THE TARGUM.
With the advent of spring and the warm weather the time "par excellence" for track and field work has arrived. There is now no excuse for laxity in training. Nature is doing her best to entice every one to outdoor exercise.

From this time until the last field meet is over there is need of that same hard, faithful training that has brought us victories in the past. As far as material goes there is no reason why the team of 1901 shall not come up to the high standard set by the teams of the last two years. We have been shown only recently the fine material that there is in college for track work. So there remains only the old question of faithful work, and our title to those banners is secure.

The annual spring field meet should bring out all the athletic talent in college. Indeed we cannot urge too strongly the cooperation of the whole undergraduate body in this matter. In the past it has meant the discovery of much new and promising material. No one knows what he can do until he tries.

The twenty-seventh was a banner day for Rutgers. For the second year in succession the relay team has brought honor to the college by its plucky and successful race. That the same team, composed of the same men, should twice in succession have been successful, shows that there is running talent here in Rutgers that is not at all to be despised. Every member of the team has the heartiest congratulations of every man in college. We hope they may have many more "encores."

The baseball game of last Saturday was a virtual victory and should be regarded as such. It gives the greatest encouragement that a winning team may yet be turned out this season. It has shown what the team can do when it is given the support that it can and should have, and that it will, we hope, have in the future.

The new rule of the faculty forbidding smoking in any of the buildings where recitations or lectures are held looks at first as an infringement of what the students have come to regard almost as a right—at least a quasi-right—since a previous rule to the same effect was suffered to become a dead letter. The rule, though at first it appears to be unwarranted, is found on sober second thought to be most necessary. It was said recently the various college buildings contain many of them collections of great value which it would be almost impossible to replace, and, since the art of rendering buildings fireproof had not reached its highest development when many of those now on the campus were erected, a reasonable amount of care must be exercised. The fact that the faculty have not extended the new rule to the precincts of the dormitory shows that this late departure is not a fell attempt to deprive the undergraduates of their recognized privileges, or privileges practically recognized as such. The old adage modified as it was recently can well apply, “Think before you smoke.”

The concert to be given for the benefit of the track fund deserves and should have the heartiest support of the undergraduates. The amount necessary for beginning work on the new track is fast being raised, and this easy means is taken for the undergraduates to show the alumni by their hearty cooperation that they are in earnest. The attendance of the college men at the last concert was not at all what it should have been. If we don’t give our hearty support the alumni cannot be expected to give theirs.

The Fatal Illness of Billy Parse.

After some difficulty Compton succeeded in getting Kent to comply with his wishes. “But,” advised Kent, “you want to be careful to preserve a proper amount of decorum, or the police will get suspicious.” Here was another thing that had not been thought of. But with a little motion of careless disbelief Doc dismissed that idea at once. Having left the shop he quickly went back to the hall.

“I don’t like no cheap man,” quoth Compton, whose Christian name was Donald, as he came into the room. “I don’t like Daly, so I went to Kent’s, the swell place on Main street. Oh! I don’t like no cheap man. Spends his money on the installment plan.”

“The deuce you say. Well, all that it costs above a tenner comes out of your jewelry box, my friend,” Billy said, with some show of petulancy.

“You needn’t swell up now, for it won’t cost a red cent more, and the other man and his establishment are certainly on the blink. Every one of his coffins were made before the flood. I would make my affidavit to that effect.”

“Didn’t you go to Daly’s at all?”

“Yes, but he was drunk and as ornery as he knew how to be. Couldn’t get anything out of him, so I gave him a dollar not to give away our joke. Then I went to Kent’s and fixed all up with them. Five plunks, and the other “V” after it is all over.”

“I say, Sergeant, what you done about that murder?” Our friend Daly is talking to the night sergeant at the police station.

“What murther are yez talkin’ about? G’wan, you’re drunk. Ther’ ain’t been no murther.”

“If they ha’ in’t been one there is goin’ to be. Right up here to college, too.”

“Ah! g’wan; you’re as drunk as Lord Cornwallis was the night me ould friend General Washington marched a stole on him. G’wan now, or I’ll lock you up.”

“Ah, your honor, I may be drunk, but I know what I am talkin’ about, for one of the bloomin’ sports came into my honorable establishment this very night, and wanted to inveigle me into mixin’ myself up with it. And he also wanted to get a rig-out, services and all, for ten dollars. So you see it is a cheap job they want. Finally he left, givin’ me a good round sum to keep my mouth shut.”

“I’ll look into it, sor. Thank yez fur tellin’ me, an’ drinks is on me sometime whin I’m off duty. Good night, sor.”

And off went Daly to the nearest saloon, and in a short time was hopelessly helpless.
Meanwhile we were considering and discussing the final arrangements for the funeral.

Billy said, "S'posin' I skip the gutter Sunday night. Set Tuesday from 2 to 2.30 as the time to view the remains in lieu of the fact that the body is to be sent on to Dallas. Do you cotton?"

We assured Billy that we were following the general trend of his peroration.

"Then it remains for me to do my little act, and—well, I reckon that most of those present will think that they are bein' chased by the 'Old Scratch' himself riding a sea serpent."

Kent was duly notified and the first five dollars were paid. Everything ran along smoothly, and Sunday night life departed. It was early in the evening, so as not to cause Kent too much trouble, for as a matter of course he had to come up and attend to the preliminaries, which, in this case, consisted of cake, cheese, and various other edibles prepared for the occasion, for we knew that the shortest way to a man's heart was through his stomach.

"Who do you fellows think you are going to fake?" asked Kent, somewhat incredulously.

"All of the profs., most of the students, and a few town people," said Parse. "A special time will be set for the faculty to pay their last homage, and they will be invited to come in a body, and it is just then that I will do my little awakening trick."

"If you get taken up for your joke you may find it ain't so funny," laughed Kent.

"Nothing ventured, nothing won," quoth Billy. "How'll they know the 'diff'? And it don't make any if I do get caught. But instead of being jacked up I will be congratulated that I was not buried alive. They will all think I was in a trance. Oh, I can bluff 'em to beat Nancy Hanks."

"What will you do if you do get caught?"

Before Billy had time to answer there came a knock at the door.

"Gee!" said Phil. "What will we do if it is somebody who has heard of the death?"

"I'll put on a brave face," I said, "and bluff him, if only he hasn't heard Billy's voice."

As I opened the door, who should stand there but the doctor.

"Good evening, doctor."

"Good evening, Rodman. How's Parse this evening?" asked the doctor, starting in. I blocked his way, and in the saddest tone I could assume told him of the demise of our beloved friend.

Dr. Clement started a little as the words fell upon his ear.

"Well," he said, collecting his senses a little, "I will have to see the body in order to make a certificate of death to go on the state records. I observe that I am intruding here, but it is my duty, and as much as it pains me I am forced to demand a view of the body. I will not stay long to harrass your feelings, as I know my presence will, but just long enough to perform my office, and depart."

Here was a poser we had not thought of. Neither did it occur to the undertaker, who, being in the joke, knew that he need make no certificate. To be sure there was nought to do but admit the doctor, who meanwhile remarked that it seemed to him that a little more decorum might be preserved in the presence of the dead, as he had heard laughter as he came down the corridor toward 141, and moreover he had noticed that the sound issued from nowhere but our room.

The doctor entered, and when he saw Billy sitting up, the undertaker sitting there with his pipe between his teeth, and the absence of food where it seemed to have been present only a short time before, he doubled up like a jackknife and laughed heartily, but not loudly.

"Now, boys," he said, as soon as he could control his emotions, "if you want to make a success of this thing you don't want to laugh nor talk loudly in here, nor in any way arouse the suspicions of any one. Be mighty careful, and keep on a meetin'-house face all the time. I think that every one who is on the gag is here now. So if every one is careful your joke will go through like a breeze. I'm game, and we'll shove it through to beat the band. But the biggest joke is on you yet, boys, as you will admit when I tell you that I have been 'faking' you right along. The very first day I was here I knew that Parse was not sick, and I have been bluffing you ever since. But take heart, boys, you can lie pretty well, but you can't bluff with an old one like me. I've been there before. That night you were all in bed by 9:15 I came up from the station about 10:30 and saw a light up here, and I also saw Mr. Taylor come to the window with a hand of cards in his hands to draw down the shade. By the way, boys, how did the oysters taste? I overheard Compton and Billy wishing the other two would get back with them the other morning."

TO BE CONTINUED.

Benefit Concert.

The first of the two additional benefit concerts took place in Kirkpatrick Chapel on the evening of April 24th. The concert was to help out the deficit which occurred on the football season, and also for the benefit of the track fund.

The audience was only fair in size, but for this fact the miserable weather is to be held accountable. It was an enthusiastic audience, however, and no one of the entertainers could complain of his reception—every one was given an encore, sometimes two. The hearty applause with which each number was received showed the approval of the audience. It is to be regretted that the students were so poorly represented, and that too, in spite of the fact that special rates had been given them. At the next concert there will probably be a much larger audience, because there will have been better advertising, and, it is to be hoped, better weather.

The Glee and Mandolin Clubs got a very hearty reception and acquitted themselves very creditably, especially the Mandolin Club, which has been rather neglected during the past two years. All the numbers given by the Clubs were well rendered and received hearty encores; they were "catchy" and given with snap and life. In the past the people of the town have heard the Glee Club only at the Commencement concert. Accordingly this was an extra pleasure.

The rendering by Professor Livingston Barbour of several scenes from Dickens' "Nicholas Nickleby" needs no comment. They were given with Professor Barbour's usual skill and good judgment.

Fisher '02 also rendered very well a selection called "The Hazing of Valliant." Mr. Fisher's skill as a reader is well known in college, though we are not often given the benefit of it.

Mr. Powelson of this city was given a hearty reception. His rich bass voice was heard to advantage in several fine selections.

Flanagan '04 was well applauded after his fine execution of Bartlett's "Concert Polka."

The whole concert was well gotten up and well received, and was fully up to the standard set by the series of entertainments held earlier in the season.

The invitations are out for the Sophomore Dance, to be held in Columbia Hall on May 10th. Every preparation has been made to have the dance a very enjoyable affair. OFFICERS OF THE CADET CORPS
Rutgers 10, Crescent A. C. 13.

It took twelve fast and lively innings for the Crescent A. C. to pull out a victory last Saturday. For seven innings Smith allowed but three hits and one run.

Crescent scored first by a home run made by T. Dunn in the fourth inning. In the third Rutgers scored three runs.

In the eighth inning, through an error, a hit and a base on balls, Crescent got three men on the bases, and J. Dunn knocked in a home run, scoring four runs. A passed ball and a two-base hit resulted in two more runs.

In the eighth and ninth innings Rutgers scored six runs through good batting and errors by Dunn and Quirby. Crescent also scored two runs in the ninth, tying the score.

Both teams were retired without runs in the tenth and eleventh innings, but in the twelfth our opponents scored four runs to our one, winning the game.

Duggan led the Rutgers team in batting, getting three hits. He accepted his only chance without error. Hart, Heyer and Captain Richters played great ball. Heyer’s work deserves commendation, because of his lack of practice in short-stop position.

Smith pitched great ball, received excellent support, and should have won his game.

The score and batting order were:

Penn. Relay Races.

The seventh annual relay races and track and field events of the University of Pennsylvania were held on Franklin Field, Saturday afternoon, April 27, 1901. The weather was delightful, and more than 8,000 people saw 600 athletes, representing over 130 schools and colleges, compete for honors. No records were broken, because fast time was impossible in many of the events, especially near the end, when the track was badly cut up.

The principal races of the day were the one, two and four-mile relay events for the national championship. Harvard finished first in both the two and four-mile races, while Yale captured the one-mile contest in 3.27 1-5.

Duffy of Georgetown won the 100-yard dash (special) in 10 seconds, with Hargrave, Yale's dark horse, second. Jones of N. Y. U. surprised the critics and walked off with the high jump; height, 6 feet 2 1/4 inches.

For Princeton, DeWitt won the hammer throw with a distance of 133 feet ½ inch. He also captured second place in the discus throw, which was won by Sheldon of Yale with a throw of 113 feet 10 1/2 inches. Coleman of Princeton and his clubmate Horton won first and second respectively in the pole vault; height, 10 feet 9 inches. New Jersey was well represented in the relay events. In the one-mile academy events, Pingry School of Elizabeth captured first, with Peddie Institute of Hightstown second, and Newark Academy third.

The West Jersey Academy of Bridgeton won a one-mile preparatory school race, and the Lawrenceville Academy finished third in another event. Other Jersey teams which ran unplaced were Newark High, Atlantic City High, Bridgeton High, and Montclair High.

Rutgers was again represented and again came off the field with honor. We ran the same team we had last year and in the same order and came in in the same place, all of which speaks well for Mr. Dodge's judgment in placing the men.

This year Rutgers was classed with Swarthmore, Haverford, C. C. N. Y., New York University, and Lehigh. Tufts entered no team, and Swarthmore failed to put in an appearance at the last moment, which deprived Haverford of a justly earned prize.

First Class.—First relay: Waltz, N. Y. U., first; Kirk, Rutgers, second; Yeardsley, Haverford, third; Wolcott, Lehigh, fourth; Bar- tey, C. C. N. Y., fifth.

Second relay: Van Nuis, Rutgers, first; Sileman, N. Y. U., second; Worthington, Haverford, third; Pierce, Lehigh, fourth; Bartey, C. C. N. Y., fifth.

Third relay: Ranson, Rutgers, first; Lieberman, N. Y. U., second; Haviland, Haverford, third; McCleary, Lehigh, fourth; E. Cossenas, C. C. N. Y., fifth.

Fourth relay: C. W. Stevens, Rutgers, first; DENCHFIELD, N. Y. U., second; Ross, Haverford, third; G. Cossenas, C. C. N. Y., fourth; Klor, Lehigh, fifth. Time, 3.36 1-5.

As the above scheme will show, Kirk ran first for Rutgers and was the one man who did more than was expected of him. Rutgers had hoped to see him come in fourth at best, but he ran a clever race and was beaten only by a yard or two, sending Van Nuis off in second place. Kirk's time was 54 4-5 seconds.

In the second relay N. Y. U. got off first, closely followed by Van Nuis, who tagged on behind until within 100 yards of the finish, when he sprinted in and sent Ranson off with a three-yard handicap. Van Nuis ran his quarter in 54 1-5 seconds, but was not pushed.
If necessary he can cut a second or two from that time.

For Rutgers, Ranson started off in the lead at the beginning of the third relay. He ran a beautiful unpaced race and increased the lead fifteen yards, sending Stevens off eighteen yards to the good. Ranson’s time was 53 3-5 seconds, somewhat slower than last year, but it must be remembered that he was not pushed at all.

Stevens started off in the fourth relay with N. Y. U. tagging on behind. He increased his lead over Denchfield some five or ten yards during the first half of the race, but lost part of it during the latter half. Nevertheless, he finished strongly, winning by some twenty-five yards. Time, 53 3-5 seconds. Stevens also ran slower than last year, but plenty fast enough to win handily.

The whole time, 3.36 1-5, is slower than last year’s performance. However, the track was in bad condition when our team ran, and, too, we were not pushed to the extent of our abilities, so Rutgers has nothing to fear in the 440 and 880-yard run this year.

Rutgers’ time last year, 3.34 2-5, still remains the record, and judging by comparison it is not likely to be broken unless it is done by our own men.

Track Notes.

Herbert ’03 is developing into a good pole-vaulter.

Fischer ’04 has been doing great work in the hurdles.

Meets have been arranged with Lehigh and Lafayette.

The Track Team will be entered in the Knickerbocker Games, held at Bergen Point, on May 30, 1901.

Swarthmore failed to run in the Penn Relay Races for various reasons.

The Princeton Open Games have been declared off.

Moon ’04 will probably be our shot-putter this year.

1902 cleans up the faculty and 1903 at the Hotel Hanover, euchre in the first case, and whist in the second.

The new banner won by the Relay Team will be on exhibition in the Gym from now on. Any member of the team will gladly furnish time for the college.

Rutgers needs a trophy room badly—and she is going to need it more in the future. Something ought to be done.

Who said anything about a field meet? When we so decide to have it, we’ll give you five minutes’ notice.

Wyckoff of West Jersey Academy ran a pretty race for his team. He will enter Rutgers next year, and will make a valuable man for our relay team.

Spring Field Meet Committee.

Allen ’01, Gordon ’01, Stevens ’02, Van Nuis ’03, Shettle ’02, Duggan ’04.

Conrad Milliken,
Pres. R.C.A.A.

Spring Field Meet.

The annual Spring Field Meet will be held on Friday afternoon, May 3rd. The meet will start promptly at three o’clock, and the following events will be run off:

- Track—100-yard dash, 120-yard hurdle, 1-mile bicycle, 1-mile run, 2-mile run, 220-yard hurdle, 220-yard dash, 880-yard run, 2-mile bicycle.
- Field—Shot-put, pole vault, high jump, hammer-throw, broad jump.

Single entries will be 25 cents; for two or more events, 50 cents. The two-mile bicycle will not be run off unless six entries are received. Entries will close Thursday noon at 12 o’clock, and should be handed to members of the committee before that time.

Every man who has any athletic abilities in any line should come out and help his class and the college. The struggle between the underclassmen should be particularly interesting.
Track Team Prospects.

With the Lehigh meet but one week off, it is a little late to be picking a track team, and yet the men in most of the events have shown such decided form that the task is a comparatively easy one.

Elmendorf and Van Nuis are a good pair in the 100 and 220, though with Elmendorf it is largely a question of how well he takes care of himself. Van Nuis is a conscientious trainer and will develop rapidly with the coming warm weather.

Of the 440 and 880 little needs to be said. Captain Ranson and Stevens will make an invincible pair, and two places in each of these events are almost sure.

Kirk in the mile is without doubt one of the best men in college at this distance. The same can be said of Davis in the two-mile. The difficult part of the question comes in choosing second men in both of these events. Of the men who ought to try may be mentioned Erler, Brett, Stewart, Gordon, Miller, '01, Westfall, Jackson, and Stevens, '04.

Leary will be the stand-by in the hurdles, with Fisher '04, Campbell '03, and Booth '03 as second men.

For the high jump Ranney and Schenck ought to make things interesting, though neither is as high a jumper as we ought to have.

Tobish is doing good work in the broad jump, and will have the assistance of Van Nuis, Kirk, or Stevens.

Patterson and Moon will take care of things in the shot-put, and Ranney, Patterson, Moon and Schenck will keep up the good work in the hammer.

In the pole-vault we have Williamson, who holds the present record. Herbert is going to make a good man with more practice. His spirit of doing his best at everything is one which might well be copied by Rutgers men in all branches of athletics.

If we are to have any bicycle races this year good work will be done by Savoye, Heyer, Kip, Engle, Hoag, Prue, and others.

There is great need of some good hard training and some solid, honest work on the part of the men who are trying for the team. We have been badly handicapped by the poor weather and a poor track, but we need two more banners in the Gym., and the fellows should work hard to get them.

All Kinds of Quarters.

On the Hampton-Wick towpath along the Thames, in Middlesex County, T. Savoye, of Raynes Park, Surrey, walked a quarter, rode on horseback the same distance, ran a quarter, rode a bicycle the same distance, sculled a quarter and swam a quarter, all in 18 minutes and 33 seconds.

Nothing like this has ever been done in America, but it is likely that such a contest will be included in the Knickerbocker Games, held at Bergen Point on May 30, 1901.

International Games.

The international games between Yale and Harvard and Oxford and Cambridge will be held on Berkeley Oval, September 21, 1901.

The following list of events will be contested: 100-yard dash, 440-yard run, 880-yard run, one-mile run, two-mile run, running high and broad jumps, 120-yard hurdle, and hammer throw.

Each team will enter two men in each event, but it is not yet known what the places will count.

Lacrosse Scores.

Columbia o, Swarthmore 5.
Columbia 3, Penn. 4.
Lehigh 2, Swarthmore 2.
Harvard 4, Crescent A. C. 8.

International Shoot.

Arrangements have practically been completed whereby the contest between the American and British teams will take place early in June.
Columbian Strength Tests.

Last week the final compilation of the records of the fifty strongest men in Columbia University was completed. These men will be Columbia's representatives in the Intercollegiate Strong Men's Championships, to be held on May 1, 1901.

Every one of the fifty men exceeded the 1,100 mark. The total number of points scored was 69,999.7, or 6,510.3 more than the championship record of last year; so it is safe to predict that Columbia will come out ahead this year.

Alumniana.

[Any authentic notes relating to Alumni, which subscribers may choose to send in, will be thankfully received by the Editor of this department.]

The editors of this department take this occasion to acknowledge the receipt of several anonymous letters recently giving items of interest in regard to alumni which otherwise would have escaped notice. Is it too much to ask the alumni to send to the editors these items of interest, which can be obtained in no other way?

'47. The Classis of Paramus at its late session released, at his own request, the Rev. Dr. Anson Dubois from his pastoral charge at Athenia, N. J. He was ordained as a missionary by the Classis of Greene, and entered at once on his work in the Thousand Islands. All his charges but one have been broken and struggling churches, most of which are now active and strong. After a continuous service of more than fifty years and at the age of eighty, he is now declared emeritus. He will reside with a son at Newburg, N. Y.

'48. Rev. Giles H. Mandeville, D.D., former Secretary of the Board of Education of the Reformed Church, has a spirited article in the Intelligencer of this week on “Pray for Gashmu.”

'63. The Rev. E. C. Oggel, D.D., discusses in the Intelligencer the question of “Sunday Illness.” [This article is recommended by the editors of this department, to all who are afflicted with such weakness at Chapel time.]

'69. Rev. William E. Griffis, D.D., contributes to the current number of the Intelligencer a very interesting account of the Easter season which he spent in the Roman Catholic Netherlands.

72. Albert S. Cook, M.Sc., L.H.D., Professor of English at Yale, contributes to the May number of the Atlantic Monthly a dissertation on “The Teaching of English.” He traces briefly the origin of English literature and shows that in its democratic origin it is but natural that the systematic study and teaching of English have had to contend with the indifference or opposition of the scholastics, the aristocracy, and the supporters of the ancient classics. While on the other hand, the allies of English have been democracy and individualism, the spirit of nationality, the methods of physical science and the sensational and utilitarian philosophy, to which may be added the growing influence of women, and the pervasive and vitalizing effect of Christianity.” After illustrating these points he considers the specific progress effected in the last decade. This has come especially through the agency of the Conference on uniform entrance requirements in English—the chasm which yawned between colleges and preparatory schools has been bridged over. As to the teaching, as it stands now the emphasis is upon quantity rather than quality, upon phenomena rather than principles, upon practice rather than theory, or upon the science rather than the philosophy of the subject. These phases he discusses, and ends by saying that the great authors have learned supremely one thing, viz., meanings and values—meanings of life, the relative values of various possibilities that life offers. These things literature can teach us, if we will learn. These are the all important elements for the founder of permanent freedom, empire and civilization. Fortunately there are signs which point out that safe and happy way. Scholarship in English through the agency of our better graduate schools is deepening as well as widening, is growing more refined and less mechanical; there is hope that the quantitative test will be gradually supplanted by the qualitative. Attention shall be steadfastly fixed on the best things—best in their nature, most conducive to fullness and perfection of individual and national life.

'76. Governor Voorhees and a distinguished party of friends spent Friday, April 26th, in inspecting the oyster beds on Maurice River and Delaware Bay. Most of the party were amazed at the magnitude of the industry and importance of the oyster business as conducted in Cumberland County. The party boarded several of the boats that were working and watched the crews as they "rough culled" the crop upon the deck. The personal inspection by State officials and the members of the Legislature served to indicate that the industry is one that the State can afford to encourage and protect, and future appropriations will meet with the approval of these gentlemen.

'78. Prof. R. W. Prentiss recently attended a farewell reception given to Rev. A. C. Dixon in Brooklyn.

'81. Prof. E. B. Voorhees addressed the Salem County Board of Agriculture last Wednesday on the subject of "Forage Crops." He mentioned several crops which can be grown by the farmer in rotation at present followed in order to reduce the necessity for buying so much feed from outside. The cow-pea, he said, was an excellent crop to furnish protein. Every ton of cow-pea hay properly cured will be equivalent in feeding value to a ton of wheat bran. Alfalfa, he said, was one of the forage crops which promises to give the farmer and dairyman a cheap food which has long been needed. At the conclusion of his address Professor Voorhees conducted a question box conference.

'89. The will of J. Arent Vanderpoel, of Brookline, Mass., provides for the establishment at Rutgers of four "Vanderpoel Scholarships in Chemistry."—N. Y. Evening Post.

'92. Rev. Ellis Bishop, at present rector of an Episcopal church in Salt Lake City, recently spent several days in New Brunswick. Rev. J. Fred. Berg assisted in the marriage ceremony of Miss Margaret Smith of New Brunswick and Mr. J. W. Lucas of Philadelphia, on Tuesday.

'95. Dr. John G. Blackwell, until recently on the staff of the Hahnemann Hospital, Philadelphia, was in town recently.

Rutgersensia.

At the Junior Ex. trials held on April 24th, Conger, Connet, Garretson, Richardson, Russum, Scott, F. W. Smith, and Steelman were chosen.

Burnett, Milliken and Vyverberg have been chosen to compete for the Delta Phi Senior Orator Prize.

We would respectfully suggest to "Freshman" Morris that the next time he attends the trials for Junior Ex., or any other trials, that he doesn't munch peanuts while the men are speaking. It's a fact, but the speakers are not helped any by the loud cracking of peanut-shells, nor the sight of a man scrambling under three or four seats after a refractory goorber. We hope he enjoyed that peanut. Still it's a case of "live and learn."

What is there to prevent a tennis tournament? Who knows the undeveloped material we have acquired since the last tournament was held, in 1899?

The preparations for the reception of 1905 have begun. Not only has the campus been beautified by the planting of new shrubs and rose-bush borders along the walks, not only are the college buildings to be purified from the stench or odor of "the filthy weed," so that the guileless freshmen may have no bad influence to harm them, but lo and behold! what now meets our astounded eyes but—a triumphal arch! It is a sort of trellis-arrangement with "creeping vines," etc., and stands over the north entrance to the campus. What a charming frame for the dear freshmen! How becoming the trailing vines!
“Hude” Neilson, assistant manager of the base-ball team, is soon to publish a new base-ball rule-book, having lately been added to Spalding’s staff. The capacity of the gentleman for base-ball “talk” is well known. The new book will be indispensable for all the substitutes.

Freshman Duggan has earned a new name. Some one dubbed him “O’Flanagan” at the Crescent Club game on Saturday.

“Pop” Merchant is a new contestant in the “Avenoo” race. Look out, Steve!

A sudden mania for smoking between recitation hours seems to have struck the college.

The weather has been very kind to the base-ball team, having saved its reputation in three games already.

It is rumored that Garabrant, “Cadet Lieutenant, Quarter-Master Sergeant pro tem,” is going to be promoted to the position which he filled lately with so distinguished success.

The members of the relay team are investing in double-ended watch-chains.

The usual weekly report of the “Kindergarten” shows progress. No increase has been made in the faculty corps.

April 18th.—Certain underclassmen take their books up a flight of stairs in Queen’s in a wheelbarrow. After the books have been removed the wheelbarrow is gently started down stairs. The freshmen in Davis’s room think an avalanche has struck them. B—th, who would not do a naughty thing for the world, is pinched by the janitor and taken for a presidential interview.

Prof. Bevier—“Mr. Morris, where is your Greek book?” Morris—“My case is that my book agent failed me.” Prof. B.—“If you don’t look out I’ll be in the accusative case.”

Stewart (in Greek)—“My uncle Megacles will never let me go without a horse.” Voice—“You’d get one anyway.” Class comes down, and “Pink” gives one of those oily ones.

Strassburger and Voelker spent their vacation on “Heinz’s Pier,” Atlantic City.

“The mystery of that fair April morning, or How ‘Ollie’ Mann happened to catch the 10.29 train to New York.”

The Sophomores are really going to have that dance on May 10th—that is if enough men get off their conditions to constitute a committee.

“Promoter” Gordon’s latest dodge is the avowal that he is going to the Philippines as a teacher in the Government schools. What a hit he would make in his “Kindergarten” line!

At the concert on the 24th there was a poor showing of college students. It’s for the benefit of the Athletic Association, fellows, so turn out and give the last concert hearty support.

The story is told of “Freddie” Bush that he went into a barber shop recently to have his hair “cut long, just like the editor’s.” It is not stated how many months the barber said “Freddie” would have to let it grow. We suggest six months as a conservative estimate.

Don’t forget the first Monday after the second Wednesday of May.

It is seldom that we, or any other publishers, are able to say truthfully of a book that "every mail is bringing orders for it." Yet this is the simple truth regarding Gordy's New Psychology.
Superintendents are ordering it for their teachers—training classes and reading circles. Principals are ordering it for their psychology classes—not only Normal Schools, but High Schools. Individual teachers are ordering it because, as they say, some fellow-teacher has a copy and considers it an indispensable part of the equipment of any teacher who proposes to do his best.

With the Exhibition Drill on Wednesday the Battalion will close perhaps the most successful year in its history. The work of the Battalion has shown great improvement over previous years and is deserving of the highest commendation. Colonel Gillmores master-hand at discipline has been shown most clearly in the increased soldierliness of the men and stricter discipline than it is often possible to maintain in like organizations. We hope that the weather man may be kind so that the Battalion may have this year the most successful Exhibition Drill in its history.

There are two important branches of athletics which, in the all-absorbing interest taken in base-ball and track work, are too often—in fact nearly every year—forgotten. These are tennis and rowing. It would be needless to expatiante here upon the benefits of these two most enjoyable and invigorating of sports; any one who has enjoyed them needs no further encouragement—they speak for themselves. It is of their unnecessary neglect that we wish to say a word.

In the past few years during spring term, tennis as a college sport has been practically dead. The fraternity courts have been used to some degree, as have also the college courts, but tennis in the general acceptation of the word has had no encouragement. In former years tournaments were held which aroused great interest; the college championship was a title as much sought after as any other, and as eagerly contested. Two years ago a tournament was held, but the interest it elicited was very mild, and it nearly expired before the finals were played off. Last year no tournament was held.

This ought not so to be; this splendid sport should not be allowed to die of mere neglect. The undergraduates cannot afford to lose it from their catalogue of sports. We admit that with base-ball and track work the time of men athletically inclined is pretty well occupied. But the track work will be over before long; besides the many men who went into training for the Spring Meet need some outlet for their enthusiasm—tennis is such an outlet. After the track work is over there is no reason that the attention of the men should not be turned to tennis or rowing, even though base-ball is still supreme.

The tennis facilities here are excellent. The college courts are being put into fine shape and will soon be available for play, as will the excellent court at Hertzog Hall, which is open to college men. The fraternity courts are also in good condition and frequently used. We would therefore bring this matter to the attention of the Athletic Association and urge the appointment of a tennis tournament committee to have charge of the arrangements for a tournament to be held early in June or at such convenient time as the committee may determine. There is certainly much excellent tennis talent in college we are sure that needs but this opportunity to be brought to light.

The other neglected sport—rowing—speaks for itself. It is a shame that with our excellent facilities of canal and river—for which, by the way, many colleges would give thousands of dollars—rowing occupies so small a share of our attention. In the past Rutgers' representatives have won fine victories upon the water and great enthusiasm has been manifested in the races, both those with the town crews and those between classes. Not since the spring of 1899 has any serious attempt been made in the rowing line, and it seems a pity that so useful and enjoyable a sport should be neglected. We would not urge especially races with outside crews, although that is good, but we would urge inter-class races, which like our inter-class foot-ball, base-ball and track contests, would encourage greatly the athletic spirit of the college and bring out talent that would otherwise be dormant or never be fully developed. To give as an excuse that there is no time is as idle as to say that there are not enough men in a college of two hundred to support and run, at the same time, a base-ball team, a track team and two or three crews—or even one.

The Field Meet on Friday was quite successful, and while only one record was broken some good material was discovered, which is most necessary if our high standard of track athletics is to be kept up. It is to be hoped that a second meet can be arranged.

The Fatal Illness of Billy Parse.

But the question was never answered, for we fell to discussing the problem at hand. The doctor became our ringleader, much to our surprise.

"Did you hear that cuss use slang?" Billy said, after we knew he was out of hearing.

"Yes," answered Phil, "and he can think of more devilry in a minute than we can plan in a week."

The doctor had agreed to play his part and answer truthfully (?) all questions which were asked, and thus give some prestige to the matter. Moreover, he suggested that no one of the other fellows be undeceived and that six of them be invited to perform the duties of bearers. Then there would be only we six, Billy, the doctor, the undertaker, and we three fellows, who were apprised of the true state of affairs.

Monday morning Kent's man brought around the coffin, and Billy actually seemed to relish the idea of being put into it and being carried around therein.

How strange are the devious ways of human nature.

The coffin had not much more than arrived when there was a knock at the door, somewhat louder and more vigorous than was befitting in the presence of death.

As I opened the door there stood two big, burly policemen, Americans of the imported kind. The biggest one said, "Wuz there a 'black box' fetched in here a while ago?" Acting quite portentous as he spoke the words "black box."

Upon being assured that there had been a casket brought there only a short time before, he pressed his inquiry further by asking who it was for. "Mr. Parse," I said. "Well, we want to see him, sor. We've got to see him. We have got a straight tip dat dere's been some foul play about these diggin's."

By good luck Billy had gone into the back room with the two men from the undertaker's, and having heard who was at the door, was rather hastily laid out.

After bantering the cops for a while I was forced to let them in. I begged them to be seated, telling them that the undertakers had just come a few minutes before to lay out the body and that I would see if they were ready to let them in. Having ascertained that it was plain sailing I motioned the cops, and we entered the room where lay the corpse on a bier.

"Phwat did he die av?" asked the bigger policeman, who was no less a personage than the night sergeant aforementioned.

"Grip," I said, laconically as possible.

"An' whose grip was it? Faix an' he don't show no signs o' bein' strangled. Shure, O'Toole, he's cauld; but look at the color, wud yez? His cheeks look loike your nose, domned if they don't."

The two undertakers, seeing trouble brewing, steered for safer quarters. Doc and Phil entered presently, and after having reconnoitered we decided that it was safe enough to let them proceed until they found out that Billy had not met with foul play, and if in this procedure they found he was alive a dollar a piece would fix matters all right.

"Be jabers, the lad is alive," said the sergeant. "Jist fale av his heart."

Yes, that was true, for little Willie's accomplishments did not extend so far as to make the organ of life cease to act.

"Two dollars more out," we thought.

So we paid them each a dollar and told them the joke in part, that is, enough so they could recognize the humor of the thing. And this with the dollar was enough to make them keep quiet.

From this time on all went well. Billy kept dark. A proper silence, or rather stillness, was maintained in the vicinity of room 141. Tuesday from two to three o'clock was set for the students and town people, and from three to half-past for the faculty.

Tuesday morning the undertaker came up and laid Billy out between eleven and twelve o'clock. Billy first having dined somewhat sumptuously at his own expense.

At one o'clock the six pall bearers carrying the casket, followed us three fellows and the undertaker down to a room on the first floor of the dormitory, which had been given us.

I don't think one of us realized the awful solemnness of our prank as we did at that moment, marching down the dimly lighted corridors with slow, funereal tread. Billy was having trouble enough breathing to keep him from thinking of solemnity or anything else. For, of course, the bearers not being in the roast, the lid must be on the casket, and even fastened. However, when asked about his breathing, Billy said, "Ah, fellows, it ain't in it with the bottom of the heap in the cane-rush. I know, for I was there freshman year from start to finish."

The pall bearers placed the casket in the room and were dismissed until five o'clock, when they were to return and transport the casket to the hearse, in which it was to be taken to the station to start on the 5.30 express toward Dallas, Tex.

After they were gone we arranged Billy's shroud (which was borrowed with the rest of the outfit) in such a way that his breathing could not be detected. At two o'clock the undertaker opened the doors to admit the waiting students, and we retired to a small adjoining room to play our part as chief mourners.

The students came and went, some lingering long at the casket of their departed friend, whispering quietly to one another. The ante-room was dark and veiled from that in which Billy was, by a net of bead curtains. Hence we could see all unobserved. We often wondered how Billy was getting along. We were constantly answered by the faces of our friends, who wore a solemn and funereal look. Billy had many friends, and a large number of the town people were present. The women snivelled until we actually wished we hadn't gone into the thing.

At last the first hour was up, and at five minutes before three the undertaker closed the doors upon all visitors, and at three the faculty came in a body, headed by the president and the senior professor, marching by twos. All but the president seated themselves about the room. I think that President Dryden gave Billy a fonder look than he ever had before. But, since, he and many others of the professors have looked upon Billy with admiring eyes.

Each one had but one short minute to look at the body. Billy knew just what order they came in. The fourth from the last was a nervous, fidgety little tutor of mathematics. Just as he began to turn away from the casket we saw him turn pale, swoon, and fall. He was resuscitated in a short time. But as soon as he came to he went into hysterics and had to be sent home in a cab.

Billy’s coming to was the most natural acting I ever saw. First he just twitched without opening his eyes, then the lips moved, and by listening closely we discovered that he wanted water.

He had been painted so as to look pale, for we had learned a trick or two by our experience with the policemen. And I assure you he looked ghastly enough when we lifted him out of the casket, pale and draped in the black shroud.

He rubbed his eyes and seemed to know us, but was dazed and numb. He asked us to rub his limbs. After a while we carried him up to his room, and presently Dr. Clement was in attendance, very much surprised, of course.

Billy attended recitations on Friday for the first. He thought he had better leave it that long for appearance sake. When he got out he was, as he had predicted, congratulated on every side for his luck in not being buried alive. Of course he had to invent some story to tell the people when asked how it felt to be in a trance. But what it was he never told us.

“Well,” said Billy, on Thursday night, “I wouldn’t go through that again for a farm. ’Twas easy enough to keep from laughing. But, oh! the feeling, fellows. I can’t describe it and I don’t want to think of it. I thought it would be awfully funny to hear the fellows speaking sad sentiments in sorrowful accents. But ’twas far from funny. Then, too, when I was to revive! It was awful hard work to begin to twitch when ’Shorty’ Habberton was looking at me. But I knew if I didn’t why you and the undertaker would miss all the fun, so I steeled myself and started in.”

There are three questions I know you are asking. I will answer them.

No. The faculty never found it out, and Billy graduated an honor man. Neither did his father find it out.

Yes. Billy is married and has taken up Dr. Clement’s practice. The doctor is still living, but too feeble to practice. Oh, yes! I almost forgot. Mrs. Parse was Miss Dorothy Clement.

THE END.

Trustee Nominations.

The following nominations have been announced by the inspector of election of candidates for Alumni Trustee, to serve for five years:

John W. Herbert, Class of ’72.
Charles Bradley, Class of ’76.
G. D. B. Hasbrouck, Class of ’80.

[As we go to press we learn that Mr. Bradley has withdrawn his name from the list of nominees.—Ed.]

Y. M. C. A.

On Friday, April 26th, John S. Voorhees, of the class of ’76, gave an address on “Choosing a Life Work.” Mr. Voorhees emphasized the importance of a right choice of the work to which a man is adapted, and of some things to which it is right for every young man to aspire. Every man in college should have heard this address.

The prayer meeting on Friday will be a missionary meeting.
ATHLETICS.

Rutgers 1, West Point 10.

Last Saturday the 'Varsity base-ball team went to West Point and slid through nine innings on a slippery grass diamond. Captain Richters occupied the box, Smith's arm being still too lame to pitch. West Point put three pitchers in the box during the game, and this proved a strong enough feature to keep Rutgers' hits well scattered. The features of the game were Fisher's work at shortstop and Hitchner's throwing to bases, and for West Point, hard hitting and sharp fielding "all along the line."

The game in detail: First Inning, Edgar, Fisher and Mann all went out at first on infield hits. Zell opened up for West Point with a line drive to shortstop, Fisher making a pretty stop. McArthur walked, Hobson hit to Mann, doubling McArthur at first.

Second Inning: Hart struck out, followed by Heyer's out at first. Smith singled and was caught napping at first. For West Point Herr singled, advanced to second on Abbot being hit by pitcher, and scored on Whipple's hit to center. Hackett singled and was caught at second by Hitchner's throw. Zell struck out.

Third Inning: Hitchner hit to short and made first, advanced one on a passed ball and scored on Conger's long drive. Conger reached third on error but was caught napping. Richters flied out and Edgar died on first. McArthur and Herr hit for two bases, Abbot for three, scoring Herr. Abbot scored on Cooper's out to center. Whipple scored on Graham's fly to left.

Both sides were retired in one, two, three order in the next two innings.

In the sixth, Richters went out on first. Edgar hit for two bases but was doubled on Fisher's single. Whipple died at second. Hackett walked, but was put out on Graham's hit. McArthur hit through short, scoring Graham. Zell scored on a hit by Hobson. Herr struck out.

No more scoring was done on either side.

The team had a very pleasant trip and was cheered by a number of New Brunswick people and college men who accompanied it to West Point.

Base-Ball Notes.

In the Dartmouth-Trinity game Varney and Rollins did not allow Trinity a single hit. Grant, of the Columbia freshman team, struck out eighteen men in a recent game with Betts Academy.

Hitchner threw out four men at second in the West Point game.

Three double plays in the West Point game shows that Rutgers fielded fast. The base-running was slow, as usual.

“Bill” Fisher made a fine catch of a line drive.

Acrobatic feats by Heyer at first amuse the grand stand.

Smith got two hits.

Edgar got a two-bagger. He is batting well this season.

Base-Ball Schedule.

May 18. Ursinus College, at Collegeville.
May 22. New York University, at New Brunswick.

Changes in Base-Ball Rules.

A number of changes have been made this year in the rules governing the playing of base-ball. The primary object of most of the changes is to shorten the game.

Hereafter the catcher must remain close up to the bat, or not over ten feet back, the distance to be marked with a line. The first two balls fouled will go as strikes unless caught on the fly. A pitched ball hitting a batsman will count as one ball. The umpire shall call a ball each time the pitcher delays the game more than twenty seconds. If the ball is thrown to anyone but the catcher by the pitcher with the batsman up, unless in an attempt to retire a base runner the umpire shall call one ball.—Cornell Daily Sun.

Spring Field Meet.

The annual Spring Field Meet held on Friday, May 3d, was remarkable for the lack of any keen competition in most of the events, and consequently was uninteresting both to athletes and spectators.

A strong west wind was blowing, and as the bleachers were not in place the finish of most of the events was placed in front of the grand stand at the west end of the track, so that the competitors had to run the homestretch against the wind.

The events were run off without any of the waits which have dragged out some meets until after dark, and for this the officials deserve great credit.

The best work of the day was done by Davis '03 in the two-mile run, which he won, without competition and against the wind, in 11 min. 45 2-5 sec., breaking the former record by 16 2-5 seconds.

Moon '04 also did good work in the shot-put, winning that event with a put of 35 feet, 2 inches.

The absence of Freshmen was noticeable all through the meet, only six men from the whole class competing.

The majority of the events were parades, with a star leading and a Sophomore trailing along somewhere behind to get the three points for second place. The method of scoring should be changed next year, as the present system does not give an accurate line on the strength of the classes. Many points are won which are not earned.

The following is a synopsis of the events:

- 100 Yard Dash—Won by Elmendorf '02; second, Van Nuis '03; third, Waters '04. Time, 10 3-5 seconds. Won by seven feet.
- 120 Yards Hurdle—Won by Leary '02; second, Tobish '03. Time, 17 1-5 seconds.
- 440 Yards Run—Won by Ranson '01; second, Van Nuis '03. Time, 58 1-5 seconds. Won by fifteen yards.
- 1 Mile Bicycle—Won by Engle '03; second, Savoye '02; third, Nolan '04. Time, 3 minutes, 26 seconds. Won by a length.
- 1 Mile Run—Won by Malven '03; second, Kirk '03; third, Erler '03. Time, 6 minutes, 24 seconds. The pace was a walk until the last 300 yards, when Malven won out on the sprint. The men were all well bunched at the finish.
- 2 Mile Run—Won by Davis '03; second, Jackson '02. Time, 11 minutes, 45 2-5 seconds, which makes a new Rutgers record.
- 220 Yards Hurdle—Won by Leary '02; second, Campbell '03. Time, 34 seconds. Won by five yards.
- 220 Yards Dash—Won by Elmendorf '02; second, Van Nuis '03. Time, 25 2-5 seconds. One of the closest races of the day. Won by a yard.
- Half-Mile Run—Won by Ranson '01; second, Stewart '03; third, Erler '03. Time, 2 minutes, 20 seconds. Won by five yards.
- Shot Put—Won by Moon '04. Distance, 35 feet, 2 inches. Second, Patterson '01; distance, 35 feet, 1 inch. Third, Foertner '02; distance, 33 feet, 2½ inches.
- Pole Vault—Won by Williamson '02, 8 feet; second, Herbert '03, 7 feet, 8½ inches; third, Hotaling '03, 7 feet, 6½ inches.
- High Jump—Won by Ranney '01, 5 feet, 2 inches; second, Tobish '03, 5 feet; third, tie between Schenck '04 and Mellor '04. The jump-off was won by Schenck.
- Hammer Throw—Won by Ranney '01, 89 feet, 1½ inches; second, Foertner, 88 feet, 1½ inches; third, Schenck '04, 63 feet, 3½ inches.
- Broad Jump—Won by Tobish '03, 18 feet, 2½ inches; second, Fisher '03, 18 feet, 7 inches; third, Van Nuis '03, 17 feet, 4½ inches.
- 2 Mile Bicycle—Won by Engle '03; second, Müller '03; third, Snyder '03. Time, 6 minutes, 56 1-5 seconds.

The points won by the classes were: 1901, 23 points; 1902, 35 points; 1903, 63 points; 1904, 9 points.

The officials were as follows: Referee, Dr. Bevier. Judges at finish, Dr. Stevenson, Prof. Prentiss, Mr. P. W. Fay. Field Judges, Francisco '99, Purdy 'oo. Starter, Mr. T. Lyons. Timers, Mr. Dodge, Brokaw 'oo. Announcer, Van Hoovenberg '03. Scorers, Burnett '01, Bell '01. Measurers, Kuehnle '02, Wyckoff '02.

Track Notes.

Columbia will meet Penn. in a track meet on May 11.

The failure of the Spring Meet can be laid to no other cause than our present system of having the trials for the track team at the same time with the meet. This is an evil which should be checked before it gains too great a headway.

The dual track meet held in Syracuse on Saturday resulted as follows: Syracuse 79, Rochester 25.
Goldsmith, a Princeton freshman, ran the quarter in 0.49 1-5 sec. at the fifth annual Interscholastic Meet.

S. S. Jones, the remarkable high jumper of the New York University, equalled the intercollegiate record of 6 feet 4 inches in practice on the university field Wednesday. The record has stood since 1887, when Byrd Page of the University of Pennsylvania made the figures the world's record. Page's jump was unapproached until Mike Sweeney brought it to grief by his wonderful performance in New York when he cleared 6 feet 5½ inches.

The track team will be entered in the Knickerbocker Athletic Club Games to be held at Bergen Point on Decoration Day. Gold watches will be given for first and second prizes, and silver watches for third. New pockets are being devised by the relay team.

Track Team.

The following men have been selected to represent Rutgers on the track: Elmendorf and Van Nuis, 100 and 220; Ranson (Capt.) and Stevens, 440 and 880; Malven and Kirk, one mile; Leary and Campbell, hurdles; Williamson and Herbert, pole vault; Tobish and Fisher, broad jump; Ranney and Foertner, hammer-throw; Moon and Patterson, shotput.

Athletic Association.

The annual meeting of the R. C. A. A. was held on Friday last. The following men were elected: President, Miller '02; Vice President, Stevens '02; Secretary, Stewart '03; Assistant Treasurer, Brett '04. Elmendorf '02, Wyckoff '02 and Fisher '03, were elected members of the Advisory Committee.

The Lehigh Meet.

A full account of the track and field meet with Lehigh on Wednesday, May 8th, will appear in the next issue.

The Intelligencer of last week publishes a contribution from the pen of the Rev. P. H. Milliken, D.D. It is a paper which was read at the Reformed Ministerial Association, Philadelphia, on March 5th, and is published by the request of the Association. The subject is "Our Ministry."

Rutgersensia.

The members of the Classical section of the Senior class spent a very pleasant evening on May 3d at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Bevier on Bishop Place. The Seniors were very pleasantly entertained by Dr. Bevier and his wife and also by their children, who rendered some very pretty selections on the violin. After refreshments had been served games were played, and when the company broke up at a late hour all agreed that they had had a most enjoyable evening, and Dr. and Mrs. Bevier were given a hearty Classical yell as a good-night.

The invitations for Exhibition Drill are out. They are very neat and attractive and the committee are to be congratulated upon their appearance. If the weather is propitious the drill this year promises to surpass all previous records. Invitations and tickets may be obtained from any of the committee, which is composed of Captain Burnett, Adjutant Davis, Lieutenant Hart, First Sergeant Brown, Sergeants Steelman and R. O. Smith, Corporal Neilson and Private Carleton.

Miss See has come out flat-footed in her views on the “shirt-waist man” question. With her consent the Dormitorians now appear “en négligéé,” but suspenders are absolutely ostracized. Belts are the only visible means of support allowable. The thanks of the crowd are due Miss See for her kind consideration of their comfort. As the days grow warmer this will the more be appreciated.

Garabrant seems to be the only member of the Senior class having the strength of his convictions and may now be seen any warm, sunny day sporting a mortar-board.

Incidentally, Mr. Simpson—when does the slow freight arrive with the remainder of the outfit?

Gordon is undoubtedly an adept in the fine art of wire pulling, but he got sadly mixed in the gallery during the last Chapel entertainment. Ropes don’t seem to work as easily as wires.

Woodbridge ’03 certainly put his “foot in it” when he grinned in chapel. It will never do, “Brad.”

Hitchner’s throwing in the West Point game was very neat. We can stand any amount of this snappy kind of playing.

Wait until you see the class numerals “Rusty” wears. Actually won a point! Freehold papers please copy.

“Avenop” race still on. Entries will be rejected unless made out in proper form. None will be received after May 30th. Any interference by outsiders will be harshly dealt with. Contestants will be disqualified for jostling.

The picture of the relay team was a failure. Never mind though, Tommy—they have time to burn.

Promoter Gordon is trying to arrange a base-ball game between the “Preps.” and his own “Kindergartners.” He thinks it will be a runaway for his team!

Ask Tommy Read about Virginia. P. S.—This is no joke.

Have you heard—
1. T. Russum tell about Founder’s Day?
2. How Bill and Bush went to New York?
3. How T. Read lost the train from West Point?
4. How Steve Malven won the mile run?
5. Why Milliken wears his hair long?
6. What brings “Spike” to town so often?
7. Why the Targum editors have not been auctioned off?

A committee of one has been appointed from the Freshman class to arrange for the banquet to be given in honor of the sub-freshmen on June 1st.

“Frustum-Cone” Devan spends all his time drawing pictures and labeling them “Mary.”

Translations as they seem to be. Prof. Kirk—“Come, gentlemen, you are jumping through that too rapidly.” Bill Stewart—“Riding, you mean.”

“Feet” Brown hands his essay in and makes explanations a week later. Class comes down.

It is reported that the “King” is going to hire kids to hold down the hurdles in the Lehigh meet. It is to be hoped that the day will windy, if his plan is to succeed.

The Sophomore Dance on Friday night promises to be a most enjoyable college function. Every effort is being made by the committee to make this new departure in college social life a big success, worthy to be followed by future classes.

Brown defeated Dartmouth in their annual debate held in Providence, recently.

Rev. Mr. Cranmer’s Address.

The Seniors on Monday were given a most delightful talk by Rev. Mr. Cranmer ’82, of Somerville. He gave the first of a series of talks on “Choosing a Profession,” which is being arranged by Dr. Scott. His subject was “The Ministry.”

After apologizing for what he should say on the ground that it was the minister’s day off—“Blue Monday”—which, judging from the wit and humor of Mr. Cranmer’s remarks, is not very blue for him, he went on to say that although a great deal is said to-day about the ministry being crowded, it was not so of the ministry more than of any other profession. It is crowded in one sense, yet there is always room at the top, as in any other profession.

He said that of course the ministry could not be recommended as a money-making profession, but on the other hand ministers were not underpaid, as is often supposed. “The rounds of the ministerial ladder are few, but soon climbed.” Besides the compensations of the minister are far more than any salary he may gain. The joy of preaching the glad tidings, and of ministering to those in trouble and pointing the inquirer to the way of life bring joys which others cannot know.

The ministry is not to be considered as a refuge for those too worn out in body and mind to compete in the other walks of life. On the contrary, the minister must have a strong body and a capacity for sustained physical labor to enable him to endure the many calls that are made upon his sympathy, time and endurance.

“The world to-day is no respecter of persons. There is no leadership but one through service. The halo of the minister has gone; the glory of the white necktie has departed.”

In continuing, he said that, although one might by his finished style charm his hearers to the point of hypnotism, it was heart-power that alone would mean real success—true sympathy with the needs of humanity. In conclusion he declared that the ministry was not a profession, but a heavenly calling.

At the close of the address, which was most inspiring and suggestive, Dr. Scott spoke a few words expressive of the hearty thanks of the class. The Seniors gave Mr. Cranmer college and class yells, and sang the “Bow-Wow-Wow!” the song which he wrote while in college.

As a conservator of the best traditions and characteristics of the Dutch, Rutgers College has performed its duty. The Dutch Church has not used the College as effectively and as forcefully as it might have, for its own best ends, but the College is ready for more students from that quarter, and still continues to do its part in supplying the churches with an "able and well qualified ministry."

The old ideal of the College to make "judicial search of the laws of nature and of nations" is still maintained, and in the order expressed as the "laws of nature" have been so studied as materially to develop our scientific side. This partly in response to utilitarian tendencies; partly as a result of our close relations to the State of New Jersey.

Looking forward to the General Synod about to be held here we are constrained to ask why the Classical Department of the College has not been better supported by the Dutch Church, which holds us strongly enough within its grasp to force this question from us?

The Dutch Church originally had, from a worldly point of view, a glorious birthright on Manhattan Island, but this has been in a measure lost. The failure to recognize at the outset the identity of interests of College, Seminary and Churches and all Dutch organizations has prevented the healthy, complete and normal development of all. The practical expression of this sentiment would have placed all the congregations under the leadership of graduates from our Seminary, and all schools and organizations related or connected with the Dutch Church would have been likewise controlled. Then all these organizations would have fed the Classical Department of the College, which in turn would have fed the Seminary, and the Seminary would have finished the preparation of a ministry not only "able and well qualified," but strong and militant in its work for the faith of the fathers.

We hope that the Day of Prayer for Colleges may not lapse into a mere sentimental expression of good wishes for the prosperity of all concerned in the cause of education. If prosperity is to come, activity in the interest of the College must not be allowed to cease when the sound of prayer dies out.

We have no suggestions to offer by way of remedy, but the General Synod we hope will investigate the subject of the relations of College and Seminary, to itself and to progress, and some remedies may become obvious thereby.

A question we desire to ask here is, have the best places within the gift of the Church usually gone to graduates of our Seminary?

We trust that the Synod will not dismiss these friendly words without reflection, which occur to us as we are reminded of our good fortune in having the members as our guests at their annual gathering this coming month, and we desire to express to them on behalf of the Alumni Targum the warmest interest in their proceedings this year.

It may be questioned whether the activity of the Synod and Church is proportionate to the representation which the Church enjoys in the Board of Trustees of the College. Without expressing an opinion on that point we desire to call attention to it.

We welcome the members of the Synod who are to be with us, and we hope they will make full use of the Hand-Book describing... the College, and we know that all the active members of the College will be glad to have the members of the Synod inspect the plant and workings of the College as fully as they may desire, and we trust it may prove of interest to them.

The last cry in the Christian Intelligencer is "Our Seminary Closer to the Heart of the Church." The College, standing as it does, between the Church and the Seminary, says Amen, but prays for action on the part of both Synod and Seminary. The College itself can do little by way of initiative in such a movement, but can help much once it is under way.

With the hope that such a movement may be begun soon, we desire to express again our warmest interest in the annual General Synod so soon to gather in "Old New Brunswick."

The Hulst Gift.

Every Alumnus and friend of Rutgers should cherish the memory of the late Rev. George D. Hulst, Ph.D., of the Class of 1866, for the excellent gift described in another part of this issue, and because of the spirit in which he gave it. In a letter to the President, dated the 3rd of December, 1891, he gives evidence of a spirit of generosity, of loyalty, and of appreciation of the College which should command the admiration of all who wish the College well, and should serve to incite them to follow so worthy an example. He says in part in this letter:

"It has been my intention for some time past to present my collection of Insects to the College * * *"

"The collection is a general one of the Butterflies and Moths of North America, North of Mexico, with a few Exotics in certain families. With what the College now has, this addition will give to the College a very good representation of Lepidoptera in general. In its specialties the Geometridae and Pyralidae it will put the College in possession of the best, and in some respects by far the best collection in the world. * * * *

"In connection with the gift, I have two conditions to make: 1st. No type specimens shall ever be taken from the museum by any person but, 1st, the Entomologist, and then only for the direct benefit of the museum itself, and 2nd, by myself, as stated in the second condition.

"2nd. The College is freely and without any reserve to loan me, at any time in my life, any part of the collection I may desire to have for study or comparison.

"If these conditions are agreed to, I hereby give the collection without other reservation to Rutgers College in New Brunswick, N. J., and at once ask that, for the purpose of study and comparison, I may be allowed to retain with me the Geometridae and Pyralidae in the collection.

"Let me further say I have often regretted my inability to contribute material aid to Rutgers. I assure you, however, I am not unmindful of my debt to her as my Alma Mater, and I am not ungrateful for the honors which in one way or another she has bestowed upon me.

"Let this gift be something of a token of my gratitude and love for her, and of my respect and regard for * * * the worthy men who make up her corps of Professors. I rejoice to know that with this gift in connection with what Professor Smith has done, and is doing, Rutgers will have a collection in the Lepidoptera, far in advance of any college in America, or for that matter so far as I know in the world. * * *

"What I have done means very little to the College compared with what others have done; but it means that a good piece of my heart, as well as a good piece of my life is laid upon the altar of Rutgers. While sometimes called an Entomologist, and so in a way a scientist, I am as you know also a clergyman, and as such, from the book, I realize 'She hath done what she could' is the highest possible commendation; and, while so many, I am sorry to say do not do that way, I have endeavored to 'practice what I preach.' I am,

"Very sincerely and faithfully yours,

"Geo. D. HULST."
Fund for Emeritus Professorships.

In June, 1899, the members of the Class of 1889 voted to express formally to the Trustees of the College their earnest hope that an endowment fund for "Emeritus Professorships" be begun, and this suggestion was received by the Trustees with pleasure. Some months later a Committee of the Trustees began to collect funds for a closely related purpose, but the principle of honorable dismissal from active service with a major fraction of the annual salary received in active work was not expressed, and the matter we understand has rested, after some considerable activity, at that point.

The United States Army and the Navy recognize the emeritus principle in a substantial way. The Pennsylvania and Illinois Central Railroad Companies do likewise, and several of our leading colleges have recognized the principle for some years.

Such an endowment need not be large in this institution, for not more than one person would be likely to be on the retired list at any given time, and frequently none would be on that list. During any vacant period the fund could be allowed to grow.

Few stronger incentives for loyalty to an institution exist than the knowledge among the teaching force that long years of exhausting service would be closed by an assurance of honorable and not dependent retirement. We trust that the committee having the matter in charge will soon report successful progress.

The Hulst Collection.

In December, 1891, the Rev. George Dur- yee Hulst, Ph.D., of the Class of 1866, made a gift to Rutgers College of his Collection of Butterflies and Moths, and in January, 1892, the Butterflies and part of the Moths were delivered at New Brunswick, where they have been ever since, duly cared for in the Entomological Laboratory in New Jersey Hall. Dr. Hulst was then doing active entomological work in two of the Moth-families: Geometridae and Pyralidae, and he reserved to himself the right to retain these families during his lifetime.

Dr. Hulst died November 5, 1900. About the middle of April last the collection was actually turned over to the College by the executors. It is now all in New Jersey Hall, but has not yet been placed in condition for general examination. The portion received in 1892 contained 870 species and varieties in 2,415 specimens. The portion received in April, 1901, contained 1,367 species and varieties in 4,190 specimens. Altogether the gift embraces 2,237 species and varieties in 6,605 specimens, and the number will probably prove greater rather than less when all the material is carefully separated out and arranged. Of these 1,367 species or varieties, 549, or about two-fifths, are types, that is, the species from which the species was described and to which the name was given. This gives a peculiar value to this collection, because it is the one which must form the basis from which all future work in the families Geometridae and Pyralidae must start. The examples constitute the court of ultimate resort, for with them all others must correspond to claim title to the names given by Dr. Hulst. A loss of one of these "types" means the loss of the final test of the species; hence the greatest care in preserving these insects is demanded. The collection is absolutely unique in this respect; any other, though it contain all the same species, will yet be inferior in value, because merely a copy—it cannot be the original. The scientific value of the material is therefore very great, and as the College has accepted the charge, it owes also a duty to science to keep the collection safe from all chance of harm.

It may be added that the collection of the order Lepidoptera now in the Entomological Laboratory is one of the most important in the United States. Including the material just received there are at least 3,500 species represented in the collection in over 10,000 specimens, and of these at least 750 are types or co-types, while at least 1,000 are typical. The collection is therefore worthy of all the care that can be given to it, and its scientific value is now exceeded in this one order by the collection in the U. S. National Museum only. Altogether there is sufficient material in the Entomological Department to warrant serious consideration of a fire-proof building to contain it and the equally important collections of some of the other departments.

Rutgers in the Spanish-American War.

So many inquiries have been made of the College authorities as to the records and achievements of our Alumni in the late war with Spain that special request is now made to all the Alumni, who may be able to furnish the Registrar with detailed information to do so. Full details are desired, military as well as civil, and early attention to the matter will be appreciated by the Registrar, Mr. Upson, to whom all communications on this subject should be sent.

Proposed New Regulations of the Standing Committee.

Reg. 1. The Standing Committee of the Association of the Alumni of Rutgers College shall meet at the call of the Permanent Chairman as soon as practicable after its appointment.

Reg. 2. At the said meeting the business first in order shall be to organize, under the superintendence of the Permanent Chairman, by the election of a Vice Chairman, whose duty it shall be to preside during the year at all meetings of the Committee, and perform the other duties of the Permanent Chairman.

Reg. 3. The Permanent Chairman shall keep a record of the proceedings, and shall make report on behalf of the Standing Committee to the Association as circumstances may require. He shall sign and distribute all calls for stated and other meetings, and all other official notices. He shall sign all warrants drawn on the Treasurer. He shall have printed and report to the Association at each annual meeting thereof, a ballot containing double nominations—to be made by the Committee—for officers and orators and nominating committee for the year next ensuing.

Reg. 4. A meeting of the Committee shall be held at the call of the Permanent Chairman, preceding the day of the annual session of the Association, to transact such business as may be brought before it, and to agree upon an annual report, containing such representations and suggestions as it may deem advisable and expedient to submit for the consideration of the Association.

Mr. Loree May Be President.

Recent newspaper notices state that the name of Mr. L. F. Loree, Scientific '77, is being favorably considered for the presidency of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. Mr. Loree is now Fourth Vice President of the Pennsylvania. Should this report of promotion become a matter of fact it would not be surprising, for Mr. Loree has been rapidly advanced as a professional railroad man in the last few years. It is not a usual thing to become a railroad president at forty-two, but we hope soon to be able to congratulate Mr. Loree upon such a success.

Notice by Chief Inspector of Election.

New Brunswick, N. J., May 10th, 1901.

Mr. Charles Bradley, one of the nominees for “Alumni Trustee,” has notified the Committee that he declines to be a candidate for the office. Any change in votes already cast that may be necessitated by this declination can be made by communication with me prior to the election on June 19th, 1901.

H. A. Neilson,
Chief Inspector of Election.

Sub-O rganizations.

The matter of Sub-O rganizations or Branch Organizations will be published in the next Alumni issue in detail.
Caps and gowns! What an unusual sight at Rutgers. The Seniors this year have revived a custom, which has long died out, of wearing caps and gowns—not caps merely, as has often been done in the past—but caps and gowns, the complete academic attire. This is a custom common to all colleges—or should be—and one which it is to be regretted has here at Rutgers been allowed to fall into disuse. We have none too many of these college customs which in after days are looked back upon with such genuine affection—caps and gowns, Senior fences, Senior singing, and the many other practices which go to make up the charm of undergraduate life. We sincerely hope that the custom of wearing caps and gowns may commend itself to the undergraduates so that this revival may be the one that shall make the custom permanent. It is far too pretty a custom to be neglected, and we cannot too strongly urge its continuance. But if it be resolved next year to wear the cap and gown, let it be done early in the year, and not left until the third term, as was done this year.

The advent of Exhibition Drill and final examinations reminds the Seniors only too forcibly that their days as undergraduates—those four years all too short—are nearly numbered. Only four short weeks, and the Seniors will be in reality “out in the cold, cold world,” as the song goes. May these last weeks be the best—the weeks when we shall come to appreciate and love best Alma Mater, under whose wings we have spent four most happy and helpful years.
for the future is bright. The new track—one worthy of the name—and the access of new material, which we have every reason to think will come we are sure will be the beginning of an era of success in athletics at Rutgers.

In this issue, which is the regular monthly “Alumni Number,” we publish the Charter of the Alumni Association and other matter which is of great interest to the alumni, inasmuch as it has never before been published in this form. It will reach the alumni in time for perusal before the election for Alumni Trustee, and we hope will clear up any doubt that may have existed in their minds as to the methods of procedure. We are pleased to allow our columns to be the medium for that which should be of great advantage in that the charter and by-laws of the Association are given in this compact form to every alumnus.

We would again bring to the attention of the undergraduates the heretofore neglected sports of tennis and rowing, and again urge the appointing of a committee to arrange for a tennis tournament.

Owing to the fact that we publish this week the charter and by-laws of the Alumni Association, many of the usual features of the Targum will necessarily be omitted, to be contained in our next week’s issue.

The New Gate.
The old wooden gate at the west entrance to the campus has been torn down to make room for the fine stone gate which is now being erected. The name of the donor of the gate is not given, but the gate itself is a memorial to those who have done or wished well to the college.

All the old fence around the campus, except the iron fence on Somerset street, is to disappear, and its place is to be taken by a hedge.

There were over 150 school boys entered in the Princeton Interscholastic Track Meet.

ATHLETICS.

Rutgers 74, Lehigh 22.

In the only dual meet scheduled for the track team this season Rutgers came off an easy winner. On May 8th the team representing Lehigh University was treated to a defeat even worse than that of last year. The weather was cloudy and threatening, but the rain kept off long enough to permit the meet to be held. The track was in its usual condition.

Undoubtedly the best work of the day was done by Klar of Lehigh, who ran the mile in 4 minutes 51 2-5 seconds. Considering the condition of the track and the fact that he was not hard pushed this is fine work, and Klar is only a beginner. With good training he should be heard from in the intercollegiates before long.

The work of the Rutgers team was a decided contrast to that of the Friday before. With competition to spur them on our team did fine work and deserve to have more opportunity to show their mettle than is afforded by one lone meet, and that a walk-over. The surprise of the home team was Fisher, who broke the broad jump record by 5½ inches. Ranney also raised his own record in the hammer-throw to 97 feet 6 inches, and Ranson equalled his record of 55 seconds in the 440 yards run. There is no doubt but that keener competition would have resulted in establishing new figures in several other events.

The following is a synopsis of the events:

100 Yards Dash. Won by Elmendorf, Rutgers; second, Van Nuis, Rutgers. Time, 10 3-5 seconds. Both places were won easily.

120 Yards Hurdle. Won by Leary, Rutgers; second, Erb, Lehigh. Time, 17 seconds. Leary was Rutgers' only entry and won easily.

440 Yards Run. Won by Ranson, Rutgers; second, Stevens, Rutgers. Time, 55 seconds; equalling the Rutgers record. Both places were won easily.

Mile Run. Won by Klar, Lehigh; second,
Kirk, Rutgers. Time, 4 minutes 51 2-5 seconds; below both the Lehigh and Rutgers records. Kirk ran about even with the present Rutgers record.

220 Yards Hurdle. Won by Leary, Rutgers; second, Erb, Lehigh. Time, 30 seconds. Won by a yard.

220 Yards Run. Won by Elmendorf, Rutgers; second, Frick, Lehigh. Time, 24 1-5 seconds.

Half-Mile Run. Won by Ranson, Rutgers; second, Klar, Lehigh. Time, 2 minutes 8 3-5 seconds. Stevens, Rutgers, finished second, but was disqualified for fouling.

Shot-Put. Won by Moon, Rutgers; second, Patterson, Rutgers. Distance, 35 ft. 8 in.

Pole Vault. Won by Burrows, Lehigh; second, N. N. Williamson, Rutgers. Height, 9 feet 2 1/2 inches. It was an off day for Williamson, who could not equal even his practice height.

High Jump. Won by Ranney, Rutgers; second, Tobish, Rutgers. Height, 5 feet, 3 inches.

Hammer Throw. Won by Ranney, Rutgers; second, Foertner, Rutgers. Distance, 97 feet 6 inches, establishing a new Rutgers record.

Broad Jump. Won by Fisher, Rutgers; second, Tobish, Rutgers. Distance, 20 feet 6 inches, establishing a new Rutgers record.

The final score in points was Rutgers 74, Lehigh 22.

The handsome banner of scarlet and white has been added to the ever increasing collection adorning the walls of the gymnasium.

The sum of $250,000 has been given to Phillips Andover Academy, to found a department of archaeology.

'36. In the “Review of Reviews” for April there is an interesting article entitled “The Founder of Our Life-Saving Service.”

“The United States Life-Saving Service is a credit to the nation. * * * It is a fact, however, that not one American in a thousand knows anything about the origin of this beneficent institution or can name its founder. The man who deserves credit for bringing the matter of a life-saving system before Congress and agitating it there until the project was adopted, is Dr. William A. Newell, now, at the age of eighty-three, a practicing physician at Allentown, N. J.” A brief account of the origin of the system is quoted from “Success” for March, 1901, from an article written by Dr. Newell, and his efforts to have his scheme accepted are narrated.

Dr. Newell was a member of the class of 1836 at Rutgers, and for a number of years Governor of New Jersey.

'45. Rev. William H. Ten Eyck is Permanent Clerk of the General Synod, which is to meet in New Brunswick on June 5th.

'54. The “Annual of the University Club” of New York for 1901 contains some items of special interest to Rutgers men. On the list of officers from the foundation of the Club in 1865 the name of George Van Nest Baldwin of the class of 1854 is the most prominent, for he is named as president, 1867-1879, and as vice president, 1865-1867, and again, 1879-1887. Mr. Baldwin has therefore been an officer of the club for twenty-two out of the thirty-six years of its existence. This Club is the most influential of its kind in America, and it possesses the finest club house. In the list of its present members are to be found the names of twenty-six Rutgers graduates. It is understood that several others are on the “waiting list.”

'60. In the Intelligencer for May 8th, appears an article from the pen of Rev. A. Mes-

'62. Rev. Alan Campbell and Mr. John S.
Voorhees '76 attended a dinner given at the St. Denis Hotel on Monday, May 6th, at which there were present prominent clergymen and laymen of the Dutch Reformed Church.
'76. Governor Voorhees, who for the past few weeks has been seriously ill at his home in Elizabeth, is now rapidly improving. Although as yet unable to leave his bed, the attending physicians state that his complete recovery is near at hand.
'77. Leonor F. Loree, who for some time has been fourth vice president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, and previously general manager of the lines west of Pittsburg, has lately been named as president of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. Mr. Loree is one of the most promising of Rutgers' later alumni, and his career is being watched with great interest.
'90. In a recent number of the "Seventh Regiment Gazette" appears an excellent half-tone of Louis W. Stotesbury, who was recently commissioned Second Lieutenant of Company
F of that famous regiment. He was enlisted in April, 1892, and has since held the offices of corporal (1893) and sergeant (1900).

"His father was an officer in the U. S. Navy

"State the arguments for and against the election of U. S. Senators by the people." The first prize was won by D. Frederick Burnett, of Newark, and the second prize by Oliver D.

contested, as was shown by the fact that the judges were nearly an hour in making their decision.
Overheard in "Lab." Jackson crosses the

What are we coming to? Soon “Bill” Stewart, he with the riderless horse, will be advertising his “Maine,” or “Dutch” Hummel will be shooting off things about the Passaic River, especially of its Mouth. (Never mind the Source.) Or perhaps Smith will tell about his New Jersey (Spalding make)!

“And it rained for forty days and forty nights.” You have got to be a “chemical” to understand that.

Special notice from the Faculty! No Senior who has any conditions shall be allowed to wear a cap and gown.

Seen in Y. M. C. A.—Elmendorf.

The exhibition of base-ball given was not very encouraging. The team played in a listless way and showed the effects of too much dance the night before. The students are anxious to back up the team, but—they should have something to back up.

Ask “Water” Mann how it feels to be a pile-driver.

The Dormitory is being put in “Sunday-go-to-meeting” order for the reception of the Reformed Church Synod, which meets in New Brunswick early in June.

If any of the staid inhabitants have been surprised to see certain individuals wildly waving red flags in the vicinity of the college grounds, they need have no alarm—it is only the Juniors practicing wig-wagging for the Colonel.

Senior singing is about due to commence with Senior vacation. The mortar-boards and gowns look very well. The more the merrier.

It is rumored that contrary to the custom of former years, there will be no Battalion drill after the exhibition. This is an innovation which will bring joy to the hearts of the men to whom third term drill after Exhibition Drill heretofore has meant hours of sweating and practically useless drilling. The Colonel deserves the warmest praise of the men of the Battalion.

buildings, receive the votes of those entitled to vote for nominees for the office of Trustee, count them, and without delay make a written return of the persons elected to the Secretary of the Alumni Association, who shall, in turn, forthwith notify the Board of Trustees. The person or persons receiving the highest num-

Said Inspectors shall, in the month of May terms—and after serving a full term of five years shall be eligible for re-election by the Alumni for another term of five years, but after a second term they shall not be again eligible for re-election until five years have inter-

Alumni shall so enroll themselves by lot into classes holding office for longer or shorter terms, and the official terms of those to be chosen subsequently to the first shall be so ar-

Alumni to represent them in that body, until he shall have given to the Alumni Association

spectors of Election to secure the written assent of those nominated for election, to the re-

nominee who will assent shall be substituted

of Trustees shall end with the day next pre-

Sec. 7. These Regulations may be altered or amended by a two-thirds vote of the eligible electors present two successive annual meetings of the Association, subject always to the approval of the Board of Trustees.

Seniors exams. are over, and the class of 1901 on Thursday morning will enter for the last time as a united class the picture-hung walls of Kirkpatrick Chapel, where so many hours have been passed. Irksome perhaps they might have seemed once, when as freshmen, or sophomores, or even juniors, we felt impatient of the seeming restraints placed upon us. But when, as seniors, we look back upon those hours spent in the dear old chapel, they cannot fail to take on an air almost of sanctity, for do we not there learn most truly the real spirit of love to Alma Mater? Yes! as seniors we can look back upon those hours as happy ones—hours which in after life will remain enshrined in memory as long as those which in the “strenuous life,” which now most appeals to us, often seem of first importance. Dear old chapel, may you stand to welcome many generations of Rutgers’ sons—each more loyal, more true to Alma Mater than the last.

These are the days of last things. The last recitations have been held, the last exams. are over, and we, once seniors, must in a few short weeks go forth to the serious task of life, no longer as undergraduates, no longer as seniors, but still as loyal sons of Rutgers, to whom we owe so much of what we have and are.

Only four short weeks, and each shorter than the last. It is with a feeling of sadness, concealed with difficulty, that we begin them. Our time is short, and now we realize as never before how dear have been to us these associations which we must now so soon sever forever.

The Exhibition Drill was an unqualified success. The whole college is proud of the excellent work of the Battalion, which has thus brought to an end probably the most successful year in its history. Everything was favorable. The weather was propitious, the audience the largest known at an exhibition drill, and every man was stimulated to do his best. Success was bound to come.

Although military drill is not the chief concern at Rutgers, the enthusiasm of the men and their readiness to yield obedience to those sometimes below them in class, guided by the master hand of Colonel Gillmore, have resulted in the turning out of a Battalion which has won high encomiums from all who have seen the promptness and precision with which every movement has been executed. We repeat, the college has every reason to be proud of the Battalion.

Too great praise cannot be given Colonel Gillmore for the untiring effort he has put forth to bring the Battalion up to his ideal of what it should be. That he has been so successful is due first of all to his own painstaking care and patience, and then to the loyal spirit in which the men, both officers and privates, have coëoperated with him.

With the passing of final exams, and the coming of the time when the majority of the seniors have nothing more serious than a graduation thesis, it is greatly to be hoped that the senior singing on the campus will materialize. There is no need to urge the practice of senior singing—it is a pretty college custom that has never been fully appreciated here. With the new century, seniors, let us start a custom which will bind all together in love and loyalty to our college. Come, seniors, sing up.

Speaking of senior singing, and indeed singing upon the campus in general, we are minded to speak of one thing the college lacks. Rutgers needs a college song, which like the “Fair Harvard” of the Cambridge man, breathes a spirit of reverence to Alma Mater. We do not and would not say a word against the songs we already have; no fault can be found with them. How often have the stirring strains of “My Father Sent Me to Old Rutgers” and the “Bow-Wow-Wow” urged on Rutgers men to do their best! But in these songs the martial spirit is most prominent. Besides these we need a Rutgers song of reverence—a hymn. Here is a chance for some one to immortalize his name and win the everlasting gratitude of Rutgers men.

We are glad to see the promptness with which the preliminaries for the tennis tournament have been begun. The committee already has its preparations almost completed. There ought to be a large number of men in college with large tennis ability, and the tournament should prove a most interesting one.

The Missing Night-Key.

A more whimsical woman, or a woman with more fanaticisms than Mrs. Sam Bigelow never lived. A more hen-pecked man than Mrs. Bigelow’s husband never went forth joyous from his hearthstone in the morning or returned heavy-hearted in the evening.

Mrs. Bigelow was changeable, too, especially with regard to her religious beliefs. In her lifetime she had been connected with almost every Protestant sect this country can boast of except the African Methodist Episcopal Church. And after she had gone the rounds she started in with spiritualism. Her latest hobby, at the time of which we are speaking, was the transmigration of souls.

Mrs. Bigelow’s husband was a great lover of pets. He had nothing else he could love—why shouldn’t he? He was a dry goods clerk in the city, and owing to the distressing condition of Mrs. B.’s health they lived in a swampy incubator of malaria germs known as Mushomehurst. They had a dog named Towser, or rather Sam owned him. Mrs. B. could not tolerate pets of any sort, and least of all dogs. Cold, unloving, unpitying creature!

And it is to Sam’s credit that he could show spunk enough to swear a little at the mistress of his household and declare that he was going to keep Towser, and if she did not like it she could strike out across lots to the station and start life on her own hook. Well, the matter was settled in a manner that might be called amicable, considering that Mrs. Bigelow was connected with the case.

So Towser stayed, and Mrs. Bigelow affirmed that the dog’s body was inhabited by the soul of one Abijah Smith, a man now dead, but when alive a sworn enemy to all of Mrs. Bigelow’s family.

Sam always let Mrs. B. talk about her fanaticism after the true fashion of a hen-pecked husband, acquiescing when it was necessary and maintaining a discreet silence as often as it was possible. But when she started in with the transmigration of souls, and more especially when she began masticating the fabric with regard to Towser's finer sensibilities, which only went to prove that his brute body was inhabited with a soul, Sam couldn't stand it any longer.

"Now you'll stop ranting about Towser's bein' Bige Smith, or Towser and I will just break up housekeeping and light out of here and leave you to your own sweet self, hoping your soul will soon migrate to a warmer climate, as this country seems to be too cold for your comfort," said Sam one evening. Towser, lying in front of the fire, gave a little growl of approval.

"Yes, I told you so," struck in Mrs. Bigelow, "there that dog goes growlin' in such a satisfied way. I can fairly hear him say, "Second your motion, Sam.' Why, it goes to—"

"Anybody but a fool would second my motion. It was bad enough when havin' seances and spirit writing and spirit rappings and doin' a thousand other crazy stunts, but now when you go to accusing that dog of being possessed of Bige Smith's soul and keep ranting about that, when you know you would have married Bige yourself if your father would have let you, as I fervently wish he had done, why, it's a little more than a meek little Moses like myself can stand."

"Meek little Moses! Bosh! But just think of that dog's growlin' in that approvin' style! It just goes to show his higher sense—"

"Higher sensibilities be darned!" ejaculated Bigelow, impatiently. "I have heard that rehashed as often as I will."

"No you haven't, Sam Bigelow. I will tell you that. Not by a long shot. And another thing I have yet to teach you is not to interrupt me when I am talking. You have done it twice now in the last five minutes, and I tell you it won't be well for you to do it again in a hurry. But as I was saying, it is clear to me if I can read character (and I can) that Bige Smith's soul is in that dog. And I tell you Sam, no earthly good can come of Bige Smith's living with us, even in the form of a dog. Do you hear me, Sam?"

But Sam made a pretense of reading, and Mrs. Bigelow, satisfied with having made him silent, went on with her crocheting.

Although this was not the last time she read Mr. B. a lecture with regard to Towser, nevertheless Towser stayed until he died, some six months later.

On a certain rainy afternoon in November Mrs. B. fed Towser a certain thing she had never done before, and before supper time Towser had stretched himself out, dead. It was not all the shock of being fed by his rampant mistress that stopped the action of his heart. The shock alone he might have overcome, but its combination with a powerful poison was too much. And after it was done, and Towser was stark and stiff, the least spark of regret was kindled in the heart of Mrs. Bigelow. It was only this regret that kept her from confessing to Mr. B., as she had intended to do.

It was just about time for Mr. Bigelow to come home when the door-bell rang. "Well, who can that be, right on supper time?" ejaculated the housewife. As she did not keep a servant (that is, servants wouldn't stay with her), she had to go to the door herself, stopping to light the gas on the way. Imagine her surprise on seeing Mr. Bigelow, who was in the habit of letting himself in with a night-key. "Where's your night-key, Sam?" she asked, as she saw him, and her tone was so mild that it took him quite by surprise.

"Why, I had it in my hand and was just about to fit it into the key-hole when it was suddenly gone, and where it went to beats me. It didn't seem to drop and it didn't jingle as it fell, if it did fall; it was just gone. I groveled around here on the porch, but I couldn't find it."

"Well, come on in and get your supper before it gets cold, and after supper bring out a lantern and look for it."
Bigelow went in and ate his supper, secretly wondering what had crept into the heart of his spouse to soften her manner, at the same time maintaining a strict silence on the subject. When they came to the fruit Mrs. Bigelow said, with an effort, "Towser's dead."

"What! Towser dead? What was the matter?"

"I—I don't know," said Mrs. Bigelow, genuine tears welling up in her eyes. "I went out to the woodhouse about five o'clock, and there he lay, dead."

The rest of the meal was eaten in strict silence. Mr. Bigelow was extremely morose and his wife was scarcely less so. After supper he got up, and lighting a lantern first went out and looked at Towser. Then going through the house he went out upon the front stoop to search for his key. As he passed through the kitchen Mrs. Bigelow noticed that his eyes were glistening, and her heart was also melted to tears and her conscience bit harder than ever. Mr. Bigelow searched the whole front porch for three-quarters of an hour, looking in every nook and corner, but to no purpose. He came in, and the rest of the evening was spent in silence, both Mr. and Mrs. Bigelow occupying themselves with books.

As they were going to bed, Mrs. Bigelow said in tones quite different from any that Mr. Bigelow had heard during their married life, until that night, "Sam, did you say that the night-key was gone without a sound or anything to hint that it had fallen?"

"Just so, Maria."

"Sam, if you won't make fun of me, nor be angry, I will tell you what I think has become of the key."

"Well?"

"I am firmly convinced that Bige Smith's soul was in Towser, and that it was that that filched the key from your hand." She could not bring herself to confess that she had killed Towser.

"Nonsense, Maria," said Mr. Bigelow. "If you knew what I know, Sam, you would say so too."

Sam did not gainsay this, but went to bed in silence. After this there was a long period of clear weather, during which Towser was buried in the back lot. For three weeks daily search was made by Mrs. Bigelow for the missing night-key, but to no purpose. More and more she became confident that her first solution was the right one, and so also Mr. Bigelow, although not to the same degree as his wife. At the same time Mrs. B. was not so urgent with her fanaticism and was in every way quiet and kind toward her husband, and life was really becoming quite pleasant in the Bigelow household.

Just three weeks after the night-key was lost it was a stormy night, starting to rain after Mr. Bigelow got home. That night, late, both Mr. and Mrs. Bigelow were awakened by the moaning of a dog.

Mrs. Bigelow whispered something about "Towser's soul," and Mr. B. said, "What do you think, Maria, that he swallowed the key and has got the stomach-ache?"

At this retort Mrs. Bigelow started to cry, and Bigelow wished he had had sense enough to keep his mouth shut.

But an apology set matters straight, and the Bigelow breakfast that rainy morning was extremely pleasant, and as Mr. Bigelow took his umbrella from the rack his wife said, "You didn't kiss me good-bye, Sam."

Bigelow took the hint, and said, "That's so."

Just as he went out of the door he stumbled over something. It was a half-starved, half-drowned, yellow dog, lying right up against the door. Mrs. Bigelow was right behind him. They stood in silence a minute, and then she said, "That must be the dog that howled in the night. Go on and catch your train, Sam; I will take him back in the kitchen and feed him and wash him."

As Mr. Bigelow raised his umbrella something fell jingling upon the walk. It was the missing night-key. In an instant it flashed over them both that the key must have dropped noiselessly into the umbrella that night. There was no time to marvel. Bigelow hastened to catch his train.

When he returned that night he found his wife and a sleek-looking yellow dog waiting by the open fireplace. And as he sat smoking after supper, he silently thought, "A dead dog and a lost night-key have mysteriously cured one fanatic."

The Sophomore Dance.

The Sophomore Dance, held in Columbia Hall, on Friday, May 10th, was a most successful and delightful affair. The event was something of an innovation in college society, but its great success no doubt will make a Sophomore dance a fixture in the college social season.

The hall was simply but tastefully decorated with college flags and banners. Hart's Orchestra was stationed in a bower of palms, and discoursed sweet music for the dancers until the "wee sma' hours." The program consisted of twenty dances and four extras. These were all encored, some of them twice, and two additional extras were added at the close of the program. The order of dances was:

1. Hands Across the Sea.
2. Phyllis.
3. Our Duty.
4. Ameer.
5. Mosquito Parade.
6. Floradora.
7. Every Race Has a Flag.
8. First Violin.
10. Adoration.
11. Supper.
14. Ma Tiger Lily.
15. Singing Girl.
16. Royal Rogue.
17. San Toy.
18. Woman Divine.
20. La Soiree.

At midnight Wikoff served refreshments.

It was after three o'clock when the last dancer had left and the last coach rolled away from the hall.

The committee, who deserve great credit for the successful management of the dance, were: William H. Stewart, chairman; Stephen St. John Malven, Burton J. Hotaling, R. Harmon Ashley.
The Benefit Concert.

The second concert for the benefit of the Athletic Association took place in Kirkpatrick Chapel on May 8th before a very large and appreciative audience. The artists for the evening were Mr. Ward Stephens, the well-known pianist, assisted by the Venth-Kronold String Quartette, consisting of Mr. Carl Venth, first violin; Mr. Philip Herford, viola; Mr. Charles Morenhaut, second violin, and Mr. Hans Kronold, violoncello. Miss Perry, whose pleasing contralto voice was so much enjoyed at her appearance here two years ago, was unable to appear.

The music of the evening was a treat such as the people of New Brunswick seldom have, and it was appreciated by the audience, whose hearty applause was all the artists could ask. Mr. Stephens especially was given a most enthusiastic welcome to his Alma Mater.

Of the playing of Mr. Stephens no word is necessary. It showed all the dash and fire which have so captivated New Brunswick audiences in the past. His rendering of the "Isoldens Liebes-Tod" especially was magnificent. But it was Gottschalk's "Tremolo," an old favorite, which was played upon request and rendered as Mr. Stephens alone can, that called forth the most enthusiastic applause.

The work of the Venth-Kronold Quartette, every member of which was an artist, was most excellent, especially the rendering of Dvorak's "Quintette" and the selection from Mendelssohn. The "Slavonic Dance" was also very dainty and pretty.

Mr. Kronold's lovely rendering of Wagner's "Prize Song" and "The Evening Star" won the prolonged applause of the audience. Those old favorites took on a new meaning and beauty under the sure and delicate touch of the artist.

The whole concert was an unqualified success—a fitting climax to the most successful series of benefit entertainments ever given. Great credit is due Dr. Bevier, who arranged the entertainments, and to those who have cooperated with him to make them a success.

The Exhibition Drill.

The report of the fine work that the Rutgers Battalion did in their exhibition in Newark this spring brought out a large and expectant crowd to the annual Exhibition Drill held on Wednesday, May 15th. The grand stand, bleachers, and seats provided along the track were taxed to their utmost capacity to accommodate the spectators.

Although the weather had been threatening in the morning, all danger of rain passed away before the time set for the drill, and the clouds merely made it more comfortable for both spectators and participants.

Promptly at four o'clock the Battalion entered and elicited applause at once for their fine appearance and the exact precision of their evolutions. The effect of the white duck trousers and blue blouses, and the green of the foliage and grass was very pretty.

The first part of the exhibition consisted of Battalion drill, conducted by Major Allen. Several new formations had been introduced by Colonel Gillmore, and the Battalion presented a fine sight as it wheeled and marched and countermarched.

During the intermission between the first and second parts of the drill an exhibition in signalling by flags, or "wig-wagging," was given. Lieutenant Stokes signalled to Lieutenant Garabrant the following message, proposed by one of the spectators: "Give the next formation in detail." The answer was returned: "It will be open order and firing." This is a novel introduction into the Exhibition and was very interesting to the spectators.

In the open order formations which formed the second part, the cadets showed great improvement over their performance of previous years. To those who watched the drill, however, the omission of the sham battle and advances by rushes took away one of the most interesting features of the Exhibition.

The third and last part of the drill was the dress parade. The companies marched to the far end of the field and while waiting for orders gave the college yell for their captains and for Colonel Gillmore and Major Allen.

After the very pretty and effective ceremony of dress parade, the retiring officers lined up behind the Major and saluted as the Battalion passed in review under the command of the First Sergeants and the Sergeant-Major.

The new appointments for the Battalion as it is to be until the incorporation of the freshmen next fall were then read by Adjutant Davis.

First Lieutenant and Adjutant—F. W. Smith.
Lieutenant and Quartermaster—R. G. Savoye.
Sergeant-Major—Theodore Tobish.
Corporals—Co. A, Poland, Ley, Osborn, Hitchner; Co. B, Duggan, Van Winkle, Carlton, Mount.

The drill was a complete success, and the greatest credit is due Colonel Gillmore, to the cadet officers, and the rank and file of the Battalion, and last but not least, to the Band, to whose combined efforts the success is due.

Targum Elections.

At the spring meeting of the Targum Association, Ralph O. Smith '02 was elected President; Frank W. Russum '02, Manager; and Chester Brown '03, Secretary, for the coming year.

Princeton Wins the Shoot.

On the grounds of the Florists' Gun Club, at Wissinoming, Saturday afternoon, Princeton won the triangular intercollegiate shoot, defeating Pennsylvania by 18 targets and Harvard by 25.

The weather was threatening, but, considering the difficulty of seeing the targets in the semi-darkness, good scores were made. Each contestant shot at fifty targets. The summary:
Princeton—Elbert (captain) 44, Spear, 35,
Pennsylvania—Parrish 35, Baldwin 43, Weaver 37, Souder 26, Ballard 22. Total, 162.
Harvard—Bancroft 36, Blake (captain) 20,
Phelps 33, Dana 29, Mallinckrodt 37. Total, 155.
The individual championship cup for the highest score was captured by Captain Elbert of Princeton, who broke 44.

Notes.
The Athletic Board of the University of Michigan has discussed, and will probably adopt the system of honoring the wearers of the "M" in the following way: For every year that a man makes a team he will receive one stripe on his sweater—the one year man having an "M" and one stripe, the four year man an "M" and four stripes.

The feature of the annual handicap and track meeting of the Georgetown University was the breaking of the track record for the 100 yards dash by Duffy. Time, 9 4-5 sec.

Heroes of the Nations.
Sir Isaac was a model man,
And lived on quite a sober plan;
Of spirits he would never take
More than enough his thirst to slake;
He almost never drank a drop
After he was compelled to stop;
And from the time he laid his head
Upon the pillow of his bed
Until he rose next morning, he Abstained from drink entirely.

One morning in the early fall
(That's apple time, you will recall),
A friend dropped in, as the story goes,
To play him a game of dominoes,
A pleasant, social, chatty game,—
Possibly just a trifle tame,
Yet not so bad when last night's toddy
Has left one feeling a little shoddy.
Sir Isaac bade his eldest daughter
Bring out the Apollinaris water,
And then the two old cronies sat,
And played their game with friendly chat.
It was agreed between the two,
Just as it might 'twixt me and you,
Whichever one of them was beat,
'Twould be his turn to stand the treat.
Now Isaac played, as chance befell,
His dominoes exceeding well,
(He always had been mighty quick
At sums in mental arithmetic),
And before his friend had half a show,
Sir Isaac cried out "Domino!"
And added, without more ado:
"Ah, thanks, I don't care if I do."

Now just around the corner stood
A hostelry antique and good,
Where these old friends, and many more,
Had treated oftentimes before;
So, though it was early in the day,
'Twas thither now they made their way,
And with them went, as you may guess,
A dozen others, more or less,
Who chanced just then to be standing by,
And felt as usual rather dry.
What happened within that hostelry
I might conjecture, but did not see.
It is rumored that the cup went round,
With merry jest and jovial sound,
Each drinking as long as he was able
To stand upon his legs unstable,
But ending underneath the table,—
All save Sir Isaac, who could carry
A load, 'tis said, like the old Harry.

Some hours later, from the door
Sir Isaac issued, a trifle slower
Than he went in, but grave and steady,
Albeit the drink had been so heady.
His eye was bright, his nose was red,
The bald spot glistened on his head;
His step was dignified and sedate,
With just a hint of the rolling gait,
Which men in a sailor's walk discover,
Who has traveled the whole, or the half, seas
over.
The mild and gentle autumn breeze
Rustled amid the orchard trees,
And good Sir Isaac thought a stroll
Would suit his humor on the whole,
And in the orchard by and by
Under some shady tree he'd lie,
And watch the birds and insects fly,
And the clouds floating in the sky
Over his head,—and wonder why.

Good! No sooner planned than done!
Sir Isaac started off alone,
Found a convenient apple tree,
And lay down with solemnity.
A neighbor saw him lying there,
And said: "Old boy, you'd best take care;
Those apples on the tree will fall,
And mash your headlight, that is all."
"I say," said Isaac, "you're a zany;
Of science, sir, you haven't any.
Now from this standpoint of the tree
My face fills up but one degree
Of all the hundred and sixty-three
In one completed circle. See!
You therefore will observe, dear sir,
That there's no need for me to stir;
Out of six hundred and thirty chances
I'll take the one my humor fancies."
"All right, old boy," the other said,
"If you are killed, I'll not be dead.
You've been to the University,
And are welcome to your one degree;
But I warn you apples sometimes fall;
'Tis not mine, but your funeral."
And off he went beyond recall.

Meanwhile Sir Isaac lay in peace;
His mind at rest, his heart at ease;
He thought of Nature's mighty laws,
And of the Universal cause,
Of mathematics,—and the rows
Of spots upon the dominoes;
How fine a power it is to think,
And how much finer still to drink.
And so in well-earned, sweet repose
He just was sinking to a doze,
When, without warning, from the tree
An apple fell upon his knee.
It did no damage, save to make Him start, and rouse him wide awake.
"I wish," he said, "the plaguey fruit
Would stay there where it first was put.
Of course it was an accident;
I'm sure no injury was meant;
Philosophers cannot conceive
Those apples there to be alive.
If one did hit me on the knee,
The others will not be so free;
If some more should perchance get loose,
I'll not avoid them. What's the use?
There's no more reason they should fall
Downward than upward, none at all.
'Tis plain, I think, at the first glance,
It's falling downward was but chance;
And, reckoning chances (he was quick,
You know, at mental arithmetic),
'Tis one in a million it will not
Hit me again on the selfsame spot.
I calculate its trajectory,
In reasoning calmly a priori,
Would be a path somewhat elliptic,
Traversing slantwise the ecliptic."
So, rubbing the bruised spot on his knee,
He settled back resignedly.
And now, dear reader, don't suppose
I'm making light of Isaac's woes.
Just why it happened, goodness knows,
But—broken was his sweet repose,
And broken likewise was his nose!
For on that useful, ruddy member,
On this, the tenth day of September,
('Twas apple time in early fall),
There fell the heaviest one of all.
Sir Isaac jumped upon his feet.
The words he used I'll not repeat,
But I am sure they were not all
Quite strictly mathematical;
But when big apples come to blows,
Dealt savagely upon our nose,
We may be pardoned, if we vary
Our normal, calm vocabulary.

Sir Isaac made what speed he could,
Till he at his own threshold stood.
His broken nose was bleeding still,
When he arrived at his domicile.
His daughter rushed out in alarm,
Led him in gently by the arm,
Summoned a doctor, bathed his face,
With all a daughter's tender grace.
The doctor found, as you might suppose,
A compound fracture of the nose,
The bridge smashed, shattered, and so forth,
The headlight pointing east by north.
He got it straightened out at last,
And put it in a plaster cast,
And good Sir Isaac thus was led
All bruised and battered off to bed,
Where he fell asleep, ere dawn began,
"A sadder and a wiser man."

Next day he thought the matter over,
To see what facts he could discover,
Which might explain that his intent
Had been to try an experiment.
"You see," said he, "the thing was plain
To common people in the main.
Now I'd laid out the trajectory
Of apples studied a priori,
Whereas I should, a fortiori,
Have reasoned a posteriori.

Apples fall down not up, you see,
By an inexorable decree,
In force throughout the whole creation,
Which I now christen 'gravitation';
In short it is a kind of pull (I'd taken one and so was full),
Which guides the planet where it goes,
And draws the snowflakes when it snows,
Which binds the river as it flows,—
And brings the apple to the nose:—
In fine, a sort of cosmic action,
Which may be fitly called 'attraction.'"

My tale's too long, but at the end
Just let me say what I intend.
In science he is truly great
Whose happy lot it is to state
In terms of scientific lore—
What everybody knew before.

Rutgersensia.

On the afternoon of May 15 the Army of the Raritan engaged the enemy on the heights above New Brunswick and scored an overwhelming victory. The performance of the Battalion under fire was very good except in the case of the first battalion volley, and reflects great credit on Colonel Gillmore. The army sustained a loss of Seniors and “Rusty” Campbell. Enemy’s losses unknown. Incidentally we are glad to record the largest Exhibition Drill audience yet.

We are not a military institution, but there are very few, if any, college battalions in the country that can beat us at our favorite pastime. We are a fine lot of soldiers, and when it comes to drilling! Take Newark, for example!

The Chemical Labs. may be wet, but they are decidedly out of the race with the Dormitory. Nothing short of a diver’s outfit will make a man safe in Winants. Life preservers are in evidence at every landing. The mermaids on the top floor have organized a bucket brigade, and if you can’t swim, avoid the place.

The pile of sand to be used in the construction of the new gate on the campus furnishes the Prep. School youngsters with all kinds of amusement. Every opportunity is taken for a mad rush to mix up with that little bunch of sea shore. If you haven’t seen “Georgie” Gordon with his little pail and shovel, digging in the sand, you have missed a good half-dollar show. Trolleys run to within half a block of the gate.

The Class of ’66 Electrical Science Prize was won by Eddy ’01. Special mention was made of the excellence of the work done by the winner of the prize.

To-morrow! “Step forward, please. Plenty of room up front.”

The tennis tournament is now an assured thing. The committee announces entries coming in fast, and a schedule is in process of arrangement. The matches will include singles and doubles, and will be played off on the different fraternity and college courts. Mann ’01, of Chicago, is the present holder of the cup, and co-holder, with Haven ex-’01, of the “double belt.”

With the gladsome approach of Exhibition Drill the motormen on Easton avenue and Somerset street were regaled for several days by unexpected explosions of cartridges under the car wheels. The startled passengers should not be too harsh in their criticisms, for this sport furnishes amusement for numerous college Freshmen of larger and smaller growth.

No, this is not a sweet girl graduate far astray from her Alma Mater. It is only Mr. Milliken in his cap and gown, and his back is turned.

One of the “King’s” German translations (given the only day this term that he favored the class with his presence for the whole hour)—“If you have nothing, give me that which you have, even if it is the last penny which you have not. For bread in the breadbasket, and soup in the soup-tureen.”

This column will give a suitable reward to any constant reader giving a correct answer to the question “Why did Pretzel Meinzer look so happy at Exhibition Drill?” Entries close May 30th.

The work on the new west gate of the campus is progressing rapidly. The promise is that it is to be completed in two weeks. The rumor that the old brown fence along College avenue and Hamilton street is to be removed is being hailed with delight. The looks of the campus are very much improved. If a meeting of the Dutch Church Synod is at the bottom of these improvements we hope that Synod will come to New Brunswick often—every year.
