Europe

THE AMERICAN UNIVERSITY UNION IN EUROPE

DEVELOPMENT OF LONDON BRANCH

APPOINTMENT OF DIRECTOR OF LONDON BRANCH

On February 23, 1918, Professor J.W.Gunliffe, of Columbia University, previously appointed by the Board of Trustees of the Union as one of the general staff secretaries, arrived in Paris. On February 25, by action, of the Executive Committee, subsequently confirmed by the Board of Trustees, Professor Gunliffe was made Director of the London Branch of the Union. It is understood that the London Branch, and such Continental branches as may be established at Rome and elsewhere, will be under the general control of the Central Executive Committee of the Union at Paris, which, in turn, is subject to the final authority of the Board of Trustees in America.

At its meeting on February 25, the Executive Committee authorized the Director and Assistant Director to go to London to investigate the general situation and to make such preliminary arrangements as seemed advisable to develop the London Branch of the Union and to secure the appointment of an Advisory Council in London similar to that already existing in Paris. The Director and Assistant Director arrived in London March 4, 1918,

AMERICAN UNIVERSITY DINNER IN LONDON

As a first tangible step towards consolidating the interests of American college men in England, plans were formed immediately at the suggestion of Mr. Lewis P. Sheldon, of the American Embassy, for an American University dinner. Mr. Sheldon, Mr. Robert Grant, Jr., and Mr. Laurence L. Tweedy -- to whose joint efforts was due the establishment in London last September of a branch office of the Union -- constituted themselves a dinner committee and made all necessary arrangements. The dinner was held on March 14. 167 men were present representing 51 different American universities and colleges. Lord Bryce was the guest of honor, and his speech on Anglo-American relations in general and on the mutual sympathies between British and American university men in particular attracted attention in the London press. The other speakers were Professor Russell H. Chittenden, American representative of the Interallied Food Commission, and the Director of the University Union.

LONDON ADVISORY COUNCIL

At the University dinner at London Advisory Council for the Union was selected consisting of Messrs. Lewis P. Sheldon (Yale), Mr. Robert Grant, Jr. (Harvard), and Mr. Laurence L. Tweedy (Princeton), with power to add to their number. This committee has subsequently added to its membership Mr. A. Chester Beatty (Columbia), Mr. John Blair Mac Afee (Pennsylvania), Mr. G.A.Mower (Massachusetts Institute of Technology), and Mr. Henry King Smith

(Yale), Vice-President in London of the Farmers' Loan and Trust Co., through whose courtesy the Union has obtained its business office at 16 Pall Mall East. Since the formation last September of the London Branch of the Union and until the appointment of Professor Cunliffe as its resident director, Mr. Smith personally conducted the registration, correspondence and general business of the office. At a meeting of the Advisory Council on April 25, on the occasion of Mr. Stokes's visit to London, Mr. Tweedy was elected Chairman of the Advisory Council, and it was decided to invite certain other alumni permanently resident in London and representing different American colleges to join the Council. The advice and direct aid of the London Advisory Council have already proved of great value to the Union.

The arrangements finally concluded by the officers of the Union are as follows--

BUSINESS OFFICE

On account of its central location, business and banking facilities, and the advantage of maintaining an already well established mail address, it seemed advisable to continue the London office established at 16 Pall Mall East. Through the courtesy of the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, the Union is now given, free of rent, the entire first floor of the Company's building. The rooms have been generously and comfortably equipped, and are adequate for the transaction of business and for the comfort and convenience of patrons. A large writing and reading room plentifully supplied with American newspaper and periodicals together with a bureau of information and registration will be open from 9 30 A.M. to 5 P.M. daily, and on Saturdays to 1 P.M. There will be accessible a duplicate file of all registrations in the Paris Office, now approximating 9,000 in number. Professor Cunliffe has secured competent secretarial and stenographic assistance.

HOTEL HEADQUARTERS

Excellent hotel arrangements have been conducted with the St. James's Palace Hotel on Bury Street, near Jermyn Street and Piccadilly Circus. Our experience in Paris has emphasized the importance of a central location. The St. James's Palace Hotel gives us similar advantages in London. This Hotel, thoroughly modern, is well equipped and the management is especially efficient. The arrangement with the hotel involves the Union with no financial responsibility or guarantee. It secures for members of the Union, including civilians as well as men in active military service, the same special reduced rates which are given to British officers, representing very considerable reductions from the usual tariff. In return for its patronage the Union receives free of cost exclusive use of a large room, formerly used as a ball-room, on the ground floor opening directly from the main lobby of the hotel. This has been refurnished at the expense of the hotel management as a lounging, writing and reading room and should prove an attractive gathering place for members of the Union. Under the same management as the St. James's Palace Hotel is the Felix Hotel close by on Jermyn Street. In this hotel practically all the rooms have private bath and here also reduced rates have been secured for members of the Union.

OXFORD AND CAMBRIDGE

The Director and Assistant Director spent one week end at Cambridge and one at Oxford, meeting with the Committees of Hospitality appointed by the Universities and perfecting arrangements for visits to them by American college men. Professor Cunliffe is organizing a visit to Cambridge for the week-end of May 24 to 26 and to Oxford for the week-end of May 31 to June 2. It is thought that American College men in service will appreciate especially these opportunities to visit the English universities under favorable conditions and to see the military training there conducted.

BRANCH OFFICE AT ROME

Plans for the expansion of the American University Union in Europe early included the establishment of a branch at Rome, as a center for the interests of the Union in Italy. In November, 1917, Mr. Thomas Nelson Page, the American Ambassador to Italy, consented to become an Honorary Patron of the Union. In April, 1918, Mr. Stokes, Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Union, visited Rome. With the assistance of various members of the Embassy staff, of the American Military Attaché at Rome, and of the Acting Director of the American Academy at Rome, Mr. Stokes investigated the general situation and made tentative arrangements for offices for a Roman branch of the Union. This will be located in the Hotel Royal, in rooms hitherto occupied by the American Military Attaché, and adjoining those of the "Bureau of Information and Welcome" for Americans in service, conducted by Mrs. Thomas Nelson Page and other American ladies. The Executive Committee has authorized the Director and Secretary, Professor van Dyke, to visit Rome and make all necessary arrangements to carry out the plans initiated by Mr. Stokes.

ADDENDUM - Word has just been received that Mr. R. Edmonds Pennoyer (California), of the U.S. Embassy, and Mr. Yelverton (North Carolina) of the U.S. Consulate, have accepted elections to the London Advisory Council.

Activities of the Union in France

To the Board of Trustees of the American University Union in Europe

Gentlemen:

Your Executive Committee presents herewith a report dealing with the extension of the activities of the Union in France. The report will discuss the developments of the Union (1) in its internal (2) in its external aspects.

1. Internal Developments

Without attempting to review the numerous details of the daily history of the Union, at its Paris headquarters, it is possible to make some generalizations based on the experience of the first quarter-year.

A. Room rental guarantee

First of all, the contract with the Royal Palace Hotel has, after a fair test, been fully justified. Since the tenth night the hotel has been continuously filled practically to capacity. Within the first two months the total room-rent required for the first three months under our guarantee, was almost reached. Almost from the outset it has been evident that no actual payment by the Union would be necessary. It has been proved possible to add, on the sixth floor, seven small single bedrooms, renting at five francs a day each. These have been constantly occupied and have increased considerably the surplus on room-rentals above the required guarantee. The removal of several of the important U. S. services from Paris during the month of January has taken from the Union many of its regular residents, but the influx of transients has fully offset this loss. The attendant uncertainties in the situation, coupled with those of heating, made it seem unwise to the Executive Committee to attempt, at least during the winter, any definite expansion of the Union beyond its present quarters. But the occasional overflow of guests has been satisfactorily accommodated in adjacent hotels, and, in general, the Union has proved reasonably adequate to demands upon it.

B. The Restaurant

The restaurant has been maintained thus far at the prices originally fixed. In consideration of the advance in cost of food and service, and in harmony with the spirit of the contract, the Executive Committee has agreed a slight raise in prices to be effective February 1st. The price of dejeuner will be advanced from 4.50 to 5 francs, and of dinner from 5.50 to 6 francs. The charges of the Hotel Montana are respectively 7 and 8 francs for these meals, and in general hotels of similar rank have since October made similar advances in prices. It is felt, accordingly, that in view of war conditions the proposed moderate increase is reasonable. The price of pension (three meals) has been increased from 10 to 11 francs a day, but it has been provided that officers and secretaries of the Union and of college bureaus, not exceeding six in number, shall be given pension at the present rate of 10 francs. The number of such staff officials now on pension is five.

The hotel management has successfully handled a considerable number of very large dinners, as at Thanksgiving and at Christmas, as well as two dinners given to the Paris Advisory Council and many smaller private dinners. Despite the difficulties of war conditions, the restaurant has, in general, been maintained efficiently.

C. Heating

The additional cost of daily hot water heating, a question discussed fully in the report of November 7, 1917, has been met without cost to the Union, by an arrangement accepted by the hotel management, to add 50 centimes a day to the cost of rooms with private bath. Sufficient anthracite coal, though often poor in quality has been secured from the municipal authorities. The main difficulties of the heating problems have therefore been successfully met.

Thus the three essential questions of the contract, room-rental guarantee, restaurant, and heating, may be said to have answered satisfactorily

Internal Organization

In order to systematize the work of the Union, the following committees have been constituted, each of which has as its chairman a member of the Executive Committee; Entertainment, Mr. Hyde (Harvard), Library and Art, Professor van Dyke (Princeton), French Affairs, Professor Vibbert (Michigan), Publicity, Mr. Crenshaw (Virginia), House Committee, Mr. Lansingh (Massachusetts Institute of Technology).

A. The Entertainment Committee has as its Vice-Chairman Mr. Clifton, who is specifically in charge of musical affairs. He has provided, through the generosity of a friend, for the rental of an excellent grand piano, and has arranged two admirable concerts, one given by Parisian musicians, the other by Mr. and Mrs. Francis Rogers of New York.

The largest gatherings arranged by the Entertainment Committee and by the Chairman of the House Committee, Mr. Lansingh, have been the Thanksgiving and Christmas dinners, the latter preceded by a Christmas tree and the singing of the Christmas carols by British choir boys, and a New Year supper. Under the auspices of the Technology Bureau, an illustrated lecture on Light Railways in the War, was given.

In November a formal French reception was given to which were invited the leading officials and professors of educational and university circles. This was largely attended and was highly appreciated by the Parisian guests. Through informal dinners, social gatherings and committee meetings, the Union has already become an attractive common meeting-ground of French and American educators and men of letters.

A very successful feature has been the Saturday afternoon teas, open to ladies. Each Saturday a hostess assumes charge and secures a dozen or more ladies to assist her. Mrs. James H. Hyde, Mrs. Robert Bliss, Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., Miss Martha McCook, Madame Berel, and Mrs. William G. Sharp have thus far been the hostesses.

B. The Library Committee has received various important gifts, especially through M. Firman Roz, of the Ministère des Affaires Étrangères, in particular, an admirably chosen set of the standard French classics, presented to the Union as a Christmas gift. M. Petit Dutailly, Director of the Office National des Universités et Ecole Française, has informed us that the Union is to be the recipient of a further collection of between 150 and 200 volumes of French literature. M. Camille Flammarion has presented a valuable set of his works. The Yale University Press has recently presented to the Union a valuable collection of some fifty of its important publications in various fields. Other gifts have been made by societies and residents of Paris, and the Union has now an excellent library of representative works in French and English.

On the first floor a large bed-room has been converted into an excellent quiet reading-room and writing-room, with an open fire. Here are now kept the illustrated magazines and journals, while the newspapers are on file in racks in the lounge on the ground floor. This arrangement has greatly improved the facilities of the club.

C. French Affairs

Professor Vibbert has taken charge of the important question of French lessons, and has successfully arranged many individual lessons, and some courses, and exchanges of lessons in French and English, conducted both at the Union and elsewhere. He has also made a list of pensions for the benefit of those who wish to live with French families, and has been active in cooperating with the French Committee on Receptions Parisiennes, discussed later in this report.

D. Publicity

Mr. Crenshaw has recently been appointed Chairman of the Committee on Publicity, and has already systematized the work of publicity as to notices of the concerts, lectures and other entertainments at the Union. He has also arranged for a suitable advertisement of the Union in the official paper "The Stars and Stripes" which is soon to be published at General Pershing's suggestion as the official journal of news for the American forces abroad.

E. Mr. Lansing, Chairman of the House Committee, has had charge of the general conduct of the business and office organization of the Union, and has cooperated with all the committees in carrying out within the Union their several arrangements. He has furthermore installed a purchasing agent who handles the numerous commissions for purchases received both in person and by mail. In general a ten percent charge is made above the cost of such purchases, an arrangement which should ultimately make this department self-supporting, besides adding greatly to the facilities afforded to individual members of the Union. The general office and the separate college bureaus likewise profit by this arrangement, and are relieved of many details of work.

The shop instituted by Mr. Lansingh has proved a great success and has had a daily business of between 200 and 300 francs. It has not been run for profit, but as a convenience to our guests. The financial statement however, shows that a satisfactory profit has been realized.

The above outline, though somewhat extended, presents in reality only a partial summary of the various steps taken to perfect the organization and machinery of the affairs of the Union. But it will serve to indicate the general lines of policy and practice along which the affairs of the Union are being conducted.

Professor Alderfer has been placed in the general offices of the Union to assist especially in the work of registration and correspondence with colleges not specifically represented by their own representative in Paris. Mr. Irwin under the direction of Mr. Lansingh has taken over a considerable part of the work on the business side. These additions to the general staff have proved of great assistance in handling the ever increasing volume of business of every sort which the Union is called upon to transact.

2. External Developments

Important as have been the internal developments of the work of the Union at its Paris headquarters, even broader significance attaches to the relations already established by the Union with the social and especially with the educational interests of France. The success of the Union, which it would be an affectation to belittle, has attracted widespread attention from French officials, learned societies, and individuals of prominence. The Union has become a recognized center where have converged lines of educational and intellectual influence in France. Of these it will be possible to note only the most significant.

A. Rapprochement Universitaire

The Union has from the outset attracted special favor from the Rapprochement Universitaire, a recently organized club of university professors and men of similar intellectual interests in Paris. The various members of our staff have been invited to the meetings of the Rapprochement. At one of these the Rapprochement offered to arrange a Fete Solennelle at the Sorbonne in honor of the entrance of American university and college men in the war. Monsieur Leon Poincare, Vice Rector of the University of Paris, authorized the use of the large amphitheater of the Sorbonne for the purpose. Since the arrival at Paris of Mr. Stokes, the date of the celebration has been advanced from March to February 24th* to enable him to attend and to represent the trustees of the Union. The project has been submitted to General Pershing, and all details of arrangement will necessarily be governed by military regulations and the exigencies of the moment. It will be apparent that this public recognition of the work of the Union and of its members is being planned on an impressive scale, by the educational leaders of France.

B. Project of Monsieur Petit Dutailis for French instruction for American troops.

As the outgrowth of informal conferences with officers of the American University Union, Monsieur Petit Dutailis, Director of the "Office National des Universités et Écoles Françaises", and Inspector General of Public Instruction, has formulated a plan for putting at the disposal of the American military authorities the educational machinery of France. This project was transmitted formally to the University Union on December 10 and by it, on the following day, in turn submitted to Mr. Carter, head of the American V. M. C. A. organization in Europe, for transmission to General Pershing. On account of his absence in England and for other reasons, Mr. Carter has been delayed in taking up these plans with General Pershing, and their ultimate reception or partial adoption will doubtless be a matter of long negotiation. It will be apparent, however, that the offer of the French educational authorities--which is substantially to put at the disposal of the American troops through their responsible military leaders the educational machinery of France--is of great significance. It is gratifying to know that these plans were worked out largely in conference with the American University Union, and that the Union has been recognized as the appropriate medium through which to present these plans for consideration.

C. French Hospitality

On the social side of its life the Union has met recognition hardly less marked than that accorded it on its educational side. From what threatened to become almost a chaos of individual offers of hospitality on the part of French towards Americans in service, there has been developed something approaching an effective organization. The "Comite des French Homes", whose honorary President is Madame la Marechale Joffre, and whose active head is Madame de Billy, wife of one of the most prominent members of the Tardieu commission, has been in frequent consultation with the officers of the Union as to plans for hospitality towards Americans in service in the provinces. It is concerned with the entertainment of men stationed at various camps and military centers, and especially of men on leave. At various places such as Pau, and Grenoble, provincial committees have already been organized, and others are rapidly being formed at Tours, and elsewhere throughout France. On account of the magnitude of the question of "permissions" for the American army, the Union felt itself unable to act as the official bureau or clearing-house for the entire work of the Committee, but the Executive Committee of the Union is endeavoring to aid in every possible way the French committees in its generous plans for hospitality towards our men in service.

* This has recently been postponed again until April or early May.

A joint meeting of the "Comite des French Homes" and representatives of similar organizations was recently held, under the Presidency of Professor Henri Bergson, and it seems likely that all efforts will be centralized and so far as possible unified. One section of the work of French hospitality has been organized under the title "Receptions Parisiennes", in conduct of Madame Borel. This has arranged numerous musicales, teas, receptions and other social gatherings, at which the University Union has been largely represented. Professor Vibbert has been chiefly responsible for extending personal invitations to various college men resident at the Union and for insuring their participation in the various functions arranged in their honor. It is impossible to do more than to summarize these numerous manifestations of hospitality shown by the French towards Americans in service, and in particular towards our guests at the Union. But the Union has rapidly become an important center for the development of social relations between French and Americans. To a very unusual extent, French homes and households have welcomed our college men, and the traditional reserve of the French foyer has yielded largely to a generous and open hospitality which is everywhere an object of comment.

D. Paris Advisory Council and College Representatives

In the development of the work of the Union, particularly in its practical relations with the community of which it is now a part, the support and advice of the Paris Advisory Council has been of distinct benefit. At its meeting in January the Council decided to raise from its members and from other college men now resident in Paris voluntary subscriptions to the Entertainment Fund. Already the sum of 1,000 francs has been turned over to the Executive Committee, with promise of many additional subscriptions. This will greatly aid a most important side of the work of the Union, and is doubly welcome as new proof of the cordial interest in all the affairs of the Union shown by college men resident in Paris. The Paris Advisory Council has undertaken the preparation of reports on various questions of excursions in the neighborhood of Paris, of facilities for golf, tennis and swimming, of reports on the legal formalities attendant on civilian burials in France, and on other matters on which the Executive Committee deemed it advisable to have information accessible. Various members of the Advisory Council have materially assisted Mr. Lansingh in his business arrangements, and some, by service on the Entertainment Committee and in other ways, have aided different Union activities. There has been from the outset entire harmony between the Paris Advisory Council and the Executive Committee, and an ever increasing spirit of cooperation and mutual helpfulness.

So rapid has been the expansion of the Union and so manifold have become its interests, that even this lengthy report covering the first quarter year of its history omits many points worthy of note. To a large extent, for example, it neglects the constant and vitally important personal services rendered by the officers and staff of the Union and of the college bureaus to the college men who frequent the Union. These services include advice as to the branches of military service, recommendations for commissions, financial aid in deserving cases, communication with families and friends of men in service, assistance to the sick, and in short, all forms of personal service and hospitality. These matters are perhaps so obvious that they need not be enumerated. But the increasingly important position of the Union in the social and educational life of the community has in no wise been permitted to overshadow its primary present aim "To meet the needs of American university and college men and their friends who are in Europe for military or other service in the cause of the Allies."

In conclusion, it should be said that the work of the Union has been constantly conducted in entire harmony with that of the American Red Cross and Y.M.C.A. Many members of both of these organizations have been residents of the Union. Some evidences of the interplay and cooperation between them and the Union have already been incidentally suggested in this report. In addition, various members of the Executive Committee of the Union have given addresses and readings in Y.M.C.A. camps, and Mr. Stokes has arranged to take a somewhat extended tour on behalf of the Y.M.C.A. Invitations to entertainments are mutually exchanged between the Officers' Hotel conducted by the Y.M.C.A. and the Union, and the services of some of the Y.M.C.A. entertainment staff have been offered to the Union. The Red Cross, through arrangements made by the Chairman of the Board of Trustees at home, is expected to aid materially in the shipment of supplies, and Majors Murphy, Perkins, and Lambert and others of the Red Cross staff have been cordial in their encouragement of the work of the Union.

The Executive Committee presents to the Board of Trustees for its approval this report of the first quarter-year of the active life of the Union at its Paris headquarters with satisfaction not so much in past accomplishments as in the prospects of larger usefulness now distinctly opening before the Union. It has not dwelt on various shortcomings in the work apparent to none more clearly than to its own members. Some of these failings have been due to unavoidable conditions, some to a rapidity of development which outgrew the resources of a limited staff of workers. But we believe that in considerable measure, the faith of the Board of Trustees has been justified by the works of the Union, and that the generous financial outlay made possible by the efforts of the Trustees has yielded distinct results.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

MAJOR GENERAL HENRY G. SHARPE, P. A., '76

BY EMMETT HAMILTON

Major General Henry G. Sharpe, of the United States Army, was born in Kingston, N. Y., on April 30, 1858. He has a strain of French and of Dutch blood in his veins, and his family is one of the oldest in the state. His father was General George H. Sharpe, who served during the Civil War on the staff of General Grant, and was in after life his intimate friend.

General Sharpe attended Phillips Academy, from 1873 to 1875, a member of the class of 1876, leaving there to go to Rutgers College, from which place he went to the United States Military Academy at West Point, N. Y. Upon graduation in 1880, he entered the line of the army, but soon after resigned, and was later appointed a Captain in the Subsistence Department by President Arthur. In 1895 he attained his majority, and at the outbreak of the Spanish-American War was made a Lieutenant Colonel and was ordered to Chickamauga Park as Chief Commissary of the Army concentrating there for the invasion of Cuba and Porto Rico, and went as Chief Commissary of the Division under General Brooke, which invaded Porto Rico. Later on he served a tour of duty in the Commissary General's Office, going from there to the Philippines as Chief Commissary of that Division. He reached the grade of Colonel in 1901, and upon the promotion of Commissary General John F. Weston in the fall of 1905, succeeded to the leadership of the Sustenance Department.

In 1907 he went abroad to make an exhaustive study of the supply systems of European armies, visiting England, France, and Germany. This trip bore excellent fruit and was of assistance in the present war, as it resulted in arrangements to send officers to the Ecole de l'Intendance, the famous French Military School. These officers also attended military maneuvers and gained valuable information regarding supply in the field, and were of material assistance when an American Army went to France because they were familiar with the organization of the French Army and acquainted with a large number of the officers.

While stationed at St. Louis in 1892 his first book appeared — The Art of Subsisting Armies in War. This production was followed by an essay on The Art of Subsisting Armies in the Field as Exemplified During the Civil War which won the gold medal prize offered in the contest of the Journal of the Military Service Institution of the United States. Following this was the translation from the French of C. H. Aubry — The Supply of the Armies of Frederick the Great and Napoleon. In collaboration with Capt. H. F. Kendall, U. S. Army, he translated Notes on the Supply of an Army During Active Operation, by O. Espanet. In 1905 appeared his notably work — The Provisioning of the Modern Army in the Field. This work is now used by supply officers of the British Army, and is employed in the course of instruction in the famous military school at Aldershot, England. He has also published a critical paper on Subsisting Our Field Army in Case of War with a First-class Power.

When the present Quartermaster Corps was established in 1912, by the consolidation of the Quartermaster, Subsistence, and Pay Departments, he assumed charge of the Supplies Division of the Quartermaster General's Office, and afterwards was for months acting Quartermaster General, until his appointment to the chiefship in the fall of 1916.

The United States declared war against Germany in April, 1917. In that trying time — without precedent or parallel in history — General Sharpe with calmness and foresight laid the foundation and prepared the way to meet the problems of the great world war, creating all the organizations dispatched abroad for the purpose of receiving and forwarding the supplies, and reclaiming and repairing supplies damaged or worn.

The large and finely equipped Quartermaster School at Jacksonville, Fla., was established by him in order that it might be available and ready when the thousands of officers at the training camps should graduate and go to the Jacksonville school to get their special training in Quartermaster work, which was so essential to their equipment and efficiency, and produced such effective results. In order to simplify the supply and maintenance of motor trucks, the Standard B truck was designed and produced by the officers of the Quartermaster Department. The adoption of this Standard truck, English officers of experience consider to be a great achievement, as it reduced the number of types of trucks in use, with an enormous reduction in the number of spare parts to be kept in stock for effecting repairs.

In the summer of 1917 General Sharpe had the honorary degree of Master of Science conferred upon him by Rutgers College. The honor was peculiarly gratifying, not alone because he had been a student at Rutgers, but also because of the fact that his father, the late will be delivered by representatives of the older and younger alumni in service. After the dinner will come the usual society teas, and, in the evening, the June promenade for members of the Senior Class.

Reunions will be held this year by the classes of 1914, 1909, 1904, 1899, 1894, 1889, 1884, 1879, 1874, and 1869. Plans will be presented for these by the various class secretaries. Quarters will be provided by the Trustees for all visiting Alumni. Graduates should note that the Harvard and Yale commencements are slated for the week following, and it will therefore be possible for Andover men to attend the reunion on the Hill and go from there to either Cambridge or New Haven.

It is hoped that this Commencement, because of its many interesting features, will be largely attended. Andover men who have been in the military or naval service, are urged to wear their uniforms, and thus to make the occasion in every respect, a "Victory" Commencement.

A WAR MEMORIAL IN BOOK FORM

The Trustees have authorized Dr. Claude M. Fuess of the Academy teaching staff to prepare a memorial volume, to be called, in all probability, Phillips Academy in the Great War. This book, which will be published by the Yale University Press, will, it is hoped, be ready for distribution on Commencement morning, on the occasion of the big war reunion now being planned for June. Two editions will be printed: a regular edition, in gray boards with blue cloth back, which will sell for $2.50; and an édition de luxe, in blue leather, at $5.00. Advance orders received to date seem to indicate that a large edition will be necessary to supply the demand.

In about three hundred pages the book will present an introductory chapter on the part played by Phillips Academy in the events from August, 1914, to November, 1918; short accounts and pictures of each of the seventy-five Andover men who gave their lives to their country; a special list of those who received decorations or honors; a history of the Andover Ambulance Unit; and as complete a record as can be compiled of every Andover man who has been in government service. Anyone having in his possession interesting letters or photographs related in any way to Andover men in the army or navy is urged to send them at once to the editor, Claude M. Fuess, Andover, Massachusetts.

SKETCH SHOWING LOCATION OF PROPOSED NEW MEMORIAL BUILDING AND TOWER

General George H. Sharpe, was the most distinguished alumnus of that institution to enter the Civil War, and his grandfather, Hon. A. Bruyn Hasbrouck, was for years president of the same college.

The supply department has been a life work with General Sharpe, to which he has devoted years of thought and effort as theorist, author, and administrator. His experience includes among other things a tour of duty in every section of the country and every field of activity — in the line where soldier life is at close range, in the field in active campaign, in charge of purchasing and supply depots, as Commissary General and Quartermaster General, all of which afforded the widest administrative opportunities.

Nearly a year after war was declared by the United States, the Secretary of War established a War Council to advise and assist him, and appointed General Sharpe a member, relieving him of administrative duties. And in the summer of 1918, the Secretary of War recommended his appointment as a Major General in the line of the Army, and provision was made by Congress to carry out the recommendation. Immediately upon confirmation by the Senate, he was assigned as Commanding General of the Southeastern Department, which position he holds at present. Fortunate in possessing the regard and confidence of Secretary of War Baker, a pleasing incident connected with the appointment to the line was a personal letter from President Wilson, in which he said: "You may be sure that it gave me a great deal of pleasure to have an opportunity to show my confidence in you by conferring the promotion which you had earned."

General Sharpe is a diligent student of his profession and a tireless worker. Modest and kindly, he is popular alike with soldier and civilian; and under the heaviest strain and trial, remains calm and self-poised, and is at all times easily approachable by the public as well as by officers and others serving under him. A notable feature is the speed with which he handles intricate and perplexing problems; and it is doubtful if there was when the war began, or is to-day, an officer in the service who is better posted on the question of supplies and equipment of troops.

AMERICAN UNIVERSITY UNION IN EUROPE

8, rue de Richelieu
Paris

March 4, 1919.

Dear Sir:-

Your attention is especially invited to the following report of the American University Union in Europe, adopted by the Executive Committee at its meeting on March 4, 1919. It was voted that the Director send a copy of it to Presidents of all universities and colleges that are members of the Union.

1. EDUCATIONAL WORK FOR THE A.E.F.

In the report of December 6, 1918 sent to the different universities and colleges that are members of the Union, mention was made of the interest of the Union in the plans for educational work for the American forces overseas. Requests for information and advice from college men in service who desired to take advantage of the opportunities for study in foreign universities offered by the Army Overseas Educational Commission were so numerous that an Educational Department of the Union work was formed, in charge of the Associate Director in Paris. During the past few months, hundreds of personal inquiries and letters have been answered through the Union and its bureaus, and the results of the work have been helpful not merely to the individual applicants but to the Educational Commission with which the Union has cooperated as fully as possible. Informal talks and discussions have been given at the Union on various aspects of the work of the Commission by Professor Erskine, of Columbia, President Butterfield, of the Massachusetts Agricultural College, Colonel Exton, of West Point, and Mr. Grosvenor Atterbury.

The Secretary of the London Branch of the Union, Doctor George E. MacLean, formerly Chancellor of the University of Nebraska and President of the University of Iowa, has been appointed by the Army Overseas Educational Commission to take charge especially of the distribution among British universities of the 2,000 American college men in service assigned to study in Great Britain from March until the end of June. President MacLean is thus temporarily serving as one of the British representatives of the Commission, but will eventually resume his active work with the London Branch of the Union, to whose interests he has most generously devoted himself during the past year.

2. LONDON BRANCH.

Towards the end of January, Professor John W. Cunliffe, of Columbia University, completed his already extended term of service as Director of the London Branch of the Union, and was succeeded by the former Associate Director at London, Professor Carl R. Fish, head of the department of history at the University of Wisconsin. Besides effectively organizing and conducting the work of the London office, Professor Cunliffe has had marked success in strengthening the friendly relations between British and American universities. His counsel and cooperation have been welcomed constantly by many British educational leaders, and he has laid substantial foundations for future work of large significance. Mrs. Cunliffe has generously and unselfishly contributed largely to the welfare of American college men in service as well as to the efficient conduct of the business of the London office.

2. London Branch (ctd)

The Union held at the Criterion Restaurant on Saturday, January 18th, an American University dinner, at which between 150 and 200 were present, including many prominent British university men. The speakers included Mr. H.A.L. Fisher, President of the Board of Education, Sir Henry Miers, a member of the recent British Educational Commission to the United States, and Admiral Sims. Oxford, Cambridge, London, Manchester, and Sheffield were among the universities represented either by their Vice-Chancellors or by leading members of their faculties. The Union plans to hold a similar dinner after the arrival in England of the officers and men assigned for study in British universities. At this the American Ambassador, who is an Honorary Patron of the Union, is expected to be present.

3. PARIS HEADQUARTERS.

The activity of the Paris headquarters of the Union continues to be marked. The opening in December by the Red Cross of various officers' hotels and quarters for enlisted men has, as anticipated, largely improved the general situation. The very moderate prices for rooms and meals at the Union, however, continue to attract visitors so constantly that the Executive Committee adopted a ten-day limit for the occupancy of bedrooms. The Union has now registered about 30,000 American college men, representing over 400 different institutions. Its mail and purchasing departments continue to meet large demands. The arrival of perhaps 2,000 American college men in service to follow courses at the University of Paris and other higher educational institutions will doubtless give the Union further opportunities of service.

4. FRENCH UNIVERSITY CEREMONY IN HONOR OF AMERICAN COLLEGE MEN IN THE WAR.

On March 2, 1919, the "Rapprochement Universitaire", an association of French university professors, arranged an important ceremony in honor of the participation of American college men in the war. In January 1918, the committee of the "Rapprochement Universitaire" tendered to the Executive Committee of the American University Union a formal invitation to a "fete solennelle" at the Sorbonne. To this project General Pershing gave his hearty approval. On account of the threatened German offensive, the ceremony was deferred and ultimately took the form of the exercises and reception of March 2, 1919. M. Larnaude, Dean of the faculty of Law, presided, and M. Lucien Poincare, Vice-Rector of the University of Paris, and many professors of the Sorbonne and of American universities were present, as well as a number of American officers and men in military service. Professor Henri Bergson made the principal address to the Americans. The Director of the American University Union in Europe, in the course of his response, presented the following address to the students of France, signed by 123 American universities and colleges, members of the American University Union at the time when the original ceremony at the Sorbonne was planned:

AMERICAN UNIVERSITY UNION IN EUROPE

8, Rue de Richelieu
Paris

May 31, 1919.

Dear Sir:-

Your attention is especially invited to the following report covering certain aspects of the work of the American University Union in Europe since the report of March 4.

1. PARIS HEADQUARTERS

Despite the rapid return of American troops to the United States, the service of the Union during the past few months has continued active and important. The total registration of American college men, since the beginning of the Union's work abroad, has now risen to about 35,000, representing upwards of 530 different institutions of learning. Throughout the war and during the armistice the Union has remained an almost unique common meeting-ground and home for men of all ranks in every form of military and naval service and war relief work. Its doors have been freely open not merely to all American college men in any branch of overseas service, but, as far as possible, to their friends, many of whom have been French officers and men. Monsieur Tardieu has recently said that the Union "has been not simply the intellectual home of the American Army in France, but an admirable home of Franco-American friendship". But only the generous and constant cooperation of both French and American authorities, military and educational, has permitted the Union to carry out its work on such broad and democratic lines despite the restrictions and distinctions usually imposed by war conditions.

As the war-work of the Union diminishes, the staff of the Union is being reduced. With the closing of various college bureaus within the Union, however, the work of the central offices will become proportionately heavier. The general purchasing department, which has rendered especially valuable service to men at the front, has been discontinued, and the canteen, which has been similarly of great advantage to men at the Union, will be unnecessary after July first. Other services will be modified according to changing conditions.

Since the arrival in March of some 1,700 American army students in Paris, the Union has resumed its series of Saturday afternoon teas, at which the hostesses have been ladies from the "Association of French Homes". Through their hospitality many men have been made welcome in French homes.

11. FRENCH SCHOLARSHIPS

On the generous initiative of American college men in military service now studying at French universities, a movement has been inaugurated to provide funds to send a number of fully qualified French students to American colleges in September. The funds are being raised by the American army students themselves in grateful recognition of the advantages they have enjoyed during recent months at the French universities. The movement has the support of the Army Educational authorities. A three days' conference of American student representatives of various French universities was held May 24-26 at the Union, and the plans were worked out in consultation with officials of the Army Educational Corps in Paris and of officers of the Union. The central student committee has opened a bureau at the Union and its work is already well organized. It is hoped that sufficient scholarships may be provided to send a French graduate student possessing an adequate knowledge of English from every one of the fourteen French universities. The appointments will be made by the Ministry of Education.

The American Army students have also organized so that on their return home they may effectively aid the interchange between France and America of properly qualified students and may promote the welfare of French students at American colleges. Their association will be in close cooperation with the American University Union, whose work they have cordially endorsed and whose interests they will advance in every way.

III. BRITISH BRANCH

The British Branch of the Union held a most notable War Anniversary Dinner, on April 8, at the Connaught Rooms in London. Between 400 and 500 men were present. The guest of honor was the American Ambassador, Mr. John W. Davis. Among the other speakers were the Lord Chancellor, Lord Bryce, Sir Donald MacAlister, Vice Chancellor of Glasgow University, Mr. Robert L. Ewing, American Y.M.C.A. Secretary for the United Kingdom, ex-President George E. MacLean, Acting Director of the British Branch of the Union, and Mr. Lawrence L. Tweedy, Chairman of its Advisory Council.

During the temporary absence in the United States of Professor Carl R. Fish, Director of the British Branch of the Union, his post has been ably filled by its Secretary, Dr. MacLean. Mrs. MacLean has during this period generously volunteered her assistance in the work of the London office. Dr. MacLean's intimate knowledge of British and American educational institutions has been of the utmost value throughout the work of the Union, and his recent service with the Army Educational Commission in distributing almost 2,000 American army students among British universities and higher institutions of learning has put him in immediate contact with present conditions throughout Great Britain. The Union has been closely associated with the Universities Bureau of the British Empire whose work is being greatly developed and promises notable results. Both in this and in other significant matters now pending, the opportunities of service opening before the British Branch of the Union are unusually favorable. Its work during the past years has proved the importance of continuing in London the service already rendered both to American and to British educational interests. Generous testimony to the success of the work hitherto done by the Union and to the necessity of its continuance has been given to the Trustees of the Union in messages sent by many of the most prominent governmental and educational authorities in Great Britain.

IV. ITALIAN BRANCH

The active work of the Union in Rome was discontinued for the present, about the middle of April, since the quarters occupied in the Hotel Royal were no longer necessary for men in service. Under the able management of Professor McKenzie, and the generous assistance of Mrs. McKenzie, the Italian Branch has achieved marked success. It registered almost a thousand men, many of whom visited Rome during their leave-periods and found a most hospitable and serviceable center at the Union club-rooms and offices. Professor McKenzie's valuable pamphlet on "The Italian Universities and their Opportunities for Foreign Students" has been sent to all colleges that are members of the Union. Professor McKenzie also lectured on "American Universities" at various Italian universities, and in many other ways served both Italian and American educational interests. It is to be hoped that this initial work of the Italian Branch of the Union may eventually be continued.

With the approaching return to the United States of many members of the Union staff who have been associated with its active war-work, the present Executive Committee takes this opportunity of expressing its deep obligations to the American colleges to whose prompt and continued support has been largely due whatever service the Union has been able to render both to American college men in overseas service and to the furtherance of friendly relations between the universities of allied countries and of the United States. It believes that these relations, sealed in times of war, should be continued in times of peace. American college men now studying in foreign universities have already united in taking practical steps to further the cause of friendly international educational relations. That the American colleges themselves will increasingly appreciate the advantages and possibilities so clearly recognized by numbers of their former students now in military service abroad seems evident. The Executive Committee trusts that American colleges will give continued support to the work of the Union abroad which has had the definite encouragement and approval of representative foreign universities and of leading educational authorities in Europe.

At a meeting of the Executive Committee in Paris this report was adopted and ordered sent to the members of the Board of Trustees and to the presidents of all universities and colleges that have been members of the Union.

Respectfully submitted,

My dear President Demarest:

Since writing you on October 29 in regard to the American University Union in Europe, a number of colleges and universities have taken out membership. In the hope that you may still be considering favorable action, I am enclosing herewith a list of all the institutions which have joined to date, together with a copy of the first booklet, which was issued some time ago. A revised copy is in the process of publication.

The undertaking has been so highly endorsed by the Association of American Universities, by the Y. M. C. A., and by the American Red Cross, that we venture to hope that many more of the leading institutions of the country will decide to take out membership in the near future.

The Union was opened on October 20. The bedroom facilities were almost immediately outgrown, so that additional quarters are being secured in adjacent buildings. In the first two weeks, men registered at the Union from eighty-four different American colleges. The undertaking already seems an assured success and we hope that we may count upon your support and membership.

Very truly yours,

Secretary.

Dear Mr. Pierce;-

President W. H. S. Demarest has instructed me to advise you that he does not recall receiving any letters concerning the American University Union in Europe. He is, of course, interested in the Union and is desirous of adding Rutgers to the membership list.

We shall be pleased to send check covering our assessment upon receive of instructions from you.

Very sincerely yours,

Dear Sir:

* There is being separately forwarded to you and to the president and alumni secretary of every college which has joined the American University Union in Europe a copy of the revised pamphlet giving full information regarding the Union.

You will notice that men from over eighty American colleges in various parts of the country took rooms at the Union during the first three weeks that it was opened. It seems to be meeting a large need among college men in war service.

Trusting that the Union can be of special service to the graduates and former students of your institution, and hoping that you will let me know if I ^{may} ~~can~~ answer any inquiries, I am,

May 1918

Dear Sir,

On March 1, 1918, there was sent to the Presidents of all universities and colleges that are members of the American University Union in Europe a condensed report of the activities of the Union in France since the opening of its Paris headquarters. An accompanying letter stated that thereafter general reports would be rendered from time to time as to the progress of the Union, and special reports as to individual registrations at the Union of alumni and students of the different colleges.

The sudden death, on March 15, from tubercular meningitis, of Professor J.F. Alderfer of Oberlin College, general staff secretary of the Union, was a distinct loss, like to the organized work of the Union and to the individual members of its staff. Professor Alderfer gave himself devotedly to the Union, spending and being spent without stint in service to scores of men with whom he came in close personal contact. His loss, like that of Mr. Evert Wendell, of Harvard University, during the first critical weeks in the history of the Union, seems to his colleagues peculiarly hard to bear. But, in a very real sense, their works live after them. Their names belong on that Roll of Honor which admits those who gave their best service wherever opportunity offered.

The special reports of registration which Professor Alderfer had begun to render to the different colleges are being continued at present under disadvantages, but steps are being taken to strengthen as soon as possible the general staff of the Union. The Director and Assistant Director spent most of the month of March in England, making in connection with Professor J. W. Cunliffe, of Columbia University, now Director of the London Branch of the Union, the arrangements outlined in the accompanying report. The Executive Committee in Europe bespeaks the continued cooperation of all the institutions in the United States - now considerably upwards of a hundred in number-- which have joined the Union. The Paris Office has already registered about 9,000 American college men, representing 325 different American institutions of learning.

Faithfully yours,

(Signed) George H. Nettleton

June 5, 1918.

Dear Sir:

The constitution of the American University Union in Europe, of which your institution is a member, contains the following clause with reference to amendments:

"This constitution may be interpreted, added to or amended by the Board of Trustees at any duly called meeting, but the Board shall effect no fundamental change in the constitution without notifying at least a week in advance the Presidents of all institutions subscribing to college memberships, inviting an expression of their opinions on proposals."

A meeting of the trustees is to be held at the University Club, New York, next week Wednesday, June 12th, at which changes in the constitution will be proposed so as to increase the number of the Board of Trustees from eleven to "not to exceed fifteen members," in order that the Board may be made more representative of different sections of the country. It is also desired to broaden the statement with reference to the objects of the Union, which now reads as follows:

"The general object of the Union shall be to meet the needs of American university and college men and their friends who are in Europe for military or other service in the cause of the Allies."

Although the immediate object of the Union is well stated in this clause, there has been from the first a supplementary object which is thus stated in the pamphlet regarding the Union issued last December.

"Although organized to meet war needs it is the hope of its founders that the Union may prove a permanent institution helping, in cooperation with other organizations, to attract more American college men to France for graduate study, and to serve as an agency for cultivating a better understanding of the United States in England, France, Italy and other European countries."

The special reason for broadening at this time the statement of objects in the constitution is that the trustees have in mind making plans for continuing the work of the Union in Paris and probably also in London after the war. It is, therefore, proposed to add to the statement of general objects mentioned above some such clause as the following:

"and to serve as a bond between the universities of America and those of European nations, especially by encouraging, in such ways as the trustees may see fit; the attendance of American students at the representative universities of France, Great Britain and Italy."

It is not necessary that any reply should be sent to this communication, as the constitution gives the Trustees the power to make changes after calling them to the attention of cooperating institutions. Mr. Roger Pierce of Harvard University, the Secretary of the Trustees, or the undersigned, will be glad, however, to receive any suggestions or comments.

May I add that having just returned from Europe, I have been greatly impressed with the work which the Union, now supported by 130 of the most representative American universities, colleges, and technical schools, is doing for American college men in war service and for cultivating friendly relations between American universities and those of France, England, and Italy.

Dear Sir:

I am forwarding to you herewith a pamphlet giving the annual statement of the American University Union in Europe together with the reports of the officers for the past year. I am also enclosing the membership bill for your institution for the year beginning September 1, 1918. Membership fees are thus referred to in the constitution:

"For institutions of 10,000 or more graduates (including all that have graduated over 3,000 men in the preceding decade) $500 a year.

"For institutions of from 5,000 to 10,000 graduates (including all that have graduated over 2,000 men in the preceding decade) $250 a year.

"For institutions of under 5,000 graduates, $100 a year."

The only change in this scale since the establishment of the Union has been the addition of the words added in brackets so as to have the institutions of relatively modern origin, but with a very large body of recent graduates, meet their share in the expenses of the Union.

Trusting that the membership fee of the institution that you represent may be sent as promptly as possible to Mr. Henry B. Thompson, 320 Broadway, New York, I am

Very truly yours,

December 6, 1918

Dear Sir:

Owing to the absence from Paris of the Director on a brief trip to the United States to consult the Trustees on important questions concerning the development of the Union, the occasional reports sent from Paris Headquarters to the different universities and colleges that are members of the Union have been interrupted. In the new printed pamphlet of the Union (October, 1918), however, the annual reports of the Chairman of the Board of Trustees in America and of the Director of the Union in Europe review fully the record of the past year and the outlook for the future.

The sudden ending of hostilities has rendered inadvisable certain projects for expansion based on the general expectation of the continuance of the war until next year. The service of the Union, however, during the coming period of demobilization will continue to be of the utmost importance. The activity of the Paris headquarters has never been so great. New registrations in person now run from 120 to 150 a day, and the general facilities of the Union and of the different college bureaus are taxed to the utmost. Since its beginning, the Union has registered upwards of 20,000 American college men from practically 400 different universities, colleges, and higher technical schools. Its mail, purchasing, and forwarding departments have been expanded to meet rapidly multiplying demands. Through the generous cooperation of the American Red Cross, the American Y.M.C.A., and the French official authorities, many difficulties of transportation, shipment, and distribution of supplies to members of the American Expeditionary Forces have been overcome. The registration files and card catalogues of both the Paris and London offices are constantly consulted, and have proved of unique assistance in enabling college men in service overseas to keep in touch with relatives and friends.

For months past the members of the Union and college bureau staffs have to a very considerable extent visited the sick and wounded in the military hospitals of Paris. They have reported on many casualties to relatives at home, either directly, when not inconsistent with military regulations, or through the Home Communication Section of the Red Cross, whose services during the war have proved indispensable and whose officers have generously sought to respond as fully as possible to legitimate inquiries. The Union and the different college bureaus have likewise, to the extent of their ability, met the often pressing financial needs of wounded and other men in service. To thousands of college men, the Union has been the most direct source of personal counsel and assistance of every sort during their term of service overseas.

By authorizing, on December 4, 1918, a slightly increased, but still very moderate, tariff for rooms and meals, the Union has been enabled to extend sufficiently its contract with the Royal Palace Hotel. It has at the same time secured certain necessary improvements in accommodations and service.

The Union has been actively interested from the outset in the plans for educational work for the American Forces. The accompanying bulletin, prepared with the approval of Professor Erskine, chairman of the American Army Overseas Commission, is self-explanatory. This bulletin, together with personal response to individual questions, is being sent to scores of college men who have recently addressed inquiries to the Union. The London and Rome Branches of the Union are cooperating in this work.

The Executive Committee takes this occasion to thank the various institutions, now numbering about 150, whose membership in the Union has been essential to its financial support, and upon whose continued interest its work must largely depend.

Very truly yours,

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE,

I
GREETING: We, students in American colleges and universities, East and West, North and South, send our affectionate greetings to our brothers in the land of Lafayette and to the sons of France, now also our brothers. Our hearts have enlisted with yours in the high cause of liberty and justice as Lafayette's enlisted with ours. We are united here in love for France, which is dearer because her soil has become our battlefield. The great assembly in the Sorbonne is but a symbol of the intellectual alliance which is to hold France and America together perpetually.

Given at Cambridge on the second day of April in the year of our Lord the Nineteen Hundred and Eighteenth, at the request of each and every college and university having membership in the American University Union.

Lieutenant Chalmers Clifton, formerly secretary of the New England Bureau of the Union, spoke on behalf of American college men in service. M. Maurice Bouchor delivered an original poem: "To our brothers of the United States", and music was furnished by a large choir of French university singers. Following the formal exercises there was a reception.

5. "MAISON DES ETUDIANTS" OF THE AMERICAN UNIVERSITY UNION.

As announced in the annual report of the Chairman of the Board of Trustees (Oct. 7, 1918) "the trustees have taken definite steps to insure the permanency of the work in Paris through cooperation with the "Maison des Etudiants" an organization of representative American and French university men". By mutual agreement, a legal organization has been formed in Paris which ensures to the Board of Trustees definite control and which permits taking title to the valuable property generously offered by the Municipality of Paris. This property, valued at $100,000, is in the center of the educational institutions of Paris, just off the Boulevard Saint-Germain and adjoining a proposed underground station of the Metropolitain, between the University of Paris and the Ecole des Beaux-Arts. On January 30, 1919, a reception was given to the Honorary Committee, which is under the patronage of the Minister of Public Instruction and includes the Vice-Rector and Deans of the different faculties of the University of Paris, the chief French educational officers, and other distinguished representatives of the French government and of the French Academy.

6. ROME BRANCH.

Under the direction of Professor Kenneth McKenzie, head of the department of Romance Languages of the University of Illinois, the Italian Branch of the Union has shown marked development. The number of registrations has been surprisingly large, due partly to the frequent visits of various Red Cross Commissions that have spent some time in Rome en route to the Balkans, Palestine, and elsewhere, and partly to the presence of men on leave. Various smokers, concerts, and dinners have been given for men in war service, and the club rooms at the Hotel Royal have been much in use. A very considerable portion of the expense has been met by voluntary monthly contributions from American college men resident in Rome. Mr. Thomas Nelson Page, the American Ambassador to Italy, and many other members of the American Embassy, have been generous supporters of the work of the Union. Mrs. McKenzie has added greatly to the success of the Rome Branch by her constant share in the work of the office and by her personal devotion to the interests of college men in service.

The educational authorities of Italy have given Professor McKenzie most hospitable welcome. He has been invited to lecture on American universities at a number of the chief Italian universities, and his advice has been sought on various important educational matters.

7. REPORTS OF REGISTRATION TO MEMBER COLLEGES.

The usual reports of registration of men in war service at the Paris headquarters or the London and Rome Branches of the Union have continued to be sent regularly to the various universities and colleges that are members of the Union.

8. CONTINUANCE OF THE WORK OF THE UNION.

The granting of numerous three-days' leaves for Paris to men who in many cases had no previous opportunity to come to Paris, the arrival in large numbers of men placed on detached service to permit them to study in Paris for the next four months, and other factors make it evident that the work of the Union Headquarters will continue to be active and important. Conditions as to leaves for England and Italy vary so much that it is hard to determine the actual demands likely to be made hereafter on the London and Rome Branches. The very recent granting of leave to about 2,000 American college men to permit them to study in the various British universities has, however, again increased the demands upon the London office, and for the present, at least, the activity of Rome Branch is noteworthy.

Very truly yours,

George H. Nettleton
Chairman, Executive Committee.
